GENTLEMEN,—You have before you the annual report of the Boston Finance Commission for the year ending January 31, 1923, which is broadly the story of that body's activities during 1922. It is made up largely of criticisms of the city government of Boston and its administration and suggestions and recommendations intended to improve the methods and change the policies of that administration.

The Boston Finance Commission is a state utility over which the City of Boston has no control; its functions are advisory and minatory; its personnel is selected and appointed by the Governor of the Commonwealth; the taxpayers of Boston have no voice that counts in the selection and appointment of the commission, since the city's representation in the Legislature is a negligible minority; and their major interest in the commission is to pay its bills.

The city government of Boston is an elective body chosen by a majority of the citizens of Boston; the administration of some of the municipality's activities is committed to its care by popular mandate at the polls, but only some of them; for the Great and General Court in its wisdom has decreed that the citizens of Boston, unlike the citizens of every other political unit in the state, lack the capacity to administer its police, school and a few other activities, and out of every $1,000 paid in taxes by the citizens of Boston the Mayor they elect has only $394 under his financial control, while $606 is spent by other persons and bodies beyond his control or counsel.

In order that this $394 may be spent with wisdom, economy and efficiency, and, presumably, to serve some other useful purposes, the Finance Commission was created to advise, counsel and criticize the chosen public servants of the people of Boston, the expenditure of the other $606 being in eminently trustworthy hands.

I present the two bodies for the attention of your honorable Court—the government chosen by the people of Boston and the commission appointed by other than the people of Boston; the criticisms and assertions made in the report of the commission and the facts that answer them reported to me by the active administrators of the municipal departments appointed by me—that you may read the statements set forth by each and weigh their relative value to the municipality of Boston and the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. I will further add that which will obtain general agreement, that the personnel of neither the Finance Commission nor that of the various boards and commissions appointed by me to do the practical administrative work of the city contains any "supermen"; they are plain men. All my administrative appointees have to run the gauntlet of the State Civil Service Commission, who, if they are quite satisfied concerning their moral character, personal fitness and technical training and efficiency, confirm them. The qualifications demanded for a finance commissioner are not so exigent; the wisdom and sagacity of his Excellency the Governor are seldom questioned by his counselors; and the technicians selected by the Finance Commission for advice and direction in giving the city government counsel and criticism are assumed to be men whose talents and acquisitions are superior to any the city might secure through the thoughtful if inquisitorial processes of the Civil Service Commission.

I submit the several statements for your consideration with this reflection, which is not especially new, since it is based on human experience in all the ages and has been said in all the ages: Criticism depends for its value upon the knowledge and intelligence of the critic and his familiarity with the character and theory of the work criticised; criticism is not a constructive art at its best; when it degenerates, as it sometimes does, into fault-finding it is never helpful. The constructive, administrative and financial activities of any municipality are essentially practical and must be made to function by practical, efficient men, who, under our supervised democracy, must meet the tests of efficiency and practicality that training and experience connote. These tests the constructors, engineers and administrators appointed by me have met. I have confidence in their demonstrated fitness; and I ask the Legislature to institute comparisons between their statements and those of their critics, with whose technical and other attainments I am not so familiar, and then reach judgment and decision, in order that the accomplishments and needs of Boston may be better understood and provided for in your legislative action.

It may be that you may be led to believe that Boston is still a part, and not a negligible part, of the organized American democracy we call the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and should be treated as such; and it may be that believing this you may realize the great truth contained in a paraphrase of one of Lincoln's historic utterances "No American state can live half democratic and half autocratic and endure."

Now to the statements pro and con of the constructive administrators of the activities of the City of Boston and their critics and advisors in the Boston Finance Commission.

THE PARK DEPARTMENT.

The Finance Commission says: "For many years a practice had developed in the Park Department of permitting the use of the city's plants and shrubbery at private entertainments. To insure the safety of the city's property thus loaned, the Park Department transported this property to and from the places of exhibition, even supplying a custodian of the property while so loaned and in cold weather furnishing heated trucks for transportation. The cost of this service of the city for private purposes was estimated by the Park Department at $5,000 annually.

"The commission, at the request of the Mayor, investigated the matter and recommended that it be discontinued."

The chairman of the Park Commission—at the request of the Mayor—answered this criticism by explaining that while this expense was incurred in 1921 and was the result of rules and conditions existing prior to that date, in 1922 this privilege was restricted to charitable organizations with a view of aiding indirectly the poor and needy. The expense fell to $200 in 1922 and the matter complained of in 1922 properly belongs in 1921. The practice criticised and corrected was an inheritance, not a creation, of Mayor Curley's administration, which did not begin until 1922.

The bill submitted to the Legislature of 1922 to authorize the City of Boston to borrow $300,000 outside the debt limit to establish a bath house and bathing beach at Jeffries Point, East Boston, and opposed by the Finance Commission, is referred to in its report, the inference of course being that it was fathered in City Hall. As a matter of fact it was a bill of local, East Boston, origin, unauthorized by the Mayor and opposed by the Park Department as dangerous, unsuitable and unsanitary; and allusion to this legislative orphan in the commission's report is, to put the matter mildly, as strange as misleading.

THE PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

The Finance Commission reports that early in the spring of 1922 experimental work was done in connection with the contract for resurfacing portions of North Beacon street in the Brighton district and the contractor "required" to substitute a material called "Soliamies" for cement as a foundation. The experiment proved a failure and cost the city $3,760. Again the commission does not deem it necessary to say that this transaction was an inheritance; but the present Commissioner of Public Works answering the Mayor's request for an explanation said that this problem was passed on to him by his predecessor in office, who permitted this "Soliamies" to be foisted on the contractor, thus involving the city, and he felt morally bound to remunerate him. This criticism should have appeared in last year's report with more definite details.

Criticism appears in the report voicing the complaints of property owners in Roxbury concerning the construction of artificial stone sidewalks in certain streets and the quality of concrete used. "The failure of the city inspectors to prevent this defective work constitutes the most flagrant example of inefficiency and neglect of the city's interests" is the opinion of the Finance Commission. The Commissioner of Public Works answering this indignant outburst agrees with it, and seems to convey the idea that during the four years prior to his taking charge of the Public Works, the Finance Commission was amiably blind to defects in the work and inspection of the department, keeping its emotions under control, and not unwilling to saddle the sins of 1921 and earlier on the administration of 1922.

The Finance Commission in the matter of bituminous street paving has its likes and dislikes; the practical men of the Public Works Department have theirs; the two sets do not always harmonize, the Public Works men preferring the materials that have shown their value in constructive work to the theoretical virtues of materials indorsed by engineers and municipal experimentalists. Warrentite-bitulithic pavement has never appealed to the Finance Commission and it declares that during the year the Public Works and Park Departments laid down 220,405 yards of Warrentite-bitulithic and 55,111 square yards of sheet asphalt and this "discrimination resulted in an increased cost to the city of $37,000." The Commissioner of Public Works considers the difference in workmanship and in wear and tear amply justify the choice of Warrentite-bitulithic and says that while he is in office he has no intention of restoring bituminous concrete or "Topeka," to the specifications in the contracts; they have proved inefficient and expensive. The Commissioner of Public Works is a trained engineer, an experienced constructor with a long practical knowledge of materials and methods; he believes he made a serious error in accepting the specifications of the Finance Commission which resulted in considerable financial loss to the city.

The complaint of the Finance Commission relative to the specifications for crushed stone follows much the same lines as those of bituminous material; the stone they favored was passed by, yet the resultant construction has been satisfactory. The policy of cleaning water mains has been in vogue since 1913 and contracts for doing it have been made with a New York firm that specializes in the work, which were apparently satisfactory until this administration began its life. The Finance Commission is shocked that the contractor is alleged to have made 371 per cent profit on his work. The head of the Public Works Department does not appear to be quite so shocked; he thinks that the difference in old contract prices and new—4 cents per foot—is not excessive, since the tools used are efficient and patented and appear to give satisfaction in other cities. It is always difficult to get two men viewing a piece of constructive work to agree on its cost and value, especially if one of them is not particularly zealous to agree with the other.

In the matter of the steam roller purchased by the Public Works Department and which is alleged to be now dismantled in a city yard and its future disposition uncertain, the commission declares gloomily "No adequate explanation for the peculiar operations connected with this purchase has been offered." On the other hand the Commissioner of Public Works, a practical man, finds a more cheerful outlook for the roller which he considers a very excellent machine, which has given good service and will give equally good service in the future. The only peculiar operation connected with the purchase of the machine is that it is not the one selected by the "experts" of the Finance Commission.

In the matter of awarding contracts to others than the lowest bidders it appears to be largely a matter of opinion, judgment and knowledge of the character and capacity of the bidder. The Finance Commission examined sixty-three contracts and "estimates" a loss to the city by ignoring the lowest bidders of $69,129.67, in which sum it includes the $37,000 "estimated" at a loss in bituminous street pavements.

The Commissioner of Public Works had already answered these complaints before the Finance Commission's report was made. He maintains that the alleged losses are phantom losses and insists that the theory of the commission that the lowest bidder be accepted, willy nilly, is not a good business policy. Contractors are bonded to insure living up to conditions and not to make a profit for the city; and experience has taught the city that the lowest bidder is frequently the most expensive. This is true not only in contracts for constructive street work but in those that pertain to the sanitary work of removing ashes and refuse. These lowest bidders defaulted on their work; their bills were unpaid; their employees went without wages; and the amount of inconvenience, discomfort and dangers to health from accumulations of uncollected ashes and refuse, gave many days and nights of anxiety to the householders of Dorchester. During the past year five lowest bidders were awarded contracts against the commissioner's own judgment to avoid the nagging and innuendo of the Finance Commission, and in all probability the city must stand a loss in each case. Low bidders, unless they be men of means, experience and character, too often mean unfinished work, unpaid bills, delayed construction and loss generally. Recently a contractor went into insolvency who was awarded three large paving jobs, leaving on the city's hands an uncompleted street and owing large sums of money for material. The contracts were awarded him with reluctance, his bids being below the department's own estimates and the city would have saved money by giving the contracts to the next lowest bidders; and to gain a shadowy saving the substance was thrown aside. The character of the contractor, his experience in his line of business and his ability to carry out what he undertakes are of much more importance than a low bid, the outcome of a desire to get city work. The theory of the "lowest bidder" is a delusion; it has proved expensive in practice and wasteful and unsatisfactory in results; and it appears to be based upon the amiable proposition that all municipal engineers and constructors are untrustworthy, that they are ignorant and inexperienced in the work they are appointed to do and that only by placing themselves wholly in the hands and subject to the guidance of an experienced practical and technically trained body like the Finance Commission can they achieve success and peace.

In its criticism of the awarding of contracts for water meters after the Supply Department had advertised for and received seven bids, the Finance Commission seeks to convey the impression that the award to the bidders would depend upon giving employment to a Mr John J. O'Hara, who had failed to be confirmed in a position to which he was nominated. It appears that the contract went to the contractor who had supplied the meters the previous year; and since Mr. O'Hara did not get a position with either of the bidders alleged to be solicited and the contract was awarded to one of them, it might interest the General Court to learn why this kind of story is dragged into a report and what purposes it is intended to serve. The bidder gets his contract, Mr. O'Hara gets no job; but he goes into the records of the Commonwealth as a person of dubious activities. It really would appear to the plain citizen that this sort of treatment of our fellows was not contemplated by the Legislature that created the Finance Commission as one of its functions.

STREET LAYING-OUT DEPARTMENT.

The Finance Commission, discussing the policy of street widening says: "When street construction for the year 1922 was being planned by the Street Commissioners no extensive street widenings were considered and no legislation was sought to obtain money by loan outside the debt limit."

It may be recalled that the administration of Mayor Curley did not begin until about February 5, 1922, and the complete organization of the Street Laying-Out Department, in which all plans for street widening are discussed and initiated, had to wait the nomination of a chairman of the Board of Street Commissioners and his confirmation by the Civil Service Commission, before it could function and formulate plans for legislation and permission to borrow. By the time the Board was organized it was not in a position to introduce bills for these purposes that would or could come before the Legislature of 1922.

Nevertheless the widening of Province street, a narrow street that runs from School street to Bromfield street, was decided on, and in July, 1922, the Finance Commission admitted that it should be widened. As there was no money available except $250,000 appropriated to establish a building line, and that was the first possible step towards widening the street, the "line" was established. An emergency had arisen; the Olympia Theater was under construction and if the rear lines of the theater abutting on Province street were allowed to be built and the city compelled to wait until the money was available, the increased value and damages would have made the widening of the street prohibitive. By establishing the building line the City of Boston saved the taxpayers a large sum of money.

The Finance Commission in its report says that it "is of opinion that this attempt on the part of the Street Commissioners to widen a street at a cost in excess of the city's power to appropriate the necessary funds at the time to pay the expense of the same is illegal."

The Legislature makes the laws; the courts interpret them; the city is guided in its administrative acts by the advice of its law officers and not by the opinions of the Finance Commission. By following its usual and correct course it saved money for the city. There are times when the advice of the Finance Commission on matters of health, street-laying, construction and finance may be better than that of the experts in the city's service, but on questions of law and procedure it is believed to be wiser to follow the advice of our own law department and thus save time, mistakes, money and litigation.

The widening of Province street can wait the action of the General Court of 1923.

The Finance Commission now turns to matters financial and says with becoming modesty that it "questioned the accuracy of the auditor's report which showed a surplus of $2,000,000.

The auditor of the City of Boston is one of the most competent and best equipped financial experts in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and any well considered and carefully prepared report of his would probably be accepted unhesitatingly in most financial quarters as sound in theory and method and accurate in computation. It is quite possible that the Boston City Government may not be able to command the lofty standards of financial genius the Finance Commission does to question the accuracy of auditors and expound abstruse financial problems and theories to spellbound legislative committees; but the auditor has been found a safer pilot in the shoals and shallows of municipal financing than the political Ponzis who seem to be Jack of all administrative activities and master of none.

In all the Finance Commission report of 1923 there is not one constructive or useful suggestion calculated to help the taxpayers, who pay for this body, which conceives its duty to be to carp at everything done by the chosen servants of the people; criticise their activities, belittle their accomplishments, question their bona fides, and consciously or unconsciously seek to smirch their reputation and bring the city and its good name into disrepute.

The chairman of the Finance Commission has apparently lost his head and has begotten a false conception of his legal duties and his official limitations. He is constantly before the legislative committees opposing legislation the elected officers of the city deem essential to the good of Boston, playing the dog in the manger, barking at all who come in advocacy of such measures, and speaking on all questions with an assurance his knowledge and training do not warrant and out of a wealth of ignorance and misinformation it would be difficult to duplicate in Boston or elsewhere.

Very truly yours,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

PETITIONS APPROVED.

The Mayor has approved the following petitions received from the Board of Street Commissioners:

Edison Electric Illuminating Company, Hillside street, Ward 14, erect one pole.

Edison Electric Illuminating Company and New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, Everett street, Ward 2, erect one pole.

Edison Electric Illuminating Company and New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, Hill Top street, Ward 20, erect five poles.

New England Telephone and Telegraph Company and Edison Electric Illuminating Company, Houghton street, Ward 20, erect three poles.

Edison Electric Illuminating Company, Ripley road, Ward 19, erect four poles.

New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, Wachusett and River streets, Ward 24, erect one pole.

New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, 588 and 590 River street, Ward 24, erect one pole.

Two Hundred Thousand Pounds Curves, Sleeves, Reducers, Branches and Caps.—Foran Foundry and Manufacturing Company, 6.43 cents per pound; Davis & Farnum Manufacturing Company, 7.4 cents per pound.

Upon February 21 the Mayor approved contracts with the George McQuesten Company and the Curtis & Pope Lumber Company for supplying hard pine and spruce lumber to the Transit Department. Bids for the supply, opened February 16, were as follows:

Twenty-five Thousand Feet Hard Pine.—Curtis & Pope Lumber Company, $75⁰⁰ per M. feet B.M., 4 by 10; $67 per M. feet B.M., 4 by 8; $4 per M. feet planed one side; Blacker & Shepard Company, $69 per M. feet B.M., including all milling; $3 per M. feet planed one side; George McQuesten Company, $58⁵⁰ per M. feet B.M.; $5 per M. feet planed one side; William Curtis Sons Company, $67 per M. feet B.M., including planed one side; Downes Lumber Company, $85 per M. feet B.M., $3 per M. feet planed one side.

Fifteen Thousand Feet 2-Inch Spruce.—Curtis & Pope Lumber Company, $50⁰⁰ per M. feet B.M.; Blacker & Shepard Company, $54.50 per M. feet B.M.; William Curtis Sons Company, $59 per M. feet B.M.; Downes Lumber Company, $50 per M. feet B.M.

Ten Thousand Feet 4-Inch by 6-Inch Spruce.—Curtis & Pope Lumber Company, $45 per M. feet B.M.; Blacker & Shepard Company, $44.50 per M. feet B.M.; William Curtis Sons Company, $50 per M. feet B.M.; Downes Lumber Company, $45 per M. feet B.M.

Ten Thousand Feet 4-Inch by 8-Inch Spruce.—Curtis & Pope Lumber Company, $55 per M. feet B.M.; Blacker & Shepard Company, $58 per M. feet B.M.; William Curtis Sons Company, $60 per M. feet B.M.; Downes Lumber Company, $55 per M. feet B.M.

Ten Thousand Feet 1-Inch Spruce.—Curtis & Pope Lumber Company, $45⁰⁰ per M. feet B.M.; Blacker & Shepard Company, $49.50 per M. feet B.M.; William Curtis Sons Company, $50 per M. feet B.M.; Downes Lumber Company, $45 per M. feet B.M.

Five Thousand Feet 2-Inch by 4-Inch Spruce.—Curtis & Pope Lumber Company, $44⁰⁰ per M. feet B.M.; Blacker & Shepard Company, $44.50 per M. feet B.M.; William Curtis Sons Company, $45 per M. feet B.M.; Downes Lumber Company, $42 per M. feet B.M.

Ten Thousand Feet 2-Inch by 6-Inch Spruce.—Curtis & Pope Lumber Company, $43⁰⁰ per M. feet B.M., including planing one side and two ends; Blacker & Shepard Company, $48 per M. feet B.M., including milling; $3.50 per M. feet, planing one side and two ends;

William Curtis Sons Company, $47 per M. feet B.M., including planing one side and two ends; Downes Lumber Company, $47 per M. feet B.M., including planing one side and two ends; $3 per M. feet, planing one side and two ends.

Discount, Ten Days.—Curtis & Pope Lumber Company, 1¹/₂ per cent; Blacker & Shepard Company, 1¹/₂ per cent; William Curtis Sons Company, 1¹/₂ per cent; Downes Lumber Company, 1¹/₂ per cent.

Total of Spruce.—Curtis & Pope Lumber Company, $2,850; Blacker & Shepard Company, $3,040; William Curtis Sons Company, $3,120; Downes Lumber Company, $2,880.

*Contract awarded. $172 4 by 10 on Supply Department copy.

Upon February 21 the Mayor approved a contract with the George D. Emerson Company and the Bay State Grocery Company, and approved awards to H. A. Johnson Company, Cobb, Bates & Yerxa Company and the Haskell-Adams Company, for furnishing groceries and canned goods to the Boston City Hospital. Bids for the supply, opened February 13, were as follows:

Twelve Pounds Jordan Almonds.—H. A. Johnson Company, 60 cents* per pound; Cobb, Bates & Yerxa Company, 68 cents per pound; the George D. Emerson Company, 75 cents per pound; Haskell-Adams Company, 60 cents and 65 cents per pound; Bay State Grocery Company, 65 cents per pound.

Twenty Dozen No. 10 Apricots.—H. A. Johnson Company, $11 per dozen; Cobb, Bates & Yerxa Company, $10.75 per dozen; the George D. Emerson Company, $8.75* per dozen; Webster-Thomas Company, $11.50 per dozen; Haskell-Adams Company, $11.50 per dozen; Bay State Grocery Company, $9.50 per dozen.

One Thousand, Two Hundred Pounds Evaporated Apricots.—H. A. Johnson Company, 25 cents per pound; Cobb, Bates & Yerxa Company, 26¹/₂ cents per pound; the George D. Emerson Company, 26 cents* per pound; Webster-Thomas Company, 24 cents per pound; Haskell-Adams Company, 29 cents per pound; Bay State Grocery Company, 27¹/₂ cents per pound.

Thirty Dozen No. 10 Apples.—H. A. Johnson Company, $4⁰⁰ per dozen; Cobb, Bates & Yerxa Company, $4.75 per dozen; the George D. Emerson Company, $4.75 per dozen; Webster-Thomas Company, $4.25 per dozen; Haskell-Adams Company, $4.15 per dozen; Bay State Grocery Company, $4.25 per dozen.

Six Hundred Pounds Evaporated Apples.—H. A. Johnson Company, 12³/₄ cents per pound; Cobb, Bates & Yerxa Company, 14 cents per pound; the George D. Emerson Company, 14¹/₂ cents per pound; Webster-Thomas Company, 13³/₄ cents per pound; Haskell-Adams Company, 12³/₄ cents per pound; Bay State Grocery Company, 13 cents per pound.

Two Hundred Forty Pounds Lima Beans.—Cobb, Bates & Yerxa Company, 10¹/₂ cents per pound; the George D. Emerson Company, 10¹/₂ cents per pound; Webster-Thomas Company, 10 cents per pound; Haskell-Adams Company, 10 cents per pound; Bay State Grocery Company, 9¹/₂ cents per pound.

Twelve Bags Pea Beans.—H. A. Johnson Company, 8.4* cents per pound; Cobb, Bates & Yerxa Company, 9.75 cents per pound; the George D. Emerson Company, 8.75 cents per pound; Webster-Thomas Company, 8¹/₂ cents per pound; Haskell-Adams Company, 8¹/₂ cents per pound; Bay State Grocery Company, 8¹/₂ cents per pound.

Twenty Dozen String Beans No. 10.—Cobb, Bates & Yerxa Company, $8.50 per box; the George D. Emerson Company, $7.50 per box; Webster-Thomas Company, $5.55 per box; Haskell-Adams Company, $7.50 per box; Bay State Grocery Company, $5.75* per box.

Fifty Pounds Pearl Barley.—Cobb, Bates & Yerxa Company, 5 cents per pound; the George D. Emerson Company, 4 cents* per pound; Webster-Thomas Company, 4¹/₂ cents per pound; Haskell-Adams Company, 4.4 cents per pound; Bay State Grocery Company, 4 cents per pound.

Ten Dozen No. 10 Beets.—H. A. Johnson Company, $5.25 per dozen; Cobb, Bates & Yerxa Company, $5 per dozen; the George D. Emerson Company, $6.75 per dozen; Webster-Thomas Company, $5.25 per dozen; Haskell-Adams Company, $5 per dozen; Bay State Grocery Company, $4* per dozen.

One Hundred Twenty Pounds Bell's Dressing.—H. A. Johnson Company, 80 cents per pound; Cobb, Bates & Yerxa Company, 69¹/₂ cents per pound; the George D. Webster-Thomas had no bid at auditor's office.

Incident to the award of this contract, Superintendent Frank P. Rock of the Supply Department made the following statement:

"The bid of Webster-Thomas Company was not considered as this concern did not leave a copy of their bid at the auditor's office. Permission is respectfully requested to award the items to the lowest bidder, and in the case of ties award by lot. In the case of H. A. Johnson Company, Cobb, Bates & Yerxa Company and Haskell-Adams Company it will not be necessary to make contracts as the amounts involved are greatly under $1,000. Permission is requested to make contracts with the George D. Emerson Company and Bay State Grocery Company as these will amount to over $1,000."

WITHOUT ADVERTISING.

The Mayor has approved the following contracts, awarded without advertising; requests of heads of departments to do the work with the department forces without advertising; additions to and deductions from contracts.

LIBRARY DEPARTMENT.

Boston, February 17, 1923.

The Editor, The City Record, City Hall, Boston:

DEAR SIR,—We send, as required, a copy of a contract with the Buildings Care Company.

Very truly yours,

CHARLES F. D. BELDEN,
Librarian.

COPELEY SQUARE,

Boston, February 16, 1923.

THE BUILDINGS CARE COMPANY, 128 Bedford Street, Boston:

Your proposal under date of February 13, 1923, to perform the work described in the specification below, furnishing all materials required therefor, for the sum of $280 is hereby accepted; the same to be completed without delay.

THE TRUSTEES OF THE PUBLIC LIBRARY OF THE CITY OF BOSTON,

By CHARLES F. D. BELDEN,
Librarian.

SPECIFICATION.

This specification forms the basis of a contract created by the foregoing acceptance of a proposal submitted in writing by the party or parties above named, between the said party or parties and the Trustees of the Public Library of the City of Boston, for the performance of work and the furnishing of materials in consideration of the payment of the sum above stated. This specification is intended to be a condensed memorandum of the agreement; and it is understood between the parties that everything required to complete the work described is to be furnished and performed by the contractor whether the same is explicitly set forth in detail or not.

It is agreed that no laborer, workman or mechanic working within this Commonwealth in the employ of the contractor, subcontractor or other person doing or contracting to do the whole or a part of the work contemplated by this contract shall be requested or required to work more than eight hours in any one calendar day, agreeably to the provisions of chapter 517 of the Acts of 1906 as amended by chapter 269 of the Acts of 1907 or other acts in amendment thereof.

Commonwealth West End Branch Library, corner Cambridge and Lynde streets.

Thoroughly wash all painted walls and woodwork on the main floor, balcony, halls and stairways exclusive of shelves of book stacks and the wide panel around the first floor, but including the washing of the main library floor, window frames, sashes and shutters, and the dressing down of the tables, $175. Polish or clean to satisfaction and gild all electric light fixtures, after first testing such work in the librarian's office, including the cleaning only of the large chandelier in the center as far as the joint which connects the stem to the main body, $65. Clean all windows except those on the third floor of the tower, $40. Total, $280.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT (Artificial Stone Sidewalks).

Upon February 21 the Mayor approved a contract with the Cundari Company for building artificial stone sidewalks. A communication from Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Department of Public Works was as follows:

Boston, February 20, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—Permission to award a contract for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks in the public streets, without advertising, to the Cundari Company, 27 School street, Boston, is hereby requested on the ground that this contractor is not selected by the city in the first instance but by the abutters; and secondly, the expense of construction being divided by the city and abutters; also because such contracts vary greatly in amounts and seldom involve one thousand (1,000) dollars.

Respectfully yours,

JOSEPH A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Upon February 21 the Mayor approved a contract with Joseph A. Singarella for building artificial stone sidewalks. A communication from Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Department of Public Works was as follows:

Boston, February 20, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—Permission to award a contract for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks in the public streets, without advertising, to Joseph A. Singarella, 220 Devonshire street, Boston, is hereby requested on the ground that this contractor is not selected by the city in the first instance but by the abutters; secondly, the expense of construction being divided by the city and abutters; also because such contracts vary greatly in amounts and seldom involve one thousand (1,000) dollars.

Respectfully yours,

JOSEPH A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

VIGOROUS BRIEF OF MAYOR.

Mayor Curley, in a brief submitted to the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs of the Legislature, upon the 17th instant, vigorously attacked the petition submitted by the Boston Finance Commission for the transfer to the Boston School Committee of the powers now held by the Schoolhouse Commission as an attempt to "put the schools into politics" and to "put the city back into the evil conditions which existed in the period of 1895-1901," when the School Committee possessed the powers of the Schoolhouse Commission.

The Mayor closed his argument with quotations from statements made by prominent citizens of Boston who appeared before the legislative committee in 1901, advocating the creation of the Schoolhouse Commission. These included Maj. Henry L. Higginson, Louis D. Brandeis, President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard University, Samuel F. Hubbard, George U. Crocker and ex-Mayor Thomas N. Hart.

Mayor Curley's brief was as follows:

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
February 17, 1923.

To the Honorable Committee on Metropolitan Affairs, State House, Boston: GENTLEMEN,—I have received a copy of the Finance Commission's report dated February 14, 1923, which recommends the passage of House Bill 937, the object of which is to transfer the power of appointment of members of the Schoolhouse Commission from the Mayor to the School Committee.

The bill was not presented by the School Committee, nor indorsed by it. Only one member of that committee appeared at the legislative committee in favor of it; none of the other four members appeared for it, and that committee as a whole does not want the bill passed. The bill seeks to accomplish just what the defenders of the schools for years have tried to prevent, namely, to put the schools into politics. By its recommendation of this bill the Finance Commission would "keep the schools in politics," thereby reversing the Public School Association's annual campaign slogan, "Keep the schools out of politics."

By chapter 473 of the Acts of 1901 the power of the School Committee to purchase or take lands for schools, together with the power to erect, maintain and repair school buildings, was taken out of the hands of the School Committee and vested in a Schoolhouse Department, which was created in the act. By that act the Mayor was given the power to appoint the heads of the new department, and by chapter 486 of the Acts of 1909 his appointments were made subject to the approval of the Civil Service Commission as to the education, training and experience of the appointees. The new system has been in force for the last twenty-two years, and until the last two years it received the support of the Finance Commission, which never in that period advocated a change much less a return to the system which existed prior to 1901. For example, see Finance Commission's Report, Volume 7, Part 3, page 37, et seq. The commission then said, "There can be little doubt that prior to the establishment of the Schoolhouse Department in 1901 there was enormous waste of money in the purchase of land and the construction and furnishing of buildings under the School Committee, a body in no way fitted to deal with such problems."

The Finance Commission seems to have forgotten the reason why the power to take or purchase lands, or to erect, maintain and repair school buildings, was taken from the hands of the School Committee and vested in a new and separate department. In 1895, by chapter 408, the School Committee was given the powers in question, except the power to make repairs. All of these powers had been in the hands of the City Council, and owing to alleged abuses of such powers they were transferred to the School Committee. In 1899, by chapter 362, the power to make repairs was taken from the Council and vested in the School Committee. This system, begun in 1895, lasted until 1901, a short space of six years. At that time all of these powers were taken from the School Committee, as previously stated, and vested in the Schoolhouse Department.

What was the experience of those six years which led the Legislature to take these powers from the School Committee and put them in a separate department? To those who remember the history of that period it is astonishing to find a public body like the Finance Commission, professedly devoted to the interests of the school children and to economies in public expenditures, seek to put the city back into the evil conditions which existed in the period of 1895-1901. The number of candidates for School Committee places began to increase rapidly in 1895,—those who did not care for School Committee places when the education of the children alone was to be attended to, but who were attracted by the possibilities of graft and plunder by the transfer of the power over the selection of land and the construction and repair of buildings, now became eager aspirants for the position of School Committeemen. The result was inevitable. Not only was the education of the children neglected, but the money of the city was squandered in land deals, in gift contracts for the erection and repair of schools and in the multiplication of unnecessary positions in the construction and repair divisions of the School Committee.

The Legislature, on petition of leading citizens in Boston, procured the abolition of that system, and set up the system which is in existence today. They stated to the Legislature at the time that the education of the child, who was to become the future citizen, was of paramount importance in any civilized community, that the possibility of saving dollars and cents in the selection of lands and the construction and repair of buildings was comparatively unimportant, but that it had been demonstrated that the School Committee not only failed to make economies, but was more extravagant in its administration of these new duties than even the City Council had been when it enjoyed the powers in question. The advice of these philanthropic citizens was taken and the act was passed in 1901, thereby creating the system which has been maintained up to the present time.

The Finance Commission from its inception in the year 1907 down to last year uniformly supported the present system and at no time advocated a return to the School Committee scheme of control. Last year the Finance Commission reversed its attitude, and asked that the educational and business powers be combined in the School Committee. It advocated that change before the Legislature last year, and the Legislature turned a deaf ear to the commission. The commission renews its attempt this year, and for that purpose its chairman has filed a brief with the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs which contains charges which have been shown by the Corporation Counsel to have been entirely without foundation. The commission now asks that the Legislature put the city and the fortunes of its school children back in the evil conditions of the days when the School Committee exercised the powers over school land and buildings. I can account for this reversal of policy by the Finance Commission in no way except that it desires to reduce the Mayor's powers with respect to the appointment of the members of the Schoolhouse Commission. It could not hope to get better school accommodations for the children or to provide better education for them by returning to the old discredited system, therefore I say that its present attitude seems to be due solely to a desire to gratify its spite against the individual who happens now to be Mayor of Boston.

To summarize: The result of the system would be—

(1) To make places on the School Committee attractive to grafters who would care nothing for the education of the children, but who would care much for the spoils of politics, which would be open to them by vesting control over land, buildings, contracts and jobs.

(2) To put the schools back into politics with a vengeance.

(3) It would lead to neglect of the children's education, even if all the School Committee members were perfectly honest, as it would divert their attention from the educational problems of the School Committee to the eternal squabbles over land purchases, contracts for erection and repair of buildings, and the placing of constituents in jobs.

I want to submit the statements of the most prominent citizens of Boston who appeared before the committee in 1901, and advocated the bill creating the Schoolhouse Department so as to confine the School Committee to educational problems and put the business problems in the hands of the Schoolhouse Department.

The advocates of the bill submitted in 1901 to separate the educational and business functions, leaving the former in the School Committee and the latter in the new department to be created by the bill, were led by the late Maj. Henry L. Higginson, who was a strong advocate of the bill which provided for the separation of powers.

Louis D. Brandeis, now associate justice, Supreme Court of the United States, appeared at the hearing and advocated the bill, saying that a segregation of the mechanical interests from the proper educational interests of the committee should be made, and that the School Committee should be entirely relieved of all business questions such as the subject of construction and repairs.

A. Lawrence Lowell, now president of Harvard University, had formerly been a member of the School Committee and had made a study of the question of separation. He said that before the School Committee was given the power of dealing with the land purchases and contracts for construction and repairs the committee had been composed, in large part, of leading educators in the city, but after the power of spending money on land and buildings was given to the School Committee the office of School Committee became an attraction to many men who before that did not care to be members.

R. C. Humphrey emphasized the fact that the School Committee would be a better body without the power over land and buildings for schools.

Frank A. Hill, secretary of the State Board of Education, strongly advocated the separation of powers.

Samuel F. Hubbard said that you cannot have anything in the School Committee that interferes with the educational features and that this should be reiterated until it is ground into everyone's conscience.

J. P. Munroe, secretary of the committee having Major Higginson's bill in charge, read a letter from Samuel B. Capen, who had been a member of the School Committee, in which he said, "I believe that the responsibility for building and repairing the schoolhouses should be wholly taken away from the School Committee."

George U. Crocker, formerly treasurer of the City of Boston, spoke in favor of the bill.

Other advocates of the measure were Sarah Bowen, representing the Independent Voters League, Rev. A. H. Plumb, D. D., of Roxbury, and Professor Allen of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The bill had the strong support of Hon. Thomas N. Hart, who was then Mayor of the city and who, at a dinner of the Greenhale Club of Roxbury, spoke of this bill, saying, "It will enable the School Committee to attend to matters belonging to schools, and not to building schoolhouses and buying lands. When that becomes a law we will soon find that the members of the School Committee are all fitted to belong to it."

The advocates of the bill were successful, and after the law was passed the condition of the schools was quickly improved and the educational interests of the children were better protected.

I protest against the dictum of the present Finance Commission and ask your honorable committee to consider the evidence that was presented by this array of leading citizens of Boston who were familiar with the outrageous conditions of the schools while the purchase of land and the construction and repair of school buildings was in the hands of the School Committee.

Very truly yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

NOTICE.

The attention of citizens of Boston is especially called to the notice of Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Department of Public Works, published upon page 1 of the current issue of the City Record, advising that all complaints relative to the removal of snow or ice upon sidewalks within the city limits must be referred to the Hon. Herbert A. Wilson, Commissioner of Police, 29 Pemberton square, Boston.

THE AMERICAN MERCHANT MARINE.

Mayor Curley sent the following ringing letter relative to the American Merchant Marine to the Boston City Council upon the 19th instant:

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
February 19, 1923.

To the City Council:

GENTLEMEN,—The future of Boston, in fact of all New England, commercially is dependent upon the action of Congress on the question of governmental aid to shipping. That independence may be restored and maintained upon sea as well as upon land, it is vital that American shipping be placed upon an equal competitive basis with foreign shipping.

Foreign shipping today is so heavily subsidized and American shipping is so hampered not only by lack of subsidy but by stringent even if humane navigation laws as to render competition impossible without direct financial governmental assistance. The value of supplies necessary for the operation of ships and to provide for the requirements of passengers and crews between the Atlantic Coast and foreign ports approximates in excess of $300,000,000 annually, a large portion of which would flow to the port of Boston provided America possessed a merchant marine in keeping with her population, wealth and industries.

The value of an American merchant marine from the standpoint of national defense cannot be over-estimated. Under the guise of maintaining an auxiliary transport system huge sums are expended annually by Great Britain, Japan and other foreign powers, without whose transport system we would have experienced extreme difficulty in the transportation of troops and supplies during the recent World War.

America today is required to compete for business in the markets of the world under handicaps that should not obtain. Out of the World War, as a result of the development of labor saving devices, and as a result of American genius, and as a result of the promotion of efficiency and the scrapping of inadequate methods and machinery, a production has been established in industry sufficient in seven months to provide for the requirements of the nation for a full twelve-month period. Outside markets are essential to the stabilizing of industry and the promotion of industrial peace and to the contentment, happiness and well-being of the entire American nation.

The failure on the part of Congress to adopt the government aid measure, oftentimes erroneously styled "Ship Subsidy," would result in a return to the control of the foreign shipping combine whose operations prevented Americans from engaging in the shipping business during the twenty-five-year period prior to 1914, when as a consequence of their operation, independent shipping was stifled and the American flag on merchant ships practically driven from the sea and the American shipper, manufacturer and farmer obliged to pay enormous tribute to this enemy agency of American commercial independence.

America must take advantage of this opportunity to safeguard her commercial future or be confronted with a condition similar to that which obtained under the foreign shipping monopoly, when, as pointed out by me in an address to Congress in 1912, the foreign shipping combine derived a greater profit from the American cereal crop in 1910 than the farmer who tilled the soil, sowed the seed, and harvested the crop. In conformity with custom this surplus was shipped to Buffalo for export abroad. The foreign shipping combine which prior to that time had been handling the surplus for 8 cents per bushel, increased the price to 25 cents per bushel. The farmers refused to pay and the flow of the bumper crop presently resulted in a line of barges after the elevators had been filled that if placed end to end would extend a distance of four miles and there it remained until the farmers paid the tribute exacted by the foreign shipping combine, with the result that the foreign shipping combine was the only agency that derived any financial profit from the bumper wheat crop of 1910.

In view of the importance, not only to New England alone, but to America, of preserving the independence of the nation upon the sea, I respectfully urge the adoption by your body of the accompanying resolution.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

COPY OF RESOLVE.

Whereas, The President of the United States, Hon. Warren G. Harding, has recommended the adoption by the Congress of the United States of a ship subsidy bill for the preservation of American commercial independence and a necessary naval auxiliary in time of war; and

Whereas, The adoption of a subsidy measure as recommended by the President of the United States by Congress will be of direct and immediate benefit to New England and the United States of America; be it and it is hereby

Resolved, That we, the members of the Boston City Council in meeting assembled, respectfully recommend to the Massachusetts Representatives in both branches of Congress favorable action upon the pending ship subsidy bill. And be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be forwarded the members of Congress in both branches from Massachusetts, the President of the United States and the press of the Commonwealth.

NEW ELEVATED STATION PROPOSED.

Mayor Curley addressed the following communication to Hon. E. Mark Sullivan, the Corporation Counsel, upon the 21st instant:

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
February 21, 1923.

DEAR SIR,—In conformity with the wishes of the trustees of the Massachusetts General Hospital, and with a desire to provide adequate requirements for the thousands of patients at the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary and the Massachusetts General Hospital, and further as a means of anticipating the development and growth of the city in the West End as a result of the probable widening of Cambridge street, I believe it would be advisable to draft a bill to be presented to the Legislature providing for the expenditure of $700,000 for the establishment of an elevated railway station in the vicinity of Cambridge and Charles streets.

Sincerely yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

THE TAX LEVIES IN BOSTON.

Chairman Michael H. Sullivan of the Boston Finance Commission gave an unsupported opinion, at a hearing held by the Committee on Municipal Finance of the Massachusetts Legislature upon the 16th instant, that the over-assessment in the City of Boston amounted to $1,500,000.

Mayor Curley made vigorous rejoinder to the statement of Chairman Sullivan, upon the 19th instant, as follows:

It is the duty of the chairman of the Finance Commission, in view of his limited knowledge of financial administration, and his unsupported, pernicious statements with reference to the condition of finances of Boston, now that he has ascertained the inaccuracy of his statements, to immediately apologize to the City Auditor of Boston, and cause to be published a retraction and apology of damaging statements which were publicly uttered before the Committee on Municipal Finance and which appeared in the daily press.

Every department head has willingly assisted the Finance Commission in the matter of securing information with reference to the administration of the city's affairs, and the relations between the City Auditor and the chairman of the Finance Commission have been such that the City Auditor would gladly have given up the time, if requested, to teach the chairman of the Finance Commission the elementary principles of municipal finance. The chairman of the Finance Commission, relying upon his own knowledge, supplemented by his own viewpoint, has committed the error which it was perfectly natural for any one to commit, mentally equipped as he was with reference to the conduct of the fiduciary departments of Boston.

It is the duty of the chairman of the Finance Commission, and I trust that he will have the courage to recognize that duty, to at once confer with the City Auditor and prepare a statement that will clarify the situation so far as the general public is concerned, namely, as set forth by the City Auditor, Rupert S. Carven, in language that all can understand: The uncollected taxes for the year 1922 are $5,300,000, of which sum $4,500,000 should be collected. The outstanding unpaid bills incurred during 1922 represent $872,848, leaving a net surplus when the taxes for 1922 are collected of $3,627,152.

The appropriations for the past year were $53,545,436.89. The obligations contracted in the past year under these appropriations were approximately $53,045,436. This narrow margin between the total appropriations and actual obligations incurred shows how absurd the charge is that the city was overassessed $4,500,000. No one could have made a closer estimate on the amount of money required to be raised by taxation and every other source in order to meet the obligations which could lawfully be incurred under these appropriations.

JAMES M. CUBLEY, Mayor.

Rupert S. Carven, City Auditor, issued the following statement in answer to Chairman Sullivan, upon the 17th instant:

The headlines in Boston newspapers, based upon statements made before the Committee on Municipal Finance by the chairman of the Finance Commission, were of such a startling character as to frighten citizens who do not understand city finances by making them believe that something terrible has happened in the past year. One headline reads, "Assessed $4,500,000 too much"; another reads, "City overtaxed"; another, "1922 burden $4,500,000 too much"; another, "Boston ought to have $3,000,000 as surplus; instead there is a deficit."

The casual reader would infer that, while the city was overtaxed $4,500,000, there was a cash deficit in the treasury owing to the fact that a $3,000,000 surplus had somehow disappeared.

Such loose language by the chairman of the Finance Commission, who ought to feel a sense of responsibility, deserves the severest condemnation.

The truth is that the financial and accounting systems of the City of Boston have been administered in the past year as well, to say the least, as they ever have been during the city's entire history. In the first place the city was not overtaxed $4,500,000. In the second place there is no deficit in the true sense. In the third place there was no mysterious disappearance of $3,000,000 from the city treasury.

The appropriations for the last year were $53,545,436.89. The obligations contracted in the past year under these appropriations were approximately $53,045,436. This narrow margin between the total appropriations and actual obligations incurred shows how absurd the charge is that the city was overassessed $4,500,000. No one could have made a closer estimate of the amount of money required to be raised by taxation and from other sources in order to meet the obligations which could lawfully be incurred under these appropriations.

As to the alleged deficit. There are $5,300,000 uncollected taxes which were assessed for the year 1922. Of this at least $4,500,000 should be collected. Against that $4,500,000 there will be approximately $872,848 of bills incurred last year which will be absorbed by the $4,500,000 taxes when collected and leave a surplus of $3,627,152. While the outstanding taxes of 1922 are strictly an asset to the city and because of that fact there could not be any deficit with only $872,000 of bills outstanding, it should also be borne in mind that these uncollected taxes, not yet reduced to possession and placed in the treasury on February 1, 1923, cannot be considered in making up either the appropriation bill or the tax levy for the year 1923. The law forbids it. The law requires that only the actual cash in the treasury be considered as a starting point, and to that there should be added the amounts assessed during the year and the estimated receipts from all other sources.

The chairman of the Finance Commission is quoted as saying there should have been a surplus of $3,000,000. I have shown that in the strict sense there is a surplus of $3,627,152. The chairman says that surplus ought to be in the treasury. The answer is that it would be if all the taxes had been collected which were assessed in 1922. They have not been collected. The amount he named and even more stands as an asset to the credit of the city, although it is not actually in the city treasury yet.

I make this statement because I am indignant at the misrepresentation of the City of Boston and its financial situation. It is not because of any reflection upon me, because Judge Sullivan took occasion to compliment my department, but I feel a sense of outrage as a citizen of Boston in the reports which tend to undermine confidence in the finances of the city. The credit of the City of Boston is of the highest. It has been built up through a long series of years by the careful, conscientious handling of the city's finances which won the respect of the financial world.

As a result the city has no difficulty in placing its bonds at the lowest rate of interest. No public official who has the interests of the city at heart should take a position calculated to destroy the splendid structure of the city's credit. I have seen that credit built up for thirty-seven years, in which I have been connected in one capacity or another with the financial departments of the city, and I have taken just pride in the city's financial history. Therefore I do not wish to have the citizens get false impressions concerning our financial administration.

I assure them that the city is in a splendid financial condition, that it deserves today as high a degree of credit as it ever did, and that there is nothing in the situation which should cause the ordinary taxpayer or the investor the slightest alarm.

RUPERT S. CARVEN,
City Auditor.

Chairman Michael H. Sullivan of the Boston Finance Commission issued the following statement upon the 19th instant:

His Honor Mayor Curley and Rupert S. Carven, City Auditor, stated before the Committee on Municipal Finance of the Legislature on February 14 that at the beginning of this fiscal year, February 1, there was no free cash in the treasury that could be used for this year's appropriations.

The chairman of the Finance Commission thereupon maintained that on February 1 there should have been in the city treasury, to meet the present year's appropriations, all of the taxes collected during the last fiscal year that had been assessed in prior years, except for such amount as was necessary to meet the indebtedness of prior years in excess of the appropriations of those years. This sum should be about $2,000,000. There should have been in the treasury on February 1 also the unexpended balances of the department appropriations for the fiscal year closing January 31 last.

Thereafter, before the same committee on February 16, the City Auditor stated that there would be at least one half million dollars of unexpended balances of departmental appropriations available for this year. As to the $2,000,000 back taxes collected last year, the City Auditor stated that they had been used to pay last year's current expenses, but he has cited no legal authority for making such use of these taxes.

Therefore, as the matter now stands the statements made both by his Honor the Mayor and the City Auditor on the 14th instant before the Committee on Municipal Finance, viz., that there was no free cash in the treasury for appropriation purposes this year, has been modified by the City Auditor, after his statement was challenged by the chairman of the Finance Commission, to the extent of admitting that there is a half million dollars, representing unexpended balances from departments, now available.

The City Auditor has not, however, informed the Committee on Municipal Finance or the Finance Commission how he can legally replace in the treasury for appropriation purposes this year the $2,000,000 back taxes collected last year and used for current expenses.

The matter of overtaxation, which came up in the discussion before the Committee on Municipal Finance naturally followed from the theory of the City Auditor regarding the use of back taxes. The City Auditor stated that there had been received last year sufficient money, lacking $875,000, to pay all the year's obligations. On that theory the uncollected taxes of 1922, on February 1, 1923, was over $4,000,000 in excess of the amount required for the year's expenditures in which they were assessed.

In other words, when the tax rate was fixed for last year there was not taken into consideration for the purpose of reducing the tax rate certain funds which were later used to pay obligations of last year.

Under these circumstances it is very difficult, if not impossible, for any administration to avoid extravagances and participation by the city in a banking business.

The chairman of the Finance Commission is not responsible for any of the figures used in the foregoing statement. They were all furnished by the City Auditor and it is his theory of accounting and construction of the law that has been challenged.

The Finance Commission is endeavoring to simplify the bookkeeping system of the City of Boston so that it can be understood by those who are not expert accountants. If the General Laws and the provisions of the city charter are followed in the matter of expenditures, the commission believes that not only will the city's business cost the taxpayers less annually, but that more people will understand how the city's money is expended.

Mayor Curley issued the following statement upon the 19th instant:

"My attention was directed this day to the statement submitted to the press by the Chairman of the Finance Commission, Hon. Michael H. Sullivan, which I have read with extreme care but without enlightenment. I have conferred with the City Auditor and the Budget Commissioner, both expert accountants, and requested them to submit a reply. After a study covering the entire afternoon, they inform me that an intelligent financial answer to the labored and involved statement of the chairman of the Finance Commission would be equivalent to 'squaring a circle.' Both the City Auditor, Rupert S. Carven, and the Budget Commissioner, Charles J. Fox, have expressed a willingness, even though it might be in violation of the charter, to establish an elementary school in municipal finance, at the sessions of which the Chairman of the Finance Commission would be a welcome pupil, even though it might be difficult for him to comprehend even some of the minor problems of municipal finance.

"The presence at the auditor's office today of a representative of the accounting firm of Patterson, Teale and Denman, expert accountants, is an indication that the judge apparently realizes the erroneous character of his statements with reference to the condition of the city's finances and it is possible that shortly he will make the requested apology."

City Auditor Rupert S. Carven issued the following statement upon the 20th instant:

A newspaper controversy, in my opinion, is seldom productive of good. It is, however, my opinion that constructive criticism, wherein the critic and the one criticised get together on the matter criticised in a co-operative effort, may result in much good. The Auditing Department at all times welcomes inquiries and even advice in connection with the conduct of its affairs. The chairman of the Finance Commission is welcome at all times, but during the past year his official presence has graced this department not more than a couple of times. The arguments that Judge Sullivan advanced before the Committee on Municipal Finance at the State House, were not based upon any information that he sought from this office and while I would much prefer to call attention in person to any errors in the oral or written statements of the chairman of the Finance Commission, nevertheless, I feel it necessary to make public reply to his most recent statement appearing in the public press.

From a careful reading of his statement, it would appear that Judge Sullivan has evidently seen some light, for now he claims there should be about $2,500,000 in the treasury as against his claim of $3,000,000 made on Friday last. The shrinkage of $500,000 is evidently the amount he stated should be available in cash from the 1922 tax overlay, but which he now finds could not possibly be in the treasury January 31, 1923, under the law. Error No. 1.

He states that the City Auditor on February 16, before the Committee on Municipal Finance, stated that there would be at least one half million dollars of unexpended balances of departmental appropriations available for this year. Again he is in error, as the City Auditor clearly stated that this balance would be available for the reduction of the so-called cash deficit, otherwise he could not quote me correctly, for this amount was necessary to establish an approximate cash deficit of $875,000 of which the judge made use. Error No. 2.

He claims that the statement made by his Honor the Mayor and the City Auditor on the 14th instant before the Committee on Municipal Finance, viz., that there was no free cash in the treasury for appropriation purposes this year has been modified by the City Auditor. Again he is mistaken, as the City Auditor still maintains and asserts that there will be no free cash in the treasury available for appropriation purposes this year. Error No. 3.

But why continue? So many inaccuracies are found in the oral and written statements of the chairman of the Finance Commission, that any attempt to answer and refute each one would but involve the officials of the city in a lengthy and apparent never-ending controversy, from which nothing could be gained.

In a previous communication to the press, I clearly showed wherein the city was not overtaxed $4,500,000; that there was no deficit in the true sense; that there was no mysterious disappearance of $3,000,000 from the city treasury; and that the 1922 uncollected taxes of $3,600,000 still remain after taking care of the so-called cash deficit of approximately $875,000; certainly a good showing.

In conclusion, I again call attention to the inadvisability of any public official making unfounded statements, oral or written, which might tend to alarm the taxpayers or the investors of the city.

RUPERT S. CARVEN.

HYDE PARK TRANSIT FACILITIES.

Mayor Curley addressed a public hearing of the Rules Committee of the House of Representatives of the Massachusetts Legislature upon the 19th instant in favor of his measure authorizing the City of Boston to purchase or take by eminent domain the property and franchise of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company in the Hyde Park district for the purpose of leasing these lines to the Boston Elevated Railway Company.

The address of Mayor Curley was as follows:

The town of Hyde Park, today a part of the City of Boston, and also a part of Boston for the past nine or ten years, in my opinion, and I believe this opinion represents the general opinion in the Hyde Park and Readville section of Boston—the needs of the people of Hyde Park require the extension of the single fare system to that part of Boston. In 1916 the City of Boston authorized an expenditure of approximately one quarter of a million dollars for the widening of Hyde Park avenue, having in mind the abandonment of the single track system then in operation on Hyde Park avenue and the establishment of a double track with transportation facilities such as would be necessary to meet the growing demands of this section of Boston. There are few sections of the Commonwealth which have been as poorly served in the matter of transportation as the Hyde Park section. Hyde Park represents a district where low-priced lands are available, with many homes developed, with large manufacturing plants located there, which can only be developed with adequate and low-priced transportation. The Boston Elevated system at present ends, so far as the people of Hyde Park are concerned, at the Boston line, which is approximately one and one half to two miles from Cleary square, Hyde Park, the remainder of the system being operated by the Eastern Massachusetts Railway system and by a bus line and by chance as far as any reasonable or proper or adequate transportation facilities are afforded the people of Hyde Park at the present time.

It has been a subject for discussion for a great many years. After numerous conferences with the officials of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company and the Boston Elevated Railway Company, we finally reached the point of agreement where the Boston Elevated Street Railway, through the Board of Public Control Trustees, are agreeable to the taking over of the Eastern Massachusetts lines in Hyde Park, provided that they will be financed by the City of Boston. The estimate is $225,000 for the road bed and about $65,000 for the power house. I assume the power house would be of extremely small value, certainly of no real value in the operation of the railway system. The City of Boston is agreeable to assuming the burden provided that the Legislature will authorize the bill to purchase the same outside of the debt limit and have the city take over the Eastern Massachusetts line in Hyde Park, believing that as a result of their taking the lines the present erroneous system will be ended. At the present time it costs twenty cents to get from Cleary square, Hyde Park, to Forest Hills, a ten-cent fare on the Eastern Massachusetts Railroad and a ten-cent fare on the Boston Elevated. It is possible in other portions of the system to travel a distance many times greater for a five-cent fare and ten times as far for a ten-cent fare. There is no equity in the present transportation system and but small hope for facilitating a development of homes and industries in this section of the city where low prices on land still obtain. I believe that the adoption of this particular project would be of material benefit to the entire City of Boston and so far as the city is concerned we are perfectly agreeable to assuming the obligation in the belief that it will return dividends to the city as well as general benefit to the entire Hyde Park section, where development will ultimately come and which will come in the next three or four years with the extension of transportation facilities to the Mattapan section and the development of so-called Dorchester rapid transit project for the electrification of the railroad lines to Mattapan. It should be possible and it is possible now to establish a belt line system extending from Mattapan square to the elevated lines at Forest Hills.

So far as the Readville section is concerned, I believe it would be possible to operate with a reasonable profit the system from Cleary square to Readville. As far as the East Dedham end is concerned I have discussed the same with Mr. Jackson of the Boston Elevated Public Control Trustees and in his opinion it would not be profitable to operate with Elevated cars but bus lines might be established on the Dedham division which would meet the needs of the people without any resultant loss to the operating company. In this measure which has the indorsement of your Department of Public Utilities there is an opportunity to provide for the needs of the Hyde Park and Readville sections and there is in addition an opportunity to deal justly with the entire people of Boston. Hyde Park and Readville represent a part of Boston, and as they are a part of Boston they are entitled to the same general transportation facilities which obtain to the people of every other portion of the city. It is a reasonable measure. It is a proper measure. It is a measure that contains equity for the people of Hyde Park and would be beneficial for the entire municipality and I trust your committee will so regard it.

EXTENSION OF CONTRACTS.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT (Ferry Service.)

An extension of time has been granted for completion of contract made with W. H. Ellis & Son Company, for rebuilding the middle pier at the East Boston landing of the South Ferry, from December 30, 1922, to March 1, 1923. This extension is requested on account of inclement weather.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT (Water Service.)

An extension of time has been granted for completion of the contract made with the Coffin Valve Company, for assembling 6-inch, 10-inch and 12-inch gate valves, from January 1, 1923, to May 1, 1923. This request for extension is asked as the contractor was delayed by waiting for the necessary parts to assemble.

LOCAL LABOR UNIONS.

On January 1, 1922, number of local unions reporting, 348, with 114,883 members (14,480 less than in 1921) or 101,745 men and 13,138 women. Percentage of local union members unemployed on March 31, 1921, 30.3; on June 30, 23.1; on September 30, 20.0; December 31, 24.8.

CITIZENSHIP, BOTH SEXES, ALSO FAMILIES.

Native white citizens, 246,816; foreign born whites naturalized, 102,822; Negro citizens, 12,086; total citizens, 361,724. Foreign born whites remaining aliens, 118,214. Only 56.30 per cent of the citizens registered for voting purposes in 1920 (for City Election) and of the 203,666 who did register only 30.53 per cent voted. Coming to the final facts to be remembered, only 17.2 per cent of the citizens of Boston took part in electing the three members of the City Council and two members of the School Committee in 1920, these five candidates taking office at the will of only 8.3 per cent of the citizens, which was more than sufficient to elect. On the question of permitting Sunday Sports and Games, 10.9 per cent of the citizens voted in favor and 4.3 per cent against, 7.7 per cent being more than sufficient for a majority in favor. The City Election of 1920 reveals the most flagrant case of minority rule ever noted in Boston, not more than one-ninth of the women citizens being interested enough to vote.

Total families in 1920, 164,785 or 3,679 more than in 1915. As this shows a larger increase of families than of persons (i. e., 2,621) since 1915, here is another discrepancy that discredits the 1920 Census. As 463 represents the average number of persons to a family, 3,679 families would contain 17,034 persons. The U. S. Census of 1920 shows a net increase of only 2,621 persons since 1915.

POPULATION (ESTIMATED) OF BOSTON POSTAL DISTRICT.

The Supt. of Mails, Boston Post Office, maintains a system of mail delivery whereby the Boston Postal District, consisting of 12 cities (not including Lynn and Woburn) and 11 towns, covering about 231 square miles of territory, is divided into 74 delivery districts, each having a mail station. They extend northerly as far as to include Stoneham, easterly including Winthrop, southerly including South Weymouth and westerly including Wellesley, all being situated in the Metropolitan District or "Greater Boston" and mostly within 10 miles of State House.

Population of Boston Postal District estimated as 1,885,829 in July, 1922, and of these separate delivery districts in Boston as follows: Allston, 18,811; Back Bay, 65,098; Grove Hall, 43,018; Hanover St., 30,000; Jamaica Plain, 37,850; Roslindale, 19,989; Roxbury Crossing, 52,275; Station A, 91,943; Upham's Corner, 49,896. These are minor districts (not all that the City contains) and do not correspond with the geographical districts.

OWNED AND RENTED HOMES IN NEW ENGLAND, UNITED STATES CENSUS.

Total owned, 668,324 or 332,571 mortgaged and 335,753 free; rented, 1,010,586. In Mass. 301,245 owned or 174,935 mortgaged and 126,312 free; rented, 564,097. In Conn. 115,181 owned or 71,393 mortgaged and 43,788 free; rented, 190,964. In Maine, 408,829 owned or 28,289 mortgaged and 80,540 free; rented, 73,860. In R. In Vt. 48,370 owned or 19,341 mortgaged and 29,029 free; rented, 35,706.

MASSACHUSETTS CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS.

The Massachusetts Civil Service Commissioners announce examinations for desirable positions as follows:

NURSES, MARCH 2, 1923.

This examination will include school nurses (excluding Boston school nurses), health nurses, visiting nurses, etc., and will be held for the service of all the cities and of such towns in the State as are classified under civil service.

At present there are several vacancies in various cities throughout the state. The examination for nurses who are registered by the Board of Registration of Nurses, Department of Civil Service and Registration, will consist of the following subjects and weights: Training and experience, 4; the mark on file with the division of registration, 3; personality and fitness as determined by an oral interview, 3; total, 10.

The date given above is not the actual examination date, but the date on or before which application blanks must be filed.

Applicants will be notified later of the oral interview.

The examination for nurses who are not registered will be as follows: Training and experience, 4; written examination, 3; personality and fitness as determined by an oral interview, 3; total, 10.

Applicants will be required to obtain a mark of at least 65 per cent in training and experience in order to become eligible.

Successful applicants will also be given a physical examination.

Since registered nurses will go on the list ahead of nonregistered nurses, applicants should state in their applications whether or not they are applying as registered nurses.

Applicants who are not registered must be graduates of a hospital or similar institution giving a course of instruction in nursing of at least two years in length or must have equivalent training.

ATTENDANCE OFFICER, BOSTON SCHOOL DEPARTMENT, MARCH 5, 1923.

The entrance salary is $1,680 per year increasing to a maximum of $2,220. The duties of the attendance officer are to secure the observance of the school attendance laws.

Applicants must be not less than thirty nor over forty-five years of age at the time of filing application. A certificate of date of birth must be filed with the application.

The subjects of examination with their respective weights will be as follows: Training and experience, 4; report, 1; special questions on the duties of the position, 3; personality and fitness, as determined by an oral interview, 2; total, 10.

The salary is $1,700 a year. There are four vacancies.

The subjects of examination with their respective weights will be as follows: Training and experience, 5; report, 1; practical questions, 4; total, 10. The practical questions will be based upon the following: The proper bracing and bridging of subway excavations, the care and support of underground structures such as sewers, water pipes, electric conduits, etc.; the construction of brick, stone and concrete masonry; the proper placing of water-proofing materials; setting reinforcing steel and erecting structural steel work; checking lines and grades.

Applicants will be required to obtain at least 65 per cent in experience and in practical questions to become eligible.

Successful applicants will also be given a physical examination.

STATISTICAL CLERK (MALE), BOSTON STATISTICS DEPARTMENT, MARCH 6, 1923.

The salary is $30 per week. Applicants should have a working knowledge of ordinary forms of statistical expression, ability to assemble figures from documents, reports, etc., and place them in correct tabular form, a general knowledge of the chief sources of information relative to municipal activities in Boston and metropolitan district, some experience in the graphic presentation of figures. The department expects to center its activities in the future very largely in the preparation of a Year Book for the City of Boston. This means the collection, sifting, and assembling of a great deal of material, both statistical and non-statistical.

The subjects of examination with their respective weights will be as follows: Training and experience, 1; special questions on the duties of the position, 1; total, 2.

Applicants will be required to obtain a mark of at least 65 per cent in training and experience to become eligible.

EXTERIOR INSPECTOR (MALE), WIRE DIVISION, BOSTON FIRE DEPARTMENT, MARCH 10, 1923.

The salary is $1,500 per year. Applicants must be not less than twenty-two nor over thirty years of age at the time of filing application. A certificate of date of birth must be filed with the application.

The duties of the position are the inspection of overhead and underground electrical installation in the City of Boston.

X-RAY TECHNICIAN, BOSTON CITY HOSPITAL, MARCH 12, 1923.

This examination is open to both men and women.

The salary is $40 a week and dinners. Applicants must be qualified to repair transformers and motors, and have a general knowledge of this sort of electricity, be competent to do developing and to supervise the work of several assistants. It is desirable that applicants have had at least two years' experience as X-Ray technician.

The subjects of examination with their respective weights will be as follows: Training and experience, 4; practical tests, 3; personality and fitness as determined by an oral interview, 3; total, 10.

Applicants are required to obtain at least 65 per cent in training and experience and in the oral interview in order to become eligible.

Successful applicants will be required to file a certificate from a reputable physician as to their physical fitness for the position.

The date given above is not the actual examination date, but the date on or before which application blanks must be filed. Applicants will be notified later when to appear for the practical tests and the oral interview.

INSPECTOR OF HEAT CONTROL APPARATUS, BOSTON SCHOOLHOUSE DEPARTMENT, MARCH 12, 1923.

The salary is $1,500 a year.

Applicants must be able to read plans and be thoroughly familiar with the various parts of heating and ventilating systems. The inspector makes frequent visits to new and old buildings where automatic temperature control is being installed and superintends the running of the mains and branches and the various connections throughout the building. He must be a capable mechanic and be able to renew any defective parts in the automatic control apparatus, such as diaphragms and the various parts of positive and graduated action thermostats. He must be able to take apart, repair, and put in working order hydraulic and steam air compressors. After the automatic control system is installed in a building, he must be able to see that proper adjustment is made on all parts. He must further possess a knowledge of pneumatic thermostats for the control of the temperature of hot water circulating systems.

THE COAL SITUATION.

The Mayors' Club of Massachusetts, in session at Young's Hotel upon the 24th ultimo, unanimously voted that the following telegram be sent to the President at Washington:

HON. WARREN G. HARDING, President of the United States, White House, Washington, D. C.:

Thirty-nine mayors of Massachusetts cities, at a meeting of their formal organization at Young's Hotel, Boston, this day, unanimously voted to request your Excellency to direct that at least two tugs of the Navy Department may be assigned in keeping open the Cape Cod Canal, for the transportation of coal to Massachusetts ports, and which are dependent upon the canal for shipments of coal. Health authorities report that deaths ensuing from respiratory diseases in Boston have doubled since the month of November, 1922, over similar statistics of a year ago. A serious emergency exists and federal aid is imperatively needed in safeguarding the lives and health of our citizens. The present coal supply of Massachusetts cities is the smallest that has been available for a great many years and we have only two days' supply on hand for immediate use in Boston. This is a statement of facts that is tragic, not a psychological hypothesis conceived in an atmosphere unfamiliar with the rigors of a New England winter, the most severe in a generation.

JAMES M. CURLEY,
President of the Mayors' Club of Massachusetts, Mayor of Boston.

DEATH OF MR. COCKRAN.

Mayor Curley, who is in New York, telegraphed Mrs. W. Bourke Cockran in Washington, upon the 1st instant, a message of sympathy and condolence, as follows:

MRS. W. BOURKE COCKRAN, The Twin Oaks, Woodley Road, Washington, D. C.:

DEAR MRS. COCKRAN,—I mourn with you in the loss of one of the first citizens of the United States in the passing of your distinguished husband. I was honored by his personal friendship for a period of more than twenty years and our nation has known no more unselfish, patriotic, just and beloved citizen. His glorious voice rang throughout our country as a clarion call in every honored and righteous movement for the betterment of humanity throughout the world for a period of fifty years, and no man in our nation has enjoyed a greater influence, finer public esteem or greater loyalty to a wide and cherished circle of friends. I pray you will accept in this sad hour an earnest assurance of my sympathy and condolence.

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

REPORT OF COLONEL GEORGE A. JOHNSON, EMINENT AUTHORITY, UPON THE COLLECTION AND DISPOSAL OF REFUSE IN THE CITY OF BOSTON.

- X. Recovery of By-Products from the Destructor Plants.

Particular attention is called to Chapter I. Historical, Appendix, which is annexed, a resume of recommendations by commissions and public bodies from 1908 to 1921, inclusive, and in which is noted the strong opposition of the Chamber of Commerce committee to the award of the present contract for existing methods of disposal without further or more complete investigation of disposal methods.

With this in mind, the Johnson investigation was authorized by Mayor Curley.

GEORGE A. JOHNSON COMPANY, INC.,
CONSULTING ENGINEERS,
150 NASSAU STREET,
NEW YORK, February 26, 1923.

MR. JOSEPH A. ROURKE, Commissioner
Department of Public Works, Boston, Mass.:

DEAR SIR,—Pursuant to instructions received from you on July 21, 1922, I have investigated the problem of refuse collection and disposal for Boston, and submit herewith my full report on the results of my studies.

Immediately following the report proper is an appendix of 214 pages, including eighty-five tables, all of which will serve as supporting data for this digest of the results of my investigation.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT.

At the outset I desire to acknowledge, with the keenest sense of appreciation, the wholehearted co-operation in all phases of my work of his Honor the Mayor, yourself as Commissioner of Public Works, Mr. Edward F. Murphy, division engineer, and the staff of your office. The efforts of my assistant, Mr. Arthur H. Johnson, who had charge of the field work, and the purposes of the investigation as a whole, were greatly facilitated by the prompt and efficient assistance continuously and unquestioningly placed at our disposal by you.

EVENTS PREVIOUS TO DECEMBER 31, 1921.

Pertinent recitations from various reports bearing on the refuse problem of Boston, made by various commissions during the past fifteen years, are to be found in the opening pages of the Appendix for this report. It is significant that up to 1921 all of the bodies who investigated the matter came to the common conclusion that the then and now existing methods of refuse collection and disposal are faulty in many cardinal important particulars. Nothing came of any of these investigations, however.

In 1921, in anticipation of the expiration on July 1, 1922, of the existing contract, Mayor Peters appointed a committee to study the situation and advise him as to what had best be done. The recommendations of this committee favored a continuation of past practices, involving separate collection of refuse, salvaging and incineration of a part of the rubbish, disposal of ashes and the remainder of the rubbish on inland dumps, and disposal of the garbage on Spectacle Island by the reduction method, all practically as has been the custom in the past.

At this juncture the Boston Chamber of Commerce became particularly active, and as results of studies prosecuted by it filed two reports, dated respectively December 5 and 19, 1921. These reports, made public over six months prior to the expiration of the old contract, pointed out the desirability of a detailed study of the entire problem before the city should commit itself to a long-term contract which gave little promise of correcting the intolerable conditions which had existed for over twenty years; asserting that if the city should proceed (as it ultimately did), it would be an evasion of the problem and not a solution; and that the present method of disposal depended for its success upon certain methods of separation and collection which never eventuated. Numerous other extremely pertinent points were made by the Chamber of Commerce, and these are recited in considerable detail on pages 4-14, inclusive, of the Appendix. The viewpoints therein expressed are rational and based on established fact. They should be read with care.

Notwithstanding the evidence thus submitted, and in the face of strenuous objections and threatened court proceedings on the part of the then candidate for and present Mayor, Hon. James M. Curley, a ten-year contract with the Coleman Disposal Company, to become effective on July 1, 1922, and continuing the inequities of nearly a generation of notoriously inefficient, unduly costly, unsanitary and nuisance-breeding refuse collection and disposal practice, was executed on December 30, 1921, and approved by Mayor Andrew J. Peters on the next following day.

DEFINITION OF REFUSE.

The term "refuse," as applied to the solid wastes of a city, is loosely used by many. Refuse is a generic term descriptive of all solid wastes of human existence and industrial endeavor. Properly speaking, city refuse is composed of garbage, ashes and rubbish. Garbage comprises the solid organic wastes; ashes, the product of burnt combustible material; and rubbish, the heterogeneous remainder of city refuse, such as paper, wood, rags, glass, metals, etc. Throughout this report these materials are so classified.

THE SANITARY DISTRICTS.

For convenience in control the City of Boston is divided into eleven sanitary districts whose locations and limits are shown on a map on page 25 of the Appendix, and whose populations are recorded on the page following the table.

POPULATION OF BOSTON.

That information might be made available respecting the future requirements of refuse collection and disposal, studies were made of the past, present and probable future populations of Boston as a whole and of its various sanitary district subdivisions. The results of these studies are discussed on pages 12-24 of the Appendix.

These include a map (page 18) showing distribution of population, diagrammatic expressions of the population of Boston, for the whole city (page 16), and for each sanitary district (page 17), and notes explanatory thereof (pages 19-24, inclusive).

In general it may be said that for the entire city there is a distinct bending downward of the population curve between the years 1914-16. It is believed that the peak of the previous normal population increase curve was reached in the year 1916, and that this curve only bent upward in 1917 and 1918 because of war activities. The future growth of Boston promises to be less rapid than in the past, for generally speaking the territory within the city is closely built up, and there is indicated a decided tendency on the part of the population to move their homes to points beyond the present city limits. Brighton, Dorchester, West Roxbury and a part of Roxbury are the only really favorable sections of Boston for enlarged residential populations.

THE COLEMAN CONTRACT.

The so-called Coleman contract, executed on December 31, 1921, in force July 1, 1922, and terminating on July 1, 1932, obligates the city in the following particulars:

1. To pay to the Coleman Disposal Company during the life of the contract a total of $3,795,000, of which sum $345,000 is payable in monthly installments during the six months ending in December, 1922; $345,000 in monthly installments during each year, 1923 to 1931, inclusive; and $345,000, payable in monthly installments during the six months ending with June, 1932.

2. To deliver to the Coleman Disposal Company at one or more of the receiving stations the garbage collected by the city in Sanitary Districts Nos. 1, 3, 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10; and the ashes and rubbish collected by the city in Sanitary Districts Nos. 1, 5, 7, 8, 9 and 10, to the Coleman Disposal Company at Fort Hill Wharf Station, at the Albany Street Station, or at dumps provided by the contractor. However, the city is not bound by the terms of the contract to collect or deliver to the contractor more garbage, ashes or rubbish than it chooses to collect and deliver to him.

3. By becoming a party to the reduction method of garbage disposal, practiced by the Coleman Disposal Company on Spectacle Island, and by countenancing the deposition of ashes and rubbish in inland dumps, the city is committed to the separation of its refuse before its collection and transport to the point of ultimate disposal, and therefore to a dual collection system, at least.

4. No matter how much or how little garbage and other refuse the Coleman Disposal Company receives through the efforts of the city, the city nevertheless has obligated itself to pay to that company alone $3,795,000 for the disposal of such refuse as it may deliver to them during the ten-year life of the contract in force on July 1, 1922.

The Coleman Disposal Company, under the terms of this contract, is required:

1. To dispose of the garbage, ashes and rubbish in a sanitary and inoffensive manner. The contractor is under bond in the amount of $100,000 to insure this result, and failing for five continuous days to perform according to the requirements of the contract the city may cancel the contract; and at any time of such failure, and after twenty-four hours' notice thereof, the city may take over and operate the plant of the contractor, deducting the cost of such operations from payments due the contractor.

In many ways this document is a remarkable one. The highly unsatisfactory results attending attempts at separation of garbage from the remaining refuse, extending through many years, were of course well known prior to its execution. The impossibility of securing an adequate separation, resulting in a mixture of ashes and rubbish so free from garbage that the former could properly be deposited in inland dumps, was also well understood. Finally, the contract allowed the continued operation of the garbage reduction plant on Spectacle Island, a circumstance in itself seemingly sufficient to have positively precluded the execution of such a document, in view of the well-nigh intolerable nuisance to the people of Boston which the operation of this plant had always proved to be.

EXISTING SYSTEM OF REFUSE COLLECTION.

Collection of the refuse of Boston, that is, the garbage, ashes and rubbish, is now performed by city day-labor forces and by ten independent collectors operating under one-year contracts. All of this work is under the supervision of the Sanitary Service of the Department of Public Works.

There is in addition a large quantity of refuse which is efficiently gathered, without cost to the city, by private collectors over which the city exercises no well defined control. No record is kept of the quantity of refuse of different kinds collected by them.

Separate ash and garbage collection in the same district encourages confusion of effort and extravagance.

The contract executed on December 31, 1921, is chiefly, but not entirely, responsible for these conditions. The decision being therein made to continue the Spectacle Island garbage reduction plant, it follows that the citizens of Boston must continue to separate their refuse. This some sections do fairly well; in others no attempt at separation is made. No amount of coercion, nor the exercise of the entire police powers of the city, can conceivably force so perfect a separation of the garbage from the ashes and rubbish that the mixture of the last two can be disposed of in inland dumps without in most instances creating a nuisance amounting in some cases to a distinct menace to the public health. Adequate proof of this assertion will be forthcoming later on in this report.

Collection Equipment.

On page 65 of the Appendix appears a tabulation of the equipment used in the Boston collection service. A study of the number and types of vehicles employed by the city and by contractors at different seasons of the year, discloses a number of pertinent features pointing definitely to the absence of system and economy. The number of vehicles used by contractors varies directly with the amount of refuse produced, whereas the number employed by the city continues a practical constant throughout the year, regardless of the amounts of refuse moved by such forces. Rather than lay off a part of the city forces during seasons of light refuse production, it appears that they are kept intact, or practically so, throughout the year. This is strikingly poor economy, and indicates the desirability of the abandonment by the city of all collection activities, and in the future contracting with outside parties for all refuse collection work without exception.

The ash cart employed in Boston, single horse drawn, two-wheel type, is used principally by the city forces. Only two or three such carts are used by the contractors. In certain districts, notably in parts of the North and West Ends, carts of this type lend themselves advantageously to the congested traffic conditions and narrow streets therein encountered; but the city does not restrict their use entirely to such districts, some of these carts being employed in every district wherein the city forces operate. They are used exclusively for ash collections except for a few two-horse wagons in Sanitary Districts Nos. 7, 8 and 9. With the exception of two or three one-horse carts the contractors, on the contrary, employ only two-horse wagons and auto trucks for ash collection.

The garbage wagons are of both iron and wood construction, of the one and two horse type. Many of them are in leaky condition, and most of them are never washed. The iron wagons are too high in the body, making loading difficult. Sometimes the loads of garbage under transport are covered with tarpaulin; sometimes not.

The city keeps in repair the vast majority of all garbage wagons without cost to the contractors, although the contracts require that the contractor shall defray the cost of such repairs.

COLLECTION EFFICIENCY.

A study made of collection operations in each district showed higher ash collection costs where the work was performed by city forces than where it was done by contract. This is due to the higher scale of wages of city employees, less hours worked, lower efficiency of city employees, unsuitable apparatus, and to the maintenance by the city of a force of practically uniform strength. The results of these particular studies are tabulated on pages 125-134, inclusive, and furnish considerable food for thought in connection with the idea of definitely placing all collection work under contract.

EXISTING COLLECTION SERVICE.

On pages 59-64, inclusive, of the Appendix is to be found a detailed description of the manner in which refuse of all characters is collected, and to what points it is transported and disposed of. It is necessary here to repeat that the present system is poorly organized and works badly. Separate ash and garbage collection in the same district, chiefly due to the very common but also very natural failure of the people to observe the city ordinances relative to separation of refuse, inevitably results in those contracting for the collection of garbage receiving a mixture of garbage, ashes and rubbish, and those contracting for the collection of ashes and rubbish the same or similar character of mixed refuse. Law suits brought by the collection contractors, based on the claim that they are performing work not called for in their contract, are an inevitable heritage of such practice.

COLLECTION AND DISPOSAL OF SHOP WASTES.

On pages 28-30 of the Appendix is a description of the manner in which the wastes from butcher shops and meat markets, vegetable and fruit and other shop wastes are collected and disposed of.

RECEIVING STATIONS.

There are three stations in the city to which refuse is delivered to the Coleman Disposal Company. These are the Victory Road Station, the Albany Street Station and the Atlantic Avenue Station. Descriptions of these stations and details of the operations thereat, are to be found on pages 30-37, inclusive, of the Appendix.

The point to which it is desired to call passing attention is that the previous contractor, up to July 1, 1922, bore the entire cost of maintenance of these receiving stations, whereas under the Coleman Disposal Company contract the city is required to bear this expense, and receives no part of the revenue paid to the Coleman Disposal Company by private collectors for the privilege of dumping refuse of all characters at these stations. A special investigation at the Atlantic Avenue Station last October disclosed the following:

The gross revenue of the Coleman Disposal Company at the Atlantic Avenue Station alone, received from private collectors of refuse, was about $1,088 per week.

In addition to this, the Coleman Disposal Company used this station for the transfer of some 30 cubic yards per day of excavation from other jobs of that company, and having nothing to do with the refuse problem of Boston.

The city maintains this station, as it does the other two stations and of this cost the Coleman Disposal Company pays no part.

SUMMARY RELATIVE TO EXISTING COLLECTION SERVICE.

The evidence on the present refuse collection service may be summarized as follows:

There is failure of adequate refuse separation throughout the city, the results of such efforts ranging from good in the higher class districts to very bad indeed in the lower class districts.

Suitable containers for refuse are not provided by fully one third of the population of the city.

The actual collection service, as not operating, is inefficient and uneconomical. It lacks standard equipment of suitable character. It lends itself to uneconomical results through division of responsibility, the city doing part of the work by day labor and contracting for the remainder. It involves insufficient and unsystematic collection periods. It is hampered by inefficient city labor. All of these things, combined with the difficulties inherent in the collection of improperly separated refuse, as well as the abnormally long hauls required by the existing methods of disposal, make the collection service, as a general proposition, costly, unsanitary and otherwise unsatisfactory.

In all contract districts, namely, in Sanitary Districts Nos. 2, 4, 5, 6 and 11, collection contractors are paid monthly regardless of the amounts of refuse they actually collect. This naturally encourages neglected collections, with their attendant inconvenience and discomfort to householders, and also encourages extra payments to unscrupulous contractors by those who desire better service. This would react on those who do not, or cannot afford to pay such largess to collection contractors.

Abandonment by the city of all refuse collection activities, aside from administrative and inspection duties, is very clearly indicated by the evidence at hand.

AMOUNTS OF REFUSE.

The refuse of the entire city amounts to 482,147 tons, of which 78,609 tons are garbage, 317,278 tons are ashes and 32,260 tons are rubbish.

Pertinent data on the amount of refuse collected by contract and by city forces, respectively, are found in Table No. 2, page 27 of the Appendix. Approximately 40 per cent of the population of Boston is served by contract collectors.

In Tables Nos. 53, 54, pages 136, 137 of the Appendix, are brought together in summarized form the annual departmental records on refuse production in each sanitary district, and by the city as a whole. In Tables No. 32-42, pages 101-112, inclusive, are summarized the amounts of refuse of different kinds collected in each district by months for one complete calendar year; and on pages 114-123, inclusive, diagrams presented from these figures are presented.

In order to arrive at a clearer realization of the actual amounts of garbage, ashes and rubbish, respectively, the department records for each district were interpreted in the light of mechanical analyses made of the refuse in each district, the character of the population, etc. The results of these interpretations are given in Table No. 55, page 139, and the considerations controlling the interpretations of the rate and character of refuse production are given in detail on page 140-142, inclusive, of the Appendix.

COMPOSITION OF REFUSE.

An investigation was made of the manner in which the householders in each sanitary district obey city ordinances respecting refuse separation. The information thus secured also served as a guide in interpreting the composition of the refuse. Each district was covered in the study, and a total of forty-seven loads, totaling 122,874 pounds net weight, of refuse were analyzed mechanically with results detailed in Tables Nos. 8-23, inclusive, on pages 43-58 of the Appendix.

A total of thirty-two loads, totaling 64,804 pounds net weight, and representing the alleged ashes of the entire city during the fall season, gave results presented in Table No. 5, page 39 of the Appendix. These showed on an average a garbage content ranging from 1.1 per cent for West Roxbury to 42.4 per cent for the North and West Ends, and an average for the entire city of 14.7 per cent.

Particular attention is called to the results presented in Table No. 5, and the summarized results in Table No. 6, for they show in a representative way how very indifferently are the city ordinances observed as regards separation of refuse during the fall season of the year. It is true that these results are representative of the heaviest fruit and vegetable season, and also that the results of mechanical analyses made in November showed up markedly better. (See Table No. 7, page 41 of the Appendix.) Nevertheless, even the latter results do not show satisfactory separation, the ash collections during November containing garbage equivalent to about 20 per cent of the normal garbage content of the combined refuse of Boston.

Ashes and rubbish containing such a high percentage of garbage ought not to be deposited in inland dumps. In the summer months, when the percentage of garbage is far greater, to so dispose of refuse highly impregnated with garbage is inevitably to invite trouble from fly and rat-breeding, odor-producing dumps. Fermentation of the garbage-charged refuse deposited in these dumps invites trouble from fires started through spontaneous combustion.

It is not the intention to convey the idea that the people of Boston stand pre-eminent in the matter of poor observance of refuse separation rules. They are not more culpable in this regard than the people of many other cities. The fault lies chiefly in the fallacy of refuse separation as a designed means to an impracticable end, which imposes a distinct hardship on the population, makes for insanitation and involves a heavy unnecessary expense for collection. Under the existing contract of the city with the Coleman Disposal Company such refuse separation is mandatory, but the city is paying dearly for it and obtaining but unsatisfactory results in both refuse collection and disposal.

The reasons why the people of Boston, in some districts more than in others, do not observe the city ordinances relative to the separation of their refuse, are numerous and understandable. In the first place, even the most intelligent and law-abiding class of people, and in particular their servants, will not consistently obey such rules unless it is convenient for them to do so. Stricter police enforcement of the rules of separation would doubtless improve the character of the material now going to the inland dumps, but activities of this sort would breed antagonism on the part of the people, and would probably cost an incommensurate amount of money. The constables of the Sanitary Division, operating in North Boston, Back Bay and South End, North and West End, seem to accomplish little in this direction, judging from the results of mechanical analyses shown in the Appendix on pages 43, et seq.

An investigation into the sanitary aspects of the present system of refuse separation and collection is detailed in the Appendix, pages 78-81, inclusive. The conditions therein described are deplorable, but so long as the Coleman contract is operative, and the city countenances the practice of recovery of grease and tankage from its garbage, there must be imposed upon the citizens of Boston the task of initial separation of their refuse. It may be reiterated that citizens will not observe adequately and consistently the rules necessary for satisfactory separation of their refuse. Competent inspection can do much to keep the refuse from being thrown into streets, yards and alleys, but practically can do little toward dictating the character of materials which shall go into garbage cans and into ash and rubbish receptacles. There is bound to be in some measure a mixture of these materials in the same receptacle.

The separation of city refuse is an archaic custom, promising much and yielding little. Its practice breeds insanitation, inconvenience, discomfort and disease. The inherent practicalities preventing ideal separation of the refuse of Boston constitute one of the crosses which the people of Boston must bear so long as the existing contract with the Coleman Disposal Company, or any other company practicing the garbage reduction method, continues.

DISPOSAL OF REFUSE.

On page 69 of the Appendix there is presented a map showing the location of ash dumps in the City of Boston. These dumps are indicated by the numbers 1 to 31, inclusive. The receiving stations to which refuse is delivered to the contractor are indicated at three points by the letter "R."

A painstaking inspection was made of the main dumping grounds for the refuse of Boston, and the details of these studies arc to be found in the Appendix on pages 70 to 77, inclusive. These findings, supported by the data on mechanical analyses of refuse presented in Tables Nos. 8-23, pages 43-58, inclusive, indicate with positiveness how poorly are separation procedures carried out, and how objectionable is the present practice of refuse disposal in inland dumps. Rat, fly and mosquito breeding abound at these points, and fires are always a possibility. Even with suitable trimming and covering, which is by no means a common practice, many of these dumps constitute a definite nuisance to the neighborhood. To so dispose of city refuse without producing nuisance and discomfort, in some cases even amounting to a distinct menace to the public health, requires initially strict observance by the citizens themselves of the rules of refuse separation. As has been repeatedly stated before, these rules have never been uniformly followed, nor will they ever be, in Boston, or anywhere else.

Garbage Reduction on Spectacle Island.

A description of this plant and its surroundings is to be found in the Appendix, pages 83-93, inclusive, and it is unnecessary to discuss the matter further at this point except to say that our inspections, and those made by other city bodies, have disclosed facts which prove that to operate this plant in its present condition so as to obtain a result profitable to the contractor, without creating nuisance, is an impossibility.

The Arnold process of garbage reduction is at best one no longer popular with the more advanced thought in garbage reduction, and in the plant of this type on Spectacle Island the equipment is so badly worn out that the results must fall far short of returning the greatest possible profit to the contractor. Marked local nuisances are produced all of the time, and offensive odors are carried several miles while the entire plant is operated, as it has not been operated for months past except for very brief intervals.

The Coleman Disposal Company has made various repairs and replacements to the plant equipment, and done much cleaning up since July 1 of last year, but the conditions in and around the plant still leave very much to be desired. The equipment is badly run down, the digestors, receiving tanks and presses are in a leaky and filthy condition. Odorous gases from the percolators and dryers are not properly disposed of in the water scrubbers; and, insufficient precaution being taken to destroy the odors before they enter it, the fumes from the main stack are carried long distances away from the island.

Only the expenditure of a large sum of money by the Coleman Disposal Company, and a substitution of more modern equipment, would result in any possibility of this plant being operated in its entirety, and as the contractor intended to operate it, without continuously violating the terms of the existing contract and creating a nuisance in various parts of the City of Boston.

Summary of Existing Refuse Disposal Practices.

Objectionable conditions obtain in and about some of the dumps, particularly the larger of them. Fly and rat breeding freely obtain where the refuse contains appreciable amounts of garbage. Property values depreciate in the vicinity of such dumps, and the fire hazard is always present.

Receiving stations, where refuse of all kinds is transferred to the contractor, are always unavoidably odor-producing and unsightly, exercising a marked depreciating effect on property values in their vicinity.

There never was a garbage reduction plant operated anywhere that did not prove more or less of a nuisance. The operations carried on in such plants are offensive, and nuisance production is a natural heritage of this process of garbage treatment. Some plants are worse performers than others. At Columbus, Ohio, for example, odors are carried to distances as great as five miles, whereas in the more modern systems, like that at Rochester, N. Y., other than local nuisance is fairly well avoided.

The plant at Spectacle Island, without modern equipment, produces both local and widespread nuisance. Worn out and inefficient, burdened with a legacy of vilely unsanitary conditions which have been growing worse for years in and about the plant, make it impossible for the Coleman Disposal Company to operate competently and with a complete plant, without creating not only a local nuisance, but one which is apparent for miles from the plant. More offensive than any others are the odors produced by the secondary dryers, which have not been operated for months, and without which the valuable tankage, representing one of the chief sources of revenue from garbage reduction plants, cannot be rendered in marketable condition.

When this plant was operated in its entirety the offensive odors produced were the subject of common and justifiable complaint on the part of the people of Boston and nearby communities, notably in Dorchester, South Boston, North and West End, East Boston and Winthrop. Thousands of cubic yards of tankage, stored at the plant on Spectacle Island, awaiting final treatment in the secondary dryers, offer mute but unmistakable evidence of the full knowledge possessed by the contractor that to operate these dryers and so obtain profit from this tankage would be but inevitably to invite direct attention to the fact that he is violating the most important clause in his contract, which stipulates that his operations on Spectacle Island shall be accompanied by no nuisance to the people of Boston.

It is unbelievable that the contractor will continue to operate as he has in the past. It is inevitable that in the future he will attempt to prepare this stored tankage for the market; and when he resumes these operations a coincident resumption of the odor nuisance will immediately be noted in Boston and vicinity.

COST OF REFUSE COLLECTION.

On page 98 of the Appendix will be found a summarized statement of the present cost of refuse collection. At present this amounts to $1,325,804.84 per annum.

In connection with the cost of collection particular attention is directed to the discussion of the comparative cost under contract arrangement and where the work is done by city forces, to be found in Appendix, pages 161-164, inclusive.

Collection Efficiency.

An inspection was made of the garbage and ash routes in each sanitary district and data collected to show the mileage covered, the number of men, carts and horses employed, the tons of material collected, and the cost of collection per ton mile and per cart mile. All of these results are brought together in Tables Nos. 43-52 on pages 125-134, inclusive, of the Appendix. Briefly, these figures show higher ash collection costs in districts where these materials are gathered by city operated vehicles than in districts where such collections are performed by contract. This is attributed to the fact that a higher scale of wages is paid to city employees, who work less hours per day and are less efficient than the contractor's men, and to the small type of collection vehicle used by city forces.

COST OF REFUSE COLLECTION AND DISPOSAL.

In Tables Nos. 56-67, on pages 144-155, inclusive, of the Appendix, the city budget for refuse collection and disposal is analyzed in detail, by sanitary districts and for the whole city. In Table No. 76, on page 197 of the Appendix, these figures are brought together in summarized form, with the budget for 1921 added. These show in brief the total expense to the city for refuse collection operations, including administration, repairs to city owned equipment, and payments under collection contracts.

These figures, coupled with those given in Tables Nos. 56-67, inclusive, show the present annual cost of collection and disposal to be $1,748,999. They are taken from departmental records and need no further explanation.

COLLECTION AND INCINERATION OF COMBINED REFUSE COMPARED WITH PRESENT METHODS.

The evidence at hand is unmistakable as showing what a very undesirable document was executed on December 31, 1921. Even if the existing contract for refuse disposal were economical, and as operating were producing results satisfactory to the citizens of the City of Boston and agreeable to neighboring communities, which unfortunately is untrue in both instances, this statement would still hold good.

Proof is everywhere evident of how the terms of this contract force uneconomical collection methods, in themselves so necessarily costly because of the expensive dual collection system involved and the long hauls imposed; and that continuing to tolerate the reduction method for garbage disposal, and the custom of depositing garbage-infested ashes and rubbish at the more convenient points available within the city now saddles the city with an unnecessary burden of expense and insults the intelligence of its citizens in mandatorily continuing such primitive and unsanitary methods of refuse disposal.

The offensive odors periodically emanating from the Spectacle Island garbage reduction plant, and which the contractor cannot prevent without the abandonment of most of the existing equipment at this plant and its replacement with that of more modern origin, are and will continue to be a leading cause of litigation, depreciated real estate values in certain residential sections of Boston, an offence to the olfactory sense of the citizens and a definite prostitution of their civic pride.

Adoption of the reduction method aims at the recovery from the garbage of valuable by-products, such as grease, glue and fertilizer base. The people of Boston, through the stench they have endured for years, are thoroughly familiar with the obnoxiousness of the processes whereby these by-products are recovered from garbage.

The method having been adopted, however, it is imperative that as collected the garbage shall be separated from the remainder of the city refuse. This imposes a duty on each household, and a responsibility upon the city forces to enforce observance by the citizens of the rules governing such refuse separation.

Perfect separation of city refuse is an unknown quantity, even in localities where the people are of the higher classes of intelligence; and in those localities where the scale of living is below the average, the refuse as delivered to collectors is neither garbage, nor ashes, nor rubbish, but an indiscriminate mixture of all three. Without subsequent separation such a conglomerate cannot be handled at the garbage reduction plant, and to effect such separation himself would prove an expensive undertaking for the contractor operating the reduction plant.

The garbage reduction plant, when operating to the best advantage of which it is inherently capable, cares for only a relatively small part of the total refuse of the city, some 15 to 18 per cent of it, in fact, and then only when separation activities are well-nigh ideally performed. The balance, or some 400,000 tons per year of ashes, rubbish and miscellaneous garbage, in the case of Boston, remains to be disposed of. The dumps in which these materials, often heavily mixed with garbage due to poor separation, are now being deposited, are rapidly nearing their capacity in many cases. In from one to three years some of the largest dumps now in use will have to be abandoned, necessitating much longer hauls to new points of deposit, and consequent increased cost of collection and transport.

We have shown that this year the total cost to the city for all of its activities in the refuse matter, aside from actual disposal, will be $1,325,000. It is believed that next year this figure will surely mount to $1,400,000.

Considering the estimate to be detailed later, it appears that were destructor plants to be located at favorable points in the city, and all of the refuse combined, gathered at one collection, and delivered at these destructor stations, the present annual total cost of such collection and delivery would amount to about $864,000. Thus a four-fold result would be achieved, namely, convenience to the householder, no longer bothered with separation of his refuse; elimination of unsanitary, unsightly and vermin-breeding dumps; escape from the nauseous odors from Spectacle Island; and a money saving on refuse collections alone of $536,000 per annum.

So long as the garbage is disposed of by the reduction method these salutary results cannot in any material measure be realized. The expensive long hauls to the dumps will continue, and grow more expensive with time. No probable money saving of material moment is apparently possible, even by extensive reorganization of the present collection system.

COMBINED REFUSE COLLECTION AND DISPOSAL BY INCINERATION.

There is, therefore, but one alternative to be considered at this juncture. It involves the adoption of a program of combined collection at one call of all of the refuse of the city, its frequent and swift transport to the most convenient of the destructor stations, and its disposal by complete and inoffensive incineration at these stations.

Necessarily the adoption of such a program would require modification or cancellation of existing contract with the Coleman Disposal Company. This should not prove an unreasonably difficult matter to arbitrate to the satisfaction of all parties concerned, in view of its desirability in the interests of the city, involving better collection service, inoffensive disposal of all refuse, garbage as well as ashes and rubbish, and a substantial annual saving over present costs for unsatisfactory service; and so far as the Coleman Company is concerned, they should give due weight to the impossibility of operating the Spectacle Island plant without violation of the terms of their contract with the city respecting nuisance production, and to the inevitable, protracted and costly litigation which the city is duty bound to institute should the contractor be inclined to reject such fair overtures as the city will be amply able to offer in order to escape, at the earliest practicable date, the iniquitous requirements and inevitably unsatisfactory results involved in the continued life of the document executed on December 31, 1921.

Making still clear the proposition involved in the foregoing, the program proposed is as follows:

1. An agreement to be reached whereby the existing contract with the Coleman Disposal Company will be terminated at the convenience of the city, and depending essentially upon the dates on which the new destructor plants can be built and placed in service.

2. The construction of eight destructor plants at stipulated points through the city.

3. The withdrawal of the city from all collection activities other than supervision and inspection, and placing all refuse collection under contract at prices offering a reasonable return profit to all contractors.

4. All refuse to be collected at one call, transported to the nearest destructor station, and there completely destroyed by fire.

5. Auxiliary to the destructor stations (or some of them) will be power development equipment for the generation of high pressure steam and its conversion into marketable electric current.

6. The destructor stations, including the power plant auxiliaries, to be city owned, but to be operated by private interests under franchise with the city.

Under the above arrangement all of the city property now involved in refuse collection and disposal would be amenable to sale or transfer to other city departments. This property has a present value of about $1,000,000 as is set forth on pages 172-173 of the Appendix.

LOCATION OF DESTRUCTOR STATIONS.

On page 176 of the Appendix is a map showing the approximate locations of the eight refuse destructor stations. Possible objection on the part of adjacent property owners to the location of incinerators at the points selected must be anticipated by adequate proof that the operation of these plants will not produce smoke or dust; that there will be no odors about them or emanating from them; and that the architecture of the structures and the arrangement of the surrounding ground will be in keeping with the locality.

The consummation of all these things is not difficult, and proof of this is found in pages 180-183 of the Appendix.

The approximate location of the various destructor stations is detailed on pages 177, 178 of the Appendix. These plant sites were selected with due consideration for length of haul, grades, traffic conditions and general appropriateness. In this connection attention is called to the maps on pages 18 and 175 of the Appendix, respectively, showing distribution of population and topography of the City of Boston.

Type of Destructor.

We have investigated all types of refuse destructors employed in North America and abroad, and have come to the conclusion that at no place is the result which we consider necessary in the present problem better obtained than in certain South American cities, notably Montevideo, Uruguay.

We propose the adoption for Boston of the methods employed with entire success in this South American city, modified to apply best to the somewhat, but not vastly different conditions existing in Boston. On pages 179-188, inclusive, of the Appendix will be found adequate data, it is thought to prove the superiority of this type of refuse destructor, and the entire inoffensiveness attending its operation. Details of construction and operation of the Montevideo destructor are to be found within the pages just indicated.

Auxiliary Power Development Plants.

In the program considered herein for the sanitary and inoffensive disposal of the combined refuse of Boston, provision will be made to recover valuable by-products. This refers essentially only to the final clinker, which is useful as road material, fill, and low grade concrete, and to the designed production of high pressure steam and its conversion into marketable electric current. In the cost tables shown in the Appendix, pages 204, 209, not only are the costs of the completely equipped refuse destructor stations given, but also the additional cost of auxiliary power development plants. Details of this latter feature will be found in the Appendix on pages 207-211, inclusive.

ESTIMATES OF COST.

Questions of cost of refuse collection and disposal by present and proposed methods are discussed in considerable detail in the Appendix, pages 189-214, inclusive, and only the main points will be repeated here.

Suffice it to say that by the adoption of the new program the following economies will be potentially effective:

1. A saving to the city in cost of refuse collection, due to the universal adoption of the contract system, to shorter hauls and single instead of multiple collection, of $461,414 per annum under present conditions.

2. The total cost of building and completely equipping eight destructor stations, having a total daily rated capacity of 1,950 tons, or 711,750 tons annually, which is 48 per cent in excess of the total present recorded annual production of combined refuse, is estimated at $2,255,000; the cost of operation and maintenance, including fixed charges on the capital investment at 10 per cent to cover interest, sinking fund and depreciation, is taken at $640,930 per annum.

3. The total cost of building and equipping auxiliary power development plants at six of the destructor stations is estimated at $1,023,695; and the annual cost of operation and maintenance of these six stations, including a fixed charge of 10 per cent on the capital investment, is estimated at $222,869.

4. The combined annual cost of operation and maintenance of the eight destructor stations and the six auxiliary power stations, including fixed charges to cover interest on the capital investment, sinking fund, repairs and replacements is therefore $863,799. The revenue derivable from electric current is figured at $477,350 per annum, and for clinker from eight destructor stations at $50,346 annually, making a total estimated net revenue of $527,696. This results, after deducting the net revenue from the above total cost of operation and maintenance, in a net total cost to the city for the incineration of 482,147 tons of combined refuse annually, of $366,103 per annum.

5. Adding to the figure just given the total cost of collection and transportation to destructor stations, previously estimated at $864,390 gives a total annual net cost to the City of Boston of $1,200,493 for collection and disposal of its refuse.

6. The present total cost to the city for refuse collection and disposal is $1,748,999, consequently the potential saving by the adoption of the new program, involving collection and incineration of the combined refuse, is estimated at $548,506 per annum.

CONCLUSIONS AND RECOMMENDATIONS.

The evidence at hand admits of no other conclusion than that the existing procedures involving refuse collection and disposal in Boston are unsanitary, inefficient, unduly costly, and as a whole unsatisfactory to the people.

The existing contract with the Coleman Disposal Company should never have been entered into, nor should any contract have been executed whose terms would allow a continuation of past and still existing practices. A referendum to the people of such a proposition would have resulted in its overwhelming defeat, and very justifiably, too.

Suitable sanitary refuse disposal service will never obtain in Boston until there is a definite rejection of the reduction method of garbage disposal. When this is done, and only then, the collection service can be reorganized on a businesslike basis, and the service to which any intelligent community is entitled can thereafter be rendered to the people of Boston.

There is but one wholly satisfactory method of refuse disposal, and that is its complete destruction by fire. Reduction of the garbage, constituting less than one fifth of the total refuse, and the deposition on inland dumps of the remaining four fifths of the refuse, composed of ashes, rubbish, and a liberal contribution of miscellaneous garbage which never will be separated out, involve practices which should never be permitted in any community. Not only is there no economy in such procedures, but distinct insanitation and discomfort are actually invited and as surely entertained. To this the people of Boston can bear ample witness.

I therefore recommend:

1. That all work of refuse collection, without exception, be performed by contract, the city withdrawing from all such activities except in so far as it may properly supervise and inspect such operations of contractors.

2. That the city take immediate steps looking to an agreement with the Coleman Disposal Company whereby, at the earliest possible date, in view of gradually reduced quantities of refuse to be cared for by them, payments to them by the city will gradually decrease in amount, and the disposal of the refuse thus withdrawn from them will thereafter be cared for by the city.

3. As soon as such an agreement can be arrived at, the city to commence the construction of destructor stations, with power plant auxiliaries, as set forth in this report, and ultimately, and as soon as these stations can be built, to dispose of all refuse, in a combined state, at these stations.

No blame can be attached to the Coleman Disposal Company for their part in the existing contract. It was a matter of business with them. Having made an unfortunate bargain it is now the task of the city to adjust the terms of the contract to the best possible advantage to itself, and at the same time allow full equity to the Coleman Disposal Company.

The Coleman Disposal Company cannot fulfill the terms of their contract with the city without violating some of the most important of them. Indeed, they have violated them already. They should be willing to arbitrate the matter, and it is confidently believed that they will welcome any reasonable overtures the city may make, for the enforced strict observance of every phase of their contract would disclose the fact that in reality it is a far less desirable document than it doubtless now seems to them to be.

GEORGE A. JOHNSON.

APPENDIX I.—SHORT HISTORY OF THE REFUSE PROBLEM OF BOSTON.

For the past fifteen years the refuse problem of Boston has been intermittently under investigation. In 1908 Mayor Hibbard appointed a special commission to investigate questions affecting the collection and disposal of refuse. This commission, consisting of F. R. Bangs, Arthur M. Huddell, Frank L. Young and William Jackson, visited destructors located at Westmount, near Montreal, Quebec and at Staten Island, New York.

At this period (1908) the city collected 71 per cent of the garbage, 29 per cent of the ashes and all of the waste paper. The disposal of garbage to the amount of 54,119 tons annually was delegated by contract to the New England Sanitary Products Company on Spectacle Island. This company received from the city $52,400 a year. Ashes were dumped at sea and also at inland dumps. There were in force nine separate contracts for the collection of refuse of all characters.

The 1908 commission strongly recommended a one-collection contract system, and city built and owned, but privately operated, incinerators. Destructor stations were to be built initially at Cow Pasture, Dorchester, or Brighton (Everett street and Western avenue), other plants to be built later as money became available.

Nothing was accomplished, however, because of a new city charter becoming operative, and which precluded the city from making any contract until after election of the new city government. The persons ready to make contracts would not wait until February, so negotiations automatically came to an end.

REPORT OF SECOND COMMISSION.

The second commission consisted of F. R. Bangs, X. H. Goodnough, Arthur M. Huddell, W. T. Sedgwick, Frank L. Young, Guy C. Emerson, and was appointed January 31, 1910.

This commission reported that the present methods of disposal were unsatisfactory and objectionable. Several plans were presented. One involved the construction of an incinerator on Spectacle Island, and the use of the power generated in this plant for the operation of the garbage reduction plant. This, however, still involved a separate collection and the plan was finally withdrawn.

The commission reported on the cost of incinerators, one for the Roxbury district to have a capacity of 300 tons daily and to cost $250,000 to $300,000. The incinerators were to be the English type, with forced draft to produce an average temperature in combustion chambers of 1,500 degrees Fahrenheit. The commission also recommended that the entire work of refuse collection be let to one contractor.

From 1911 until 1921 no advance was made in improved methods of refuse collection and disposal for Boston. Last year, however, Mayor Peters appointed a committee to advise him relative to what had best be done, in anticipation of the termination of existing contracts on July 1, 1922. This committee consisted of Dr. W. C. Woodward, Health Commissioner of Boston, chairman; Thomas F. Sullivan, Commissioner of Public Works; Guy C. Emerson, consulting engineer, Finance Commission; Joseph P. Lyons, Assistant Corporation Counsel; Francis R. Bangs; Richard W. Garrity; and Prof. C. E. Turner of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

This committee recommended that the then existing methods should continue, with some modifications, and, bids being regularly received, the present contract with the Coleman Disposal Company was executed, the termination date thereof being July 1, 1932. Under it the refuse of the city must be separately collected, the garbage disposed of by the reduction method on Spectacle Island, salvaging and incineration of rubbish, and the dumping of ashes and rubbish upon inland dumps, all practically as has been the custom for many years past.

In 1921, before the ten-year contract with the Coleman Disposal Company was executed, the Boston Chamber of Commerce, through its Committee on Municipal and Metropolitan Affairs, made a very thorough study of the refuse problem of Boston, and under date of December 5, 1921, the committee reported to the Executive Committee and Board of Directors of the Chamber "On the New Ten-Year Disposal Contract for the Municipal Wastes of Boston." This document, together with a communication dated December 19, 1921, addressed to the City Council, furnish valuable information of which the following is a brief abstract of their conclusions and recommendations:

"CONCLUSIONS.

"If the city should proceed as is now contemplated, it would be an evasion of the problem and not a solution.

"There is need for more detailed study of the entire situation by the most competent authorities on this subject available. Until such study can be made, the matter should be held in abeyance. The time to correct the intolerable conditions which have existed for over twenty years is now, not after the city has committed itself to a long-term contract which gives little promise of correcting the faults of the past.

"The unfavorable financial features of the proposed (Coleman) contract are additional cause for more complete study. Some arrangement must be devised to protect the city against the possibilities of excessive cost when the condition of the industry improves, as there is every reason to expect that it will.

"The city has inherited a growing precedent of evasion of law, neglect and insufficient appropriations. This burden, added to a naturally difficult problem, has made the best effort of the present administration to cope with the problem, ineffective.

"To solve the problem completely will require improvements in methods of separation and collection as well as in methods of disposal. These three steps in the treatment of waste must be considered in their relation to each other. Efficient and sanitary disposal of house offal and refuse depends upon correct methods of separation and collection. In fact, if the city were able to secure and maintain better separation and more frequent collection, the cost of disposal would be less.

"If a disposal contractor were able to depend upon receiving fresh garbage free from foreign material, the city would not be compelled to pay such a high price for disposal.

"The city has sufficient time before July 1, 1922, to retrace its steps, retain the services of competent persons to make a comprehensive survey, and adopt the methods suggested by them. Your committee is convinced that this is the only way to handle the problem.

"Regardless of how long the delay will be, the city should not hesitate to postpone final action until it has assured itself that it has done everything possible to solve the problem. A continuation of past and present nuisances should be avoided at all costs.

"The necessity for more careful study seems to be realized by Mayor Peters. In a statement which appeared in the Boston Post on December 1, 1921, he said: 'Then there's the ash-and-garbage problem. It has grown from month to month. Today there is need for a survey by the greatest engineers available. Boston will have to work out something entirely new and different before the problem is solved.'

Recommendations.

"Your committee suggests that the Chamber make the following recommendations to the Mayor and City Council regarding the disposal of municipal waste:

"I. The proposed contract with Coleman Brothers, now pending before City Council, be rejected.

"II. The city secure the services of recognized sanitary engineers of national reputation experienced in the treatment of city waste, a careful study be made by these engineers of present methods of separation, collection and disposal, and recommendations be submitted showing how the most approved methods now known and practiced may be applied, with a view to making such changes as will secure for the city the best methods for efficient and sanitary treatment of its waste, and will bring separation, collection and disposal into closer relations with each other.

"III. Pending the report of the engineers, no contract be entered into.

"IV. Particular attention be paid to a study of the following:

"1. Means for strict enforcement of present sanitary ordinances, or such changes in the ordinances as are required to make them consistent with approved methods of disposal.

"2. Means for securing more frequent and more efficient collection service, with special reference to the advisability of abandoning contract collection and adopting uniform collection by city forces.

"3. Whether the interest of the city would be better served by the ownership of an up-to-date reduction plant by the city, and contract operation.

"4. Whether refuse disposal should be divorced from garbage disposal and handled by separate contract or by city operation.

"5. Whether it is advisable for the city to obligate itself definitely in a disposal contract to collect garbage and refuse as provided in the city ordinances.

"6. If it is recommended that the city proceed under the present plan of private ownership and operation, whether the following provisions should be made:

"(a.) Arbitration of prices in any long-term contract, after the first half of the term has been completed.

"(b.) Absolute prohibition against dumping of garbage mixed with refuse; and specific provisions in the contract for incineration or the so-called 'land-fill' method of disposal of all material which is delivered to the disposal contractor unseparated.

"(c.) Better protection for the city in eliminating odors and in securing sanitary operation at the reduction plant, by means of such provisions in the contract as more detailed specifications or the requirements that recognized methods shall be used, or that methods shall be changed if found unsatisfactory.

Notwithstanding the sound arguments submitted by the previous commissions and committees, terminating in the exhaustive studies made by the Chamber of Commerce and reported upon in December, 1921, and in the face of strenuous objections and threatened court proceedings on the part of the present Mayor, James M. Curley, the ten-year contract with the Coleman Disposal Company was executed on December 30, 1921, and approved by Mayor Andrew J. Peters on December 31, 1921.

THE COLEMAN CONTRACT.

The so-called Coleman contract, terminating on July 1, 1932, and which went into force on July 1, 1922, obligates the city in the following particulars:

1. To pay to the Coleman Disposal Company a total of $3,795,000, of which sum $345,000 is payable in monthly installments during the six months ending in December, 1922; $345,000 in monthly installments during each year, 1923, to 1931, inclusive; and $345,000 payable in monthly installments during the six months ending with June, 1932.

2. To deliver to the contractor at one or more of the receiving stations the garbage collected by the city in Sanitary Districts Nos. 1, 3, 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10, and the ashes and rubbish collected by the city in Sanitary Districts No. 1, 5, 7, 8, 9 and 10, to the contractor at the Fort Hill Wharf station, at the Albany street station or at dumps provided by the contractor. However, the city is not bound by the terms of the contract to collect or deliver to the contractor more garbage, ashes or rubbish than it chooses to collect and deliver to him.

3. Thus, by becoming a party to the reduction method of garbage disposal, and countenancing the deposition of ashes and rubbish in inland dumps, the city is committed to separation of its refuse, and to a dual collection system, at least. And no matter how much or how little garbage and other refuse the contractor receives through the efforts of the city, the city nevertheless has obligated itself to pay during the next ten years for disposal of its refuse $3,795,000.

(* Messrs. O'Hare and McDonald were not present at the meeting when this report was adopted and accordingly did not pass upon it.)

The contractor, under the terms of the existing contract is required:

1. To dispose of the garbage, ashes and rubbish in a sanitary and inoffensive manner. The contractor is under bond in the amount of $100,000 to insure this result; and failing for five continuous days to perform according to the requirements of the contract the city may cancel the contract; and at any time of such failure, after twenty-four hours' notice thereof, the city may take over and operate the plant of the contractor, deducting the cost of such operations from payments due the contractor.

In its report of December 5, 1921, the Chamber of Commerce Committee pointed out certain salient features relating to the then pending and now existing contract with the Coleman Disposal Company, with which we are in general accord, and which will be repeated here.

"The contract is not for garbage disposal alone. Although the disposal of garbage forms the most important part of the work because of the cost of reduction and the nuisance attached to it, a much larger amount of refuse than of garbage is turned over to the contractor.

"The contract is for disposal, and has nothing to do with collection. The contractor's responsibility commences when the material is either dumped into his scows at wharf stations or is delivered to him at his dumps or his sawage plant.

"The contract is not for the disposal of the entire amount either of garbage or of refuse collected in the city. It involves about 83 per cent of the garbage and 60 per cent of the refuse.

"From the viewpoint of economy to the city, sanitation and freedom from nuisance, the present method of disposal depends for its success upon certain methods of separation and collection which never eventuate.

"In requiring three separations — ashes, rubbish and garbage — the ordinances presumably contemplated an ideal disposal which has never been obtained. Clean ashes would be used for filling or would be dumped at sea. Rubbish would be salvaged and the residue incinerated. Garbage, free from foreign material and in as fresh a condition as possible, would be reduced to salable products.

"The general practice as to separation and collection deviates far from this ideal and is a direct violation of the ordinances. The presence of food containers in garbage complicates the work of reduction and adds to the cost. The aging of garbage, caused by delays in transit from household to reduction plant cause objectionable odors. The combination of ashes and rubbish makes it impossible to salvage valuable material and this combination does not make an entirely satisfactory fill.

"The incomplete separation, the undue ageing of garbage and the failure of the city to enforce provisions for the elimination of odors from the reduction process, are responsible for the nuisances which for twenty years have accompanied the disposal of Boston's waste.

"The worst condition is the failure of the city to enforce any separation in a large part of the city, and the dumping of this mixture of garbage, ashes and rubbish on marsh lands. In most of the North and West Ends, and in certain sections of the South End where living conditions are congested, all waste is thrown into one receptacle and a city team collects it and delivers it to the disposal contractor in scrambled state.

"Most of this mixed material goes in scows to the East Boston dump. Thousands of tons are dumped there each year. The dump has been a nuisance for many years to people living in the districts surrounding the dump. The odors emanating from the decaying and putrefying garbage are obnoxious in the extreme, and flies, rats and other vermin breed in unlimited numbers. This is the most unsatisfactory and unsanitary method of disposal which could possibly be devised for this unseparated waste. The practice constitutes a real menace to the health and welfare of a large number of citizens.

"The contract made in 1912 contained the following provision:

"In no case will the dumping of garbage or refuse containing any mixture of garbage be allowed."

It is understood that the city intended that this provision should require the erection by the contractor of incinerating plants for the disposal of such part of the city's waste as was improperly separated by the householders. As a matter of fact, two small incinerators were erected, one at the East Boston dump and the other at Spectacle Island, but they were never used for any length of time. Accordingly, during most of the past ten years, the contractor has deliberately violated the contract by dumping this unseparated material, and the city has apparently made no attempt to enforce it.

"However, the new contract omits this prohibition against dumping garbage. It is reasonable to assume that the city is willing to permit a continuance of this barbarous method. The proposal of the lowest bidder makes no provision for special treatment of unseparated material. The only reference to dumping is as follows:

"Refuse will be received at the two wharf stations specified (Atlantic avenue and Albany street) and an additional station within a radius of three quarters of a mile from the Albany street station. At two of the stations, material will be received in scows and towed to marsh lands in the East Boston district or at some other approved location on the water front, and used as fill."

"Your sub-committee believes that the sanctioning of this archaic method by the city is deplorable. Such a method is not at all in keeping with the sanitary practices of a modern city. We believe that, before the city enters into a new contract, there should be a definite understanding on this matter, but under no condition should the present method be continued. For many years, the people have been subjected to these nuisances, and have protested vigorously, but in vain. In fact, the nuisances have been increasing, and the new contract virtually sanctions the method. The remedy is three-fold:

"1. Enforcement of separation by the householders according to the ordinances, so that garbage will be kept, and collected, separately. While this method would be effective, it has never been enforced.

"2. Incineration of refuse from the districts where the city cannot obtain proper separation. This remedy would not require separation and would relieve the city of double collection service. If properly operated, incineration would be odorless, and the residue would be clean clinkers, a good fill. The manifest benefits to the community would outweigh any possible additional expense.

"3. Disposal by the so-called 'land-fill' method. This is a development of dumping, but differs from it, because it includes a definite process of mixing the organic with a sufficient quantity of inorganic materials to make them odorless. Generally, a sufficient quantity of earth is mixed with the refuse to insure a thorough digestion of a moderate quantity of garbage and other petrescible materials. The essentials for a successful practice of this method are a sufficient quantity of earth and a proper mixing and trimming. The earth furnishes the aerobic bacteria to oxidize the organic matter, and adds stability to the fill. As a precaution, it is well to have on hand at such dumps a sufficient quantity of liquid germicide for use in killing fly maggots.

"Any of these methods, properly safeguarded, would be satisfactory. Your committee believes that any contract contemplating the present method of disposal should include an absolute prohibition against the dumping of garbage, and, if the second or third methods are to be employed, they should be specified definitely in the contract or in the proposal of the contractor.

"Foul and nauseating garbage odors have been prevalent in Boston for many years, even before the present plant was erected on Spectacle Island.

"We quote below extracts from a bill of complaint filed in 1900 by Dr. Samuel H. Durgin, chairman of the Boston Board of Health, against the garbage disposal contractors who were operating a plant in Dorchester:

"That said plant . . . has become a nuisance by reason of offensive smells or exhalations proceeding from the operations of said plant and said smells or exhalations are not only offensive, but are otherwise hurtful to all persons living in the neighborhood. . . . Said smells and exhalations . . . are offensive and unhealthy and said plant and business are a nuisance."

"We agree thoroughly with the statement of Dr. Durgin recited in the above complaint and believe that the same condition prevails today at the plant on Spectacle Island, to a worse degree.

"Your committee is informed, and believes, that these odors have become so strong and prevalent as to affect property values.

"These odors are noticeable in sections of Boston in which thousands of people work or live. Complaints and protestations have been made from the following sections:

	Distance from Plant.
South Boston.....	1.75 to 3.75 miles.
Dorchester.....	3.5 to 5 miles.
East Boston.....	3.5 to 4 miles.
Point Shirley.....	2.5 miles.
Winthrop.....	3 to 4 miles.
The business section.....	3.75 to 4.25 miles.

"In the spring and summer months, when the prevailing wind movement from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. is easterly, the odors are particularly strong at South Boston and Dorchester. Under certain atmospheric conditions—when the wind velocity is around 10 miles per hour and the temperature or the humidity is high—the odors reach their greatest intensity. However, in the evening hours after 4.30 p. m. when the plant closes down, the prevailing southwest winds carry the odors to Winthrop in considerable volume."

MAYOR CURLEY AT TROY.

A party of Boston's leading citizens, headed by Mayor Curley, Hon. E. Mark Sullivan, the Corporation Counsel, members of the governing board of the Maritime Association of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, together with transportation officials, executive officers of the Boston & Maine Railroad and representatives of banking and other Boston interests, left the North Station at 9.30 a. m. upon the 28th ultimo, to attend a meeting arranged by Mayor James W. Fleming of Troy, and Cornelius F. Burns, chairman of the committee of the Troy Chamber of Commerce, with Governor Smith, and the lieutenant governor, superintendent of public works and other officials of the state of New York.

The meeting is the result of negotiations started to establish a grain elevator and storage warehouse at Troy, as part of the New York Barge Canal terminal at that place, and as a means of improving transportation and commercial relations with New England.

The meeting was held at the Troy Club, and the members of the Boston party presented their views in favor of the greater utilization of the barge canal as a means of serving the ports and industries of New England.

Upon arrival in Troy, the Boston party were received by a special committee and conducted upon an inspection tour of the local terminals and principal industries, including the new Ford plant at Troy.

FIRE LOSSES IN BOSTON.

The report of the Fire Department for the year 1922 shows a total loss of $3,318,932.21 by fire, and despite an increase in the number of alarms of nearly 900 and an increase in the actual number of fires of nearly 800, nevertheless it represents an actual reduction of 17 per cent in money value losses by fire in 1922 as contrasted with 1921. The results achieved reflect most creditably on the character of service the Boston Fire Department is rendering. The increase, however, in the number of alarms would indicate great carelessness in the matter of fire prevention so far as the general public is concerned. A contribution approximating $4 per capita does not seem warranted in view of the fact that the expense and maintenance of the Fire Department represents an amount almost equally as large, and the equivalent of a tax of $8, contributed to fires, on every man, woman and child in the city could unquestionably be prevented provided each individual would exercise a little more care in the matter of prevention. A loss of human life and the suspension of business activities resulting from fires must likewise be considered. It is to be hoped that all organizations, including public schools, assist wherever possible to minimize the extent of waste that is both unwarranted and unpardonable.

DEPARTMENT CHANGES.

The following changes in the number, rating and compensation of city employees have been made during the week ending Thursday, March 1:

BOSTON SANATORIUM.

The following changes have been made in employees:

Michael Lavelle has been appointed as coal passer at a salary of $25 a week.

Eva B. Williams has been appointed as cook at a salary of $40 a month.

Anna Tierney has been appointed as cook at a salary of $40 a month.

Luke Kelley, patient, has been appointed as maid at a salary of $20 a month.

John Fitman, patient, has been appointed as maid at a salary of $20 a month.

Helen Sullivan has been appointed as maid at a salary of $30 a month.

Frank O'Neil, patient, has been appointed as maid at a salary of $20 a month.

Minnie Bayraw has been appointed as maid at a salary of $30 a month.

Blanche Mignault has been appointed as maid at a salary of $30 a month.

MAYOR CURLEY INDORSES NEW PRISON.

House Bill 213, filed by his Honor the Mayor of Boston, for the establishment of a State Prison at Long Island, was considered by the Committee on Public Institutions of the Massachusetts Legislature, upon the 27th ultimo.

His Honor the Mayor in discussing the project stated that the City of Boston had entered into negotiations for the purchase of the Elks Hospital, at Parker Hill, known as the Elks Hospital, and formerly occupied by wounded World War veterans, and that it was his purpose as soon as the trade was consummated and certain minor improvements had been made, to transfer the 450 chronic patients at present undergoing treatment at Long Island to the hospital at Parker Hill where facilities unequalled in America are at hand for the benefit of the unfortunates.

With the completion of the State Hospital at Northampton and the transfer there of the mental defectives, at present quartered at the West Roxbury Hospital, it was his purpose to transfer the aged poor from Long Island to the West Roxbury institution. In the event of these transfers being consummated, and there was an absolute certainty that such would be the case, the City of Boston would have available for sale to the State or any private organization the property at Long Island, with a land area of slightly in excess of seven million square feet, valued at $995,000, and with buildings valued slightly in excess of one million dollars.

It was the contention of his Honor the Mayor that the present plant at Long Island, a large portion of which is of recent construction, could not be duplicated for less than three million dollars; that the City was prepared to turn over the property to the State for a sum not in excess of one million dollars; that with the transfer of the inmates of the Concord Reformatory to Long Island, and the transfer of those persons at present incarcerated in the State Prison at Charlestown to Concord, it should be possible to provide for the long desired removal to more healthful surroundings of the inmates at present quartered in the State Prison at Charlestown.

The construction of a wall around Long Island could be performed by the inmates with a minimum of cost, perhaps not in excess of $250,000, while the institution at Concord Reformatory would require practically no changes to accommodate those at present incarcerated at the State Prison.

The transfer of the Concord Reformatory to Long Island would provide opportunities for the promotion of agricultural pursuits, as the institution in the past has furnished sufficient produce to provide for the needs of all of the city charges.

In view of the fact that more than one third of the cost would be borne by the City of Boston, and that the city's investment in the property at Long Island is nearly two million dollars, it is the sincere wish of his Honor that the Legislature will look with favor upon the project.

The chairman of the committee, on behalf of the members, requested that they be afforded an opportunity to visit the institution, and arrangements have been made for the visit early in the coming week.

* Increased from two-family dwelling to three-family dwelling in accordance with chapter 126, Acts of 1922.

PRESIDENT HARDING APPROVES.

Mayor Curley received the following telegram from President Warren G. Harding upon the 26th ultimo:

THE WHITE HOUSE,
WASHINGTON, D. C.,
February 26, 1923.

MAYOR JAMES M. CURLEY,
Boston, Mass.:

Your message received. Secretary of Navy is directing naval forces at Boston to give every aid possible in clearing the Cape Cod Canal of ice which interferes with navigation. Federal government glad to be of every possible service.

WARREN G. HARDING.

WREN LIBRARY EXHIBITION.

In commemoration of the 250th anniversary of the death of Sir Christopher Wren, the famous British architect, there is being installed in the exhibition room of the Public Library in Copley square a selection of books, prints and photographs from the library's material on British architecture of the later Stuart and the Georgian periods. Wren's London churches are illustrated by an admirable series of collotype plates. There are shown also views of American colonial buildings which exhibit the influence of Wren and the English Renaissance.

INDORSEMENT OF MAYOR.

Mayor Curley has received the indorsement of George B. Buck, eminent New York actuary, in behalf of his amendment to the pension act, affecting employees of the City of Boston and County of Suffolk.

The letter of Mr. Buck is as follows:

NEW YORK CITY,
February 24, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

MY DEAR MR. MAYOR.—Confirming my previous telegram to you, I am writing this letter regarding the introduction of a minimum pension into the Boston Retirement Act. While I have been opposed to the introduction of an arbitrary maximum into the retirement act as tending to complicate the administration of the plan, I do not see how the introduction of the minimum now proposed could seriously affect the structure of the plan. My calculations indicate that among 14,297 employees who might be covered under the system, the number affected by the minimum would be approximately 3,698, of whom 3,160 would be laborers.

The chief objection to the addition of a minimum limitation is that of cost. As you have had calculations made of the cost to be assumed by the city on account of the adoption of this amendment and therefore are advocating it with full knowledge of the responsibility assumed by the city, I believe that the chief objection which might be made to the bill has been answered.

The effect of the minimum will gradually wear off as employees reach the retirement age on the higher salaries which will probably be paid in the future. The minimum will be of especial benefit to certain of those employees who are forced out of city service immediately by reason of the provisions requiring compulsory retirement at age of seventy.

Respectfully yours,
GEORGE B. BUCK, Actuary.

THE COMMUNITY HEALTH CAMPAIGN.

Mayor Curley has forwarded a check toward the $235,000 fund which the Community Health Campaign Committee has announced as necessary to the support the year of its 166 nurses and 12 nutrition workers functioning through 30 branch stations and 33 weekly clinics.

In a letter to Charles E. Mason, chairman of the campaign committee, Mayor Curley said:

"I have noted with interest that the campaign for the Community Health Association begins this day. The services of the association in providing a well-defined and highly merited system of district nursing, in promoting advanced methods of hygiene in the care of infants, and in the establishment of a dietetic bureau and the excellent missions which are incident to these important labors, deserve in my judgment the support of every self-respecting citizen.

The question of public health and the relief and prevention of human suffering is one which vitally affects the welfare of the City of Boston, and I am very pleased at the opportunity to again indorse your important work and to incline my mite in behalf of your service."

REPORT OF INSTITUTIONS DEPARTMENT.

Mayor Curley has received the following report of the activities of the Institutions Department during the month of January, 1923.

PENAL DIVISION.

Population.

The average population at the House of Correction, Deer Island, during the month of January was 350.

Coal Detail.

Those sentenced for short terms and minor offences have been used on the coal for the city's poor. From January 2 to 9 an average of fourteen men a day have been sent to Albany street and the Navy Yard. From January 17 to 31 an average of ten men a day have been sent to the above yards under the charge of officers from the institution.

Repairs.

A detail, under the supervision of Mr. Farrell, one of the officers, have installed radiators and steam pipes in the Ward House. Another detail has been working constantly on the steamer "Michael Perkins" during the month and have made ten eye splicers for hawsers. A large range on the "Michael J. Perkins" has been disconnected and is now being used in the master's house. Two snow plows have been made, and a new ice run completed. A stage was built in the chapel for the minstrel show held February 22. The cell block and master's office in the Women's Prison have been painted, and many rooms in the master's house have been painted and put in repair.

Bakery.

The monthly output from the bakery with a personnel of five men, under the supervision of a baker and officer is as follows:

Matines' bread, 6,160 loaves; officers' bread, 729 loaves; raisin bread, 147 loaves; graham bread, 70 loaves; brown bread, 384 loaves; hermits, 112 dozen; corn bread, 69 pans; rolls, 341 dozen; doughnuts, 343 dozen; pies, 425; coffee cake, 93 pans; cake, 18½ pounds.

Clothing Industry.

Clothing is being made at the island for the needs of the institution as well as doing work for Long Island. The value of the work turned out by this department for the month was $986.94.

Shoe Industry.

Shoes have been made for the Child Welfare Division of this department as well as for Deer and Long Islands. The value of the work turned out during the month amounted to $969.95.

Laundry.

The laundry has turned out 22,562 pieces for Long Island Institution as well as taking care of the laundry for Deer Island, the income received being $360.

Farm.

Our herd of cattle are producing in the neighborhood of 300 quarts of milk daily, which is consumed by this institution and Long Island, 909 quarts being sent to Long Island during the month. The piggery is flourishing and the meat expenses are cut down considerable by the weekly killing of hogs for our own consumption. Two sows and two bores were purchased from a merchant in New Hampshire, which will improve the present stock now at the island.

Drug Addicts.

The segregation of drug addicts in the Women's Prison is still in operation. The doctor at the institution visits them three times a day and extra foods and medicine are given them. The men are being used to clean, paint and repair the building that they are occupying. During the month they have been cleaning the walks and shoveling snow. They have marked and cut the first crop of ice from the reservoir, and the ice house is now approximately two thirds full, which supply will last us for a whole year. The isolation of these addicts has proved to be a great success. They are not only free from drugs for the first time, but there are no more drug addicts being made by their coming in contact with the other prisoners.

Recreation.

Moving picture shows are being held every evening, the inmates supplying the talent. On January 25, through the kindness of Officer John Dugan, an eight piece orchestra from the Roxbury Red Cross visited the island and gave a splendid concert to the inmates during the movies.

School.

The day school for illiterates has made a wonderful progress, also the evening classes under the direction of Mr. Anderson, a teacher from the Continuation School. The average daily attendance is approximately 20.

INFIRMARY DIVISION.

The average population at the Boston Almshouse and Hospital during the month of January was 860. There were four major operations performed by Doctors Gill and Kababjian and four minor operations.

Industrial Department.

The engineers have been doing general work on the heating system and have also repaired the sterilizer in the central wing.

The plumber has been working on the "Michael J. Perkins" for ten days, and has also made repairs to the pipes and drains at Long Island.

Lights have been installed in the main dining room and stairway leading to said room. A cloth cutter was installed in the sewing room, and a motor attached to the sewing machine. General repairs have been made on all the electrical apparatus on the island.

The cement worker has cut out the brick in the laundry walls for reinforcing roof planks.

The private rooms and wards in the east wing have been painted, and the gurneys have been whitewashed.

The carpenters have been reinforcing the laundry roof and have been doing general repairs at the institution.

The following work has been done in the sewing room during the month: 36 shrouds, 48 inmates aprons, 36 men's night shirts, 123 pillow slips, 60 hickory shirts, 300 inmates sheets, 72 baby night dresses, 60 inmates' chemises, 48 night dresses, 24 binders, 48 officer's pillow slips, 24 kerchiefs, 36 hospital shirts, 3,045 pieces mended for the institution.

The following sewing has been done for the Child Welfare Division of this department: 12 night dresses, size 6; 12 night dresses, size 2; 72 night shirts, size 4; 84 night shirts, size 6; 72 night shirts, size 8.

Moving pictures have been held in the chapel every Tuesday.

A sewing class has been organized among the young mothers.

On the day of the dedication of the steamer "Michael J. Perkins" an entertainment was given and a lunch served.

The visiting medical staff held a meeting at the institution on January 29.

CHILD WELFARE DIVISION.

There were sixteen admissions as dependent children and three neglected children were admitted during the month.

There were thirty-two children taken to the various hospitals, Boston Dispensary, Tufts Dental, Boston City Hospital, Eye and Ear Infirmary and Children's Hospital.

During the month 156 packages of clothing were sent to our dependent children by mail and 82 packages by express.

STEAMERS.

The "Michael J. Perkins" was christened January 6, 1923, at the Army Base, Boston, Mass., under the auspices of the Michael J. Perkins Post of the American Legion. Flags were presented to the boat by Mrs. Maria Bateman on that occasion. The "Michael J. Perkins" is 123.1 feet long, 28.3 feet beam, 10.7 feet depth, 357 gross tons, has two 400 horsepower engines, a coal consumption average about two tons and 600 pounds a day and a speed of ten miles an hour. This boat is used in transporting passengers and freight to Long and Deer Islands.

The steamer "George A. Hibbard" has been transporting the prisoners who have been working on the city coal to and from the Navy Yard to Deer Island daily. The cabins have all been cleaned and painted and put in first-class condition.

Yours respectfully,

DAVID J. JOHNSON,
Commissioner.

ECONOMIC CONFERENCE.

Mayor Curley, upon the request of Prof. Carl Kelsey, vice president of the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, Penn., has appointed Rev. Fr. James I. J. Corrigan, S. J., distinguished economic scholar of Boston College; Mr. Clifton B. Carberry, managing editor of the Boston Post, a newspaper with the largest morning circulation of any publication in the United States, and Greenville S. MacFarland, Esq., counsellor at law and prominent as a publicist, delegates to the twenty-seventh annual conference of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, to be held at Philadelphia May 11 and 12, 1923.

The subjects to be discussed regarding America's relation to the European situation are as follows:

- "The Stabilization of European Finance and Currency."
- "The Near East."
- "The Revision of the Treaty of Versailles."
- "The Reparation Problem."
- "The Rehabilitation of France and Germany."
- "How can America Contribute Toward the Peace of Europe?"

THE COAL SITUATION.

Mayor Curley has received the following letter from President Warren G. Harding, relative to the coal situation in New England:

THE WHITE HOUSE,
WASHINGTON, D. C.,
February 28, 1923.

MY DEAR MR. CURLEY.—If there had been any advantage in doing so I should have made a prompt reply by wire to your telegram of February 17. Instead of doing that I began an investigation of the situation with respect to the steps being taken to relieve fuel distress in New England. I find that the Interstate Commerce Commission is bending every energy to effect immediate relief of every distressing situation which is reported. I do not see how the government could effectively do more.

It seems to be lost sight of that the country passed through a coal strike which endured for approximately six months, and naturally and unavoidably there will be hardships in meeting the fuel situation until we have gotten into the full swing of another year's coal production. So many communities accustomed to the use of anthracite have declined to accept relief in the way of bituminous coal, and in the circumstances it has been necessary to deal with the situation as it has developed from day to day in the most practical manner possible. The Federal Fuel Administrator is using every authority at his command to help relieve the situation, and I am persuaded that he has now the co-operation of the Interstate Commerce Commission, which will not hesitate to issue effective priority orders where the circumstances require such treatment. Please believe that everything possible to do within the law is being done to afford the greatest possible relief, not alone to your section of New England but to all others which are concerned over the coal fuel supply.

Very truly yours,

WARREN G. HARDING.

Mayor Curley sent the following answer by telegraph:

HON. WARREN G. HARDING, President of the United States, White House, Washington, D. C.

MY DEAR MR. PRESIDENT.—I beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter relative to the fuel distress in New England, and replying thereto beg to state that it is no new condition. It has obtained every time that the mine owners and fuel operators have been confronted with the prospect either of an excess supply of fuel on hand or with the prospect of a reduction in price. Nevertheless it is a condition which your party could have corrected any time it saw fit in the last half-century with the exception of two occasions. It is a situation that should be corrected as speedily as possible. It is inconceivable that Congress will be permitted to adjourn without at least a message from you as head of the nation recommending the adoption of such legislation as will render impossible a repetition of engineered coal strikes resulting in fuel shortage in those sections of the country like New England, the West and Northwest, where coal is so necessary that when shortage occurs it leaves in its trail an abnormal death rate resulting from respiratory diseases that may be directly traced to lack of protection from the elements.

Respectfully yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

POLICE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

From D-13, Chemicals and Disinfectants, $62.15; D-16, General Plant, $45.16—$107.31; to D-11, Motor Vehicle, $107.31.

From D-16, General Plant, $134.95; to E-9, Machinery, $88.65; E-13, General Plant, $46.30—$134.95.

From G-2, Special Investigations, $28.79; to E-13, General Plant, $25.29; F-7, Pensions and Annuities, $0.14; F-11, Workmen's Compensation, $3.36—$28.79.

The foregoing transfers are requested in order to fill out deficiencies as far as possible, drawing from surplus wherever it appears.

Very respectfully yours,

JOSEPH P. MANNING,
President, Board of Trustees.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 31, 1923.

INSTITUTIONS DEPARTMENT.

Boston, January 31, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—I respectfully ask that the following transfers be made in closing our accounts for the fiscal year ending January 31, 1923:

Boston Almshouse and Hospital.

From the appropriation for A-1, Permanent Employees, 40 Attendants at $600 per year, $24.65; to the appropriation for A-1, Permanent Employees, 1 Electrician at $1,500 per year, $24.65.

From A-1, Permanent Employees, 40 Attendants at $600 per year, $427.89; to A-1, 23 Head Nurses at $960 per year, $427.89.

From B-39, General Plant, $12; to B-12, Premium on Surety Bonds, $12.

From B-39, General Plant, $200; to B-37, Photographic and Blueprinting, $200.

From B-39, General Plant, $1,292.30 to C-16, Wearing Apparel, $1,292.30.

Item A-1.—Transfer of $24.65 to "Electrician" is to correct error in former transfer.

Transfer of $427.89 to "Head Nurses" is made necessary on account of arbitrary cut in our estimate. Considerably more than that amount has been saved on item for attendants on account of vacancies.

Item B-12.—In order to comply with recent changes in the requirements of the government for securing alcohol free of tax, it has been necessary to double our bond. Transfer of $12 is requested for that purpose.

Item B-37.—Transfer of $200 is requested to cover cost of moving picture films made in the interest of medical science.

Item C-16.—Transfer of $1,292.30 is made necessary on account of the increase in population and prices. Our budget estimate was cut $2,000.

Very truly yours,

DAVID J. JOHNSON,
Commissioner.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 31, 1923.

Boston, January 31, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—I respectfully ask that the following transfers be made in closing our accounts for the fiscal year ending January 31, 1923:

Steamers "Monitor" and "George A. Hibbard."

From the appropriation for steamer "Monitor," A-1, Permanent Employees, 2 Firemen at $5.50 per day, $24.01; to the appropriation for steamer "George A. Hibbard," A-1, Permanent Employees, 4 Deckhands at $18 per week, $24.01.

From A-1, 2 Firemen at $5.50 per day, $8.46; to B-13, Communication, $8.46.

From A-1, 2 Firemen at $5.50 per day, $8.46; 5 Deckhands, $196.86; 2 Watchmen at $29.75 per week, $38.25; 1 Oiler at $5.50 per day, $0.53; to B-39, General Plant, $643.17.

Item A-1.—Transfer to "Deckhands" is necessary because, through error, the appropriation allowed lacked $24.01 of being sufficient to cover pay for four deckhands at $18 per week for the year.

Item B-13.—The expenditure for telephone service amounted to $8.46 more than was anticipated.

Item B-39.—Transfer of $637.17 is requested on account of the necessity of hiring a substitute boat in place of the "Monitor" for a longer period than was anticipated.

Very truly yours,

DAVID J. JOHNSON,
Commissioner.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 31, 1923.

Boston, January 31, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—I respectfully ask that the following transfers be made in closing our accounts for the fiscal year ending January 31, 1923.

House of Correction, Deer Island.

From the appropriation for A-1, Permanent Employees, 1 Deputy Master at $1,980 per year, $38.09; 1 Clerk at $1,000 per year, $32.28; 5 Engineers at $6 per day, $42.84; to the appropriation for C-13, Tools and Instruments, $113.21.

From A-1, 5 Engineers at $6 per day, $35.50; 6 Firemen at $5.50 per day, $374.17; 36 Officers at $900-$1,200 per year, $179.36; to C-16, Wearing Apparel, $589.03.

From A-1, 36 Officers at $900-$1,200 per year, $11.12; 1 Officer and Butcher at $1,200 per year, $6.77; 1 Officer and Baker at $1,200 per year, $26.49; 1 Officer and Farmer, at $1,200 per year, $98.81; 1 Blacksmith at $1,200 per year, $29.70; 2 Cooks at $1,000 per year, $0.56; to D-1, Office, $173.45.

From A-1, 2 Cooks at $1,000 per year, $0.53; A-3, Unassigned, $44.25; B-1, Printing and Binding, $86.25; B-2, Postage, $11.03; to D-4, Forage and Animal, $142.06.

From B-2, Postage, $17.77, to D-11, Motor Vehicle, $17.77.

From B-2, Postage, $21.20; B-4, Transportation of Persons, $39.43; B-5, Cartage and Freight, $17.66; B-12, Premium on Surety Bond, $2.50; B-13, Communication, $51.92; B-14, Motor Vehicle Repairs and Care, $22.84; to E-10, Electrical, $155.55.

From B-14, Motor Vehicle Repairs and Care, $96.34; B-15, Motorless Vehicle Repairs and Care, $67.83; to E-13, General Plant, $164.17.

From B-15, Motorless Vehicle Repairs and Care, $18.59, to F-7, Pensions and Annuities, $18.59.

From B-15, Motorless Vehicle Repairs and Care, $13.58; B-23, Veterinary, $42.64; to C-8, Educational and Recreational, $56.22.

From B-23, Veterinary, $57.36; B-31, Extermination of Insects, $8.33; B-35, Fees, etc., $86; B-37, Photographic and Blueprinting, $90; B-39, General Plant, $127.43; B-42, Educational and Recreational, $17; C-3, Electrical, $4.93; C-4, Motor Vehicle, $81.28; C-6, Stable, $53.71; C-7, Furniture, $317.94; C-8, Educational and Recreational, $43.78; C-10, Library, $24.25; C-12, Medical, Surgical, Laboratory, $187.39; C-14, Live Stock, $5; D-2, Food and Ice, $429.94; C-5, Medical, Surgical, Laboratory, $20.18; D-7, Veterinary, $45.55; D-8, Laundry, Cleaning, Toilet, $69.23; D-9, Educational and Recreational, $52.01; D-10, Agricultural, $21.23; D-13, Chemicals and Disinfectants, $102.77; D-15, Tobacco, $270.86; D-16, General Plant, $33.84; E-1, Building, $903.23; F-9, Care of Dependents, $220.03; Child Welfare, B-17, Care of Persons, $3,939.23; to D-3, Fuel, $7,662.50.

Item C-13.—During the past year considerable saving has been effected on account of the large amount of repair work performed by prisoners under the direction of specially trained officers. This necessitated an increase in the expenditure for tools, for which a transfer of $113.21 is requested.

Item C-16.—Transfer of $589.23 for clothing is made necessary on account of the large increase in the number of prisoners. The average number was about one third greater than that during the year previous.

Item D-1.—Transfer of $173.45 to "Office Supplies" is on account of an increase in the number of prisoners and because it has been necessary during the latter part of the year to have all printing done at the Printing Plant.

Item D-4.—It is difficult to estimate just how much will be needed for "Forage and Animal" on account of the fact that the number of pigs, cattle and horses necessarily varies from time to time. Transfer of $142.06 is requested in closing the accounts for the year.

Item D-11.—Transfer of $17.77 is needed for cover expenditure for gas and oil for the year.

Item E-10.—An additional amount of $155.55 is needed for electrical material on account of emergency repairs to telephone system.

Item E-13.—During the past year a large number of mattresses were made over to take care of the increase in population. Transfer of $164.17 is made necessary on that account.

Item F-7.—Transfer of $18.59 is needed on account of the fact that Joseph D. Sullivan was added to the pension roll during the year.

Item C-8.—The principal reason for need of transfer of $56.22 for educational, recreational and religious service equipment is on account of increase in number of prisoners.

Item D-3.—Transfer of $7,662.50 is requested to make up deficit on account of increase in price of coal. Only a normal year's supply was purchased.

Very truly yours,

DAVID J. JOHNSON,
Commissioner.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 31, 1923.

BOSTON, January 31, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—I respectfully ask that the following transfers be made in closing our accounts for the fiscal year ending January 31, 1923:

Child Welfare.

From the appropriation for B-17, Care of Persons, $40.49; B-17, Care of Persons, $25.08; B-17, Care of Persons, $567.49, to the appropriation for B-2, Postage, $40.49; B-5, Cartage and Freight, $25.08; C-16, Clothing, $567.49.

Item B-2.—Shortage of $40.49 on postage may be partly attributed to the unusual amount of correspondence necessary on account of change in regulations for the rendering of school bills.

Item B-5.—The need of $25.08 for cartage and freight is on account of increase in rates and the increase in number of children transferred, which involves express charges for clothing.

Item C-16.—Our estimate for clothing was cut $2,000. Although an effort has been made to keep within the amount allowed, we are obliged to ask for a transfer of $567.49. In some cases it has been necessary to increase the amount of clothing in order to retain good homes for the children.

Very truly yours,

DAVID J. JOHNSON,
Commissioner.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 31, 1923.

BOSTON, January 31, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—I respectfully ask that the following transfers be made in closing our accounts for the fiscal year ending January 31, 1923:

Central Office.

From the appropriation for A-1, Permanent Employees, 2 Parole Agents at $1,600 per year, $0.10, to the appropriation for A-1, Permanent Employees, 2 Bookkeepers at $1,400 per year, $0.10.

From A-1, 2 Parole Agents at $1,600 per year, $0.01, to A-1, 1 Parole Agent and Visitor, $1,400 per year, $0.01.

From A-1, 2 Parole Agents at $1,600 per year, $0.01, to A-1, 1 Transportation Officer, $0.01.

From A-1, 2 Parole Agents at $1,600 per year, $159.87, to B-4, Transportation of Persons, $159.87.

Item A-1.—Transfer of a total of $0.13 is requested to adjust the amounts paid on weekly pay rolls with the amounts allowed for the year.

Item B-4.—The reason for need of transfer of $159.87 to "Transportation of Persons" is on account of increase in incidental expenses of the various visitors and agents of the department on institution business.

Very truly yours,

DAVID J. JOHNSON,
Commissioner.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 31, 1923.

LAW DEPARTMENT.

BOSTON, January 31, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

HONORED SIR,—I respectfully request the following transfers in the Law Department appropriation:

From the appropriation for B-1, Printing and Binding, $80.05, to the appropriation for C-10, Library, $80.05.

From the appropriation for A-1, Permanent Employees, 1 Stenographer at $1,100 per year, $73.16, to the appropriation for C-9, Office Equipment, $73.16.

These transfers are necessary to take care of expenditures during January, 1923, to be paid from the supplementary account.

Yours very truly,

E. MARK SULLIVAN,
Corporation Counsel.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 31, 1923.

LIBRARY DEPARTMENT.

POLICE DEPARTMENT.

BOSTON, January 31, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—To provide for certain expenditures which have been made by this department in excess of the amount provided in the Budget on account of B (Service Other than Personal), C (Equipment), and D (Supplies), in order that accounts may be properly recorded in accordance with Budget allowances, the following transfers all within B, C and D, to take care of the excess and requirements for the balance of the year are hereby requested:

From B-35, Service Other than Personal, Fees, Service of Venires, etc., $4,040.53, to B-4, Service Other than Personal, Transportation of Persons, $112.83; B-28, Service Other than Personal, Expert and Architect, $16.04; B-39, Service Other than Personal, General Plant, $2,438.22; B-40, Service Other than Personal, Harness, etc., Repairs, $1.40; C-4, Equipment, Motor Vehicles, $461.25; D-16, Supplies, General Plant, $10.74—$4,040.53.

Respectfully,

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Police Commissioner.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 31, 1923.

BOSTON, January 31, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—To provide for certain expenditures which have been made by this department under item B-12, Premium on Surety Bond, for which there was no appropriation, in order that accounts may be properly recorded in accordance with Budget allowances, the following transfer from B-1, Printing and Binding, is hereby requested:

From B-1, Service Other than Personal, Printing and Binding, $77, to B-12, Service Other than Personal, Premium on Surety Bond, $77.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 31, 1923.

Respectfully,

The reason for the request for the above transfers is that on such items as unassigned where snow work done at night is charged, the hire of teams on Item B-6 and also on Item B-21 for removal of snow, also the printing item on office expenses D-1, fuel expense on D-3, forage and animal expense on D-4, they are all of such an uncertain nature that the real, actual expenditure could not be determined until the end of the year, and the request for the transfers on the other items is the final adjustment that becomes necessary at the end of the fiscal year.

Yours respectfully,
JAMES B. SHEA,
Chairman.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 31, 1923.

The reason for this transfer is on account of the increased cost of removing ashes, etc., in the Dorchester district, due to the failure of the contractor to carry on his work.

Yours respectfully,

JOSEPH A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Transferred by the City Auditor with the approval of the Mayor, January 31, 1923.

Sewer Service.

Boston, January 31, 1923.

To the Honorable the Mayor:

I respectfully request that the following transfers be made between budget items of the appropriation for the Sewer and Sanitary Division, Sewer Service:

From the appropriation for B-18, Cleaning, $3,782.87, to the appropriation for B-2, Postage, $2.15; B-4, Transportation of Persons, $201.60; B-6, Hire of Teams and Auto Trucks, $55.22; B-8, Light and Power, $124.81; B-15, Motorless Vehicles Repairs, $7.55; B-24, Blacksmith, $60.61; B-39, General Plant, $2,427.05; C-13, Tools and Instruments, $353.39; C-16, Wearing Apparel, $133.58; D-1, Office, $168.02; D-2, Food and Ice, $21.60; D-16, General Plant, $59.29; F-11, Workmen's Compensation, $158—$3,782.87.

The reasons for these transfers are as follows:

B-2, B-4, B-6, B-24, D-2, D-16, F-11: To meet expenditures in excess of amount originally estimated.

B-8, B-15, D-1: Deficit caused by previously over estimating the sum which might be transferred to other items.

MEDICAL EXAMINER FOR SUFFOLK COUNTY, SOUTHERN DISTRICT.

BOSTON, January 31, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

YOUR HONOR,—I respectfully request that the following sums be transferred within the appropriation for the Medical Examiner Service, Southern Division, for the reasons given below:

$21 from B-35 to B-5, Cartage of bodies to the mortuary. Outstanding January, 1923, bills make this transfer necessary.

$12.50 from C-4 to C-12. A necessary expenditure for scissors made this transfer necessary.

Respectfully yours,

TIMOTHY LEARY,
Medical Examiner.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 31, 1923.

BOSTON, January 31, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—In order to cover my expenses for the year may I ask for a transfer of $18 from B-4 to B-35 in the appropriation for the Associate Medical Examiner of Suffolk County, Southern District.

Respectfully yours,

W. H. WATTERS,
Associate Medical Examiner.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 31, 1923.

MUNICIPAL COURT OF THE BRIGHTON DISTRICT.

BOSTON, January 31, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—Receiving information to the effect that the appropriation of this court under heading B-4, Transportation of Prisoners, would be insufficient to take care of expenses, his Honor Judge Thomas H. Connelly respectfully requests that $6 be transferred from the appropriation for this court under heading B-13, Communication, to take care of the said deficit, the appropriation for B-13 being sufficient to stand this withdrawal, and it appearing that the said deficit has been caused by conditions which were overlooked but were absolutely necessary.

Yours very truly,

DANIEL F. CUNNINGHAM,
Clerk.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 31, 1923.

MUNICIPAL COURT OF THE ROXBURY DISTRICT.

BOSTON, January 31, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—I would respectfully request that the sum of $100 be transferred from A-2, Probation Officer for Delinquent Children pro tem., to A-2, Special Justices.

Yours truly,

MAURICE J. O'CONNELL,
Clerk.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 31, 1923.

MUNICIPAL COURT OF THE CHARLESTOWN DISTRICT.

BOSTON, January 31, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—Bills have been contracted on account of 1922-23 appropriations for this court in excess of budget estimates, as follows:

B-4, for conveying prisoners, $19; B-39, for repairing machines, $0.35.

Therefore, I respectfully request transfer:

From the appropriation for A-2, Temporary Employees, Clerk, pro tem., 1 at $9.87 per day, $19.35, to the appropriation for B-4, Transportation of Persons, $19; B-39, General Plant, $0.35.

Very respectfully,

MARK E. SMITH,
Clerk.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 31, 1923.

DISTRICT COURT OF CHELSEA.

CHELSEA, January 31, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—I respectfully ask for the transfer of $70 from B-35 to B-33 and 4 cents from B-35 to B-4. Also for the transfer of $8.75 from D-2 to D-1 in the budget of the District Court of Chelsea.

Yours truly,

JOSEPH M. CURLEY,
Clerk.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 31, 1923.

PROTECTION AGAINST COMMUNICABLE DISEASES.

Treat Your Neighbors As You Want Them to Treat You.

By DR. FRANCIS X. MAHONEY, Health Commissioner.

If your neighbors' children have a contagious disease you do not want them to give it to your children.

In order to prevent the spread of contagious diseases and to help you provide proper care for members of your family sick with contagious diseases, the laws of this State* require you as a householder, if you know that a person in your family or house has a contagious disease, to notify the City Health Department. If the sick person has a physician, the physician also is required to report the case. If you, as a householder, know you have a person in your house or family ill with diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles, chickenpox or whooping cough, or any of several other contagious diseases, you are liable to a fine of $100 if you do not notify the Health Department, even though the person may not seem sick enough to need a physician.

But you are not doing all that is required in order to protect your neighbors or your own family by merely notifying the Health Department or calling a physician when you have a case of contagious disease in your family.

A person who is beginning to be sick with smallpox, diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles, whooping cough and certain other contagious diseases already is in the contagious stage of the disease and may be dangerous to other persons before anyone, even a physician, can tell with certainty what is the matter, and a person thus coming down sick is perhaps more dangerous to others than he will be later when the exact nature of the sickness can be recognized.

Therefore, if you want to be sure to protect your neighbors and your own family, you should keep by himself any member of your family who seems to be getting sick, and keep away from others everything that he uses, such as drinking glasses, cups, spoons, forks, knives, dishes, handkerchiefs, wash cloths, towels, etc., until after they have been sterilized as in boiling water.

It is because this is not done that we have year after year just about the same number of deaths from the common contagious diseases. It often happens that by the time you or a physician or the Health Department finds out that a child has a contagious disease and precautions are taken for the protection of others, the child has probably already given the disease to as many other children as he would be likely to infect anyway.

In many families it may not be easy or even possible to keep a child and his eating and drinking utensils away from others every time he appears to have a stomach upset or be getting a cold, but remember that every time you do this you may be saving the life of some neighbor's child or your own baby; and that even if the sickness proves not to be serious, no harm is done.

You may not think it necessary to call in a physician when a person in your family has measles, chickenpox, whooping cough or some peculiar rash if the person does not appear to be very sick. While the law above referred to requires you to notify the Health Department in such cases, it does not compel you to call a physician. However, here are some of the consequences of not calling a physician which the Health Department is constantly discovering:

A child has a sore, scabby nose, but the child's mother thinks that it is nothing serious. There is an outbreak of diphtheria among the children in the neighborhood and the Health Department finds that it is due to this scabby nose of the child who really has diphtheria in his nose but which does not make him sick enough to prevent him from playing with other children, because he is what is called an "immune" to diphtheria.

Time after time when the Health Department is tracing an outbreak of scarlet fever, it finds that it is due to a child who had such a mild attack of scarlet fever that the mother never suspected that the child had scarlet fever at all, but thought it merely had an attack of indigestion and that the rash was due to this cause.

Practically every epidemic of smallpox which occurs in this country gets its start because people are so likely to mistake a mild case of smallpox for chickenpox or "just pimples" from a digestive disturbance.

If you suspect that anyone in your house or family may have a contagious disease, the Boston Health Department stands always ready, when notified, to help you or your physician to discover exactly what the disease is just as soon as it is possible to tell.

If it be a contagious disease, the Health Department doctors and nurses will show you how best to take care of the case so as to prevent danger to others, and will watch it and have examinations made in order that it may not be kept quarantined any longer than necessary for the protection of your neighbors and your own family.

ORATION BY JUSTICE MURRAY.

Hon. Michael J. Murray, justice of the Municipal Court of the City of Boston, will deliver the oration incident to the observance of the 147th anniversary of the debarkation from Boston of the British forces under Lord Howe. The ceremonies are to be held upon the evening of Sunday, March 11, at the Municipal Building, South Boston, at 7.30 p. m.

The letter of acceptance of Justice Murray is as follows:

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,
MUNICIPAL COURT, CITY OF BOSTON,
February 23, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURELY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR MR. MAYOR,—It is with a great deal of pleasure that I accept your very courteous invitation to deliver the annual historical address at the Municipal Building, South Boston, Sunday, March 11, at 7.30 p. m.

I am certainly glad to lend my presence and word of encouragement to the splendid work of Americanism which by this and other meetings you are planning to advance.

Very truly yours,

MICHAEL J. MURRAY.

The Council voted at 2.45 p. m. on motion of Coun. BRICKLEY, to take a recess subject to the call of the President.

The members of the Council reassembled in the chamber and were called to order by the President at 3.30 o'clock p. m.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE REPORTS.

Coun. WATSON, for the Executive Committee, submitted the following, viz.:

1. Report on petition of Madame Elita (referred today), for permit for children under fifteen years of age to appear at Jordan Hall, March 17—that permit be granted.
2. Report on message of Mayor and order (referred February 5, appropriating $18,000 for the Municipal Employment Bureau—that the order ought to pass.
3. Report on order (referred today), for annuity for children of William J. Cox—that the order ought to pass.
- Report accepted; order passed.

ACTION ON MAYOR'S APPOINTMENTS.

The Council proceeded to consider unfinished business, Nos. 1 and 4, viz.:

Action on appointments submitted by the Mayor, February 5, 1923, viz.:

1. Maurice Cohen, to be a Constable.

4. Thomas J. Crowley, to be a Constable.

The question came on confirmation.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. Chairman, I move you that the appointments be laid on the table. The question came on confirmation.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. Chairman, I propose to vote for Cohen and vote against the other. I think we might take a vote on this thing today and dispose of it.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. Chairman, as long as we are going to tell what our attitude is, I am going to vote against both of them. I do not know how anybody, after the appearance of both of them here, can vote for them when one of them is so appalled but he did not know what he was going to use it for and the other fellow openly admitted that he was going to use it for anything that he could. On the other hand, the Council has presented 100 cases. One of them should receive a commission as a constable of the City of Boston. Thomas J. Crowley said that if he was solicited by his friend, that he thought it would be a pretty good job but he did not know what he was going to do with it. The other fellow, Mr. Cohen, in answer to my question if he would work for a detective agency said, "Yes." He said he would work for an installment house, or he would do anything he could do with it practically. The other fellow admitted he was going to use it for any purpose, and the other fellow did not know what he was going to use it for, and in so far as the citizens of Boston are concerned I do not think we are doing our duty in approving that type of constable.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. Chairman, I do not know either Mr. Crowley or Mr. Cohen. I am going to say that if there is an opportunity for a man who appears to be clean, with a reputation averagely decent, he should have it in view of the fact that we have to have constables. I think Mr. Crowley is fit to be one. I can imagine how I would be if I was not acquainted with the Council Chamber as well as I am it was called out of the city and introduced, not knowing what was coming or what was what. I probably would make no better showing than Crowley did; and unless something can be shown concerning Crowley that is not to his credit—now, mind you, I hold no brief for constables but they are a necessary evil; if you turn out one crew you take another crew in, and you have got to have constables to serve writs according to law—if Crowley is a man of good reputation, why not give him the opportunity of starting which he will have to do in all probability, in my opinion, as a constable. I do not want to be in the position of denying him an opportunity to earn a dollar if he can earn a dollar and earn it legitimately, and I have sufficient confidence in the man's personal appearance here to believe that he intends to use his office to earn a dollar and earn it honestly as a constable—as honest as any constable can be.

The other gentleman, Mr. Cohen, I do not think is a type of man that I would want to have a constable. I will not back you. I am not going to cast my ballot in the box without him and the public knowing that I am not going to vote for him. I do not think that he would make a good constable. I think the fact that he was convicted recently of an offense which, as I admit, is common among the very best of our citizens—of course, many are not caught at the same time he has been caught and convicted and paid a fine in New Hampshire, both in Concord and Manchester. Now I would rather not see a man of that type constable. I think he is wrong about it, but I cannot vote for him. Mr. Crowley I think presented an appearance that to me made a bit of an impression. I think he will regret he ever applied for a constable's commission. I do not think he is a type of man that can make a living by it.

The question came on the motion to lay on the table, which was declared lost. Coun. BRICKLEY doubted the vote and asked for a roll call. The roll was called and the motion to lay on the table was lost—yeas 6, nays 6.

The Chair appointed Coun. Watson and Brickley as committee to collect ballots on the confirmation of Maurice Cohen and the appointment was rejected—yeas 8, nays 9.

The question then came on the confirmation of Thomas J. Crowley, Coun. Watson and Brickley being appointed as committee to collect and count ballots. The appointment was confirmed, yeas 7, nays 2.

BALLOT FOR PRESIDENT.

On motion of Coun. GILBODY, the Council proceeded to a ballot for President for the year with the following result:

For John A. Donoghue—Coun. Donoghue and Watson—2.

For Daniel W. Lane—Coun. Gildbody, Hagan, Healey and Lane—4.

For James T. Moriarty—Coun. Brickley, Moriarty and Walsh—3.

And there was no choice.

GENERAL RECONSIDERATION.

Coun. WATSON moved a general reconsideration on all business transacted at the meeting hoping that the same would not prevail. Lost.

Adjourned at 3.39 o'clock p. m. on motion of Coun. DONOGHUE, to meet on Monday, February 19, at two o'clock p. m.

PROCEEDINGS OF CITY COUNCIL.

Monday, February 19, 1923.

Regular meeting of the City Council, held in the Council Chamber, City Hall, at two o'clock p. m. Coun. HAGAN, senior member, presiding. Absent—Coun. Moriarty.

VETO—ELIAS J. STEWART PENSION.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, February 16, 1923.

Gentlemen,—I beg to return herewith, without my approval, the order of your Board favoring legislation providing for the payment of pension to Elias J. Stewart for the following reason: That at the time Elias J. Stewart was honorably discharged from the Fire Department with physical disability, namely, January 25, 1909, he was employed as a fire chief's driver and this position did not come under the classification of membership in the fire-fighting force, and consequently men employed as chief's drivers were not subject to the Fire Department pension law.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor

Placed on file.

VETO—PROBATION OFFICER'S SALARY, EAST BOSTON.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, February 16, 1923.

To the City Council:
Gentlemen,—I beg to return herewith, without my approval, order of your Board adopted under date of January 29, 1923, recommending increase in the salary of probation officer, East Boston District Court. The action in this case is based on the report submitted to me by the Budget Commissioner, which in my opinion is conclusive.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,

Budget Department, February 10, 1923.

Hon. James M. Curley,

Mayor Boston:

Dear Sir,—In connection with the attached order relative to proposed increase in pay for Dennis J. Kelleher, probation officer of the East Boston District Court, I submit for your consideration the following report.

The East Boston District Court stands fourth among the courts of Suffolk County both as to district population and number of adult cases handled by the probation department. The district courts of Roxbury, Chelsea and Charlestown precede East Boston and the district court of South Boston follows closely after. The following table indicates the salaries paid to probation officers in these courts as well as the number of adult cases placed on probation during the past two years:

Salaries.	Number of Cases.
	1921.	1922.
Roxbury: Chief officer, $2,800; assistants, $2,400.....	1,205	1,971
Chelsea: $1,650.....	901	1,073
Charlestown: Chief officer, $2,600; assistants, $1,500.....	830	892
East Boston: $2,400.....	440	507
South Boston: $2,400.....	321	443

From this table it would appear that the present compensation of the probation officers in the various courts bears a close relation (with the possible exception of the Chelsea Court) to the amount of business handled. No increase in the salaries of the officers at Chelsea, Charlestown and South Boston has been proposed. To allow Mr. Kelleher the proposed increase would disturb the balance which now exists.

Respectfully,

CHARLES J. FOX,
Budget Commissioner.

Placed on file.

VETO—PROBATION OFFICER'S SALARY, EAST BOSTON.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, February 16, 1923.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I beg to return herewith, without my approval, the order of your Board adopted under date of January 29, 1923, providing an increase in the salary of probation officer for wayward and delinquent children at the East Boston District Court for the reasons as set forth in the communication of the Budget Commissioner, which is herewith attached.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY Mayor.

City of Boston,

Budget Department, February 10, 1923.

Hon. James M. Curley,

Mayor Boston:

Dear Sir,—With reference to the attached order, relative to a proposed salary increase for Frederick L. O'Brien, juvenile probation officer of the East Boston District Court, I have prepared the following table indicating the number of juvenile probation cases handled by six of the district courts of Suffolk County during the past two years and the salaries paid to the probation officers engaged in juvenile work.

Salaries.	Cases.
	1921.	1922.
Roxbury.....	$2,500	220 127
Chelsea.....	1,250	144 127
South Boston.....	1,700	122 62
East Boston.....	1,800	107 117
West Roxbury.....	2,100	93 76
Charlestown.....	1,950	88 57

The above table would indicate that everything else being equal the proposed increase is not unreasonable. This additional fact with reference to the individual concerned is offered for your consideration. Mr. O'Brien is a member of the City Committee as coach of the athletic teams at the East Boston High School. In this capacity it is possible for him to earn $800 additional, thus making his total salary $2,600. The fact that he acts as coach at East Boston High School would seem to indicate that his duties as juvenile probation officer engaged but part of his time.

Respectfully,

CHARLES J. FOX,
Budget Commissioner.

WORK AT ARNOLD ARBORETUM.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, February 16, 1923.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I beg to submit herewith request received from the Park Commission, also opinion of the Corporation Counsel, relative to the granting of permission to the Arnold Arboretum to perform necessary work as set forth in the communication from the Park Department, and respectfully request approval of your Board to the accompanying order.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,

Law Department, February 12, 1923.

Hon. James M. Curley,

Mayor Boston:

Dear Sir,—I am returning without my approval the enclosed report of the Park Commissioners. By chapter 144 of the acts of 1880 the Park Commissioners of the City of Boston were authorized to lease,—

"such portion of said Arboretum, and adjoining tracts of land, to the said board of park commissioners may deem not necessary for use as parkways and grounds, to the president and fellows of Harvard College, to be held by them to the same uses and purposes as the Arboretum is now held under the trusts created by the wills of Benjamin Bussey and of James Arnold; and for such use, and upon such mutual restrictions, reservations, covenants, and conditions, as to the use thereof by the public, in connection with the use of the same under said trusts."

The Board of Park Commissioners, in pursuance of this authority, did lease to the President and Fellows of Harvard College such portion of the Arnold Arboretum as was not necessary for parkways and grounds and the Board now holds control over the roads and walks of the Arboretum.

By the vote submitted to your Honor and to this department for approval, it is desired to grant permission to the President and Fellows of Harvard College, who are now in charge of the Arnold Arboretum, to remove the boundary wall between the Arboretum and adjacent cemetery grounds, known as the Walter Street Cemetery, and further to permit the replanting of trees and the general maintenance of the cemetery grounds by the authorities in charge of the same.

By chapter 13 of the Ordinances of 1920 the Cemetery Department was consolidated with the Park Department and the Board is authorized required to exercise the powers and perform the duties provided by statute for the Cemetery Department.

Chapter 375 of the Acts of 1897 established the Cemetery Department of the City of Boston, and section 2 thereof, pertaining to all city burial grounds, provides that the Board,—

"shall perform such other duties relative to such cemetery (Mount Hope) and said burial grounds as the City Council may from time to time prescribe."

I am of the opinion that the City Council should, with the approval of your Honor, authorize the Board of Park Commissioners to give the necessary permission to the Arboretum authorities to maintain and replant the cemetery grounds and to the authorities in charge of the same. I believe that a vote of the city government is necessary before the Park Commissioners may proceed to authorize the Arnold Arboretum authorities to remove the boundary of the city property or to maintain the cemetery grounds.

Very truly yours,

JAMES M. SULLIVAN,
Corporation Counsel.

Ordered, That permission be granted the President and Fellows of Harvard College, now in charge of Arnold Arboretum, to remove boundary wall between the Arboretum and adjacent cemetery, known as the Walter Street Cemetery, and further to permit the replanting of trees and the general maintenance of the cemetery grounds by the authorities in charge of the same. It being further agreed that in the event of the extension of this privilege that the replanting of grounds and maintenance of the cemetery shall be in accordance with the terms of agreement and understanding at present enjoyed by lot owners in said cemetery.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

APPROPRIATION FOR SEWERAGE WORK.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, February 19, 1923.

Gentlemen,—In the opinion of the Commissioner of Public Works, the sum of $1,000,000 is imperatively necessary for sewerage work during the present year, and I respectfully recommend the passage of the accompanying order by your honorable body.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Ordered, That under the provisions of chapter 42B of the Acts of 1905, the sum of $1,000,000 be and hereby is appropriated to be expended under the direction of the Commissioner of Public Works for sewerage work, and that to most said appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized to issue, from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

Referred to the Executive Committee, on motion of Coun. WATSON.

NEW STREET CONSTRUCTION.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 19, 1923.
To the City Council:
Gentlemen,—The request for funds for new street construction at present approximates $2,000,000, and in my opinion it is advisable that at least $500,000 be appropriated for this purpose. I accordingly recommend the passage of the accompanying order by your honorable body.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Ordered, That the sum of $500,000 be and hereby is appropriated for highways, making of, under the provisions of the Acts of 1905, the sum of $500,000 be and hereby is appropriated for this purpose, and that to meet said appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized to issue, from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

GARAGE FOR PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 19, 1923.
To the City Council:
Gentlemen,—It is imperative that proper housing be provided for the expensive motor equipment under the control of the Public Works Department, which, due to exposure, suffers a material depreciation at present.

In the opinion of the engineers of the Public Works Department the sum of $70,000 is necessary to provide for the construction of a garage, and it is my purpose, subject to your approval, to transfer $80,000 from the appropriation for Sea Wall, etc., Roxbury Canal, and to provide for a direct loan of $70,000 in addition.

I respectfully recommend the passage of the accompanying orders by your honorable body.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Ordered, That under authority of chapter 261 of the Acts of 1893 the City Auditor be and hereby is authorized to make the following transfer in the Public Works Department:
From the appropriation for Sea Wall, etc., Roxbury Canal, $80,000; to the appropriation for Garage, Albany street, $80,000.

Ordered, That the sum of $70,000 be and the same is hereby appropriated to be expended by the Commissioner of Public Works for the construction of a garage, Albany street, and that to meet said expenditure the City Treasurer be authorized to issue, from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

UNITED STATES AID TO SHIPPING.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 19, 1923.
To the City Council:
Gentlemen,—The future of Boston, in fact of all New England, commercially is dependent upon the action of Congress on the question of governmental aid to shipping. That independence may be restored and maintained upon sea as well as upon land, it is vital that American shipping be placed upon an equal competitive basis with foreign shipping.

Foreign shipping today is so heavily subsidized that it is impossible for our own shipping to compete with it. The value of supplies necessary for the operation of ships and to provide for the requirements of passengers and crews between our Atlantic coast and foreign ports approximate in excess of $300,000,000 annually, a large portion of which would flow to the port of Boston providing America possessed a merchant marine keeping with her population, wealth and industries.

The value of an American merchant marine from the standpoint of national defense cannot be over estimated. Under the guise of maintaining an auxiliary transport system huge sums are expended annually by Great Britain, Japan and other foreign powers, without whose transport system we would have experienced extreme difficulty in the transportation of troops and supplies during the recent war.

America today is required to compete for business in the markets of the world under handicaps that should not obtain. The world's shipping is as a result of the development of labor-saving devices, and as a result of American genius and as a result of the promotion of efficiency and the scrapping of inadequate methods and machinery, a production has been established in industry sufficient in seven months to provide for the requirements of the nation for a full twelve-month period. Outside markets are essential to the stabilizing of industry and the promotion of industrial peace and to the contentment, happiness and well-being of the entire American nation. The failure on the part of Congress to adopt the governmental aid measure, oftentimes erroneously styled "subsidy," would seriously injure our shipping to the control of the foreign shipping combine whose operations prevented Americans from engaging in the shipping business during the twenty-five year period prior to 1919, when as a consequence of their operation, independent shipping was stifled and the American flag on merchant ships practically driven from the sea and the American shipper, manufacturer and farmer obliged to pay enormous tribute to this enemy agency of American commercial independence.

America must take advantage of this opportunity to safeguard her commercial future or be confronted with a condition similar to that which obtained under the foreign shipping combine when, as pointed out by me in an address to Congress in 1912, the foreign shipping combine derived a greater profit from the American cereal crop in 1910 than the farmer who tilled the soil, sowed the seed and harvested the crop. In conformity with custom this surplus was shipped to Buffalo for export abroad. The foreign shipping combine which prior to that time had been handling the surplus for 8 cents per bushel increased the price to 25 cents per bushel. The farmers refused to pay and the flow of the bumper crop presently resulted in a line of barges after the elevators had been filled that if placed end to end would extend a distance of four miles, and there it remained until the farmers paid the tribute exacted by the foreign shipping combine with the result that the foreign shipping combine were the only agency that derived any financial profit from the bumper wheat crop of 1910.

In view of the importance, not only to New England alone but to America, of preserving the independence of the nation on the sea, I respectfully urge the adoption by your body of the accompanying resolution.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Whereas, The President of the United States, Hon. Warren G. Harding, has recommended the adoption by the Congress of the United States of a ship subsidy bill for the preservation of American commercial independence and a necessary naval auxiliary in time of war; and

Whereas, The adoption of a subsidy measure as recommended by the President of the United States would be of direct and substantial benefit to New England and the United States of America; be it and it is hereby

Resolved, That we, the members of the Boston City Council in meeting assembled, respectfully recommend to the Massachusetts representatives in both branches of Congress favorable action upon the pending ship subsidy bill; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be forwarded to the members of Congress both from Massachusetts, the President of the United States and the press of the Commonwealth.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

SIDEWALK SCHEDULE.

The Commissioner of Public Works submitted a schedule of cost of sidewalk construction on Washington street, Ward 23—recommending the passage of an order as follows, viz.:

Ordered, That the persons named in the schedule be and the same are hereby assessed the sum set against their respective names as their proportionate parts of the cost of constructing sidewalks on Washington street, from Poplar street to Denton terrace, Ward 23, and the same is ordered to be certified and notice given to the persons as aforesaid. (The cost amounting to $4,479.10.)

The order was passed.

PROTEST AGAINST GARAGE.

Coun. HAGAN received the petition of Cornelius Shea et al., protesting against the erection of a garage at Bowdoin and Washington streets, Dorchester.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. Chairman, as you are the introducer of the petition, I would like to know if you consider that we have power to revoke something that was done elsewhere.

Coun. HAGAN—In reply to the counselor I will say that I presented the petition at the request of some of the residents who are present at this meeting. I have informed the ladies that, in my judgment and as I understand the law, the City Council on this stage has no jurisdiction whatever in the matter. I have told them that we had some right to consider the granting of the permit by the Street Commissioners, but that we have no jurisdiction now. Out of courtesy to the ladies I presented the petition, which I now refer to the Executive Committee.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

PAYMENT OF REAL ESTATE TAXES.

Coun. HEALEY offered the following:
Whereas, Property owners in general are ignorant of the law giving them the right to pay real estate taxes in quarterly installments;

Whereas, That right is established in chapter 60, section 22, of the General Laws; and
Whereas, Such divided payments would be welcomed by taxpayers and might lead to lower rents in many cases, and might reduce the number of properties sold annually by the city for the non-payment of taxes, and might encourage home buying; be it

Resolved, That the City Collector be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to print on future tax bills, during his term of service, a brief statement of the law as found in the chapter and section specified.

Passed under a suspension of the rule.

COST OF PROPERTY CONSTRUCTION.

Coun. HEALEY offered the following:
Whereas, The cost of constructing tenement property has been more than doubled in the last ten years; and

Whereas, The amount of building of such property has been relatively very small, only of that kind of houses that rent from $40 to $75 per suite; and

Whereas, Private or corporate capital has not and will not invest in the construction of houses for that great mass of people who before the general increase in rents were accustomed to pay from $10 to $15 per month for four to six room tenements; therefore be it

Resolved, That his Honor the Mayor be requested to confer with the Building Commissioner, the Planning Board, the Committee on Rent and Housing, and such other agencies as he deems fitting, on the critical conditions surrounding those tenements who can afford to pay only small rents; and be it further

Resolved, That his Honor the Mayor report his findings and recommendations to the City Council within ninety days from the passage of these preambles and resolutions.

Coun. HEALEY—Mr. Chairman, I do not imagine that very many words need to be spoken on that resolution. Everybody realizes that in East Boston, South Boston, Charlestown, and Jamaica Plain the poor cannot find other houses in which to live. Private and public capital will not build the houses, because of course the investment return is not there. I do not go the full distance and say the city or the state ought to build these houses, but I have in mind, however, that unless something is done the great mass of these people, those who pay from ten to fifteen dollars a month in rent, perhaps may have to move to Boston Common and live like the Arabs—in tents. It is a critical condition that faces us. The houses are not being built, and some of those already built are going into disrepair. Unless the city authorities move in this matter, within five years, because of the increase in the number of marriages and births, these people will not have the tenements in which to live, so that I have presented this resolve in order that the city and state authorities may have a statement upon which to base their future conclusions and their future workings. There is no use to wait four or five years until the situation is so bad that these people must know now what the future portends. I don't say this to urge the Council to pass it, because I know that every member of the Council is heart and soul in that particular movement.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. Chairman, I would like to ask if that matter was not considered during Mayor Peters's administration?

Coun. HEALEY—I understand it was considered during Mayor Peters's administration with regard to the whole housing problem. I understand to the housing situation for the poor. The well-to-do live in houses in which they pay $40, $50, $60 and $70 a month, but the poor people are not able to hire that kind of houses. It is only by a process of evolution, as it were, that the poor may become rich and hire those $50 to $70 a month tenements. Between the higher paid and the lower paid you may find some tenements where the poor can work in; but for the great mass of the poor there has been no construction.

When Mayor Peters asked about it he was told by a banker that no man can go to a bank and get money to develop those broken-down houses, and yet those people must have houses in which to live. Nothing has been done by the city; nothing has been done by the state. Very properly, I anticipate that they hesitate in doing it, because it is a private capital; but you must face conditions as they are. There isn't any doubt in my mind that there in the tenement districts are doubling and tripling up. I know of cases where seven children and the father and mother are living in three rooms, because they could not find another place if they moved from that tenement. I know these conditions surround all the poor districts of Boston. We may just as well face the situation now, and allow the men in charge of the City of Boston to lay out a constructive and definite plan, and say what they are going to do in this matter. If nothing can be done, then let us know.

The question came on the suspension of the rules and the passage of the order. The rule was suspended and the preambles and resolutions were passed.

SOLDIERS' RELIEF.

Coun. GILBODY offered an order—That the COMMISSIONER OF PUBLIC WORKS—THE GENERAL LANDS AND WATER COMMISSIONER—The order on the resolution thereto, the amounts set forth in the list of allowances hereto annexed, for the month of February, of aid to soldiers and sailors and their families residing in the City of Boston on having a settlement therein, be hereby approved and paid until otherwise ordered, unless the person named shall previously have received the same from the said aid.

Passed under a suspension of the rule.

SIDEWALK, ROBINSON STREET.

Coun. GILBODY offered an order—That the Commissioner of Public Works make a sidewalk along both sides of Robinson street, from Adams street to Draper street, Ward street, and the estates bordering thereon, said sidewalk to be from 3 to 10 inches above the gutter adjoining, to be from 5 to 12 feet in width, and to be built of artificial stone with granite edgstones, under the provisions of chapter 196 of the Special Acts of 1917.

Passed under a suspension of the rule.

CONVALESCENT HOME FOR EMERGENCY CASES.

Coun. GILBODY offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor be requested to instruct the Trustees of the City Hospital, and the superintendent thereof, to allow the use of the Convalescent Home in Dorchester for emergency cases, in order to relieve the congestion at the City Hospital.

Passed under a suspension of the rule.

FIRE HOUSE, SAVIN HILL.

Coun. GILBODY offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor be requested to ask the Fire Commissioner to consider and report to the City Council on the advisability of establishing a fire house in the Savin Hill section of Dorchester.

Passed under a suspension of the rule.

RECESS TAKEN.

The Council voted at 3.13 o'clock p. m., on motion of Coun. BRICKLEY, to take a recess subject to the call of the President.

The members of the Council assembled in the chamber and were called to order by the President at 4.05 o'clock p. m.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE REPORTS.

Coun. WATSON, for the Executive Committee, submitted the following, viz:

1. Report on petition of Mary E. Swan (referred today) for permit for children under fifteen years of age to appear at Municipal Hall, April 6—that permit be granted.

Report accepted; permit granted on the usual conditions.

2. Report on protest of Cornelius Shea et al. (referred today) against erection of garage at Bowdoin and Washington streets, Brighton—that the same be denied on file.

Report accepted; protest placed on file.

3. Report on message of Mayor and order (referred today) for $1,000,000 for sewerage work—that the order ought to pass.

The report was accepted and the order was given its first reading and passed, yeas 8, nays 0.

The order will take its final reading not less than fourteen days from date.

4. Report on message of Mayor, communications and order (referred today) for removal of wall at the Arnold Arboretum—that the order ought to pass.

Report accepted; order passed.

5. Report on message of Mayor, preamble and resolves (referred today) concerning ship subsidy bill—that the preamble and resolves ought to pass.

Report accepted; preamble and resolves passed.

CONFIRMATION OF APPOINTMENTS.

Coun. HAGAN called up unfinished business, Nos. 1 to 3, inclusive, viz:

Action on appointments submitted by the Mayor, February 12, 1923, viz:

1. Robert B. Hopkins, to be a Constable.

2. Paul V. DiCicco, to be a Constable.
3. Dennis F. Navien, to be a Weigher of Coal.
The question came on confirmation. Coun. Attee—Coun. Gilbody and Lane. Whole number of ballots cast 8, yeas 8, nays 0, and the appointments were confirmed.

LEGISLATION CONCERNING PARENTS OF JOHN J. KELLEY.

Coun. GILBODY offered the following:
Resolved, That the City Council of the City of Boston go on record as favoring an enactment into law of House bill entitled "An Act Authorizing the City of Boston to Pay a Sum of Money to the Father of John J. Kelley, out of town, a Minor."

Passed under a suspension of the rule.

BALLOT FOR PRESIDENT.

Coun. GILBODY—Mr. President, I move that we now proceed to ballot for the election of a president.

Coun. WALSH—Mr. President, I am going to ask that the councilor withdraw his motion. One member is absent today, out of town, and I think that he should be considered.

Coun. GILBODY—Mr. President, did the councilor say that a request that no ballot should be taken today?

Coun. WALSH—Yes.

Coun. GILBODY—I withdraw my motion.

President HAGAN—The motion is withdrawn.

GENERAL RECONSIDERATION.

Coun. BRICKLEY moved a general reconsideration of the business transacted at the meeting, hoping that the same would not prevail. Lost.

Adjourned at 4.20 o'clock p. m., on motion of Coun. WATSON, to meet on Monday, February 26, at two o'clock p. m.

Section 47. Strike out the section and substitute the following therefor:

SECT. 47. 1. He shall have general charge of the administration building, and no accommodations shall be used therein, except by the Board, its committees, and for office purposes during regular office hours, by officers and employees of the Board, who are regularly assigned thereto, without permission of the secretary, to whom all applications for the use of such accommodations for other purposes must be made.

Add the following chapter:

CHAPTER XXVI.

Regulations for the Administration Building.

SECTION 415. 1. The administration building shall be open every day throughout the year, Sundays, the 17th of June and legal holidays excepted, from 8 o'clock A. M. to 6 o'clock P. M.; provided, that on Wednesdays the building may be closed at 1 o'clock P. M., except during July and August and on the first Saturday in September, when it may be closed at 12 o'clock M.

2. The supply room shall be open and the assistants employed therein present every day throughout the year, with the exceptions stated in the preceding paragraph, from 8 o'clock A. M. to 5 o'clock P. M.; provided, that the chauffeur, the assistants employed on the trucks, and the supply room assistant shall begin work at 8 o'clock A. M., and provided further, that on Saturdays the supply room may be closed at 1 o'clock P. M., except during July and August and on the first Saturday in September, when it may be closed at 12 o'clock M.

3. The administration building shall be used for the following purposes only:

(a) Regular business of the Board.
(b) Meetings of persons connected with or in the interest of public schools or school activities.
(c) Meetings of educational organizations.

(d) Public hearings of the Finance Commission.

4. The administration building shall not be used for purposes (b), (c), or (d) in the preceding paragraph unless and until an application has been filed therewith with the secretary and a permit has been issued by him for such occupancy.

5. No officer, director, supervisor or head of department shall occupy his office outside of the hours as specified in paragraph 1 of this section unless he shall have filed an application therewith with the secretary and received a permit for such occupancy.

6. No subordinates employed in the administration building shall be permitted to remain therein outside of regular office hours as specified in paragraph 1 of this section unless application for such occupancy shall have been filed by the heads of their respective departments and permits therefor issued by the secretary.

7. Elevator service shall be furnished from 8 o'clock A. M. until 5 o'clock P. M., at least one elevator to be operated during this entire period and both elevators during such part thereof as the secretary may determine.

8. The custodian of the administration building shall have entire charge of the superintendence, cleaning, heating and ventilation thereof, and the care of sidewalks and areas at side and rear of building. He shall be paid for such service at an annual rate to be established by the Board, and he shall employ such assistants as in the opinion of the schoolhouse custodian may be necessary, and such employees shall be subject to the approval of the schoolhouse custodian.

9. The custodian of the administration building, for attendance and supervision after 6:30 o'clock P. M., when the building is occupied under the provisions of paragraph 2 of this section, shall be paid additional compensation at rates to be established by the Board.

10. The compensation of the custodian shall not include the cleaning of the outside windows of the administration building, and the expense of such cleaning will be assumed directly by the Board.

11. With the exception of the work set forth in the preceding paragraph, the custodian shall at all times keep the administration building suitably heated, ventilated, and cleaned, and shall keep the sidewalks clear at the side and rear of the building clear of snow and in neat and clean condition.

Laid over.

A communication was received from the Schoolhouse Custodian, under date of Feb. 19, 1923, recommending that John F. Doonan, custodian, Mason Street Building, be transferred to the custodianship of the Administration Building, 15 Beacon Street, to take effect Feb. 16, 1923.

The Board adjourned at 7:07 o'clock P. M.

Attest:

THORNTON D. APOLLONIO,
Secretary.

AREA OF BOSTON.

Area to ward lines (26 wards), 30,598 acres (i. e., 47.81 square miles), 2,944 acres being filled land, 1,143 acres water area and 1,484 acres flats. Land area only 27,971 acres (i. e., 43.70 square miles). Included in the latter are 154 acres of filled flats added to the land area of South Boston in 1919 and 1920 and 133 acres to that of East Boston. Original Boston contained about 780 acres of land. Of the twelve leading American cities, eight are larger in land area than Boston, viz., Los Angeles (365.7 sq. miles), New York (318), Chicago (199.4), Philadelphia (129), Baltimore (91.9), Detroit (80), Cleveland (56.6) and St. Louis (61.25). The only city in Massachusetts with larger land area is Taunton (50 sq. mi.).

If Boston should expand by annexations as New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Los Angeles and others have expanded, its total area, in case of including the 39 cities and towns within the 15-mile radius, would exceed the largest, viz., Los Angeles, the present land area of "Greater Boston" being 409.5 square miles.

ALTITUDES IN BOSTON.

(1) Highest, Custom House tower, 510.71 feet, i. e., top of filial above mean low water (same as "City base") or 495 feet from surface of street; (2) Bellevue Hill, West Roxbury, 376.3 feet to top of new reservoir, or about 320 feet to top of hill; (3) Bunker Hill Monument, 307.84 feet, or top of Breed's Hill, Charlestown, at base of monument, 86.44 feet; (4) Sloum Hill, near Allandale street, Jamaica Plain, about 300 feet; (5) High Fort Observatory, Highland Park, Roxbury, 291 feet, or top of hill at base of tower, 158 feet; (6) Revolution Memorial Monument, Telegraph Hill, South Boston, 270 feet, or top of hill at base of monument, 145 feet; (7) State House, top of dome, 261 feet; (8) Hill between Poplar and Dale streets, West Roxbury, near Hyde Park boundary line, about 258 feet; (9) Peters Hill, Arnold Arboretum, 237 feet; (10) Fairmount Hill, Hyde Park, about 220 feet. Beacon Hill, now 107.89 feet (i. e., at corner Mt. Vernon and Joy streets), was originally about as high as the base of the State House dome.

REDIVISION OF BOSTON INTO WARDS.

Chapter 630, Acts of 1914, required the redivision of Boston, by the City Council, into not less than 24 nor more than 36 wards, so arranged as to contain as nearly as could be ascertained an equal number of voters in each ward. On December 28, 1914, the City Council enacted as an Ordinance, by vote of 6 to 3, the plan submitted by its Committee on Redivision of Wards. This plan describes the new boundaries of the 26 wards. (See Municipal Register for 1921, pages 196-207.) The changes effected by the redivision of wards were mainly these, viz., Wards 1 and 2, East Boston, are divided by Prescott and Princeton streets instead of as before; Charlestown has two wards (3 and 4) instead of three; Ward 5 covers the old Wards 6, 7 and 8; Ward 6 in place of old Ward 9; Ward 7 in place of old 10; Ward 8 in place of old 11; Wards 9 and 10 cover the old South Boston Wards 13, 14 and 15 mostly; Ward 11 takes in the northern half of old Ward 16 and western end of old Ward 15; Ward 12 is similar to old Ward 17 and Ward 13 to old 18; Ward 14 includes old Ward 19 and adjacent part of old Ward 22 (as far as Perkins and Centre streets); Wards 15 and 16 cover old Ward 21 and the northern part of 22 (as far as Boylston street); Wards 17, 18 and 19 cover that part of old Ward 16 south of Dudley street and all of old Ward 20; Wards 20 and 21 cover the eastern half and western half respectively of old Ward 24 (as far as Blue Hill avenue and Walk Hill street); Ward 22 includes the southern half of old 22 below Boylston street and the northern end of old Ward 23 to Whipple avenue, Walk Hill, South and Allandale streets; Ward 23 is unchanged except as to its northern boundary just stated, and Ward 24 takes in Mount Hope section, east of railroad, Mattapan and Hyde Park. Wards 25 and 26 cover the southern half and northern half respectively of old Ward 25, Brighton.

POPULATION OF UNITED STATES, NEW ENGLAND AND MASSACHUSETTS.

Continental United States (i. e., 48 States in 1920, 105,708,771; outlying possessions, 12,148,738; total, 117,857,509. In Sept., 1922, the population of the United States slightly exceeded 110,000,000 (i. e., 6.46 per cent of the earth's estimated total) the rate of increase being 3 per cent every two years, as shown by the actual increase from 1910 to 1920, while that of Massachusetts was slightly over 4,000,000.

POPULATION OF OTHER CITIES OF OVER THREE HUNDRED THOUSAND, WITH INCREASE OVER PREVIOUS CENSUS (RANKING FROM HIGHEST).

New York, 5,621,151 (increase of 854,268 or 17.9 per cent over 1910); i. e., Manhattan Borough, 2,284,103; Brooklyn, 2,022,262; Bronx, 732,016; Queens, 466,811; and Richmond, 115,959. Chicago, 2,701,705 (inc. 516,422 or 23.6 per cent); Philadelphia, 1,823,158 (inc. 274,150 or 17.7 per cent); Detroit, 993,739 (inc. 527,973 or 113.4 per cent); Cleveland, 796,836 (inc. 236,173 or 42.1 per cent); St. Louis, 772,897 (inc. 85,868 or 12.5 per cent); Baltimore 733,826 (inc. 175,341 or 31.4 per cent); Pittsburgh, 588,193 (inc. 54,288 or 10.2 per cent); Los Angeles, 576,673 (inc. 257,475 or 80.7 per cent); San Francisco, 508,410 (inc. 91,498 or 21.9 per cent); Buffalo, 506,775 (inc. 83,060 or 19.6 per cent); Milwaukee, 457,147 (inc. 83,290 or 22.3 per cent); Washington, 437,571 (inc. 106,502 or 32.2 per cent); Newark, 414,216 (inc. 66,747 or 19.2 per cent); Cincinnati, 401,247 (inc. 37,656 or 10.4 per cent); New Orleans, 387,219 (inc. 48,144 or 14.21 per cent); Minneapolis, 380,582 (inc. 79,174 or 26.3 per cent); Kansas City, Mo., 324,410 (inc. 76,029 or 30.6 per cent); Seattle, 315,652 (inc. 78,455 or 33.1 per cent); Indianapolis, 314,194 (inc. 80,544 or 34.5 per cent).

SNOW EQUIPMENT DESIRED.

Mayor Curley has authorized Public Works Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke to investigate the possibilities of purchasing from the Federal Government or elsewhere forty or fifty tractors, to which may be attached plows for the removal of snow next winter. The Mayor also wants two mechanical snow loaders, with side shelves for discharge of snow into trucks, such as the Boston Elevated Railway Company used in the streets at snow removal during the past season.

The Mayor acted following the close of a meeting attended by representatives of public service corporations, civic organizations and city officials upon the 27th ultimo.

Mayor Curley charges that whatever shortcomings there has been in dealing with snow this year is due to the failure of preceding administrations to purchase mechanical snow removers such as are being successfully used elsewhere.

The Mayor told the gathering that, not only has snow removal work caused a $450,000 expenditure of taxpayers' money this year, but that snow conditions have so ruined the surfaces of Massachusetts avenue and Beacon street that $250,000 will have to be spent in repairing them in the spring. Chains on heavy truck tires cut the street surfaces as the wheels pass through grooves in the snow, the Mayor said.

The gathering indorsed Mayor Curley's decision to obtain mechanical equipment.

MISSIONERS, 33 Beacon street, for information as to the care of the Common,
Public Garden, Franklin Park, Franklin
Field, Commonwealth avenue, Back Bay
Fens, Marine Park and the small parks and playgrounds in general throughout the city, and as to the extermination of gypsy moths and the charges made for such service. Application may be made to this department for information regarding the public baths and gymnasiums maintained by the city, and with regard to municipal indoor concerts and band concerts; also information relative to Mount Hope, Evergreen, Fairview and other public cemeteries owned by the City of Boston.

TO THE SCHOOL COMMITTEE, 15 Beacon street, for information relative to the operation of the schools of the city.

TO THE SCHOOLHOUSE COMMISSIONERS,
Room 1007, City Hall Annex, for information as to the construction and repair of school buildings.

formed steel reinforcing rods. Bids for the supply, opened February 27, were as follows:

Bancroft & Martin Rolling Mills Company, $11,493.60; less ½ per cent discount if paid within ten days, $57.47; net total, $11,436.13. Barker Steel Company, $12,190; 1 per cent $121.90; $12,068.10.

WITHOUT ADVERTISING.

The Mayor has approved the following contracts, awarded without advertising; requests of heads of departments to do the work with the department forces without advertising; additions to and deductions from contracts.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Upon March 5 the Mayor approved an award of contract to the Burroughs Company for a ledger posting and statement machine, with electric drive. A communication from Fire Commissioner Theodore A. Glynn was as follows:

BOSTON, February 27, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—Inclosed you will please find cut with circular of a Burroughs ledger posting and statement machine, style No. 6505, electric drive, with 3-inch spacing and special characters.

Permission is hereby requested to purchase this type of bookkeeping machine for the stock accounting office of the Bureau of Supplies and Repairs, where it is necessary to employ this machine in order that the system installed there might be complete and the work at hand carried on in its entirety.

The Burroughs Company has already quoted a price of $885 for this special make of machine.

Very truly yours,

THEODORE A. GLYNN,
Fire Commissioner.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT (Artificial Stone Sidewalks).

Upon March 5 the Mayor approved an award of contract to the Scully Company for building artificial stone sidewalks. A communication from Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Department of Public Works, was as follows:

BOSTON, March 1, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—Permission to award a contract for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks in the public streets, without advertising, to the Scully Company, 118 First street, Cambridge, is hereby requested on the ground that this contractor is not selected by the city in the first instance but by the abutters; and secondly the expense of construction being divided by the city and abutters; also because such contracts vary greatly in amounts and seldom involve one thousand (1,000) dollars.

Respectfully yours,

JOSEPH A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Upon March 5 the Mayor approved an award of contract to Patrick J. Duffy for building artificial stone sidewalks. A communication from Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Department of Public Works was as follows:

BOSTON, March 1, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—Permission to award a contract for laying artificial stone sidewalks in the public streets, without advertising, to Patrick J. Duffy, 38 Norwell street, Dorchester, is hereby requested on the ground that this contractor is not selected by the city in the first instance but by the abutters; and secondly, the expense of construction being divided by the city and abutters; also because such contracts vary greatly in amounts and seldom involve one thousand ($1,000) dollars.

Respectfully yours,

JOSEPH A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT (Ferry Service).

Upon March 8 the Mayor approved an award for placing the ferryboat "Noddle Island" in dry dock, for the repair of rudders, propellers, the repair of copper on the hull and the repairing of the underbody of the boat. A communication from Joseph A. Rourke, Commissioner of the Public Works Department, was as follows:

Boston, March 6, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR.—Authority is requested to place the ferryboat "Noddle Island" in dry dock, repair rudders, propellers, repair copper on hull and paint underbody, without inviting proposals therefor by advertisement, the estimated cost for labor and material being $2,500.

This is emergency work, the rudder being broken by collision with some submerged object. Work to be done at Simpson's Patent Dry Dock, where equipment is good and work can be done speedily and economically.

Respectfully,

JOSEPH A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

ADDITIONS TO AND DEDUCTIONS FROM CONTRACTS.

The following additions to and deductions from contracts have been approved:

HOSPITAL DEPARTMENT.

An addition, in the amount of $20,580.48, on contract with the John Bowen Company, for the erection of the Thorndike Memorial Building, at the Boston City Hospital. For extra furnishings and fittings as per plans and specifications for same, including portable furniture, etc., $14,765.71; deduction for such of above as was included in original plans and specifications, $482.32; for plumbing in connection with Bench "F" media room, fourth floor, $36.46; installation of Thorophone system, $438.78; running and setting in place molding, caps, etc., in lecture room as per plans, etc., $3,150; area and drain, $375; change in window, central room, basement, $50.24; equipment in window B, dark room, $52.48; special device for passenger elevator opening, $44.66; labor and material for construction of three caisson piers, and other work shown on plans for engine foundation, $449.42; revisions in diet kitchen as per plans, $700.05; total, $20,580.48. Original contract, $313,000; total additions, $59,250.07; total deductions, $9,029.80; contract as standing, $363,220.27.

EXTENSION OF CONTRACTS.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT (Sanitary Service).

An extension of time has been granted for completion of contract made with the Murray Engineering Company for repairing structures at three garbage stations, from February 15, 1923, to May 15, 1923. This extension is requested for the reason that the contractor has been delayed on account of stormy weather and embargo on materials.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT (Sewer Service).

An extension of time has been granted for completion of contract made with V. Bartletta for building sewerage works in Allston street, Boulevard terrace and Commonwealth terrace, Brighton, January 27, 1923, to May 1, 1923, ninety-four days. This extension is occasioned by delay due to weather conditions.

An extension of time has been granted for completion of contract made with Vozzella & Capone for building sewerage works in Bowditch road, Cedarwood road and outlet in private land, West Roxbury, from February 24, 1922, to May 5, 1923, seventy days. This extension is due to delay caused by cold and weather.

An extension of time has been granted for completion of contract made with Antony Baruffaldi Company for building sewerage works in Maverick street, from 500 feet southeasterly of Jeffries street to Lamson street, East Boston, from February 28, 1923, to May 5, 1923, sixty-six days. The necessity for this extension is due to weather conditions.

An extension of time has been granted for completion of contract made with Antony Baruffaldi, for building sewerage works for Glendale road outlet, section 1, and North avenue, West Roxbury, from March 3, 1923, to March 31, 1923, twenty-eight days. The necessity for this extension is due to stormy weather.

SCHOOLHOUSE DEPARTMENT.

An extension of time has been granted for the completion of contract made with the National Electric Construction and Supply Company, for electric and gas systems in the Prince District School, St. Mary's and Mountfort streets, Back Bay, until May 12, 1923.

EXTRA WORK UNDER CONTRACTS.

R. Zoppo has been directed to perform the following extra work under contract for building sewerage works in Landseer terrace, between Landseer street and point 231 feet southwesterly, West Roxbury. Items ordered: Extra excavation due to change in street after contract was made—the estimated cost of extra work being $51.24.

The Frank E. Ross Company have been directed to perform the following extra work under contract for masonry settings for new boilers at Calf Pasture pumping station, Dorchester. Items ordered: Build masonry front for three boilers, between arch and back of front plates and set brick Venturi rings for oil burner. Change brickwork in rear of boilers—the estimated cost of extra work being $400.

The Gibby Engineering Company have been directed to perform the following extra work under contract for hand stokers for three 350 horse power Geary type water tube boilers for Calf Pasture pumping station, Dorchester. Items ordered: Place and secure and afterwards remove complete set of boiler front plates for three new boilers, in connection with placing and removing hand stokers—the estimated cost of extra work being $35.

PRIMARY FOR REPRESENTATIVE.

The Board of Election Commissioners announce a primary will be held in the Twelfth Suffolk District for nomination of a candidate to succeed the late Representative Thomas M. Joyce, Democrat, who died in office, upon Tuesday, April 30.

The election will be held two weeks later, when a successor will be chosen to fill out the remaining eighteen months of his term.

The Election Commission has determined the voting hours in the primary at 10 a. m. to 8 p. m. The entire question of polling hours is now under consideration for a change from the old period of 6 a. m. to 4 p. m.; this will be a first opportunity to see how the change works out in a center such as Boston. The polling hours for the election will be announced later.

SALE OF BARRELS.

The Mayor has granted Commissioner of Public Works Joseph A. Rourke permission to sell to J. C. McGoldrick, 88 Charles street, East Cambridge, 500 old tar barrels, at 40 cents each, total value $200.

The Paving Service has no use for these barrels, and the price quoted is reasonable and fair.

FREE PUBLIC LECTURES.

The Trustees of the Boston Public Library announce the twenty-fifth season of Free Public Lectures for the season of 1922-23.

The lectures will be given upon Thursday evenings at 8 o'clock and Sunday afternoons at 3:30 o'clock.

The entrance is from Boylston street only. The doors will be opened two hours before each lecture and closed ten minutes after the lecture begins. The Thursday lectures are always illustrated by lantern slides. The Sunday lectures usually are not illustrated. Exceptions are mentioned below. Lectures are given occasionally during the winter in the lecture hall of the Charlestown, East Boston, Jamaica Plain, North End, West Roxbury, and Upham's Corner Branches.

Thursday Evenings at Eight O'Clock.

- Mar. 15. Recent Municipal Activities in Boston. His Honor the Mayor, James M. Curley.
- Mar. 22. Bird Banding: The Why and the How. Charles B. Floyd.
- Mar. 29. Fountains of Rome. Cav. L. Melano Rossi.
- Apr. 6. The Art of Drawing: as a means to an end and in itself. Alfred Mansfield Brooks, A.M., professor of fine arts, Indiana University. (Under the auspices of the Museum of Fine Arts.)

Sunday Afternoons at 3:30 O'Clock.

- 1923.
- Mar. 11. Poetry in the Making. John Livingston Lowes, Ph.D., professor of English, Harvard University.
- Mar. 18. Modern Anglo-Irish Poets. With readings and commentaries from the authors' own books. Norreys Jephson O'Connor, A.M.
- Mar. 25. Getting back to Nature. How We Answered the Call of the Wild. Manley B. Townsend. With lantern illustrations.
- Apr. 1. Dramatizing the Master Dramatist: Recent Plays upon Shakespeare. Albert H. Gilmer, A.M., assistant professor of English, Tufts College. With lantern illustrations. (Drama League Course.)

STREET WIDENING HEARING.

Mayor Curley addressed the Committee on Municipal Finance of the Massachusetts Legislature, at a hearing on his petition that the city be authorized to expend $18,500,000 for various street widening projects upon the 5th instant.

The proposed undertakings include the widening of these thoroughfares: Exchange street, between State street and Dock square, and Washington street, at or near the corner of Dock square; Province street, from School street to West street; Portland street, from Hanover street to Washington street; Tremont street, from a point near Arlington street to Stuart street, and a new street from the corner of Arlington and Tremont streets to Washington street, at a point near Beach street; Summer street, including a bridge across Reserved channel; L street to the Strandway; Cambridge street, from Charles street to Court street; Court street, from Cambridge street to the junction of Court and Howard streets; Causeway street to Levett street, extending Causeway street to Cambridge street; Chauncy street, between Bedford street and Summer street, and Adams street in Dorchester, from King square to Minot street.

It is provided in the act that it shall take effect upon its acceptance by vote of the City Council.

Mayor Curley in addressing the committee deplored the tendency of some people to oppose matters of municipal improvement, declaring that criticism is made whenever improvements are suggested. Other cities of the United States and many in Canada, especially those of the Middle West, the Mayor said, are giving much attention to local development. Only recently, he declared, the people of St. Louis voted on referendum to expend $87,000,000 for street improvement.

Discussing his petition, the Mayor said that although such measures may appear revolutionary, conditions warrant them. The city will be saved millions in a few years, he stated.

He said that it was imperative that an outlet from the business section be provided for traffic bound for Somerville and Cambridge and other places to the north. He pointed out the great investment the city had in the public markets, one that has been depreciated, he contended, during the last few years by a falling off of patronage due to the hardships worked upon persons wishing to use them.

Under the terms of this proposed bill a thoroughfare 100 feet wide would be constructed through what is now Cambridge and Court streets, at an estimated cost of $3,500,000.

To care for the congested conditions now prevailing from State street to Dock square, the Mayor would immediately widen Exchange street, which, in connection with the improving of Cambridge and Charles streets, would give an inlet and outlet over the Cambridge Bridge, which would care for the city's increased traffic for some time to come.

Touching upon other proposed street improvements, the Mayor said that he had seen plans drawn for the United Fruit Company, which called for the erection of a hotel at Province and Bromfield streets at a cost of more than seven million dollars. "This would not be undertaken," he continued, "until the thoroughfare had been completed. Its erection before this time would cost the city much if at any future time the widening had to be done."

He was of the opinion that the improvements in the West End should be considered before anything was accomplished as regards Summer, Causeway or Chauncy streets in the downtown section, and Adams street in Dorchester. While these improvements are needed, he was of the belief that they could wait a while longer and perhaps the city might see a way clear to undertake them in another year.

He said that the Transit Commission is studying the feasibility of removing the subway stations that now block traffic in Scollay and Adams squares.

Questioned by members of the committee as to the attitude of the Boston Finance Commission toward these improvements, the Mayor, with a trace of a smile, said that the commission was "a necessary evil and an irritant that sometimes accomplished much good, but somewhat like the measles, was harmless once in a while, while serious if a permanent ailment."

William C. Codman also spoke in favor. He said that if the matter was postponed it would cost the city a great deal more later on and declared that ten years ago he made a survey of conditions and it was estimated that the improvements could have been made at that time for about $1,500,000.

Representative Bernard Finkelstein of Boston, speaking for the bill, said that the Cambridge street improvement would "smash the office building trust in Boston."

"It is almost impossible to stand the rents downtown at present," he said, "because of the lack of office buildings. It is a disgrace to the city to see the big lot on which the Revere House formerly stood remaining idle for a year because nobody will build on it. They are using this valuable land in the heart of a congested section to park automobiles at 25 cents each."

Attorneys W. Rodman Peabody, representing the Boston Real Estate Exchange, said that the exchange is in favor of the Cambridge street widening.

Robert Homans, counsel for the trustees of the Brooks estate, owners of property on Tremont row, urged the building of a new municipal court building and police headquarters in connection with the proposed improvement.

"Our property, assessed at $95 per foot on Tremont row," he said, "takes in the Police Headquarters in Pemberton square. We strongly favor the Mayor's idea to take the additional land that would come from the street widening between Court and Howard streets, which can be got for about $15 a foot, opposite the end of Somerset street and use that for a municipal court and police headquarters site."

Arthur P. Morley of Cambridge, secretary of the Kendall Square Manufacturers' Association, which includes 60 large concerns, said that Kendall square holds the key to the solution of the traffic problem of Boston.

"By making this great improvement," he said, "the traffic, instead of all going up Beacon street and out Massachusetts avenue, will go out direct to Kendall square, where it will be split up in several directions."

Attorney Claude L. Allen, representing the Boston Chamber of Commerce, and George Leclair, an architect, representing a special committee of the Chamber, which studied the various street widening projects, favored the Cambridge street improvement. Mr. Leclair spoke in favor of a comprehensive study of the other projects, but said that the Cambridge street improvement is so immediately necessary that it should not be further delayed.

Mr. Leclair submitted the views of the special committee, in part: "The awakened interest which is being taken in the future development of Boston is highly creditable, but we believe that the first requisite in obtaining definite action and beneficial results is a comprehensive city plan. Chicago, New York, Philadelphia, Detroit, St. Louis, Pittsburgh, Baltimore, Springfield and Worcester are notable examples of progressive American cities that are proceeding according to definite city plans.

"The city has made a splendid beginning in this direction in the preparation of zoning ordinance, in which the Chamber is co-operating by representation upon the Zoning Advisory Commission," he said. "However, there is urgent necessity for enlarging the work of the City Planning Board by granting increased appropriations so that the complete city plan can be carried to an early consummation."

LAND-TAKING IN CHARLESTOWN.

The Mayor has approved the order of the Board of Street Commissioners for the widening of Chelsea street, as a highway, at the westerly corner of Bunker Hill street, Charlestown.

The highway named Chelsea street is hereby widened, at the westerly corner of Bunker Hill street, and ordered constructed.

The part of said highway as widened herein, and the land, exclusive of trees or structures standing upon or affixed thereto, in which an easement for street purposes is hereby taken, is bounded and described as follows:

Southeasterly by the line of Chelsea street, as said line existed previous to this widening, twelve and 55-100 feet; westerly by the line of Chelsea street as hereby established, by a curved line of sixteen feet radius, twenty-one and 28-100 feet; northeasterly by the line of Bunker Hill street as said line existed previous to this widening, twelve and 55-100 feet; containing thirty-one square feet, more or less.

Trees or structures standing upon or affixed to the aforesaid described land shall be removed therefrom within sixty days following a notice of the city's intention to enter thereon for the purpose of constructing said improvement.

No betterments are to be assessed for the making of the aforesaid improvement.

The Board determines that the undementioned estate sustains damages by the making of the public improvement, consisting of the widening of Chelsea street, Charlestown, as a highway, at the westerly corner of Bunker Hill street, in the amount hereinafter set against it, and awards said amount therefor.

THE APPRENTICE SYSTEM.

His Honor the Mayor has forwarded a recommendation to Chairman Lane of the School Committee, as follows, in conjunction with the report of the City Planning Board relative to the adoption of the apprenticeship system:

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
March 3, 1923.

MR. RICHARD LANE, Chairman, School Committee, Boston, Mass.:

MY DEAR MR. LANE,—The City Planning Board has this day submitted a report which I sincerely trust the School Committee will consider, as the adoption of the recommendation contained in the report will do much toward solving one of the most important problems confronting the people of the Commonwealth at the present time.

Sincerely yours,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

The City Planning Board has given careful consideration to the suggestion offered to your Honor by John F. Walsh, secretary of the Building Trades Employers' Association, with regard to "development of a public trade school program for Boston that would produce from the ranks of young men of adaptable qualifications the much needed skilled building trades mechanics." In support of his recommendation, Mr. Walsh states that in the construction industry there are available plenty of young men without any trade or calling, seeking in vain for steady employment, while on the other hand building contractors are unable to man their operations because of the shortage in many of the skilled trades. In explanation of this situation Mr. Walsh submits that the present school system affords no real efficient trade program for building trades mechanics as a whole, and that the boys and young men are not given the necessary opportunity to become finished tradesmen.

In its study of this situation the City Planning Board has interviewed representatives of the Boston School Committee, the Building Trades Employers' Association, the Boston Central Labor Union, the Boston Building Congress, the Associated Industries of Massachusetts and the Mechanics' Association. It has also made a personal investigation of the work being carried on by the Boston Trade School, and has examined the courses of study offered by Wentworth Institute, the Franklin Union and the Lowell Institute. The one fact upon which all agree is that there is a serious shortage of apprentices in the building industry, and that construction work is not only materially hampered thereby but that costs are also materially increased. Employees in certain branches of the building industry are said to be receiving today in New York City $17 per day, $23 per day in Chicago and $25 per day in Philadelphia. This naturally leads to high building costs, which tend to lessen the volume of construction, while at the same time, through lack of continuity of employment, the annual wage of the average employee in the building industry does not show any material increase over previous years. In other words, conditions at the present time have given rise to the paradoxical situation where nobody gains and everybody loses.

To review briefly the situation as it exists in Boston today, the City Planning Board submits the following:

The Boston Trade School is designed to serve the needs of those boys who, from choice of necessity, must enter gainful occupations at the earliest possible moment. It gives two years of intensive training in the trade selected, auto mechanics, cabinetmaking, carpentry, electricity, machine practice, printing, or sheet metal work, with the related work in English, mathematics, science and art, thus enabling boys to enter industry with an advanced apprentice standing. Approximately 500 pupils are enrolled at the present time, and several hundred applicants are refused admission yearly. One half of the expense of maintaining this school is assumed by the state. The original plans called for a building with two wings instead of one as at present constituted, so that an extension of its shop facilities, which is recognized by the School Department as of immediate necessity, should not be accompanied by as many difficulties as under other circumstances. The estimate recently submitted to the Legislature by the School Committee included an appropriation of $260,000 for an extension of the Trade School facilities.

Co-operative courses in agriculture, auto mechanics, electrical work, machine shop work and woodworking are also offered in various high schools throughout the city. This schedule provides for vacation work and every other week during the school year at a rate of compensation agreed upon with the employer. An industrial certificate is granted at the end of four years in high school, and a diploma upon the completion of a required number of apprenticeship hours. This also enables the graduates to enter industry with advanced apprentice standing. It is estimated that upwards of 1,000 boys are enrolled in these co-operative courses.

The Mechanic Arts High School, with an enrollment of about 1,500 pupils, aims to prepare boys for careers on the business and directive side of productive industry, including accurate and systematized as well as elementary knowledge of the general processes of industry, methods of production, materials and machines, business and shop organization, the economics of production, and the applications of science, mathematics and drawing to manufacturing and mechanical work. It tends to develop clear notions of good workmanship and the difficulties of producing it, and the mechanical intelligence and skill required for efficient service in a great variety of responsible positions, rather than skill of hand on the part of the trained worker. This training, which is coupled with instruction in related academic subjects, is considered satisfactory preparation for advantageous approach to leadership in woodworking, bookbinding, machine shop work, printing, electricity, sheet metal work, painting and gardening.

There are also prevocational classes for boys under fourteen years of age, including electrical work, woodworking, gardening, printing, bookbinding, machine shop, sheet metal and painting. This training is also combined with intensive related academic work.

To these might be added the regular courses in manual training, which give to the boys a certain amount of practical skill in the handling of tools; and the continuation schools, which provide part-time instruction for the boys who are forced to enter industry before completing their school course.

Wentworth Institute, founded by Arioeh Wentworth "for the purpose of furnishing education in the mechanical arts," offers one-year day courses of apprenticeship grade for persons who wish to become skilled workmen, and longer and more thorough courses for those who wish later to become superior workmen, master mechanics or foremen. There are also evening courses for young men already employed who desire to increase their efficiency. These courses include carpentry and building, electric wiring, plumbing, machine work, pattern making, design, foundry practice, forging, and many others incident to building and manufacturing, as well as in the printing and graphic arts trades. The day courses carry with them a fee of $10 per person for one year, and $18 per term for two years, with an additional laboratory charge of $5; evening courses, $10 per season, with a laboratory charge of $5 or $8.

Franklin Union provides instruction intended to supplement the daily work of men in the trades or industries. The classes listed do not teach trades. In each course a registration fee is exacted. The average age of the 2,400 students attending during the past season is twenty-six years.

The Lowell Institute School for Industrial Foremen, established under the auspices of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, offers a mechanical, an electrical and a building course, intended to bring the systematic study of applied science within the reach of young men who are following industrial pursuits and desire to fit themselves for higher positions but are unable to attend courses during the day. Instruction is free, a registration fee of $5 only being required.

It must be recognized, therefore, that none of the schools in existence in Boston today, either public or private, afford opportunity for instruction in those trades most essential to the building industry, such as bricklaying, painting, masonry work, plasterers, lathers, steamfitters, asbestos workers, etc.

On the other hand, in Greater Boston at the present time there are reported to be 9,000 carpenters. Union rules permit of one apprentice for every ten workmen, or a total of 900 apprentices, whereas as a matter of fact the total number today is said to be fifty-two. In Greater New York there are said to be 24,000 carpenters, with the same ratio of apprentices as in Boston, or 2,400, whereas there are said to be less than 240. The same conditions are reported in Philadelphia, and may doubtless be found throughout the large cities of the country. This shortage of apprentices may be largely influenced by any one or all of three conditions, i. e.:

- (a) Lack of opportunity for instruction in the building trades.
- (b) Lack of interest in the building trades among present day boys and young men.
- (c) Lack of continuity of employment.

The school authorities should—and the City Planning Board believes they do—stand ready to do their part toward overcoming the first condition. The City Planning Board also believes very strongly, however, that in making plans to develop a Trade School program the school authorities should work in the closest co-operation with representatives of the building industry, in order that the proper proportions shall be maintained with regard to supply and demand.

The second condition, also, is no less a matter of education. It is estimated that for one boy in the schools today who is inclined to industrial life there are three or more who desire to enter upon a commercial career, while the demand from the business world is in practically reversed proportions. An effort should be made, through the schools or such other agency as may seem to afford the best opportunity, to convince the American boys that labor with the hands is dignified and ennobling.

The question of seasonal unemployment is recognized as one of the basic ills of the building industry today, and one which, if overcome, would decrease the cost of building, increase contentment and stability of labor, and make easier the winning of new recruits to the apprentice ranks.

In view of the above considerations, therefore, the City Planning Board has come to the conclusion that the question of apprentices is one which is better understood by the building industry itself than by any other group, and that the situation can be best controlled by them, with the co-operation and assistance of the municipality, through its School Department. This was emphasized in a recent report made by a joint committee composed of three members each from the Building Trades Employers' Association, the Building Trades Council and the Boston Building Congress. They found no accepted method of procedure for the recruiting and training of apprentices, and no recognized channel through which a boy desiring to learn a trade may enter the industry. They accordingly recommended the creation of a Commission on Apprenticeship, to be composed of all elements of the building industry, to be charged with the duty of developing and putting into effect a general plan for the recruiting and training of apprentices for all the trades in the industry, to direct and supervise the operation of the plan, and to prevent unnecessary interruptions due to seasonal or other trade causes.

The joint committee expressed the opinion that thoroughly trained mechanics will best be developed through practical training on construction work, or in the shops related thereto, with parallel instructions in the necessary theoretical and technical branches of their training. This comprehends a program worked out in consultation with the school authorities, as has been done in New York where an appropriation of $70,000 has been made by the Board of Education for apprenticeship work for the year. Similar plans are said to be under way in Philadelphia and other large cities.

The joint committee recommended the creation of a Commission on Apprenticeship composed of nine members, three appointed by the Building Trades Employers' Association, three by the United Building Trades Council and three by the Boston Building Congress. The City Planning Board believes this recommendation to be fundamentally sound since it would afford the building industry an opportunity of curing its own ills by

(a) Working out an education program, in conjunction with the school authorities, which would conform to the requirements of the different branches of the building industry.

(b) Building up the opportunities offered by the building trades so that they will attract the boys who would not otherwise be interested.

(c) Providing continuous employment for regularly enrolled apprentices. The City Planning Board believes, therefore, that the interests of the community as a whole will best be served by the creation of a Commission on Apprenticeship as recommended by the joint committee, to be composed of all elements of the building industry, and for the purpose outlined above and working in close co-operation with the school authorities in the development of a program of industrial education which shall combine academic instruction with practical training, to the end that a proper balance between supply and demand shall be at all times maintained.

Respectfully submitted,
THE CITY PLANNING BOARD,
FREDERIC H. FAY,
Chairman.

SAFETY IN CITY STREETS.

Mayor Curley has received the following report from "The Mayor's Committee for Co-operation in Making the Streets Safe for Horses in Winter," and has forwarded the same to Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department for compliance in so far as possible:

88 BROAD STREET,
BOSTON, March 3, 1923.

DEAR MAYOR CURLEY:—This committee has already made an informal report to you, but we wish now to present certain suggestions which, we beg, will be given your personal consideration. These suggestions are not at all by way of fault-finding, but with a view to the future.

For the first time since the use of the automobile truck became common we have had heavy falls of snow, and it has been found that the spinning of the rear wheels of the trucks wear deep holes in the snow and ice, and thus renders the streets almost impassable for horses and also for automobiles. The interruption to traffic thus caused has been great, and the suffering of the horses extreme. The only remedy is the prompt removal of the snow, and this would also be the cheapest course, for it is cheaper to remove snow at once than to remove the same snow later in the form of ice. We therefore suggest:

(1.) That the removal of snow should begin as soon as the snow begins to fall, and should be continued night and day.

(2.) That the use of snow plows, which have proved extremely effective this winter, should be made as general as possible. The plow makes the streets passable, and the snow which the plow pushes to the side of the street may be left there, or removed later according to circumstances.

(3.) That the market district, and the teaming district generally, should be cleared of snow as soon as the shopping and residential districts. This is not always done.

(4.) That there should be established a regular order in which the streets most used for commercial traffic should be cleared, instead of having the order determined by chance or, more or less, by somebody's complaint. Thus paralleled streets like Purchase, High, Franklin and Milk, one or more should be taken first, and so of the crosswise streets.

(5.) That Atlantic avenue should be considered of most importance and Northern avenue next.

(6.) That Northern avenue, Sleeper street and Congress street should be made a snow district by themselves.

(7.) That Oliver street, or whatever other street is used by the city sanitary horses should be among the first to be cleared.

We also suggest the following changes in respect to contracts for snow and ice removal:

(8.) That there should be separate compensation (a) for the removal of snow; (b) for the removal of ice; (c) for "picking up" ice, leaving it to be disposed of by the sun and by the traffic. As things now are, it is difficult to get the contractors to remove ice, which has to be "picked up," for they receive no more pay for that than for the removal of snow, which requires only shovel work.

Finally, we heartily support the position of the Public Works Department that contracts for snow and ice removal should not necessarily be given to the lowest bidder. The folly of that system was sufficiently proved by what happened this winter. It is true that a bond to reimburse the city goes with every contract, but a bond will not remove snow. There have always been men who would put in a bid for city work at a price below the market price, hoping to "get by" with old, worn-out horses, rotten harness, ill-paid, unintelligent drivers, and carts on the verge of a breakdown. Such men cannot do effective work, and by employing them the city would put itself in the position of one who attempts to buy something for less than its market value, a business system which always proves unsatisfactory in the long run.

Respectfully submitted,

INDICTMENT OF COMMISSION SOUGHT.

Mayor Curley has instructed Assistant Corporation Counsel Joseph P. Lyons to file a brief with District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien, seeking an indictment of the members of the Finance Commission and Secretary John C. L. Dowling, for criminal libel by its action in maligning Health Commissioner Francis X. Mahoney.

Mayor Curley declared Doctor Mahoney has a high rating in his profession, attained through long years of faithful, conscientious work. Nobody has ever before questioned the high quality of his character, or the excellence of his professional standards.

The members of the Finance Commission are Michael H. Sullivan, chairman; Charles L. Carr, Courtney Guild, John F. Moors and J. Waldo Pond.

ADDRESS TO CITY EMPLOYEES.

Hon. E. Mark Sullivan, the Corporation Counsel, delivered, in the enforced absence of his Honor the Mayor, James M. Curley, in Washington, the following address to employees of the City of Boston, at the Globe Theatre, Boston, upon Sunday, 4th instant:

GENTLEMEN,—In the unavoidable absence of the Mayor from the city on public business of importance, I have been delegated by him to say to you the things he desires you to hear and remember, and live up to.

The employees of the City of Boston, no matter in what particular class of work they are engaged in, are probably as well paid workers, class for class, as any in the community, whether their labor be manual, clerical, technical, directory, constructive, financial or administrative; they are protected in their employment by law and custom; they have the highest standard of working hours; they are accorded vacation privileges and holidays not always recognized in private employment; and their old age is provided for by a pension system, the obligations of which are not difficult to observe and live up to.

The City of Boston, which means all the citizens and taxpayers of this community in their collective and administrative capacity, is your employer; it pays your salaries and wages for the designated work you are called upon to do; and it has a right to expect from you an honest and conscientious performance of your duties, a loyalty to its interests, a devotion to all that tends to make Boston honored and prosperous and a return in labor and loyalty of 100 cents on every dollar you are paid by the city.

It is because some of us seldom forget our pay and privileges and are not always regardless of our duties and responsibilities, that you have been called together today, that your memories may be refreshed and your sense of obligation to the city may be awakened and stimulated.

The activities and conduct of those engaged in private employment do not attract much attention from the public; when they live decently and in obedience to the law their affairs do not concern the world; but an employee of the government of the state or city stands in a different position towards the public; he is a person employed and paid by the public; he is constantly under observation, for he is constantly in contact with the public.

Human nature is the same in Boston as it is everywhere else. Men judge city government by what they see and know of its workings and workers and as a rule form their judgments from the poorest specimens they see in action. Common sense and an instinct of self-protection should make the city employee more careful and industrious in his work, because the average citizen judges the whole character of the administration by the man he meets across an office counter, or sees on the street working in a ditch, collecting garbage, shovelling snow, driving a cart or doing any of the score of things necessary for the health and upkeep of the city. If a gang of workers on the street, or the employees of a department appear to be giving more time to smoking, dawdling and discussing matters foreign to their job instead of doing the work they are supposed to be engaged in, the public which is going and coming all day and sees the city employees "soldiering" immediately concludes that the administration is careless if not dishonest and denounces it. Common honesty demands that the city employees give the city a good day's work for a good day's pay; and the man who will not do that is disloyal to the city, faithless to his salt, and unworthy of his employment.

The Mayor of the city is the elected representative of his fellow citizens; on him rests the responsibility for a clean and efficient administration of the city's affairs; the worker who shirks his work is disloyal to the city and disloyal to the Mayor; and in the final account the sins of the disloyal employee, the shirker and slacker, are piled on the shoulders of the Mayor, who is popularly regarded as the city's official sin-eater.

You city employees are the city's regular army, and army of peace organized and paid to protect and conserve the city's interests, and your labor and loyalty must be above question. The loyal and industrious worker, whether he will or not, is made to bear the sins of the slacker's disloyalty and he should as far as he is able, ban and boycott the disloyal worker who is cheating the city and discrediting the administration.

Your motto should be at all times "Loyalty to the City of Boston and loyalty to the Mayor whoever he may be"; for only by living and working along that plan can you do your share for the betterment of Boston and the satisfaction of her citizens. You must always remember that you are public servants; that you are hired to serve the public and the city; and that service and civility are the very least you owe your employer, the city, and her accredited administrators, the Mayor and his executive officers.

The city has engaged to do certain things for you and your dependents; and the public will cheerfully carry out its share of the bargain, as long as it can be done without overburdening the city with those needless obligations that flow from the waste of inefficiency, slackness and poor work. Good and efficient work in the special activities of municipal administration, the preservation of health, sanitary safety, the care and upkeep of the streets, the protection of life and property, all mean a prosperous and expanding community, where financial stability, municipal credit and a sufficiency of income are productive of constancy of work and wages for the worker, a favorable home for industry and commerce and a public sense of peace and security. In a city where these conditions obtain the plans of general welfare and civic improvement that affect every one of its citizens are possible and feasible, and you and your families and every other worker will be benefited by them; but you must do your share in building up such conditions by doing your share of honest and efficient service. You must realize your responsibility and do your share in securing that efficiency in administration which spells true economy for true economy does not mean the amount of expenditure, but the wisdom of expenditure. In its simplest terms it means giving your employer what he pays you for—a decent day's work for a decent day's pay.

There is an old saying, "Fierce is the light that beats upon a throne," and that translated into the language of 1922 means that all public men and administrations are forever in the limelight, where their lives are in full view of all men and subject to scrutiny and criticism. Because of this every city employee should feel that he is in the limelight and that loyalty to the city he serves and the Mayor he works under are essential and required by every instinct of honor and manhood. He must always feel that the honor and good name of his city and Mayor are in his keeping and that it is his duty to defend them from the assaults and slanders of those forces which live by assailing the credit and honesty of the administration. The spirit of public service must be in you at all times, and that service can be made invincible against the public enemies by individual responsibility and organized co-operation.

Always in the limelight, always under scrutiny, no administration can go far on the wrong road without being called to accountability. This administration, like all public administrations, has its critics, fault-finders and plain villifiers; and it is your duty as a part of this municipal organization to defend it against the falsehoods and slanders aimed to bring it into discredit. If any disreputable press or person can, by vague charges, mean innuendo and the arts of the blackmailer and moral assassin, blacken the character of Boston's government, you as employees of the city are compelled to bear your share of the filth and falsehood cast upon it and that stigma is passed on to your families and friends. It must be plain to you all that it is your duty to defend the good name of Boston and its Mayor and administration from these infamous practices, and as far as lies in your power help to cripple the capacity of these enemies of the public weal for injuring Boston and its good name.

Reputable men and decent newspapers do not make charges out of whole cloth; wholesome public opinion places the moral assassin and the blackmailer outside the pale of reputable society, and insists that his vague and infamous innuendoes shall be supported by hard facts, and if the charges made are tenable and tangible shall be brought to the attention of the district attorney and grand jury. As has been said—and it cannot be said too often or with too much emphasis—this administration stands out in the middle of the road in the full light of the sun; what it does and how it does it is in public view for all men to see and know, and nothing can be hidden from press or person.

This you employees of the City of Boston know, for you are part and parcel of the government; this the press of Boston knows, for it is eternally vigilant and never sleeps; and this the decent elements of Boston community know, for the law and its officials are watchful and sleepless.

Most of the insidious and slanderous assaults on Boston and its Mayor come from one source and one only and the utter dishonesty and baseness of that source are known to all. There is neither profit nor honor in entering into a conflict with the obscene and malodorous creatures that hang on the skirts of civilization, preying upon the fears of the timid, sapping the profits of trade and industry, levying blackmail on the decent, and befouling the atmosphere of its surroundings. Public opinion must destroy this foul thing, since the law demands something more tangible than evil odors to base action on.

It lies in your hand and that of your friends to put this evil thing and its foul proprietor out of business by the simple process of leaving it alone, and by giving the community your co-operative assurance that no charge it makes, no story it tells is worthy of credence, and that no business is aided by its mercenary praise or injured by its malodorous assuaults.

You have a duty to do in protecting the honor and reputation of Boston and its administration from the attacks of the base and mercenary; your good name is part of Boston's and should be protected. We welcome criticism from any source; we reject calumny from all sources; and you soldiers of Boston's army of peace must stand shoulder to shoulder in loyalty and devotion to the administration you serve and are part of.

HOW BOSTON DESTROYED FIRE RISKS.

By CHARLES S. DAMRELL, BUILDING DEPARTMENT.

The work accomplished by the Building Department of Boston toward removing dilapidated buildings and making the city more safe and cleanly has been most successful. The work will continue until practically all such menaces have been effaced.

This effort has proven of manifold value by removing unsightly structures which were an annoyance to the eye; by removing dilapidated, decayed and rotted structures which were a menace to the health of the city; by removing unsafe buildings and structures which endangered the life and limb of the public; by removing structures which were of no taxable value to the city, clearing the land for building improvements which would add to the revenue of the city and increase not only the taxable valuation of the property itself but also of surrounding estates; by greatly improving, as a whole, the safety, health, value and reputation of the city; by removing from the public mind the fear of danger from fire, disease and injury, occasioned by these structures while standing.

STATEMENT OF THE NUMBER OF BUILDINGS TAKEN DOWN AND ESTIMATED COST OF TAKING DOWN SAME.

YEAR.	Number.	Cost.
Previous to January 1, 1918.....	2,321	$283,465
During 1918	184	11,499
During 1919	257	20,187
During 1920	810	40,670
During 1921	231	35,565
During 1922	173	21,240
January and February of 1923..	12	720
Totals	3,488	$413,346

Of this amount the city has taken down but thirty buildings at a cost to the city of $910.

In addition, during this time, 1,107 buildings have been repaired at a cost of $39,041.62.

The Building Department inspectors report all hazardous and unsafe structures and the department then obtains authority from the Mayor to order the removal of the structure by the owner. In case no owner can be located the building is demolished by the city.

CITY PLANNING.

ABSTRACT OF LECTURE DELIVERED BY MISS ELISABETH M. HERLIHY, SECRETARY OF THE CITY PLANNING BOARD, AT THE BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY, THURSDAY, MARCH 1, 1923.

When the idea of giving this lecture here this evening was first broached to me, I looked upon the proposal with a certain degree of trepidation; there is something so academic about the atmosphere of a public library that anything so simple, so logical and so straightforward as city planning seemed out of place among the learned and involved subjects which have been discussed from this platform during the last few months. Then again, it seemed a bit presumptuous for me to appear here as the exponent of the city planning movement in Boston for I am only a very minor cog in the whole machinery, but I called to mind once hearing a learned gentleman say that the very best way to prepare for a trip abroad was to give lectures on the subject before you go. So perhaps I may assume that the best way to become an expert city planner is to tell other people about it first.

I find it a little difficult to know where to begin, what to say, and what not to say. I am invited to tell you in an hour all about a subject to which I have given practically every waking moment for the last ten years, and I might almost say without going over the same ground twice, not because it is complex or difficult, but because it is so far-reaching—comprehensive is the word I always like to use, and the one definite thought I like to leave with my audience,—that city planning is not city planning unless it is comprehensive.

For years city planning has been hailed as a synonym for city beautiful. Well, beauty is not a crime, but it is incidental to rather than the chief aim of city planning. No doubt many of you have read of the campaign about to be launched by the Committee on Education of the American Institute of Architects, for the purpose of "arousing interest in the fine arts and creating a better understanding and appreciation of them." To use their own words, "To make the cities loved, we must make them lovely." To go back even to ancient history for our authority, we have a phrase credited to Mahomet, "If you have two loaves of bread, exchange one for a daffodil; it is just as necessary to have beauty for the growth of the soul as it is to have bread for the growth of the body."

Much of the city planning work of the country has been projected by architects and landscape architects it is true, but the movement only gained its general acceptance and prominence upon the entry of the engineers, the leaven in the loaf. What better proof need we ask of the recognition of city planning as a utilitarian measure than the fact that at the recent legislative hearing at the State House, the Affiliated Technical Societies of Boston, an organization composed of all of the various engineering groups in the community, went on record as unanimously in favor of the establishment of a division of metropolitan planning within the metropolitan district commission.

The chief attribute of a city planning board is imagination, the ability to look ahead, beyond the requirements of the present day, and to forecast with some degree of accuracy the future which will be upon us before we know it. I remember a story told by Lorado Taft, the well-known sculptor from Chicago, of being asked by the firm of Marshall Field of that city to write an advertisement for them. He did so in his own inimitable style, concluding with the phrase, "Better a rag doll and imagination than all the mechanical toys in creation." That particular sentence was eliminated on the ground that it might react against the sale of articles in their toy department. But that brings me to the second word I would like to plant deep in your minds tonight,—imagination. City planning depends for its inception upon imagination; to be successful it must be comprehensive.

To trace the history of the city planning movement we must go back to the beginning of time. The very earliest abodes of man show a certain definite though primitive arrangement. The temples of ancient Greece and Rome, the cathedrals of Europe, the Coliseum, and the Amphitheatres, did not merely happen; they were the result of years of thought, of imagination, of comprehensive study and effort. In city planning, as in music, in art, in sculpture, we must look to the older countries for our inspiration. There is nothing new under the sun. We go on simply adapting old methods to our own needs, or our own needs to old methods, as the case may be.

In fact, in the European countries, city planning is a national institution. Italy was the first country to adopt city planning legislation in 1865; Sweden followed in 1874; Germany came next, and perhaps more modern city planning has been achieved in Germany than in any other country. The plan of France, prepared by Baron Hausman later formed the basis for our own plan for the development of Washington. When Baron Hausmann's plan was first shown to the king, he was greeted with the criticism which has confronted practically every city planning project in the intervening years, "Very fine but who is going to pay for it?" and Baron Hausmann's reply was not merely idle words, "Your Majesty, strangers will pay for it."

At the present time, in the rebuilding of France, every city, town and village in the devastated area must prepare and submit for approval a comprehensive plan for its development before being allowed to start on its rebuilding program. England passed a compulsory city planning law in 1919, and under its provisions plans have been made for the treatment of land which in all probability will not be built upon for fifty or one hundred years. Thus we have America the only country yet to see the light.

While it is true that there were certain isolated cases of city planning legislation in this country, Hartford in 1907 and Bridgeport in 1913, it remained for our own Commonwealth to enact the first state-wide city planning law in the United States in chapter 494 of the Acts of 1913. This act declares that cities and towns in the Commonwealth with a population of over 10,000, shall establish planning boards whose duty it shall be to study the resources, needs and possibilities of the community, and to make plans for its development.

Under that statute today more than fifty planning boards have been established within the limits of the Commonwealth. Boston was among the first, and its Planning Board has been in existence for nine years. As first established, it was limited to an expenditure of $3,000 per year. This was later increased by Mayor Curley to $5,000. Later, by Mayor Curley, to $7,500 where it now stands.

This is our permanent equipment today. We have been most fortunate in the personnel of our Board, able, public-spirited men and women, serving without compensation, an unpaid and an unpayable service; a secretary, a stenographer, an investigator, and occasional temporary assistants. One of our correspondents, and a gentleman whose opinion and whose friendship we value highly, has expressed surprise at what we have been able to accomplish with so little working material, and he has suggested that I tell you the secret of it tonight. In the words of William Randolph Hearst, "The only difference between the possible and the impossible is that the impossible is a little harder to do," which being interpreted means that our efforts have been great even in proportion as our resources have been small.

We have had special appropriations from time to time, $2,000 in 1920 for an investigation of housing conditions, and in February, 1922, again by Mayor Curley, $10,000 for the first steps, through the employment of expert assistance in the preparation of a comprehensive city plan and zoning ordinance for the City of Boston. We now have a request for $25,000 before the Mayor for the purpose of carrying on this work as it is being done in other cities, and in keeping with the dignity and traditions of Boston. His Honor has promised to provide the amount for us, contingent upon the Legislature in its wisdom, granting us as a municipality "a living wage."

The initial appropriation of $10,000 has enabled us to retain as our general consultant, Mr. Nelson P. Lewis, for over thirty years chief engineer of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of New York City, and at the present time in charge of the physical survey of the "Plan for New York and its Environs" under the auspices of the Russell Sage Foundation.

It is a significant fact that the birth of the city planning movement in this country was practically coincident with the beginning of the Republic itself. The only thing I find it hard to understand is why, with such a glorious start, the movement apparently languished for nearly one hundred years.

Following the declaration of Independence, President Washington summoned from New York, where he was enjoying a lucrative practice, a young French engineer,—an engineer, mark you!—to his assistance in planning the Capitol. Together they tramped over the hills and through the forests, up and down the broad banks of the Potomac, to discover the most advantageous site for the President's home and for the Capitol. With these two points established the work of laying out a city begun. Twice a week L'Enfant reported to Thomas Jefferson, then Secretary of State. Twice were his plans rejected, but the third was accepted and adopted as the plan of 1792.

The plan of L'Enfant provided for a mall leading from the Capitol to the executive grounds, and for a direct traffic route by means of Pennsylvania avenue. At the intersection of a line drawn from the Capitol, and one drawn from the Executive Mansion, was to stand the Washington Monument authorized in 1783.

After the acceptance and adoption of his plan, having been one year in service, L'Enfant was dismissed for the reason that "it was found impossible to employ him in that degree of subordination which was lawful and proper." Washington urged that his compensation be ample, $2,500 or $3,000, but L'Enfant placed a value of $50,000 upon his work and refused less. Until the day of his death, thirty-three years later, the tall erect figure of the courtly Frenchman trod the corridors of the Capitol as he vainly pleaded with Congress for the reward he believed to be his due, a recognition which a grateful and repentant Republic would gladly accord him today were it possible.

The development of Governmental activities and the necessity of providing further public buildings led to the preparation of a second plan of Washington in 1901, by Daniel H. Burnham, Charles F. McKim, Augustus St. Gaudens and Frederick L. Olmstead. This was in effect merely a development and an adaptation of the L'Enfant plan. Certain obstructions had arisen in the improvement of the mall for instance. The Botanical Garden had been located there, and authority had been given to construct railroad tracks at about the middle of its length, and to build a union station on public grounds. The Botanical Garden was under Federal control and easy of removal, but more concern was felt so far as the railroad authorities were concerned. The president of the Pennsylvania Railroad was interviewed and he readily agreed not only to withdraw, but to build the Union Station in such a manner that it would conform to other features of the general plan. All of which goes to prove that not all are "soulless corporations."

One of the fundamental recommendations of the plan of 1901 was for a Lincoln Memorial, determined upon with full comprehension of the fact that by common consent Lincoln was the one man in the history of this nation worthy to stand with Washington in a great central composition. The site chosen was an extension of the axis from the Capitol, through the Washington Monument almost to the banks of the Potomac. Objection was raised on the ground that the building would shake itself down with loneliness and age, the flats being so remote and so marginal, yet now it is found necessary to secure by proper planting a needed degree of isolation.

Just now the temporary war buildings stand on public ground between the monument and the memorial, and have been aptly termed, "one of the horrors of the World War."

The growth of Boston from the date of its settlement in 1630 down to the present time is in itself a record of city planning achievement. The original Boston comprised 780 acres. The filling in of the Back Bay increased this area to 1,876 acres in 1900, until at the present time the physical limits of the city, including its nine component parts, comprise 30,598 acres. If Boston should expand by annexation as New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Los Angeles, and other cities have done, and as Boston will surely do, the area of the Metropolitan district, 409 square miles, would exceed that of any other American city.

The first place a visitor to Boston is usually taken is the North End, rich in historical associations, unique in character and environment. Practically 100 acres are comprised within its limits, for the most part residential, and resisting bravely for 300 years the encroachments of business development. The early settlers were generous in their housing provisions, leaving ample back yard space for gardens, light and air. In fifty years the population of the district had changed, land values had risen greatly, and the necessity for utilizing all available land space was felt. Fifty years more, unrestrained by building laws, and we find practically every inch of land covered over with rear lot dwellings, cheaply constructed, without adequate provision for light and air. This is the situation which confronts us today in the North End. Thirteen of the one hundred acres devoted to solidly built up dwellings where dwellings never should go, approached only by alleys, little or no street frontage, and a majority of the rooms dark and insanitary.

One of the worst examples of rear lot development was found in the case of Morton street, a narrow thoroughfare solidly built up on either side with dwelling houses. The street itself was but little over 11 feet wide, the surface was never free from dampness, the sunshine never penetrated into the homes on either side. For fifty years reports of overcrowding had been made with regard to this particular area, but it remained for Mayor Curley in 1916 to provide $200,000 for the removal of buildings from the heart of the block and to develop there a playground which has brought sunshine into the homes and into the hearts of those living in its immediate vicinity.

The Baldwin place improvement, which will perhaps be more readily recognized if referred to as the "Synagogue property," has gained for itself quite a little notoriety in recent weeks. But with all the newspaper space which has been given to it, twice as much would be needed if any attempt were to be made to tell of the good that will develop from the putting through of this improvement. Baldwin place at the present time is a dead-end street, terminating at the synagogue property. The purchase of this property by the city, the demolition of the building, which is old and in disuse, the pushing through of Baldwin place to North Margin street, and the development of the remaining area into neighborhood play spaces will, as in the case of Morton street, bring untold benefits to the people of the adjacent homes. It will permit a free circulation of traffic, it will afford protection in case of fire, it will not remove property values from taxation, and last but not least, it will give to the 1,200 residents of the block air and light and sunshine instead of congestion and darkness and shadows.

A similar improvement which would be of benefit to the North End, and which would at the same time emphasize the historical associations of the district, is to be found in the Paul Revere House, at present crowded in among other houses, almost overshadowed, and greatly in danger of fire. The City Planning Board hopes to see established here some day a small public park, which will answer the requirements of the immediate locality as a recreation space; the houses adjacent will be afforded an attractive outlook with light and air which are now lacking, while the building itself will be given protection from fire; and the dignified treatment to which it is entitled as an historical landmark.

From the North End to the West End is the logical sequence in a tour of the city, and here we have a feature which is perhaps equally as well known in other cities as it is in our own. I do not recall ever having seen an exhibition of city planning slides in any other city but what the Charles River Esplanade was shown as an illustration of the wonderful possibilities afforded in a river front development. And yet its history is the same as that of practically every other improvement of which Boston can boast today, opposition, criticism and resistance. Today it stands as an enduring monument to the vision, and the wisdom, and the foresight of the men who had the imagination to conceive of the project and the courage to carry it through to its present happy completion. It represents an expenditure of nearly five million dollars, it is true, but it also represents 13 miles of shore front improved, 35 acres of new land area, and 800 acres of constant water area. Ask the children who play there daily, ask the athletes who take part in the water sports year after year, ask the men and women who glide over the frozen surface of the basin during the winter months, ask the immense crowds who throng the waterfront on holidays and during their leisure hours, was it worth while?

I know of no similar improvement in the country today except Harrisburg which points to its three mile waterfront park, along the banks of the Susquehanna river, as perhaps the most notable and spectacular of the improvements made in that city in recent years.

Another notable improvement in Harrisburg, already well under way, is its civic center, with the State Capitol building as the nucleus. The development of this civic center has meant the condemning of block after block of private homes, yet they point with pride to the fact that in very few, if any, cities have the citizens shown a broader spirit of co-operation or a higher degree of civic responsibility than those of Harrisburg in connection with its civic improvements.

The wholesale destruction of houses which took place in connection with Harrisburg's civic center finds a counterpart in the development of Fairmount Parkway which Philadelphia claims is the greatest city planning achievement of the twentieth century. Certain it is, it is a project which, in conception and in execution, challenges the wonder and admiration of us all. The parkway itself, which represents a cost to date of about $17,000,000, is 5,300 feet in length, and varies in width from 140 to 250 feet. From City Hall to Logan square the route lay through a thickly congested district; about 1,000 properties were affected and as many buildings removed. In the vicinity of Logan square, plans for which were drawn by M. Jacques Greber, it is planned to develop an educational center, with the Public Library and the Academy of Natural Sciences as a foundation. At the northwestern terminus of the Parkway the Art Museum is to be erected, while on either side of the parkway various public buildings are to be grouped. On either side of the parkway, also, tribute trees to the number of 600—19 of them by the children—have been planted, not merely as a memorial to those who gave their lives in the war, but as a tribute to all who served their country in need.

Philadelphia is unique in another sense, in that it benefits under the will of the late Stephen Girard, by a fund of $500,000 for the demolition of wooden buildings, and the prohibition of their erection within the city limits at any future time.

Chicago has always been one of the leading cities in city planning achievements, and perhaps more things have been actually accomplished in that municipality than in any other. Why? Because the plan of Chicago, prepared by Daniel H. Burnham, was introduced as a text-book in the schools of that city, and is being studied year after year by upwards of 50,000 children. That means an intimate knowledge and appreciation of their own city which is bound to be productive of results. A recital of city planning projects in Chicago always leaves me breathless. Millions are cheerfully voted for public improvements in Chicago while here in Boston we are humbly asking the Legislature each year for an amount barely sufficient to meet current expenses. I recall a few years ago at the annual dinner of the National Conference on City Planning, in Cincinnati, the first speaker happened to be a young man from Chicago, and when he got through at 11:30 p. m., not because he had told us all he knew about Chicago but because he was anxious to get a train back to Chicago, the other speakers, brought for the occasion from New York on the East and San Francisco on the West, were too tired, as were the others present, to continue longer in session.

During the past ten years, the public has voted $61,510,000 toward the cost of street widenings and other improvements in the city of Chicago. Special assessments have amounted to $8,125,000; the railway companies have agreed to spend $162,091,350 in terminal rehabilitation; and the Forest Preserve Commission has expended more than $5,000,000; in all a total of about $237,000,000. If this is Chicago's idea of the proper way of utilizing the advantages of its location on a comparatively small lake front, what would it do if it had the whole Atlantic Ocean at its front door?

New York lays claim to the greatest single achievement in city planning in America in the comprehensive zoning law which was adopted in 1916 by a virtually unanimous vote of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. For three years conditions with regard to the height, size and use of buildings were studied, and the law, as finally passed, represented the combined thought of thousands of people from all sections of the city. Today, in less than seven years after the adoption of the New York law, zoning regulations have been adopted in more than forty municipalities in that immediate vicinity. Furthermore, zoning regulations have now been adopted in more than one hundred cities throughout the United States, and more than 15,000,000 people are now living in zoned communities. The Federal Government recognized the need for zoning in connection with the reconstruction which must naturally take place following the transition of the world from a war to a peace basis. With a shortage of one million homes in the country, it was important that those homes, when built, should be of a character and in general keeping with the best interests of the community. Accordingly there was established in the United States Department of Commerce a division of building and housing. They in turn created an Advisory Commission on Zoning which has already published various fundamental reports on the necessity for and advantages of zoning to municipalities.

Although New York was the first city to adopt a comprehensive zoning law, Boston was the pioneer so far as height of building regulation is concerned. Boston, in 1905, divided the entire city into two districts, A and B, and restricted the height of buildings therein to 125 feet and to 80 feet respectively. This law was amended in 1916 by a material enlargement of the A district. There are in the Legislature at the present time numerous bills increasing the maximum height limit from 125 feet to 150 feet, to 200 feet, and even abolishing it entirely on the ground that building development was hampered by existing regulations. For years Boston has been the envy of every other city in the United States because it has been free from offensive skyscrapers. This may have been partly due to expediency for our narrow streets are already congested beyond all reason and every story added in height contributes in proportion to the foot and vehicular traffic in the immediate vicinity. The City Planning Board has in preparation at the present time, under the direction of Mr. Arthur C. Comey, and with the advice and co-operation of a group of men representing practically every civic organization in the community, a zoning plan and ordinance for the City of Boston, including recommendations with regard to height, use and area provisions.

Of its park and playground facilities Boston is justly proud. The area devoted to recreation space is probably greater per capita than that of any other city in the United States with the possible exception of New York. Boston is equally as well known for its street system, although we must admit that this fame is founded upon their inadequacy rather than otherwise. The one big improvement in recent years has been the construction of Stuart street, an improvement which has completely transformed that section of the city, and which has led to a building development representing millions of dollars of taxable property to the City of Boston. At the present time there is pending in the Legislature, introduced by his Honor the Mayor, a bill providing for street widenings, extensions and construction to a total cost of $18,050,000. "Wild," "stupendous," "ambitious," are a few of the most conservative terms which have been used in public discussion of this bill, and yet Fairmount Parkway in Philadelphia alone represents a cost of $17,000,000; Michigan avenue in Chicago was improved at a cost of $15,000,000; New Orleans has just completed its $19,000,000 canal; the Maryland State Legislature has authorized bond issues in the city of Baltimore to the extent of $101,000,000; bond issues have been authorized by the city of Detroit to the amount of $45,500,000, and St. Louis within the last few days has voted a bond issue of $87,000,000 for street widenings and other public improvements. The keynote to success in any community was sounded by his Honor Mayor Curley in his reply to an inquiry from the city of St. Louis with regard to the wisdom of their recent action:

"The sole purpose of all government is to transact the public business; and the expenditures of great sums of money to anticipate and stimulate the industrial and commercial growth and development of a great community like St. Louis is the part of wisdom and the true function of democratic government."

" parsimony is never economy; wise expenditure of great sums for fruitful public works is never extravagance; for true economy is expenditure without waste, that is productive of prosperity for posterity."

REPORT OF FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Theodore A. Glynn, Fire Commissioner, has submitted a report of the activities of the Fire Department for the month ending February 28, 1923, as follows:

High pressure station No. 1 was in operation during the month for seven hours and eight minutes, the pumps having been started in response to alarms from twenty-one boxes.

High pressure station No. 2 was in operation during the month for five hours and forty-four minutes, the pumps having been started in response to alarms from eleven boxes.

During the month one of the fireboats was used in breaking ice in local waters in order that the fireboats and commercial vessels might have freedom of movement.

On February 12, 1923, at the annual ball of the Boston Fire Department, medals were awarded for the first time in the history of the Fire Department to those members who had performed the most meritorious acts during the preceding year.

The inspection force from the fifteen fire districts was concentrated in Districts 6, 7, 8 and 11 (South Boston, South End, Back Bay, Allston and Brighton), for the purpose of thoroughly investigating hotels, lodging houses and apartment houses.

The Wire Division issued 1,252 permits for interior construction, and thirteen grants for underground conduits were passed and plans for same approved. Fees amounting to $4,168.58 were collected by this division during the month. Four fires due to electrical causes were inspected.

During the month the repair shop mechanics performed 504 repair jobs inside the shop on motor and horse drawn vehicles, while the emergency crews performed 190 repair jobs outside the shop. There were also 310 inspections made of motor apparatus by the engineer of motor apparatus. In addition to the above there were 520 miscellaneous jobs performed by the inside mechanics, other than auto repairs, such as blacksmiths, machinists, etc. The condition and maintenance of the various fire stations has been under constant supervision, and repairs, painting, etc., have been effected where needed.

The Fire Alarm Branch and the Fire Prevention Bureau have performed their duties in a satisfactory manner.

Yours very truly,
THEODORE A. GLYNN,
Fire Commissioner.

MUNICIPAL COURT OF ROXBURY DISTRICT.

Boston, January 31, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—I would respectfully request that the sum of $22.47 be transferred from Item B-1 of last year's budget to B-13 in order to settle all of the year's accounts.

Yours truly,

MAURICE J. O'CONNELL, Clerk.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 31.

TRADE AGREEMENT.

Mayor Curley held a conference with Secretary John F. Walsh of the Building Trades Employers' Association and President Ernest F. Johnson of the Central Labor Union for the purpose of making sure of harmony between the two groups at the start of the building season upon April 1. Expiring agreements between the organizations of 15,000 various building trades craftsmen and the local firms employing them was the main topic of discussion.

It is the Mayor's hope that he can bind both sides together in a two-year agreement. Another conference will be held shortly.

SALARIES OF MEDICAL BOARD.

The Boston Retirement Board has voted that the compensation of each of the three members of the Medical Board, appointed by the trustees of the Boston City Hospital, under section 18 of chapter 521 of the Acts of 1922, be fixed, with the approval of his Honor the Mayor, at $1,200 per annum.

LIBRARY REPORT.

ACTIVITIES DURING THE MONTH OF FEBRUARY, 1923.

During the month there have been received and accessioned for the library 3,561 volumes; during the same period 6,137 volumes have been ordered; 1,750 periodicals have been received and recorded. During the four weeks of the auction catalogues have been examined containing 154 titles in which the library was interested, and three sales catalogues have been examined containing 60 titles in which the library was interested. During February the Library received 1,356 volumes and 1,082 serials, to which gift acknowledgement was made to 593 givers. During the month four foreign invoices have been received as follows: One Dutch, two English, one German.

The outstanding feature of the month was the transfer of the South End Branch Library from the Everyday Church on Shawmut avenue into the new municipal building on the corner of Shawmut avenue and West Brookline street. The South End Branch Library opened for service in its new quarters on February 1 at 9 a. m. The transfer of the Branch from its former home was successfully carried out without any break in work or service of the library to the reading public. The new library is located in the basement of the building which is spacious and in which is provided a large reading room for adults and a somewhat smaller reading room for children. There are accommodations for 250 readers at the fifteen large tables.

On February 8 a repetition of the course in reference work was begun and will continue for the next ten weeks. At the first meeting there were sixteen library employees in attendance.

In addition to the regular publications of the month, namely the four weekly bulletins and five ten-book lists, the list for the week of February 17, being a double number, and "Library Life" Volume II, No. 5, February 15, there was issued Part II of the "Guide to Serial Publications."

During the earlier weeks of the month the exhibition room was occupied by the continuation of the exhibition of books and prints relating to the drama, described in last month's report, except that in the week beginning February 5 room was made for photographs illustrating American mountain scenery in connection with one of the regular library lectures. The period from February 17 to February 26, inclusive, was devoted to the exhibition of the cover designs submitted to the "House Beautiful" magazine, which proved to be exceptionally popular and well worth seeing. This cover design exhibition was followed by an exhibition of books, prints and photographs relating to English Renaissance architecture commemorating the bicentenary of the death of Sir Christopher Wren.

The month has been continuously busy, as is expected at this period of the year.

FINANCE COMMISSION.

Boston, February 28, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

Sir,—In the year 1921, after a hearing and a probationary period of several months under a temporary permit, a license for slaughtering poultry at 92-96 Richmond street, Boston, was granted to the Batchelder & Snyder Company, a copy of which is as follows:

September 9, 1921.

MESSRS. BATCHELDER & SNYDER COMPANY, 55 Blackstone Street, Boston:

GENTLEMEN,—I am directed by the Health Commissioner to notify you that your application for permission to conduct a poultry slaughter house at 92-96 Richmond street has been approved, subject to the following conditions:

A license is hereby granted in this case, nontransferable, revocable by the Health Commissioner upon cause shown, otherwise to continue in force so long as the premises are occupied by the licensee for the purposes named in the license, and subject to compliance with the conditions specified in the Health Commissioner's letter of June 30, 1920, and with all laws, ordinances, regulations and orders relating to the premises and the business authorized thereon.

Yours very truly,

S. L. MALONEY,
Secretary.

The Batchelder & Snyder Company continued to conduct business under this license until November, 1922, when the company sold the business to Abraham S. Kubitsky, who was then in the poultry slaughtering business in Cambridge, under the name of the Cambridge Live Poultry Company.

Mr. Frederick S. Snyder of the Batchelder & Snyder Company consulted Doctor Mahoney, the Health Commissioner, on November 3, 1922, and testified before the Finance Commission that the Health Commissioner assured him that the transfer of the license from Mr. Batchelder & Snyder Company to Mr. Kubitsky, or his company, would be made by the Health Department and, therefore, on the same day the Batchelder & Snyder Company and Mr. Kubitsky entered into the following agreement:

Agreement between the Batchelder & Snyder Company, a corporation organized under the laws of the State of Massachusetts, doing business in Boston, and Abraham S. Kubitsky, of Boston, Massachusetts.

Whereas, the said Batchelder & Snyder Company is the lessor of the premises at 92-96 Richmond street, Boston, in which is conducted their business in live poultry under license of the Health Commissioner of Boston to conduct a poultry slaughtering house at said 92-96 Richmond street, Boston; and Whereas, said Abraham S. Kubitsky, of Boston, desired to form a corporation under the laws of the state of Massachusetts to be known as the Richmond Live Poultry Company, and said Kubitsky or the corporation to be formed desires to purchase the business and operate it under the licenses aforesaid, and to procure an assignment of the said lease:

Now, Therefore, it is mutually agreed between the two parties that the said Kubitsky will pay to the Batchelder & Snyder Company the sum of thirteen thousand dollars for all its right, title and interest in and to the lease, license and improvements in the property, the steel poultry cages, scales, safe, office furniture, heating plant and similar equipment; expressly excluding from the sale cost, new poultry crates, poultry feed, live poultry stock and such other items as are not included in the list of things expressly transferred by sale.

It is intended by this instrument to transfer the equipment used in the operating of the live poultry business, but not the supplies on hand nor the poultry on hand. Supplies used in conjunction with the poultry business, including feed, crates and other supplies or live or dressed poultry shall be purchased by said Kubitsky and paid for in cash upon the basis of the cost to the Batchelder & Snyder Company of said supplies of poultry.

It is further agreed that the outstanding bills payable in connection with this business up to the time of the transfer are to be paid by the said Batchelder & Snyder Company, and the accounts receivable due to said Batchelder & Snyder Company up to the date of transfer are to be the property of and to be collected by the said Batchelder & Snyder Company.

Upon the signing of this instrument said Kubitsky is to pay to the Batchelder & Snyder Company one thousand dollars, and the balance of the purchase price, namely twelve thousand dollars, shall be delivered when the lease covering the premises has been assigned to said Kubitsky, the poultry, the slaughtering license transferred and proper bill of sale covering the personal property and goodwill shall have been delivered.

Such said Kubitsky and the said Batchelder & Snyder Company agree to use their best efforts to consummate this arrangement at the earliest possible date.

In witness whereof the parties hereto have set their hands and seals this third day of November, nineteen hundred and twenty-two.

BATCHELDER & SNYDER COMPANY.

Mr. F. S. Snyder of the Batchelder & Snyder Company on November 4 wrote Doctor Mahoney the following letter:

November 4, 1922.

DR. FRANCIS X. MAHONEY, Chairman Board of Health, City Hall, Boston:

DEAR DOCTOR MAHONEY,—I will be grateful if you will write a letter addressed to Abraham S. Kubitsky, 15 Howland street, Roxbury, stating that in case of effects an arrangement with the Batchelder & Snyder Company either in his own name or in the name of the Richmond Live Poultry Company or otherwise by which he takes over the building at 92-96 Richmond street where a poultry slaughtering license issued by you is now in force, the license at that address will be continued to Kubitsky the same as to the Batchelder & Snyder Company, provided of course that he obeys the rules and regulations of the Board of Health.

Yours very truly,

F. S. SNYDER.

The above letter was received by the Health Commissioner, according to the receipt stamp of the department upon the letter, on November 6, 1922. On November 8 Mr. F. S. Snyder, president of the Batchelder & Snyder Company, wrote to Mr. Kubitsky as follows:

Boston, November 8, 1922.

MR. ABRAHAM S. KUBITSKY, 15 Moreland street, Roxbury, Mass.:

DEAR MR. KUBITSKY,—I have received assurance from the people owning the property that they will consent to our subletting it to you.

Second, I have received personal assurance from Doctor Mahoney that he will approve the license as operative to you on the same basis as to ourselves at that particular address. Doctor Mahoney called my attention to the fact that the Board licenses a slaughtering plant to an address rather than to an individual; that is, they would not permit us to move our slaughtering license to another address without their consent; therefore, in buying the building at 92-96 Richmond street licensed as a place of poultry slaughtering so long as it is conducted satisfactorily, rather than our concern. That, of course, puts you in the most satisfactory possible position. With these two assurances the situation appears to be complete.

Mr. Batchelder says that you would like some statement from us with reference to our not entering the live poultry business for a period of ten years.

We are going out of the live poultry business solely for the purpose of concentrating our business on Blackstone street, and we would not at any time start up an independent business at the another point within the city limits; and I am therefore glad to say that I shall not during the next ten years go into the live poultry business as an individual; nor shall I vote my stock in the Batchelder & Snyder Company (in which I hold the majority) for the purpose of going into the live poultry business. That will cover that portion of the matter.

I understand from Mr. Durbach that as a part of our general understanding we are to be permitted without rental charge to leave our soft coal in your cellar so long as it is necessary to effect consumption in our boiler. We will take it out as rapidly as we can consume it.

If the letters referred to are in our possession on Saturday, I see no reason why we cannot effect the exchange and have matters all ready to turn over to you on Monday morning. If the exchange is not completed by that date, which would undoubtedly be sometime during that week.

We shall be glad to assist you in any proper way in the development of your live poultry business and will send out announcements to our poultry customers with reference to the matter. Before issuing such a letter we will go over it with you and receive the benefit of your suggestions.

Yours very truly,

BATCHELDER & SNYDER COMPANY,
by F. S. SNYDER,
President.

On November 10 the Health Commissioner acknowledged the letter from Batchelder & Snyder as follows:

November 10, 1922.

MR. F. S. SNYDER, BATCHELDER & SNYDER COMPANY, 92-96 Richmond Street, Boston:

DEAR SIR.—Your letter of the 4th instant has been received, and I have also heard from your telephone message of yesterday in connection with the proposed transfer of assignments.

I have requested that Mr. Kubitsky call at this office on Monday, November 13, between the hour of 9 and 10 a. m.

Yours very truly,

F. X. MAHONEY,
Health Commissioner.

On November 13, 1922, Mr. Kubitsky called at the office of the Health Commissioner, in accordance with the request in the letter of November 10 and, after an interview with the Health Commissioner, went to the office of the Batchelder & Snyder Company with Doctor Mullowney at the Health Commissioner's request, where they both, with Mr. Frederic S. Snyder, went over the matter of the sale of the business to Kubitsky. Thereafter, on the same day, Mr. Kubitsky filed an application for a license with the Health Department, a copy of which is as follows:

FRED E. PAINE,

Notary.

My commission expires April 12, 1923.

Inspector's Report:

Present condition satisfactory.

FRANK GAFFEY.

On this application was indorsed on November 16 in the handwriting of Doctor Mullowney, the following:

November 16, 1922. This is a transfer of license issued to Batchelder & Snyder. If the conduct of the new owner in managing this business is good as former owners, see no reason why the transfer should not be made.

P. H. MULLOWNEY.

The applications bears the following indorsement also, December 13, 1922. Request for transfer not approved.

F. X. M.

Dr. Mullowney testified that at the time he indorsed the above upon the application of Mr. Kubitsky for a license, he wrote a letter to the Health Commissioner, in which he stated that Mr. Kubitsky was not a proper person to receive such a license, as he had summoned him into court for violations of the law relating to the conduct of the poultry business in the years 1921 and 1922 several times. This letter, however, could not be found in the files of the Health Department and Doctor Mullowney states that a copy which he retained in his own office could not be found.

On November 18, no final action having been taken by the Health Commissioner on the application of Mr. Kubitsky for a permit, and no transfer of the former license issued by the Health Commissioner to Batchelder & Snyder having been made or approved by the Health Commissioner, the Batchelder & Snyder Company transferred its business and assigned its license to the Richmond Live Poultry Company controlled by Mr. Kubitsky and the balance of the purchase price, $12,000, was paid. Mr. Kubitsky thereafter entered upon the conduct of the business at 92-96 Richmond street.

The files of the Health Department contain the following statement:

11-25-22. Mr. Snyder was orally informed over the telephone by the commissioner that there was to be no change in the license and that Batchelder & Snyder would be held responsible for the conditions.

F. X. M.: J. A. C.

The foregoing statement is typewritten, even to the initials. Mr. Snyder, however, testified that he never received such a communication.

On December 13, 1922, the following indorsement was made by the Health Commissioner upon the application for a license filed by Mr. Kubitsky on November 13, 1922.

December 13, 1922. Request for transfer not approved. F. X. M.

On the same date the Health Commissioner wrote Batchelder & Snyder the following letter:

December 13, 1922.

MESSES. BATCHELDER & SNYDER COMPANY, 47 to 63 Blackstone street, Boston, Mass.

ATTENTION MR. SNYDER.

GENTLEMEN.—Relative to your request for transfer of the assignment now held by you for premises on Richmond street, where live poultry are kept, slaughtered and sold, I beg to say in accordance with my conversation with you on the telephone that when this assignment was granted it was under the condition that it was not transferable. Under the circumstances, therefore, I feel it will have to remain in the name of Batchelder & Snyder Company.

Yours very truly,

Health Commissioner.

F. X. M.-A. A. B.

On December 14 Mr. Frederic S. Snyder called upon the Health Commissioner with reference to this letter. On December 15, 1922, Mr. Snyder wrote the Health Commissioner as follows:

December 15, 1922.

DR. FRANCIS X. MAHONEY, Health Commissioner, City Hall Annex, Boston, Mass.:

DEAR DOCTOR MAHONEY.—I enjoyed my chat with you yesterday with reference to the subject matter of your letter to the Batchelder & Snyder Company of the 13th of December.

In accordance with your advice I have told Mr. A. S. Kubitsky of the Richmond Live Poultry Company that I have assured him that while I prefer not to transfer the license the business may be carried forward by the interests now operating there so long as the place is conducted satisfactorily to the Health Department and maintained in a cleanly and sanitary condition.

As I advised you, we have substituted the premises to Mr. Kubitsky, operating under the name of the Richmond Live Poultry Company, and we will maintain a general observation of the situation in your interest and our own.

Inclosed is copy of letter to Mr. Kubitsky which covers the entire situation. With regards,

Yours very truly,

F. S. SNYDER,
President.

F.S.S.-K.

Enclosure.

On the same date, December 15, Mr. Snyder wrote Mr. Kubitsky the following letter, sending a copy to the Health Commissioner:

December 15, 1922.

MR. ABRAHAM S. KUBITSKY, THE RICHMOND LIVE POULTRY COMPANY, 92 Richmond Street, Boston, Mass.:

DEAR MR. KUBITSKY.—On the eighth of November we wrote you a letter in which we said:

"I have received assurance from the people owning the property that they will consent to our substituting it to you. Second, I have received personal assurance from Doctor Mahoney that he will approve the license as operative to you on the same business premises at that particular address. Doctor Mahoney called my attention to the fact that the Board licenses a slaughtering plant to an address, not to an individual; that is, they would not permit us to move our slaughtering license to another address without their consent; therefore, they consider the building at 92-96 Richmond street licensed as a place of poultry slaughtering so long as it is conducted satisfactorily, rather than our concern."

Following that and on the same date upon which I wrote you I asked Doctor Mahoney by mail to address a letter to you in accordance with my verbal statement to me to the effect that the license at that address would be continued to you upon the same basis as to ourselves. Under date of the 13th of December Doctor Mahoney writes as follows:

"Relative to your request for transfer of the assignment now held by you for premises on Richmond street, where live poultry are kept, slaughtered and sold, I beg to say in accordance with my conversation with you on the telephone that when this assignment was granted it was under the condition that it was not transferable. Under the circumstances therefore I feel that it will have to remain in the name of Batchelder & Snyder." This is not inconsistent with his earlier view that the particular building was licensed but that the license was issued to some person or concern, which in this case was the Batchelder & Snyder Company.

After receiving his letter I immediately called on Doctor Mahoney, and have again received his personal assurance that so long as a place is operated under cleanly and sanitary conditions the license will continue and will be unaffected, while if the place were not conducted in a sanitary fashion either in your hands or ours this would afford grounds for vacating the license, and not otherwise.

I will forward copy of this letter to you to Doctor Mahoney so that all parties at interest may be fully advised and to place you feet on guard with respect to maintaining cleanliness and sanitary conditions in the plant so that the public authorities may have no occasion to criticize.

Yours very truly,

F. S. SNYDER,
President.

After the receipt by Mr. Kubitsky of the letter of Mr. Snyder of December 15, informing him that the license could not be transferred to him, Mr. Kubitsky realized for the first time that he had purchased a business without a license that authorized him to carry it on; that his right to do business might be terminated by the Health Department at any time; that the inspection of his premises was in the hands of Doctor Mulwoney, who had theretofore prosecuted him in court; and that Doctor Mulwoney had opposed his application for a license.

On December 21, 1922, there was delivered at the home of Doctor Mulwoney an unmarked and unaddressed package, which the expressman said was for Mrs. Mulwoney. When the package was later opened by one of Doctor Mulwoney's daughters, it was found to contain a turkey, a box of fifty cigars, and in an envelope on which was printed "The Richmond Live Poultry Company," two one hundred dollar bills. With the box of cigars was the business card of the Richmond Live Poultry Company.

Doctor Mulwoney thereupon tried to get the Health Commissioner on the telephone, but without success. He then called Mr. George McCaffrey, a police officer in the District Attorney's office, who formerly had been assigned to the Health Department and had worked with Doctor Mulwoney in prosecuting cases in court. At Mr. McCaffrey's request, Doctor Mulwoney went to Mr. McCaffrey's house, taking with him the envelope containing the two one hundred dollar bills. Mr. McCaffrey took the number of the two one hundred dollar bills and advised Doctor Mulwoney to report the matter to the Health Commissioner the next morning, and to keep the cigars and money as evidence of an attempt to bribe, and to return the turkey to the sender if possible. If not to estimate its value and use it, as was perishable.

The next morning Doctor Mulwoney informed the Health Commissioner of the receipt of the package from the Richmond Live Poultry Company and suggested to the Health Commissioner that he thought it was being used to "frame him." The Health Commissioner replied:

You take the thing back. Send for them, find out why they sent it to you if you can and give it back, give it all back and say nothing about it and forget about it—and tell them, "If you think you are going to frame me, I'll lace it into them and tell them it will never get them anywhere, or words to that effect, and send it back.

The Health Commissioner then telephoned Mr. Frederick S. Snyder, president of the Batchelder & Snyder Company, to come to his office. Later Mr. Snyder came and had a conference with the Health Commissioner and Doctor Mulwoney, at which the Health Commissioner suggested that the three of them go down to Mr. Snyder's office and call Kubitsky in and ask him about the matter. Mr. Snyder refused, stating that it was none of his affair, as he was entirely out of the business and had no connection with or control over Mr. Kubitsky.

Doctor Mulwoney then summoned Mr. Kubitsky to his office and told him of the receipt of the package. Mr. Kubitsky acknowledged that he had sent it. When asked why he sent it, he replied, "As a Christmas present for your trouble." Doctor Mulwoney ended the interview by requesting Mr. Kubitsky to send for the turkey. As for the cigars and money, Dr. Mulwoney informed Mr. Kubitsky that he intended to keep them as evidence of an attempt to bribe. Mr. Kubitsky did not call at Doctor Mulwoney's for the turkey, as directed.

On December 27 the Finance Commission began an investigation, during the progress of which Doctor Mulwoney produced the two one hundred dollar bills, with the envelope in which they were delivered to him, the box of cigars, and a post office money order for $6, the estimated value of the turkey.

Early in January the Health Commissioner informed Dr. Mulwoney that he was about to issue a license to the Richmond Live Poultry Company, to which Doctor Mulwoney replied that he would not approve. Doctor Mulwoney testified that thereafter, on January 8, the Health Commissioner said to him:

Henry, I am sorry, but I have orders from the Mayor to suspend you.

The next day a formal order of suspension was handed to Doctor Mulwoney by the Health Commissioner, with the statement that the Corporation Counsel was going to make an investigation of the matter, and

You will be out only a little while. Don't get a job, you will be all right.

On January 12 the Health Commissioner issued a license to the Richmond Live Poultry Company, controlled by Mr. Kubitsky, to do business at 92-96 Richmond street. On February 1 Doctor Mulwoney was given a hearing before the Health Commissioner on the cause of his suspension. On February 5, 1923, the Health Commissioner sent the following letter to Doctor Mulwoney, reinstating him:

CITY OF BOSTON,

HEALTH DEPARTMENT, February 5, 1923.

PATRICK H. MULWONEY, M. D., 1 Vista Street, Roslindale, Mass.:

DEAR SIR:—Respecting the specific charge brought by me against you on January 9, 1922, namely disobedience of my orders to return to the Richmond Live Poultry Company certain goods and money, to wit, a turkey, box of cigars and $200 in money, sent to your home by the Richmond Live Poultry Company on December 21, 1922, I find that you failed to return the aforesaid articles as ordered by me. I also find, however, that you consulted the District Attorney's office in the matter and was advised to keep the same articles pending further advice from the District Attorney's office. Had I known of this fact you would not have been suspended and consequently no hearing would have been necessary. While I feel that you should have notified me that you were in consultation with the District Attorney's office, and that it was on that account that you did not return the articles to the Richmond Live Poultry Company, I do not feel justified in continuing your suspension on that ground as such action might lead some persons to infer that you were guilty of receiving bribes. As I have always believed that you would not accept a bribe, I cannot take any action which might create a contrary impression. Therefore I order your reinstatement without loss of pay.

Very truly yours,

FRANCIS X. MAHONEY,
Commissioner.

According to this letter, the Health Commissioner's reason for suspending Doctor Mulwoney was because he did not obey the Health Commissioner's order to return the money and cigars to the Richmond Live Poultry Company. In the above quoted letter the Health Commissioner also states that he had known that Doctor Mulwoney was acting under advice of the District Attorney's office, he would not have suspended him.

But the Health Commissioner's findings on which the Deputy Commissioner was reinstated are not in accordance with the Health Commissioner's own testimony at the hearing. He was asked:

Q. Now would you have advised Doctor Mulwoney to take this back if he thought he was being framed if you had known that he had communicated with an agent of the District Attorney's office? A. You bet I would.

Q. You would? A. You bet. I would have seen that he did. I would have gone with him if he wanted me to.

Q. Even though the District Attorney had told him to hold it as evidence? A. The District Attorney would have to give me that in writing.

There was in the files of the Health Department in November, 1922, ample evidence to warrant the Health Commissioner in refusing a license to Mr. Kubitsky, or any company that he might control, to carry on the business of slaughtering poultry at 92-96 Richmond street. In addition there was a statement of Doctor Mulwoney to the Health Commissioner disapproving the issuance of a license to Mr. Kubitsky.

It is impossible to reconcile the testimony of Mr. Snyder and the Health Commissioner of what took place at the interviews which they had prior to the agreement of sale of Batchelder & Snyder Company with Mr. Kubitsky. The Health Commissioner testified that Mr. Snyder did not tell him that his company was going to sell the business to Mr. Kubitsky. He testified that the impression left upon him from the interviews with Mr. Snyder was that Mr. Kubitsky was to be the agent of the Batchelder & Snyder Company. It is difficult to see how the Health Commissioner could get such an impression, in view of the letter of November 4 from Mr. Snyder, requesting the commissioner to write and assure Mr. Kubitsky that he or his company would be given a license, and the later interview of the Health Commissioner with Mr. Kubitsky himself on November 13, on which day Mr. Kubitsky filed a formal application for a license, in which he stated clearly that he was going to conduct the business, and that he was lessee of the building. In no place in this application does the name of Batchelder & Snyder appear.

On the other hand, it is not clear why Mr. Kubitsky should pay $13,000 for a business that was useless to him without a license, before the actual issuance of such a license.

Mr. Kubitsky testified that Mr. Snyder assured him that the license would be issued. There could be no doubt of this from Mr. Snyder's letters to Mr.

Kubitsky. There does not appear, however, to be sufficient evidence from any action of the Health Commissioner for Mr. Snyder giving such assurance to Mr. Kubitsky.

Mr. Kubitsky conducted the business without a license from November 15 to December 13, with the full knowledge of the Health Commissioner. The Health Commissioner on December 13, 1922, entered his disapproval on Mr. Kubitsky's application for a license and informed Mr. Snyder of it. The next day Mr. Snyder had a conference with the Health Commissioner on the matter and wrote Mr. Kubitsky the letter, dated December 15, sending a copy to the Health Commissioner. But on December 13, 1922, Kubitsky was officially refused a license by the Health Commissioner, but was thereafter permitted to do business without a license until January 12, 1923.

If there had been any doubt in the Health Commissioner's mind as to the wisdom of disapproving Mr. Kubitsky's application before December 13, 1922, it should have been entirely dispelled by Mr. Kubitsky's action on December 21, 1922, in sending money and articles of value under the guise of a Christmas present to the Deputy Commissioner of the department who was in charge of the Food Inspection Division.

The Finance Commission makes the following findings of fact:

1. The Health Commissioner's conduct from November 4 to December 13, 1922, in dealing with Mr. Snyder and Mr. Kubitsky regarding the issuance of a license to Mr. Kubitsky to conduct a poultry slaughtering house at 92-96 Richmond street was unbusinesslike and indecisive. There was no reason given why the Health Commissioner could not have acted on Mr. Kubitsky's application for a license immediately after the Deputy Commissioner's report on the same November 16, 1922.

2. The Health Commissioner permitted Mr. Kubitsky or his company, the Richmond Live Poultry Company, to carry on the business of keeping and slaughtering poultry at 92-96 Richmond street from November 18 to December 13, 1922, without a license.

3. The Health Commissioner permitted Mr. Kubitsky to carry on the business of poultry slaughtering at 92-96 Richmond street after he had officially disapproved Mr. Kubitsky's application for such a license on December 13, 1922.

4. The Health Commissioner not only refused to complain to the District Attorney or to a proper court, of the action of Mr. Kubitsky in sending money and articles of value to Deputy Commissioner Mullenwney on December 21, 1922, but actually tried to dissuade Deputy Commissioner Mullenwney from making such complaint or from making the matter public.

5. The Health Commissioner (whether or not he was ordered by the Mayor to suspend Doctor Mullenwney) did in fact suspend Doctor Mullenwney for refusing to return to Mr. Kubitsky the evidence of his act of December 21, as ordered by the Health Commissioner.

6. The Health Commissioner suspended Deputy Commissioner Mullenwney without justifiable cause.

7. The Health Commissioner reinstated Deputy Commissioner Mullenwney on February 5, 1923, after a hearing, on the ground that Deputy Commissioner Mullenwney was justified in disobeying the Health Commissioner because he had been advised by the District Attorney's office to hold as evidence the money and articles sent him by Mr. Kubitsky. That this was not his real reason, however, is indicated by the Health Commissioner's own testimony herein reported.

8. The Health Commissioner during the period that the Deputy Commissioner was suspended, after Deputy Commissioner Mullenwney had stated that he would refuse to approve the issuance of a license to Mr. Kubitsky or the Richmond Live Poultry Company, and notwithstanding that the commissioner himself had refused a license to Mr. Kubitsky on December 13, and with full knowledge of Mr. Kubitsky's prosecutions in court and that he had sent money and other articles of value to Deputy Commissioner Mullenwney on December 21, 1922, issued a license on January 12, 1923, to the Richmond Live Poultry Company which Mr. Kubitsky controls.

The money, cigars and post office money order produced by Doctor Mullenwney and left with the Finance Commission have been sent to the District Attorney.

The Finance Commission recommends:

1. That your Honor cause to be revoked the license issued on January 12, 1923, to the Richmond Live Poultry Company.

2. That the Health Commissioner be removed.

3. That this report be transmitted to the District Attorney.

Respectfully submitted,

MICHAEL H. SULLIVAN,
Chairman,

CHARLES L. CARR,
COURTENAY GULD,
JOHN F. MOORS,
J. WALDO POND,
The Finance Commission.

REPLY OF DR. FRANCIS X. MACHONEY, COMMISSIONER OF THE HEALTH DEPARTMENT, TO REPORT OF THE FINANCE COMMISSION.

In justice to myself I am compelled to ask the newspapers to print my reply to the Finance Commission attack on me under date of February 28 which was sent to the newspapers by the commission on March 2 by the commission. The first thing that will strike the reader of the commission's report is that although the money, cigars and turkey were given to Doctor Mullenwney by the Richmond Live Poultry Company without my knowledge, that the commission believes and recommends that I be removed from office while it is perfectly content to have Doctor Mullenwney remain in office. One would think that the money, cigars and turkey had been delivered to me instead of Doctor Mullenwney.

Another singular thing is that the commission recommends that I be removed because I did not send the case immediately to the District Attorney's office although the commission finds as a fact that the articles in question were delivered to Doctor Mullenwney's house on the evening of December 21, 1922, and that Doctor Mullenwney notified me of the fact the next morning and also notified me that he had turned the matter over to the District Attorney's office the night before. If the commission believes Doctor Mullenwney told me on December 22 that he had called in a representative of the District Attorney's office why should Doctor Mullenwney by sending the case again to the District Attorney's office. Shortly after December 21, when the gifts or bribes, as the case may be, were received at Doctor Mullenwney's house, the whole matter was aired in the newspapers, of which the District Attorney's office got public notice in addition to the notice they received privately on the day the alleged offense was committed.

On December 22, when Doctor Mullenwney told me of the facts, I ordered him to return the articles at once to the Richmond Live Poultry Company. I thought that was proper then and I think it proper now as it would be the most effective means of showing that Doctor Mullenwney did not intend to keep the articles in question.

If a man offered me gifts my first impulse would be to return them if I had any suspicion that they were offered to influence my official conduct. The commission finds fault with me, first, for declining to grant a license to the Richmond Live Poultry Company on December 13, 1922. Secondly, it finds fault with me for granting a license to the same company on January 12, 1923. My conduct was justifiable on both occasions. As to the refusal: Batchelder & Snyder Company were the licensees at that time; while I was informed of Mr. Snyder's intention to sell out the business to the Richmond Live Poultry Company I did not at that time believe it advisable to lose the benefit of Batchelder & Snyder's responsibility by issuing a new license to the Richmond Live Poultry Company. The license was issued to Batchelder & Snyder on December 9, 1921, and no complaint had been made to the Health Department as to the manner in which they had conducted the business. As the case was presented to me the Richmond Live Poultry Company were to make an arrangement under which they would work under Batchelder's direction, Batchelder & Snyder being responsible for the manner in which the business was conducted, regardless of any arrangements financial or otherwise between them and the Richmond Live Poultry Company. Early in January of 1923 I learned that that financial arrangement between Batchelder & Snyder and the Richmond Live Poultry Company had been completed and that Batchelder & Snyder had received $13,000 from the Richmond Live Poultry Company. The situation then was that Batchelder & Snyder were the licensees while the Richmond Live Poultry Company were then the only financially interested party. It seemed proper therefore to issue a license to the Richmond Live Poultry Company so that they would be not only financially but legally responsible for the conduct of the business. In the meantime, no complaints had been made to my department as to the manner in which the business had been conducted between December 13, 1922, and January 12, 1923.

The commission says that I should not have issued the license for two reasons. First, that there was in the files of my department ample evidence to warrant me in refusing a license to the Richmond Live Poultry Company and also that there was a letter of Doctor Mullooney's on file at the office disapproving the issuance of the license when applied for in December. The only record on file at the office that ever had been called to pay attention in this connection was the record of prosecutions by this department of the Cambridge Poultry Company, a company which was controlled by Mr. Kubitsky who was later in control of the Richmond Live Poultry Company.

This record is contained in the memorandum book kept by Doctor Mullooney, the original card records which were on file in Doctor Mullooney's division having disappeared. It shows three complaints under date of June 10, 1921, and two complaints under date of June 28, 1921. This memorandum showed that in one case the Cambridge Poultry Company was convicted and fined $100, that it appealed and was subsequently discharged. The memorandum shows that in the other four cases the defendants were found not guilty. In other words, the memorandum shows there was not a final conviction in any case. This is what the Finance Commission calls "ample" evidence to justify a refusal of the license, but any fair minded man would see that such so-called evidence would not justify me in refusing a license.

The commission also refers to the alleged letter of Doctor Mullooney objecting to the granting of the license to the Richmond Live Poultry Company in December. In point of fact Doctor Mullooney indorsed the application with his approval as the commission has found. Again, neither Doctor Mullooney nor anyone else could find his alleged letter objecting to the granting of the license.

Secondly, in reply to the commission's criticism of me for granting the license on January 12, 1923. When I knew of the alleged bribe of December 21, 1922, I submit that I had no right to treat the case as one of proved bribe. I have no judicial power, only the courts can convict of bribery. I could not assume in advance of a trial that there had been an attempt at bribery, even though the facts create a strong suspicion that an attempt had been made. I had in mind that the matter was in the hands of the District Attorney at that time and that if a trial ensued Mr. Kubitsky would either be acquitted or convicted. If acquitted, there would be no reason why I should revoke the license granted to him on January 12. If convicted it would be within my power to revoke it as all such licenses are expressly made revocable. In the meantime there were no complaints as to the actual conduct of the business by the Richmond Live Poultry Company while working under the Batchelder & Snyder direction. So far as the Richmond Live Poultry Company was concerned, they stood in no better position so far as the power of revocation is concerned when they got the license than they stood before. If a nuisance had been committed while they were working under the direction of Batchelder & Snyder, the license of Batchelder & Snyder could have been revoked by me and the Richmond Live Poultry Company would have lost all its rights in the matter. If, on the other hand, I granted the license to the Richmond Live Poultry Company as I did, the power of revocation would still remain with me and if a nuisance were committed I could revoke the license granted to the Richmond Live Poultry Company. At all times the public was protected by the power of revocation which was in my hands. Therefore, I feel my action has not prejudiced the public interests in any way and that I am justified in my position of refusing to usurp the functions of the court by deciding that a man was guilty of attempted bribery and especially in advance of a trial.

I specifically deny the statement in the Finance Commission's report that early in January I informed Doctor Mullooney that I was about to issue a license to the Richmond Live Poultry Company and that he said he would not approve it. Any statement to the effect that such conversation took place is absolutely false.

I do not care to go into the question of Doctor Mullooney's suspension and his subsequent reinstatement as my position in that respect is made clear by the order of reinstatement set forth in the commission's report.

I maintain that my position in this matter from the first to the last has been clean and above board and that it does not merit the criticism which the Finance Commission has made of me. To garble the facts and to twist them in such fashion as to make it appear that I am the guilty party in the case where someone else received the gift or the bribe is a monstrous injustice. This is what the commission has done, however, and I am justified in resenting it.

POLICE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

General Order No. 224.

For the purpose of co-operation between the military and civil authorities with reference to court martial proceedings in the National Guard, the attention of the department is called to chapter 33 of the General Laws, sections 169 to 176, inclusive, and particularly to paragraph "a" of section 176.

"If a member of the National Guard after being summoned to appear before a court martial by a notice in writing served on him in hand, neglects to so appear, the court martial may issue a warrant directing that the member of the National Guard be arrested and brought before the court martial. Police officers, if so requested, must serve such a warrant and bring the person named in the warrant before the court martial whether said court martial is held within or without the City of Boston.

"If a member of the National Guard is found guilty by a court martial and sentenced to confinement in a jail or house of correction, a mittimus under General Order No. 13, issued by the Adjutant General's office, dated December 20, 1922, shall be signed by the commanding officer of the member of the National Guard so sentenced and police officers, if requested, must take the person named in the mittimus to said place of confinement mentioned in said mittimus within or without the City of Boston.

"All expenses incurred in the arrest and transportation to the place of court martial or place of confinement shall, in the first instance, be borne by the Police Department and whatever sums of money are so spent shall be reimbursed to said Police Department by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, after being approved by the office of the Adjutant General."

General Order No. 225.

A trial board, consisting of Captains Gallivan, Walkins and Kneeland, having heard by reference a complaint against Patrolman Francis D. Butler of Division 6, charging him with being absent without leave, has reported to the commissioner a finding of not guilty. In accordance with which it is hereby ordered that the complaint against the said Patrolman Francis D. Butler be dismissed.

General Order No. 226.

George F. Bergeron, formerly a patrolman attached to Division 13, was on February 5, 1923, dismissed from the Police Department of the City of Boston for conduct unbecoming an officer, in that "while on a 'day off' and not on duty, he was under the influence of liquor," and due and sufficient notice of such dismissal was given in writing on February 5, 1923, to the said George F. Bergeron, giving the reasons therefor.

The said George F. Bergeron on February 8, 1923, requested in writing a hearing on said charges and the Police Commissioner set down Thursday, February 15, 1923, at three o'clock p. m., at the office of the Police Commissioner, as the time and place of said hearing and duly notified said Bergeron. At request of counsel for said Bergeron, said hearing was continued to Monday, February 19, 1923, to Wednesday, February 21, 1923, and to Monday, February 26, 1923, at two o'clock p. m., at the office of the commissioner, at which last mentioned time and place the said George F. Bergeron was present with counsel and was heard with his witnesses, said hearing continuing at the same time and place on Tuesday, February 27, 1923, when said George F. Bergeron was again present with counsel and was heard with his witnesses.

Whereupon after hearing the case, the Police Commissioner finds the said George F. Bergeron guilty as charged in the complaint, herein agreeing with the finding of the trial board, but because of the conflict of testimony in this case as to the degree of intoxication with which this officer was charged and because of the fact that he was on his day of relief and not on active duty or in uniform, the commissioner feels inclined not to follow the recommendation of the trial board by imposing the extreme penalty of dismissal, and it is hereby ordered that the said George F. Bergeron be reinstated as a patrolman of the Police Department of the City of Boston, that his suspension be lifted with loss of pay during the term of his suspension, both to take effect as of Friday, March 2, 1923, and that he perform two hundred and ten hours' punishment duty.

The commissioner desires once more to impress on the minds of such members of the department as are inclined to indulge in intoxicating liquor, Rule 27, section 1, of the Rules and Regulations, "that every patrolman shall hold himself in readiness at all times to answer the calls and obey the orders of his superior officers."

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate these orders.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

LABOR REPORT.

The records of the Public Employment Office, 23 and 25 Pearl street, Boston, for the month of February, with its twenty-three working days, compare very favorably with the previous month, January, with its twenty-six working days, and they also show a substantial improvement over February, 1922.

During the month there were 1,047 orders from employers, calling for 1,308 persons and 1,050 positions were reported filled. This shows a decrease of 67 orders, a decrease of 137 persons wanted by employers and a decrease of 136 positions filled from January records.

During the month 1,423 service men (996 soldiers, 427 sailors) visited the office in search of employment. Of this number 150 (116 soldiers, 34 sailors) were given introduction cards to firms and 114 (84 soldiers, 30 sailors) secured positions.

Male Departments.—The inclement weather has had a decidedly quieting effect upon outdoor industry as shown in the men's skilled departments. It has been very quiet in the building trades with a few calls for carpenters, painters and steamfitters. The metal trades have shown considerable activity especially in the machinists' industry, so much so that the supply of specialists has dwindled considerably. During the last two weeks there has been an increased demand from the printing industry and a number of positions for compositors and pressfeeders have been filled. The steam trade demand continues good and a number of engineers and firemen have been placed.

Business has been very good in the men's unskilled department but employers seem to be waiting for clearer weather conditions. There is a fair supply of able bodied laborers who are willing to work providing the prices are right. A scarcity of experienced farmers who can milk exists and competent men are quickly placed. The supply of casual workers who are looking for inside jobs is abundant but the demand for their services is very poor.

The demand for boys for errands, offices and factories continues good and while many places have been filled there is a scarcity of the right kind of boys for some of the positions.

Female Departments.—There has been a decided improvement in the women's trades. The demand for women workers in machine shops has been good but the supply is only fair. The needle trades are showing more activity and general factory work is good. Power stitchers are in good demand with only a moderate supply. The demand for waitresses in hotels and restaurants has been good with a fair supply. Housework girls continue to be scarce. Culinary workers in hotels and restaurants are in fair demand with a good supply and so with the day workers and cleaners, a fair demand with a good supply.

The number of people called for by employers in February was 1,308 as compared with 1,253 in 1922; 1,293 in 1921; 2,206 in 1920 and 662 in 1919.

The number of positions reported filled in February was 1,050 as compared with 734 in 1922; 812 in 1921; 1,201 in 1920, and 1,000 in 1919.

STATEMENT OF CITY AUDITOR.

City Auditor Rupert S. Carven issued the following statement upon the 5th instant:

"Destructive publicity" might well be the slogan of the Finance Commission. An insatiable desire for publicity, fair or foul, seems to permeate their every utterance, be it oral or written. Excuse there may be for seeking the limelight when public statements are based on facts; but there can be no excuse offered when false public statements uttered by responsible officials are the result of ignorance or design. While there can be no defence in the latter case, there is available to the transgressor, be they lawyers or laymen, the expedient of apology or retraction, to correct as far as possible, any injustice done by such false statements. The expedient of apology or retraction is not in current use by the Finance Commission.

The statements of the Finance Commission made before the several sessions of the Committee on Municipal Finance at the State House have been so generally erroneous that the greater part of my time was spent in correction of them rather than in direct argument. The officials of the city as well as the members of the committee had the right to expect a retraction of these erroneous statements, but the chairman of the Finance Commission remained as dumb as the proverbial oyster. Is this fair practice? Is this honorable procedure? Any city official making similar wild statements, without public retraction, would undoubtedly be summarily removed by the Mayor, as a menace to the fair name of the city. The chairman of the Finance Commission is not a city official.

The recent communication given to the press by the Finance Commission is a brief which was to be submitted to the Committee on Municipal Finance, through the courtesy of the committee and with the consent of the Mayor. The courtesy of appearing before the committee in reply to this brief was to be extended to me. I assume that this brief and my reply were to be considered in executive rather than in public session, on account of the chairman declaring the hearing closed. While the temptation to reply to this brief, unethically given to the press before its consideration in executive session, is great, nevertheless I will resist this temptation, recognizing the right of the Committee on Municipal Finance to first knowledge of the errors and false assumptions in this latest statement. In the meantime, the citizens of the great city, whose financial reputation is pre-eminent among the cities of the country, may rest assured that their financial affairs are being conducted in accordance with law and in compliance with sane business procedure.

RUPERT S. CARVEN,
City Auditor.

POLICE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

General Order No. 227.

The following transfer is hereby ordered, to take effect as of Friday, March 2, 1923, at 5.45 p. m.:

Patrolman George F. Bergeron, from Division 13 to Division 7.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 228.

Twice within the past month has the excellence of the Shaffer or prone system of resuscitation been demonstrated by members of the Boston Police Force.

On January 20 a man who had been asphyxiated by gas in a basement on Atlantic avenue, was carried out by Patrolman George P. Kingman of the Traffic Division, and although the officer was informed that he was dead, by using the Shaffer method the man after about fifteen minutes' work showed signs of life and before the ambulance arrived he was breathing freely.

On February 9, at a fire in Jasper place, two captains of the Fire Department were overcome by smoke, and Patrolman Thomas J. Connolly and Robert E. Bowes of Division 1, using the Shaffer method, restored them both to consciousness.

I am highly gratified by this excellent police work on the part of these three officers, showing as it does that they have profited by the instructions given to them in the department, and I warmly commend them for the alertness of mind and quickness of action which enabled them to thus save three of their fellow citizens from possible death.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 229.

The resignation of Patrolman David K. Blair of Division 10 having been presented, it is hereby accepted, to take effect Tuesday, March 6, 1923, at 5.45 p. m., seven days' notice waived.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 230.

Section 2 of Rule 27 of the Rules and Regulations of the Police Department is hereby amended by striking out the whole of said section and inserting in place thereof the following new section, which shall be known as Section 2: He shall keep a private record of his work in the filler attached to small pocket manual, with day and date, and shall enter therein all matters of importance in all work in which he is engaged in his official capacity, whether at court, on his route, or elsewhere, and also any other matter of importance connected with the police of the city that comes to his knowledge. New fillers can be obtained by application to the division commander.

The Superintendent of police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 231.

Commanding officers in making out dog licenses for 1923 will place the letter of their station after the word "number" and write the number assigned by the division commander to the dog or dogs in figures after the letter.

Each station will have a letter as follows:

Station 1, A; 2, B; 3, C; 4, D; 5, E; 6, F; 7, G; 8, H; 9, I; 10, J; 11, K; 12, L; 13, M; 14, N; 15, P; 16, R; 17, S; 18, T; 19, V.

Division commanders will instruct the owners of dogs that the letter on the license granted to them must be placed before the number on the dog's collar.

Licenses will be made out in duplicate, one blue and one white, and both sent to the office of the Police Commissioner. The blue copy will be returned to the station to be delivered to owner of dog upon payment of fee. The white copy will be kept on file at the chief clerk's office.

The property clerk will furnish each station with its letter and a red ink pad.

In stamping the letter upon licenses, use the red pad only.

Each station will immediately make requisition on property clerk for the number of applications and licenses required for its use for 1923.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 232.

The resignation of Patrolman William J. Condon of Division 4 having been presented, it is hereby accepted, to take effect Friday, March 9, 1923, at 7.45 o'clock a. m., seven days' notice waived.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

FIRE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

General Order No. 18.

I. ASSIGNMENTS.

The following assignments of men on probation are hereby announced:

John C. J. Merrill, to Engine 16.
William J. Condon, to Engine 17.
Joseph W. Stanney, to Engine 49.
Frank A. Doyle, to Ladder 25.
John T. Seavan, to Ladder 27.
John J. Scanlan, to Ladder 12.

II. TRANSFERS.

The following transfers are hereby announced:

Joseph P. Doyle, from Ladder 28 to Engine 38-39.
John F. Howard, from Engine 12 to Engine 24.
John J. Lennon, from Engine 24 to Engine 12.

III. ANNUAL BALL.

It gives the Fire Commissioner considerable pleasure to announce that the net proceeds for the annual ball on February 12, 1923, for the benefit of the Boston Firemen's Relief Fund, amounted to $25,893.44. This is the largest amount ever raised at any ball conducted by the Boston Fire Department.

The success of the ball this year may be attributed to two things, namely:

(a.) The energetic efforts of the members of the department to conduct a successful ball, particularly the members of the various committees to whom the work was assigned.

(b.) The appreciation of the public of the members of the Boston Fire Department, and a desire on the part of the public to co-operate with them.

The Fire Commissioner congratulates the members of the department on this achievement, and on behalf of the members of the department thanks the public for its interest and generous co-operation.

IV. INDEX TO DEPARTMENT FORMS RE FIRE FIGHTING FORCE.

Hereafter all stationery forms required by company commanders will be ordered as per index to department forms herewith submitted.

Companies will be furnished with new forms, when possible, but in some cases old forms will be furnished until such time as the supply is exhausted, when new forms will be submitted.

By order of the Fire Commissioner.

JOHN O. TABER,
Chief of Department.

BOSTON'S SCHOOL YEAR.

The school year begins on September 1 in each year and closes on August 31 next ensuing.

The sessions of the regular day schools begin on the second Wednesday in September in each year, and continue 40 weeks,—except as follows: Saturdays, Sundays, legal holidays; from 12 o'clock (noon) on day before Thanksgiving Day until the following Monday; from 12 o'clock (noon) on the second calendar day next preceding Christmas to and including New Year's day; the week in which Feb. 22 falls; Good Friday; the week which includes April 19 (Patriot's Day), also June 17 (Bunker Hill Day). Whenever a holiday falls upon Sunday the schools are closed on the following Monday.

The evening schools open on the last Monday in September and continue to the April vacation. The sessions of the high and industrial are on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday from 7.30 to 9.30; of the elementary also on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday. The school centers are open from the first Wednesday in October to the last day in June, some on three evenings and one afternoon each week, others on two evenings only.

The summer review schools are in session for 40 consecutive days from the Monday following the close of the day schools in June, Sundays and holidays excepted.

The summer term of the day industrial schools extends from July 5 to the last Friday in August.

The sessions of the regular day schools closed for the year on Thursday, June 22, 1922, and resumed on Wednesday, September 13, 1922. In 1923 the closing date will be June 22.

CLAIMS.

The Mayor has approved, with the indorsement of the Corporation Counsel, the following claims:

Nathan Williams, Edward R. Williams, Arthur Williams, Lena Epstein, heirs of Annie E. Williams, and Edward R. Williams, owners 1A Prospect street, in the amount of $15,000, as full payment for land taken, all rights acquired, and all damages occasioned to their estates in Chelsea and Prospect streets, Charlestown, by the relocation of said Chelsea street under the Street Commissioners' order of October 9, 1922. The said estates are known as 1A Prospect street, owned by Edward R. Williams, and 110 and 111 Chelsea street and 1 Prospect street, owned by the heirs of Annie E. Williams.

Delia A. O'Riorden, trustee, in the amount of $32,000, as full payment for all land taken, all rights acquired, and all damages occasioned to her estate, 106, 108 and 109 Chelsea street, Charlestown, by the relocation of said street under the order of the Board of Street Commissioners of October 9, 1922.

Mary L. McDonald, petitioner, in the amount of $17,250, as full payment for damages occasioned her property at 166 and 170 Eliot street, city proper, by the laying out, extension, widening, relocation and construction of Stuart street.

PROCEEDINGS OF CITY COUNCIL.

Monday, February 26, 1923.

Regular meeting of the City Council, held in the Council Chamber, City Hall, at two o'clock p. m., Coun. HAGAN, senior member, presiding and all the members present.

APPOINTMENTS BY THE MAYOR.

Subject to confirmation by the City Council, the Mayor submitted the following appointments for terms ending April 30, viz.:

1. George E. Burrows, 311 Summer street, Boston, to be a Weigher of Goods.
2. Jacob H. Silverman, 7 Decatur street, Boston, to the position of constable.
Laid over under the law.

VETO—ANNUITY FOR MRS. DRISCOLL.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 20, 1923.
To the City Council:
Gentlemen,—I beg to return herewith, without my approval, order of your Board adopted under date of January 22, 1923, providing for the payment of an annuity to the widow of Daniel J. Driscoll, formerly a member of the Boston Police Department. In view of the report submitted by said department there apparently is no other course open but rejection.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Placed on file.

VETO—ANNUITY FOR MRS. COYNE.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 20, 1923.
To the City Council:
Gentlemen,—I beg to return herewith, without my approval, order of your Board adopted under date of January 22, 1923, providing for the payment of an annuity to the widow of Michael Coyne, deceased, from injuries received in the service of the city.

The Corporation Counsel reports that the death occurred July 1, 1900, of a man under the provision of chapter 475 of the Acts of 1911 an annuity of $300 per year was paid to the widow for a period of ten years, or a total of $3,000. Under the circumstances it would be an injustice to pay in excess of the sum that has been already authorized and paid.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Placed on file.

VETO—ANNUITY FOR MRS. BOODRO.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 21, 1923.
To the City Council:
Gentlemen,—I return herewith, without my approval, the order of your Board under date of January 23, favoring the enactment of legislation to grant an annuity to the widow of Boston to pay an annuity to Catherine Boodro.

The Fire Commissioner's record discloses the fact that William Henry Boodro was appointed to the department January 11, 1918, and died eight months later, September 25, 1918, the cause of his death being broncho-pneumonia.

The medical officer and also Captain Richer, his commanding officer, report that his death can in no way be traced to exposure or injury in the discharge of his duties.

Under the circumstances there is nothing to justify the approval of the payment of the annuity as requested by your Board.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Placed on file.

SALE OF PIGS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 26, 1923.
To the City Council:
Gentlemen,—I transmit herewith communication from the Institutions Commissioner, requesting authority to dispose of about one hundred pigs at the House of Correction, Deer Island, and respectfully recommend the passage of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Institutions Department,
February 21, 1923.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:
Dear Sir,—I respectfully ask permission to sell, through the Supply Department, City of Boston, about 100 pigs at the House of Correction, Deer Island, weighing from thirty-five to forty pounds each, for a sum amounting to approximately $650.

Very truly yours,
DAVID J. JOHNSON,
Commissioner.

Ordered, That the Superintendent of Supplies be and hereby is authorized to sell, after public advertisement, one hundred (100) pigs, the property of the Institutions Department. Referred to the Executive Committee.

AMENDMENT CONCERNING PARKS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 26, 1923.
To the City Council:
Gentlemen,—I beg to submit herewith an amendment to section 1, chapter 5, of the Ordinances of 1922.
This amendment, in the opinion of the Park Commissioner, is necessary for the protection of existing parks and properties that may now or hereafter be erected thereon or adjacent thereto.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
In the Year Nineteen Hundred and Twenty-three.
An Ordinance Concerning Park Frontages in the City of Boston.

Be it ordained by the City Council of Boston, as follows:

Section 1. Section one of chapter five of the ordinances of nineteen hundred and twenty-two is hereby amended by striking out the word "five" in the ninth line and inserting in place thereof the word "seven," and by adding at the end thereof the following, "excepting buildings erected on that part of Commonwealth avenue from its junction with Beacon street to Arlington street, the extreme height of which buildings may be seventy feet exclusive of cupolas, towers, domes, cornices, parapets, balustrades, sculptured ornaments, chimneys and roofs as the board of park commissioners may approve, so that said section as amended shall read as follows:

Section 1. No building hereafter erected or altered upon land within a distance of one hundred feet from any park or parkway in the city of Boston, excepting, however, Boston Common and the Public Garden and Commonwealth avenue, from its junction with Beacon street to the dividing line between the city of Newton and the city of Boston, shall be used for a livery or public stable or public garage, or for any mechanical, mercantile or manufacturing purposes, nor exceed seven stories in height above the basement or cellar; nor exceed seventy feet in height from the mean grade of the edge-stones or sidewalk in front to the ceiling of the extreme upper story, excepting churches or chapels; and no cupolas, towers, domes, cornices, parapets, balustrades, sculptured ornaments, chimneys and roofs as the board of park commissioners may approve.

Sec. 2. This ordinance shall take effect upon its passage.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

APPROPRIATION BILL.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 24, 1923.
To the City Council:
Gentlemen,—Under the provisions of section 3, chapter 486, of the Acts of 1909, the Mayor is required to submit the budget within thirty days after the beginning of the fiscal year, and I accordingly submit the accompanying budget in lump sum form.

Boston holds the unique position of being the only city in the state which has its limit of appropriating power fixed by the Legislature. Under existing law the city may raise $6.52 on each one thousand dollars of the average valuation for three years, less abatements, for general municipal purposes, exclusive of schools. For several years past the Legislature has granted a higher rate operative one year at a time. Last year the rate was $12.25 on each thousand.

The effect of the present law, and the comparison with last year, is as follows:

Amount available for appropriation inside tax limit, 1922-23.....$25,455,591 59
Amount available for appropriation inside tax limit, 1923-24.....15,569,974 26

Deficit in appropriating power under present law.....$9,885,717 33

No further comment is needed to show the inadequacy of the present law to provide for the needs of the city.

The Legislature is now considering a bill granting the right to Boston to fix its own limit. Upon the passage of this bill or other legislation granting authority to appropriate sufficient funds for the needs of the municipality, I will immediately proceed to prepare and submit at the earliest possible time the annual budget in full segregated form.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

APPROPRIATIONS AND TAX ORDERS FOR THE FINANCIAL YEAR 1923-24.

Ordered, That to meet the current expenses payable during the financial year beginning the first day of February, 1923, or performing the duties and exercising the powers devolved by statute or ordinance, or by vote of the City Council during the year, upon the City of Boston or the County of Suffolk, or the departments or officers thereof, and to meet their respective obligations for interest on debt, sinking fund requirements and maturing debt not provided for by sinking fund, the respective sums of money specified in the table and schedule hereto set out to be and the same are hereby appropriated for the several departments and for the objects and purposes hereinafter stated.

Ordered, That the appropriations for Water Service, current expenses, and the payment to the state under the provisions of chapter 488 of the Acts of 1895, hereinafter referred to as amendments thereto, and for the interest and debt requirements for loans issued for water purposes, be met by the income of said water works and sewerage from taxes; that the appropriation for Printing Department be met by the department income and any excess over income from taxes; that the appropriation for City Record be met by the income of the publication and any excess over income from taxes; that the other appropriations hereinafter specified be met out of the money remaining in the treasury at the close of business on January 31, 1923, exclusive of the money raised by loan or needed to carry out the requirements of any statute, gift, trust or special appropriation, and by the income of the financial year, beginning February 1, 1923, and ending January 31, 1924, and that said amount be raised by taxation on the polls and estates in the City of Boston.

Ordered, That all sums of money which form no part of the income of the city, but shall be paid for services rendered or work done by any other department or division, or for any person or corporation other than the City of Boston, be paid into the general treasury, and that all contributions to the city appropriation be expended for the objects and purposes directed by the several contributors thereof.

Ordered, That all taxes raised to meet the appropriations of the city and all taxes assessed for meeting the city's proportion of the state tax of October 1, 1923, or any other taxes or assessments payable to the Commonwealth, be due and payable on the fifteenth day of October, 1923; that interest shall be charged on all unpaid taxes remaining unpaid after the first day of November, 1923, in accordance with the provisions of chapter 460 of the Acts of 1920, until paid, except the taxes assessed upon shares of national banks, which shall bear interest at the rate of 12 per cent per annum from the fifteenth day of October, 1923, until paid; and that all interest which shall have become due on taxes shall be added to and be part of such appropriation.

Ordered, That except as the appropriation for any purpose or item shall be increased by additional appropriations or by transfers lawfully made, no money shall be expended by any department for any other purpose or item than the designations in the tables and schedules hereinafter set out in excess of the amount set down as appropriated for such specific purpose or item; and no salaries or wages shall be paid in excess of the rates specified in said tables and schedules.

Ordered, That the Commissioner of Public Works make a sidewalk along both sides of Hayden street, from Lawn street to Fisher avenue, Ward 14, in front of the estates bordering thereon, said sidewalk to be from 3 to 10 inches above the gutter adjoining, to be from 5 to 12 feet in width, and to be built of artificial stone with granite edgestones, under the provisions of chapter 196 of the Special Acts of 1917.

Passed under a suspension of the rule.

STATEMENT BY COUN. WATSON.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I would like to ask the Commissioner of the Council to make a suggestion to the body pertaining to legislation on Beacon Hill. With the permission of the Chair and the members I would like to make a few statements.

The PRESIDENT—Coun. Watson may proceed.

Coun. WATSON—I would like to suggest that in the next week the Council sit down in executive session and go over the different bills introduced by his Honor the Mayor and ask the people of the city whether they are for the upbuilding and improving of Boston. I think that the action of the Legislature in turning down practically every piece of legislation introduced by the city through its accredited head is entirely wrong, and I think if the Council would sit down and go over the entire situation concerning bills that were introduced and then attempt to interest the citizens in a movement toward going to the Legislature and seeking a passage of the more worthy of these bills we would be doing something of a constructive nature, which I think is necessary at this time. This thought is brought to my attention because of the many petitions in the morning papers pertaining to the great amount of building that is going on and is contemplated. That means much for Boston commercially, and otherwise, and I merely make this statement to the members of the Council, hoping that my thoughts as spoken may result in us getting together and doing something for the civic good.

REINSTATEMENT OF JAMES MCHUGH.

Coun. WALSH offered the following: Resolved, That the City Council of Boston hereby enact the enactment of legislation authorizing the city to reinstate James McHugh as a member of the Fire Department of said city.

Passed under a suspension of the rule.

CHANGE IN SCHOOL NAME.

Coun. BRICKLEY offered the following: Resolved, That the School Committee be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to have the name of the school now known as the "Michael Angelo" School be named and known as the "Michelangelo" School, to conform with the name of the artist for whom the school was named.

Passed under a suspension of the rule.

RECESS TAKEN.

The Council voted at 2.58 o'clock p. m., on motion of Coun. LANE, to take a recess subject to the call of the President.

The members of the Council reassembled in the chamber and were called to order by the President at 4.16 o'clock p. m.

BALLOT ON PRESIDENT.

Coun. WALSH—I move now that we proceed to elect a president for this year.

Coun. GILBODY—I move an amendment to that motion to postpone election for fifteen minutes.

Coun. WALSH—Mr. President, I think the gentleman might give some reason for asking the extension.

Coun. GILBODY—The reason is that we ought to have all the members here, Mr. President. We postponed the meeting last week because of the absence of a member, and I think we ought to give that member a chance to vote here today, there being one absent, not the same one, but another one.

Coun. WALSH—I move that we withdraw the motion for the election of president.

Coun. WALSH asked unanimous consent to withdraw his motion.

Coun. LANE move that the Council recall from the Committee on Finance the order to appropriate $65,000 for completion of the Thorndike Memorial Building of the City Hospital.

LOAN, THORNDIKE MEMORIAL LABORATORY.

Coun. LANE, with unanimous consent called the message of the Mayor, communications and order (referred February 5) from the Committee on Finance.

The order for a loan of $65,000 for the Thorndike Memorial Laboratory was given its first reading and passed, yeas 8, nays 0.

The order will be given its second reading not less than fourteen days from date.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE REPORTS.

Coun. WATSON, for the Executive Committee, submitted the following, viz.:

1. Reports on communications from the Street Commissioners on petitions (referred, respectively, January 15, January 22 and January 29) on notices of hearings for storage and sale of gasoline—that the same be placed on file.

Reports accepted; communications placed on file.

2. Report on message of Mayor, communication and order (referred today) for sale of pigs, property of the Institutions Department—that the order ought to be placed on file. Report accepted; order passed.

3. Report on message of Mayor and orders (referred February 19) for loan of $70,000 and transfer of $30,000 for municipal garage, Albany street—that the orders ought to pass. The report was accepted and the orders were given their first reading and passed, yeas 8, nays 0.

The orders will be given their final readings not less than fourteen days from date.

CITY AMATEUR BASEBALL LEAGUE.

Coun. HEALEY offered the following: Whereas, In past years the city has experienced many in the promoting of sports for the encouragement, training and health of its citizens; and Whereas, Such expenditures have created a new civic enthusiasm; and

Whereas, The establishment of a city-wide amateur baseball league under the control of officers appointed by the Mayor, and governed by just rules, would lead to a more pronounced civic enthusiasm and sports; therefore be it

Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor be requested to include in the annual budget a sum of money, which in his judgment would be adequate, for the beginning of such a league for the purpose of giving prizes, paying umpires, for furnishing baseballs and other articles necessary for the same.

Coun. HEALEY—Mr. President, I don't want to be considered as a parlor socialist, and I might be considered that if the order involved the expenditure of a great amount of money. I think that perhaps $10,000 will cover it, and thousands and thousands of persons in the City of Boston will enjoy the sport, civic enthusiasm will be created, and the young men and boys particularly will receive an enormous amount of good. I move you, therefore, that the rule be suspended that the order may go on its passage.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. Chairman, as a matter of information I would like to ask the councilor opposite how much an appropriation he in his mind to make him a real and out socialist or a parlor socialist.

Coun. HEALEY—Why, if making a parlor socialist, I think I would make a man a better representative of the people at large, I wouldn't specify the amount that would be necessary, sir.

Coun. WATSON—Do you think that the propositions such as you suggest are socialist in their tendencies? If you do, I disagree with you, and I would like to know why you used the words "parlor socialist."

Coun. HEALEY—For fear that perhaps a man might have a stunted mind and his intelligence might be stunted, I make the statement that I don't want to be considered as a parlor socialist.

Coun. WATSON—I will not consider that thus.

The PRESIDENT—The question comes on the suspension of the rules.

The yeas were 8, and the nays were 0.

The PRESIDENT—The question comes upon the immediate passage of the order.

The order was adopted.

Coun. WALSH—I move we proceed to ballot for president.

Coun. GILBODY—I still move to amend the motion, that we shouldn't take a ballot until we had the full membership.

The PRESIDENT—The chair will entertain a motion to appoint Coun. Gilbody a committee to bring in the absent member.

Coun. WATSON—I second the motion.

The PRESIDENT—I can't make the motion. Will the City Messenger inform the absent members that we are going to take a vote for president and would like to have as many present as we can?

Coun. LANE—Mr. President, I move the Council do now adjourn.

A voice vote was taken, and the President being in doubt, a further vote was taken by show of hands, which the President announced as being four in the affirmative and three in the negative, and that the Council stood adjourned.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I would like to find out whether or not that vote is 4 to 3 for adjournment. I would like to have the roll called on this matter.

The PRESIDENT—Very well. No objection, if you want a roll call. Coun. Watson asks for a roll call on the question of adjournment.

On the calling of the roll four voted in the affirmative and four in the negative.

The PRESIDENT—It is a tie vote. The Council do now adjourn.

Coun. WATSON—I move we proceed to ballot for president for the ensuing year.

The motion was carried and the Council proceeded to ballot for president for the ensuing year with the following result:

For John A. Donoghue—Coun. Donoghue, Gilbody, Walsh, Watsen (4).

For William J. Walsh—Coun. Hagan, Lane (2).

For George F. Gilbody—Coun. Healey (1).

For William J. Walsh—Coun. Moriarty (1).

And there was no choice.

GENERAL RECONSIDERATION.

Coun. LANE moved a general reconsideration of the business transacted at the meeting, hoping that the same would not prevail. Lost.

Adjourned at 4.32 o'clock p. m., on motion of Coun. Gilbody, to meet on Monday, March 5, at two o'clock p. m.

PROCEEDINGS OF CITY COUNCIL.

Monday, March 5, 1923.

Regular meeting of the City Council, held in the Council Chamber, City Hall, at two o'clock p. m., Coun. HAGAN, senior member, presiding and all the members present.

BRANCH LIBRARY, HEATH SQUARE.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 5, 1923.
Gentlemen,—I beg to return herewith order of your Board adopted under date of December 27 requesting the establishment of a branch library and reading room at Heath square.
The Public Library Trustees of the City of Boston have considered the matter and decided that the location is not desirable as a site for a library.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Placed on file.

EXPENSES OF CONSERVATION BUREAU.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 5, 1923.
Gentlemen of the City Council:
I beg to submit herewith an order providing for continuance of the work of the Conservation Bureau, and recommend its passage.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Ordered, That the City Auditor be authorized to allow for payment and the City Treasurer to pay the expenses of the Conservation Bureau incurred in advance of the passage of the annual budget; the amounts so paid to be charged to the appropriation for said bureau when made.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

PARKMAN FUND EXPENDITURES.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 5, 1923.
To the City Council:
Gentlemen,—The Park Commissioners, after studies and a survey in conjunction with the landscape architect, Mr. Arthur A. Shurtleff, have recommended the expenditure of $175,000 from the income of the Parkman Fund during the next fiscal year.

It is the desire of the commission, as recommended by the landscape architect, that the improvements consist of concrete bleachers with aprons for a total of 12,000 square yards of concrete walks at an estimated cost of $36,000; 7,000 cubic yards of loam at an estimated cost of $17,500; two bridges at an estimated cost of $30,000; the changing of the course of Fens Pond at an estimated cost of $14,000; drainage at an estimated cost of $3,000; fences, backstops, etc., at an estimated cost of $2,500.

The attendance at the educational and scientific institutions located in the Fenway district is such that out-door recreation facilities should be provided at the earliest possible opportunity and that a beginning may be made without further delay so that facilities may be available during the coming summer. I recommend the adoption of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Park Department, February 23, 1923.
Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—A survey of the plans drawn by Mr. A. A. Shurtleff for the development of the Fens shows that an approximate estimate made by our engineering force of the cost of developing this portion of the Fens to be as follows:

Two bridges at $15,000.....	$30,000
Concrete bleachers to seat 5,000 at $12.....	72,000
7,000 cubic yards loam at $2.50, 6 inches deep.....	17,500
12,000 square yards concrete walks at $1.50.....	36,000
Fences, backstops, etc.....	2,500
Drainage.....	3,000
Changing course of Fens Pond.....	14,000
	$175,000

Parkman

With the $30,000 asked from the Fund, February 21, 1923, we can build:
Bleachers for 3,000 people at $12 per seat.....
Grading and loaming.....
Backstops and wire fences.....

$36,000
11,900
2,500
$50,000

This work will be so arranged that the extension of the bleachers and ball field, the building of the bridges to cross the Fens stream, will be completed when the funds are available.

Very respectfully yours,
JAMES B. SHERA, Chairman.

Ordered, That the sum of $52,000 be and the same is hereby appropriated from the income of the Parkman Fund, to be expended under the direction of the Park Commission, for the maintenance and improvement of the Common and parks in existence on January 12, 1887, as follows:
Athletic field, Fens..... $50,000
Zoological Garden animals..... 2,000

Referred to the Committee on Parkman Fund, when appointed.

POLICE STATION, HYDE PARK.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 5, 1923.
Gentlemen of the City Council:
The Police Commissioner, Herbert A. Wilson, noting in consultation with the Superintendent of Public Buildings, has recommended the construction in an amount sufficient to provide adequate public station facilities in the Station 18, Hyde Park district, and that to meet said appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized to issue, from time to time, upon request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Ordered, That the sum of $200,000 be and the same hereby is appropriated to be expended by the Superintendent of Public Buildings for the establishment of a police station, Hyde Park district, and that to meet said appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized to issue, from time to time, upon request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

The message and order were referred to the Committee on Finance, when appointed.

Congressman Mr. President, I move a reconsideration on that reference and ask that the matter be referred to the Executive Committee. I think it ought to be acted on rapidly, as everyone knows the condition of the Hyde Park Police Station and the Rosindale Police Station.

The reference was reconsidered and the message and order referred to the Executive Committee.

REMODELING OF POLICE STATION 13.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 5, 1923.
Gentlemen of the City Council:
The new courthouse at Forest Hills should be available for occupancy by May 1 of the present year, which will result in the abandonment for court purposes of the courthouse in Seaverns avenue, east of Fenway. The new building, 100 feet long, 20 feet wide, and 10 feet high, and by an expenditure of $100,000 it should be possible to so enlarge and improve Station 13 as to provide for future requirements for possibly a half century. I accordingly recommend the adoption of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Ordered, That the sum of $100,000 be and the same is hereby appropriated to be expended by the Superintendent of Public Buildings for the remodeling of courthouse, West Roxbury, for police purposes, and that to meet said expenditure the City Treasurer be authorized to issue, from time to time, upon request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

BOSTON SANATORIUM, OUT-PATIENT BUILDING.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 5, 1923.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—The Out-Patient Department of the Boston Sanatorium, located for many years in quarters wholly inadequate and unsuitable for the requirements of this most important branch of health service, have been notified that their lease, which terminates on March 10, will not be renewed.

Arrangements have been made for the transfer of the Out-Patient Department to a building on Rutland street and it is desirable that permanent quarters be established, which permanent quarters I am informed by Doctor O'Brien and Doctor Minot, the department have been seeking since 1911.

I accordingly recommend the adoption of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Ordered, That the sum of $150,000 be and the same is hereby appropriated to be expended by the trustees of the Boston Sanatorium, for the establishment of an out-patient building, and that to meet said appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized to issue, from time to time, upon request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

ENLARGEMENT OF WILLIAM J. BARRY PLAYGROUND.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 5, 1923.
To the City Council:
Gentlemen,—I am in receipt of the enclosed petition favoring the enlargement of the William J. Barry Playground, Charlestown, formerly known as Myrtle Playground, and recommending the adoption of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

[Enclosed was petition referred to.]

Ordered, That the sum of $200,000 be and the same is appropriated for the enlargement and improvement of the William J. Barry Playground, Charlestown district, and that to meet said appropriation the City Treasurer be and he is authorized to issue, from time to time, upon request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

Referred to the Committee on Finance, when appointed.

PETITIONS REFERRED.

The following petitions were received and referred to the committees named, viz:

Referred to the Executive Committee.

SALARIES OF ELECTION COMMISSIONERS.

Coun. BRICKLEY—Mr. President, I move that the ordinance increasing the salaries of the Election Commissioners be taken up for consideration on Ordinance when appointed, and referred to the Executive Committee.

The motion was carried and the ordinances were referred to the Executive Committee.

BALLOT FOR PRESIDENT.

Coun. LANE—Mr. President, I move that we take a ballot for President of the Council for the year.

The motion was carried and the Clerk called the roll, with the following result:

For James T. Moriarty—Coun. Brickley and Moriarty—2.

For James A. Donoghue—Coun. Donoghue, Walsh and Watson—3.

For Daniel W. Lane—Coun. Gilbody, Hagan, Healey, Lane—4.

And there was no choice.

A QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Coun. DONOGHUE—Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

Chairman HAGAN—The council has the floor, if there is no objection.

Coun. DONOGHUE—Mr. President, it has come to my attention that two communications have been sent to members of this body, one of them by a so-called reorganization committee of telephone workers and the other by the Boston Central Labor Union, protesting against my candidacy for presidency of this body. Mr. President, the communications which come from that so-called reorganization committee is from about forty die-hard who were members of an old organization, 1,480 of whom are now in the organization I represent and that less than forty remaining behind, now seeking to injure me in my candidacy politically. They take it upon themselves to pretend that they amount to something when in reality they are absolutely insignificant. One of the names on the circular is that of Mr. Alonzo J. Ward, a person whom I would not even deign to call by the name of man, because I know him personally and I know his characteristics. I will merely say this, that throughout the existence of the telephone company he is known as a man who failed to contribute and refused to contribute to the support of his own master.

It is given to the writings of such a person by any member of this Council, it is their lookout. I merely want to bring out that fact, because of the viciousness of the attitude of this insignificant person. Then I have received another communication from the Boston Central Labor Union, who say, after all their whines and whistles, that they have resolved to send a copy of the resolution he mailed to each member of the City Council, including Coun. Donoghue of the Boston City Council." I don't know what the object is in sending me one of their communications. Possibly they feel that it might have some effect on me in the matter of support which I now have and I don't know. I have seen eight signs among them, and I know something of their ability, and let me say that I pay practically as little attention to communications from the Boston Central Labor Union when they attempt to interfere in a condition such as exists here in our Boston City Council as I would to a communication from any other person or group of individuals. I will simply dispose of the matter by saying that they have absolutely no right whatever to send to any member of this Council any communication asking the members of the Council not to vote for me, or to interfere in any way whatsoever with the deliberation of this body.

The Central Labor Union, in its communications, have proven themselves to be, or as trying to set themselves up as being, one of the most autocratic and tyrannical organizations that the Boston Central Labor Union, in attempting to interfere with the election of a president of this body, have gone entirely outside the scope of decency, attempting to ask or to dictate to you men whom you shall vote for or whom you shall vote against. That is not the problem of the Boston Central Labor Union. Their problem is that of labor and the ease of the lives of the people whom they represent. My record on Beacon Hill in the Constitutional Convention, and as a member of this body, in so far as labor is concerned, is second to that of no man who ever voted here. I have got as good a record as any member of the Boston Central Labor Union or any other union, in and out of the convention, in regard to my aims and my dealings with the affairs of those whom they are supposed to represent is concerned. My record in that regard is as good as that of any one who has ever been here from their name. But, because of the fact that I saw fit to exercise my God-given right to decide as to what would be the best for the men I represent, I am to be criticised and castigated by these political parasites. I say they have gone altogether too far. I believe that they have gone beyond the boundaries of their jurisdiction, because, after all, this is merely a so-called jurisdictional dispute. The members of my organization and the great majority of the membership, decided what they should do as to their organization, leaving probably less than forty who worked for the company remaining outside. They placed principles above power and I believe that principles always supersede politics. Labor unions don't come first with me, and I don't believe they should come first, and I don't think they should come first in the membership of this Council. For instance, we all place country, state, city and religion before labor politics. There is no one here who would dictate to the representatives of this Boston city government as to who their choice shall be for president or who it shall not be for president. My feet I might as well give you a little history of our organization. After having internal fights for eight years within the so-called fold of the electrical workers' organization, I went to the convention in St. Paul, and in their own organization of about 100,000 individuals we defeated them in their own convention, better than they did in a righteous one. But between the close of one session and the opening of the next we were counted out by 1,700 votes and those in control of the electrical workers realized that by the next convention would come around we would be in control of our own body and would then have to exercise the right that we had won from them and which they denied us for a selfish, pecuniary reason. We knew nothing of labor conditions when we joined the labor movement, and we were anxious to join under the banner of the electrical workers. I represent the telephone workers. After joining the electrical workers we found that it was impossible to get along with them unless they agreed to let us go, unless we could get enough votes in their own body to defeat them. Well, we have just said, we were convinced that we defeated them inside their own fold, and it was clear that we would positively defeat them so that there would be no question as to the next convention. But in the meantime they held a special convention of their electrical board and they threw the telephone workers out of the organization and into a department of their own, so that their votes would not be against them at the next election. We said to them that we wanted to be placed in the same position that we had been placed in but they denied us that right. They wanted to keep us in the fold so that they might collect the per capita funds, but refuse to give us any recognition whatsoever. The thing that we are particularly incensed about is the fact that, while we were in the movement for our votes, they failed to organize any telephone workers whatsoever, and whatever telephone men are organized we organized ourselves. We ourselves money ourselves to organize them all and we asked for the right of self-determination, autonomy, the right to a charter ourselves from the American Federation of Labor. I have talked with men who are, in my opinion, some of the ablest men who represent labor, the American Federation of Labor, and they say that we should have an international organization of our own. There is no one who knows anything about labor organizations who will deny that that should be so, so that when steps in and says that until the electrical workers release us we must remain subservient to them, even though they accept our taxation and give us representation in the management of the principles upon which our country was founded. We rebelled in the early days against taxation without representation, and we rebelled against the same conditions in the labor world. So that is a brief outline of the controversy which has culminated in these circulars. A year ago when I was a candidate for the presidency of the body, a different line of attack was introduced. You know what that line of attack was then. It was suggested that the Central Labor Union was a candidate to the same sort of stuff I am now being subjected to, and I represent particularly the communication from the Boston Central Labor Union. As for the communication from the Central Labor Union, I want to call your attention the fact that it is signed by one of the city employees, Mr. Frank Kelly, who is the treasurer for the Central Labor Union. He is the president—just think how inconsistent it is—of the electrical wire men's organization. He has not run a wire probably in fifteen years.

All he does is either inspect or do clerical work in the Wire Department. We held a meeting in our own city hall and city employees were talked to to prevent them from doing just what this man as a city employee is attempting to do, criticize unjustly men who are representing Boston, so as to try to drag down into the mire the fair name of our city. I say that no man such as he is fit to be allowed to work as a city employee. I think it is disgraceful that he should be allowed to do it from his own uncle, who supported his mother all her life—that this man, after he had been taken care of himself, refused, when this man wanted to get married, to support his mother. I don't have respect for him. He is no part of a man. So those are the two men who signed that reorganization circular. I don't think it is at all appropriate as president of the Operators' Union on the top of the circular. She is not even affiliated with them. Through the same autocratic methods her organization was thrown bodily out of labor circles. Miss Malloy had no standing whatsoever when that communication was sent out, no connection whatever with organized labor, so called, and still they use her name. I know that Miss Malloy would not allow that, even if she were a member of the so-called committee. She would allow no such communication to be sent out with her name on it. I have that respect for her, even although we have differed in some of our aims, that I know that she would not allow me to allow her name to be sent out attached to any such circular as that. In closing, gentlemen, I am sure that you will all agree that this communication, instead of having the ill effect that those who sponsored it thought it possibly might have, is not going to have that effect. I do not believe that any member of the Council is going to be influenced in his judgment one way or the other by it. In presenting not alone to the City Council but to the citizens at large the attitude of the existing situation, in as far a manner as I possibly can present the case, I have no doubt as to what the judgment will be. I thank you.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make a statement. It was not my intention to say anything concerning the matter of labor politics referred to by the councilor preceding me until he had spoken, and then I thought it was but justice to the parties who have directed communications to me for me to state why I have voted as I have to date. Two years ago there was a contest in this body for the presidency, and I was a candidate. Coun. Donoghue voted for me from the beginning of the year until I was finally elected, and I want to show publicly that I have some small degree of gratitude to him for going through with me. While I respect to some who have communicated with me concerning the presidency, and while I want to say I believe they have a right to their views, I don't think I should be so foolish as to feel that they will accord to me that same right. And so I now state why I have voted as I have voted to date. I am sure that I am able to show my gratitude to one who has been kind to me when I needed his support.

ANOTHER BALLOT FOR PRESIDENT.

Coun. LANE—Mr. President, I move that we proceed to another ballot for President.

Chairman HAGAN—If there is no objection, the Clerk will call the roll, referred to by the Clerk called the roll, with the following result:

For James T. Moriarty—Coun. Brickley and Moriarty—2.

For John A. Donoghue—Coun. Donoghue, Walsh and Watson—3.

For Daniel W. Lane—Coun. Gilbody, Hagan, Healey and Lane—4.

And there was no choice.

RECESS TAKEN.

The Council voted at 3:14 o'clock p. m., on motion of Coun. BRICKLEY to take a recess subject to the call of the President.

The members of the Council reassembled in the chamber of the City Council at 4:20 o'clock p. m.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE REPORTS.

Coun. WATSON, for the Executive Committee, submitted the following, viz.:

1. Report on petition of Ruth McShane (referred today) for children under fifteen years of age to appear at municipal building, Boston, May 25—that a permit be granted.
2. Report accepted; permit granted on the usual conditions.
3. Report on message of Mayor and ordinance (referred February 20) relative to park frontages—that the ordinance ought to pass.
4. Report on message of Mayor and ordinance (referred today) for loan of $200,000 for police station, Hyde Park district—that the order ought to pass.

The report was accepted and the order was given its first reading and passed, yeas 9, nays 0.

The order will be given its final reading, not less than fourteen days from date.

4. Report on message of Mayor and order (referred today) for loan of $150,000 for establishment of out-patient building, Boston Sanatorium—that the order ought to pass.

The report was accepted and the order was given its first reading and passed, yes 9, nays 0. The order will be given its final reading not less than fourteen days from date.

5. Report on message of Mayor and order (referred today) concerning expenses of Conservation Bureau—recommending passage of order in the following new draft, viz.:

Ordered, That the City Auditor be authorized to allow for payment and the City Treasurer to pay not in excess of one third of the estimated budget expense allowed to the Conservation Bureau incurred in advance of the passage of the annual budget; the amounts so paid to be charged to the appropriation for said Bureau when made.

Report accepted; order passed.

6. Report on ordinance (referred today)—changing salaries of Election Commissioners—that the ordinance ought to pass.

Report accepted; ordinance passed, yes 9, nays 0.

CONCRETE STANDS, CONNELLY PARK.

Coun. GILBODY offered an order—That the sum of $10,000 be and the same hereby is appropriated for the erection of concrete stands on the John J. Connelly Playground on Marcella street, Roxbury, and that to meet said appropriation the City Treasurer be and hereby is authorized to issue, from time to time, upon request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I have no objection to the order—in fact, I am in hearty sympathy with it—but when we pass an order appropriating $10,000 for a specific purpose we ought to know the cost before we pass it. Ten thousand dollars may or may not be ample. Therefore, I move that the matter be taken up on its next meeting, when we may get an estimate of the cost of the stands, as suggested in the order, from the Park Department. Then, if $10,000 is enough, we can pass the order, or we may want more money.

Chairman HAGAN—Will Coun. Watson be satisfied if this is referred to the Executive Committee?

Coun. WATSON—Yes.

Coun. GILBODY—I only want to say a word about the order, Mr. President. I have no objection to having it referred to the Executive Committee, but, as far as the amount is concerned, I have ascertained that the sum suggested is sufficient to build. I am further understood that the gentleman opposite was in favor of the order when it was introduced. I have no objection, however, to its being referred to the Executive Committee.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I certainly am in favor of the order and have been working all the time for almost a year with the Park Department trying to arrange for what is suggested in the order. I knew that if it came from the Park Department in their budget we would be sure to get it, whereas if we passed a blanket order for $10,000 it may not be enough or may be too much. I think we ought to get some information concerning it.

The order was referred to the Executive Committee.

ADDITIONAL BALLOT FOR PRESIDENT.

Coun. LANE—Mr. President, I move that we proceed to take another ballot for President. The motion was carried, and the Clerk called the roll, with the following result:

For James T. Moriarty—Coun. Brickley, Moriarty—2.

For John A. Donoghue—Coun. Donoghue, Gilbody, Walsh and Watson—4.

For Daniel W. Lane—Coun. Hagan—1.

For Henry E. Hagan—Coun. Healey and Lane—2.

And there was no choice.

DEPARTMENT CO-OPERATION.

Coun. HEALEY offered the following: Whereas, His Honor the Mayor stated in his second annual address that "a more intimate co-operation between the School and Library Departments becomes important and desirable"; and Whereas, The Librarian at the laying of the corner stone of the West Roxbury Branch Library suggested a wider use of the library facilities; and Whereas, The Librarian of the School Committee at a recent meeting of the officials of the school centers urged the necessity of a closer union of the School and Park Departments; and Whereas, The fulfillment of their thoughts would lead to a better co-ordination of departments and a better use of public funds; therefore be it

Resolved, That His Honor the Mayor be requested to confer with the head officials of the departments here specified for the purpose of developing a plan in accordance with their views, and be it further

Resolved, That His Honor the Mayor transmit to the City Council within ninety days such recommendations and findings as he deems advisable. Passed under a suspension of the rule.

UNDERGROUND RAPID TRANSIT IN BOSTON.

The Boston Transit Commission, consisting of five members, two appointed by the Governor and three by the Mayor, began its official existence, July 1, 1894, and ended it July 1, 1918, after seven extensions of the original term. It constructed, under the authority of Acts of the Legislature, the following subways and tunnels, the ownership of which is vested in the City of Boston, and all costs to be covered by revenue from same, not by taxation; Tremont Street Subway, from Broadway and Tremont street, South End, to North Station, and from Boylston street, near Charles, to Park street, 1.68 miles, opened March, September 1, 1897, and to North Station on Sept. 3, 1898, costing with subsequent alterations, \$4,416,000, the first transportation subway in the United States; East Boston Tunnel, from Maverick square, East Boston, under Boston Harbor and State street to Scollay square, Boston Proper, 1.42 miles, opened December 30, 1904, costing \$3,336,000, the first all-concrete under-water transportation tunnel in the world; Washington Street Tunnel, from Ash street, opposite Nassau, South End, to Traverse street, near North Station, 1.16 miles, opened November 30, 1908, costing \$8,496,700 (including \$2,850,000 land damages); Cambridge Connection Subway from under Park street station of Tremont Street Subway to Grove street near Cambridge Bridge, 0.47 miles, opened March 23, 1912, costing \$1,465,000; Boylston street subway, from Commonwealth avenue, near Kenmore street, Back Bay, to Tremont Street Subway, near Charles street, 1.5 miles, opened October 13, 1914, costing \$5,485,639; East Boston Tunnel Extension, from Scollay square to North Russell street, 0.41 miles, opened March 18, 1916, approximate cost \$2,450,000; Dorchester Tunnel, from Park street, Boston Proper, to Andrew square, South Boston, 2.26 miles, opened December 3, 1916, as far as South Station; on December 15, 1917, to Broadway, South Boston, and on June 29, 1918, to the Andrew Square terminal. Trains of four or six cars are run in the Washington Street Tunnel, continuing on elevated track to Forest Hills, also in Dorchester Tunnel from Andrew square, South Boston, connecting with Cambridge Tunnel, to Harvard square, Cambridge, while only single or double street cars are run in the other tunnels and subways; amount borrowed to 1922 for the Dorchester Tunnel, \$10,750,000. Total gross debt for all subways and tunnels, \$37,558,700 (incl. loans of \$1,210,000 for new Arlington Station of Boylston Street Subway, opened on November 13, 1921), against which a sinking fund of \$6,369,630 has been accumulated from the revenue, payable mostly in 40 years from date of each loan (loans since 1911 payable in 45 years), annual interest averaging 3.8 per cent. These underground ways, about 8.9 miles in all with total of 19.27 miles of single track were leased to the Boston Elevated Railway Company (which furnished the equipment) for term of 25 years (except Tremont street, 20 years) at annual rental of $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ per cent of net cost (except East Boston Tunnel which was at $\frac{1}{4}$ of one per cent of all annual gross receipts of said company). In accordance with Chapter 741, Acts of 1911, the various leases were extended to July 1, 1936, the rental to be $\frac{1}{2}$ per cent of net cost after expiration of the first-term leases.

By Chap. 185, Special Acts of 1918, the powers of the Transit Commission, whose term expired that year, were transferred to the Mayor, Commissioner of Public Works and City Treasurer, or such person or persons, not exceeding three, as the Mayor might appoint. By Chap. 3, Ordinances of 1918, the Transit Dept. was established as a regular City department, to be in charge of three commissions.

BOSTON'S TRUST FUNDS AND REQUESTS.

ARCHITECTS CHosen.

Messrs. Maginnis & Walsh have been chosen as architects for the new police station at Hyde Park, provided by a loan of $200,000, presented by Mayor Curley and duly concurred in by the City Council. The fee is to be the customary 6 per cent of the construction cost.

CONVENTION OF PURCHASING AGENTS.

MAYOR CURLEY SENDS RINGING MESSAGE OF NEW ENGLAND'S NEEDS.

In behalf of Mayor Curley, Joseph Smith addressed the Convention of the New England Purchasing Agents at the City Club, upon the 12th instant, as follows:

On behalf of the Mayor of Boston I extend you a warm welcome. The purchasing agent is one of the most important and useful figures in industry and commerce; he must be shrewd; he must have vision, knowledge and experience; upon his judgment depends much of the success of business; and he must be an optimist. Certainly any body of men who can sing "The Good Old Summer Time" on a morning like this must be optimists.

Every business public and private has its purchasing agent; much depends upon him and upon the advice and supervision he gets. The public business is everybody's business and if it is to be transacted with efficiency and economy, everybody must take an interest in it; for while every man cannot be an office holder, every man can be in politics sufficiently to watch his representatives, and the keener the public interest in public business the better it will be done.

Here in New England, and I think you men represent the various industries and business of New England, it is very essential that the average citizen should take a keener interest in politics, in public business, than he does. We have a number of schemes that various interests are attempting to put across, and no scheme can be put across without costing money. If it is a wasteful or unnecessary scheme the money is lost. Let me get down to particulars. I want everyone of you gentlemen to take my advice away and talk it over in your own district, for upon your interest and attitude depends the prosperity of New England. The farmers have got together; they have a number of things they want, and whether we think well of it or not, they want it, and they get it. The time has come for New England, and by New England I mean not only the New England States but all the states along the North Atlantic Coast, to combine for their interests that must be looked after. We must get together and form a "bloc" and tell those people in the West and Middle West that if we can't get what is necessary for us, they can't get any of their demands. The time seems to have gone by when diplomacy will get us anywhere in Congress. Platitudes are pretty poor weapons to fight plunderers with, and that is what is going on in Congress under various names,—plunder. The money that the government gets and spends, whether it is the federal, state or municipal, comes out of your pocket, out of your sweat. There are a lot of people who think the government makes money. But it all comes out of you; and the man that imagines it comes in some magical way, gets his reaction from taxes and from wages; he gets it in his dinner pail, in the suit of clothes he buys, in the rent he pays, and in what business he does with the community.

Let us take one pretty scheme. It originated up in Duluth, and then came down to Chicago, and they are now trying to work it here. They want to build a canal along the St. Lawrence river that will take business around New England and leave New England high and dry. They say we will get more power for our industries out of it. All the power you will get out of the St. Lawrence river for New England industries you can put in your pipe and smoke it. It is a good deal like the distribution of prize money in the old days in the navy. When there was any prize money to be distributed, they used to say they threw the prize money up against the ratlines, and what stuck there the sailors got, and what didn't the officers got. When they get through distributing power what sticks on the ratlines we will get. It is really a scheme of certain great electric power companies to get something at public expense and they want us to build it in connection with Canada. Well now, the Canadians are a very enterprising people. It would be an excellent thing to go into partnership with us. We are the fellows that pays the bills; we are the easy thing that does the dying and fighting for everybody else. Our experience has been that in all these schemes of international uplift, the other fellow gets the cream and we the skimmed milk; and the privilege of paying the bills. This St. Lawrence canal is simply a great big organized graft, and if it ever goes through with the help of the United States, New England will be left stranded in a corner. Montreal will grow fat at our expense. The great grain trade that should come down to New York and us will stop in Montreal; it will be carried there during the seven months of summer when navigation is open; and in the winter what has been left over and stored will go out on the Canadian roads. When you hear anybody boasting the St. Lawrence canal he is either a grafter, or the agent of a grafter, and an enemy of New England.

Another thing which is of importance. We need a federal conservation bureau just as we have a city conservation body; that is a body to sit down and plan and estimate the cost of certain future improvements, of things that are desirable. You have it in your business. The purchasing agent does not say "I think I will go out and buy a million dollars worth of wool or cotton;" he doesn't buy anything until he sits in with somebody in his house, and they figure, discuss, and talk over what their needs will be for the next six or eight months. When you are going to spend a private individual's money, you are very close to his sensitive nerves; but when everybody's money is being spent politicians are apt to be generous; and a canal more or less doesn't matter.

Take the Smith-Towner Bill and bills of that kind, for instance. They are a splendid thing for the South; they scrimp on their school bills and road bills down there; the next best thing is to make the North do it. The North has plenty of money. This is an intelligent and industrious section of the country, and if the South can make the North pay the bills, the South is so much in. The farmers are getting appropriations to help them do their banking, since the banks which are wise, shrewd, longheaded, demand securities for money the Government won't ask. The scheme is to go to the government, and the government will employ a lot of clerks and fellows that don't know much about either banking or agriculture, and they will do the trick for the farmers at our expense. Nearly everything in the country is helped by the United States Government in one way or another. We have a large appropriation for educational purposes, we have a large appropriation to build dams and conserve water in the west, irrigation schemes; we reclaim swamps, and help industry by tariffs; we have river and harbor bills, and extend a helping hand in an hundred directions. They are all excellent things, except those we in the East want.

And we of the East? We people who live by trafficking on the seas; who send goods abroad, and bring goods in from abroad. We have fleets and ships, and we say to Congress, we want to have our shipping industry helped. You have made laws by which we have to provide higher wages and better conditions, and more expense than any ships in the world. We have active rivals on the seas, the Japanese in the Pacific, and England and Germany on the Atlantic. Their conditions are less exacting than ours; they pay lower wages; and they are able to carry cargoes and passengers much cheaper than we can. When it comes to sending goods abroad, and carrying goods back, the average business man says, "I am going to do it in the cheapest way;" and consequently in a short time we will have no American ships, no American Merchant Marine; and mark my words if you will look back over the history of the world, you will find that this is true, that the nation that carries the goods of another nation dictates its trade and controls its markets.

We have organized here in the East and gone to Congress and said, "We want a shipping appropriation." We call it a subsidy; and our patriotic Western friends say "a subsidy is robbery;" but if you give a thousand dollars to help a farmer, or to build an irrigation canal, that is a splendid public work.

We must organize here in the East and work to get our shipping subsidy, because only by subsidizing American ships can they compete with alien ships and shippers. Within two days I read in the newspapers they were rejoicing in London over the defeat of the subsidy bill. Just think of it, gentlemen. I am not blaming the foreigners, I am blaming the Americans either in public life or out of it, who are willing to betray their country and its interests. Had they done that sort of thing during the war we would have taken them out and shot them. Supposing that our American shippers got together and went to London, hired headquarters there, bribed talent in the House of Lords and House of Commons to look after our interests, what do you suppose would happen? The English would run those fellows out of public life and out of the country within fifteen minutes. We don't do anything. We allow these fellows to stay in our own house and betray us; and they will keep right on betraying us until we get together and put them out of business. You know just as soon as we stop having any foreign business or any shipping, we stop having industry and commerce, and as soon as industry and commerce ceases, and the need for purchasing agents ceases, we won't need him; there will be nothing to purchase, and nothing to sell. It is up to us to insist that our public men shall represent us, and not represent some alien country or foreign merchant marine.

That is why I insist that every man should be in politics; that every man should take enough interest in the public business to do his political duty; to keep in touch with his representative, and insist that he protect our interests, and if he refuses you must let him know what you will do to him. If your representative betrays you don't go to him with your hat in your hand; go to him with a club in your hand and tell him what's what.

Those are the two great evils that we are contending with here in New England, the destruction of our American Merchant Marine and the attempt to put over this St. Lawrence Canal scheme on us; and it is your business as New Englanders, as active and responsible representatives of great industries and commercial bodies, to combat them, to talk against them and to get together with your friends and see that our representatives make it their business to kill such schemes.

That is the message I want to bring you from the Mayor.

THE NATIONAL BANK TAX SITUATION.

STATEMENT OF THE PERIL CONFRONTING MASSACHUSETTS CITIES, BY HIS HONOR JAMES M. CURLEY, MAYOR OF BOSTON.

The great struggle over the national bank taxes is entering another stage, perhaps the final stage. Shall the Commonwealth and its cities and towns be compelled to pay back to the national banks the taxes they have paid in the six years since the income tax law of 1916 was passed? Or will they prevail against the national banks' contention and be saved from the necessity of raising twelve to fifteen millions on loans that would burden the taxpayers for the next twenty years? These are momentous questions for the public although they mean comparatively little to the rich and powerful banks which are suing the Commonwealth and its municipalities. The public, already overburdened with debt, would be seriously affected by a new debt of twelve to fifteen millions, incurred to repay money collected as taxes on the banks, and that has been spent for the maintenance of libraries, hospitals, schools, streets, sewers and other public purposes. The banks, on the other hand, paid these millions as taxes out of the earnings left over after they had already paid good dividends to their shareholders, and had carried large sums to the account of surplus and undivided profits. There can be no question as to who would be hurt more by an unfavorable decision, for while the average taxpayer was sweating and grinding under his burdens throughout the war, and during its aftermath, the national banks were enjoying at the same time the greatest prosperity they had ever known. The same issue is pending in Vermont, in Minnesota, in New York and in other states. New York has even more at stake than Massachusetts. But all the states affected feel the situation keenly, and are doing their utmost to prevent the necessity of further burdening the general taxpayers in order to put more money into the coffers of the national banks.

Let us look at the Massachusetts situation. Why are we faced with the danger of having to authorize a large bond issue in order to return tax money to the national banks? The answer is simple. Because some of the national banks in this state found a legal opportunity, after the income tax law was passed in 1916, to escape all taxation on their shares. They were left out of the income tax law and continued to be taxed directly at the local property rate, and they would have liked the income tax better because it was lower. So, they began suits to recover the taxes paid and these suits are still pending, and are being defended by the Commonwealth, the City of Boston, and several other cities in the state. They had paid taxes at the local rate for about fifty years before and grew rich under that system. They had been paying on substantially the same basis as the trust companies of the state, who are their real competitors. They did not complain that they were discriminated against by the tax on trust companies. Their complaint was that houses like Kidder, Peabody & Co., Lee, Higginson & Co., R. L. Day & Co., Hornblower & Weeks, Richardson, Hill & Co., and others who were in the stock and bond business, were competitors in the banking business, and also that the ordinary citizens who made personal investments in taxable bonds were competitors in the banking business and that these two classes of competitors were taxed under the income tax law and at a lower rate than they, the national banks, were. They claimed that this competition was substantial in amount and therefore the tax on the banks was void because in conflict with section 5219 of the Revised Statutes of the United States. This section prohibits the taxation of shares of national banks at a greater rate than that imposed upon other moneyed capital in the hands of individual citizens of the state.

The City of Boston, as frequently happens, was first selected for attack. The first suit was brought here by a bank which has brought suits each year since 1916, and whose claims already filed amount to $3,404,637, which with interest at 6 per cent would be $390,029 more, a total of nearly $4,000,000. The claims of another bank against the city are for $2,028,117, on which the interest would be $375,445, and there are other suits for smaller amounts. The total number of suits against the city is thirty-six, the amount of taxes sued for is $6,561,660, and the interest to date is $1,078,016, a total of $7,639,676. Now Boston has not retained all these taxes. Under the law it keeps only the taxes assessed on shareholders who live here. Another part is distributed to other cities and towns where shareholders in the Boston banks reside, and the remainder is paid to the state as representing the tax on shareholders who live outside of the state. On these two last-named classes Boston retains only 1 per cent, as a charge for collecting the taxes. In every city and town where a national bank is located the same situation exists. To illustrate: All the national bank shares taxes in the state in 1917 amounted to $1,657,625; of this the Commonwealth received $1,055,613, the City of Boston got $293,152, and the other cities and towns received $308,830. Boston is being sued for $6,561,660 collected by it since 1916 but it has actually retained only about one fourth of that amount.

The City of Boston, in Mayor Peters' administration, began the defence of these suits, and the Attorney-General appointed one of his assistants to represent the interests of the Commonwealth. The city, with the aid of the Attorney-General's representative, has continued the defence during my administration. When I took office an offer of compromise was suggested to me. It was, in effect, to settle the first suits by returning all the taxes collected, except an amount equal to an income tax on the banks, and to agree that in the future the taxes would be on the income basis. As this would require the city to return about two thirds of the taxes already collected and would enable it to get in the future only about one third of the amount which could be collected if the old taxing system were continued, and as the result would be to throw too great a burden on all other taxpayers, I declined to consider the offer and determined to fight to the last ditch as a matter of duty to the citizens as a whole. I now rejoice that I took this stand for the Act of Congress of this year opens up possibilities of much better results for this city, for the other municipalities affected and for the Commonwealth.

The City of Boston helped to get the new law passed this year. The city's representative has attended the sessions of Congress; a representative of the tax commissioner has lent valuable aid; the Corporation Counsel and myself have gone to Washington several times; and the Governor has responded to every call for assistance we made on him. Both of our senators, and all our representatives, except a Republican representative from a Boston district, have worked and voted to secure the result. The result is less than we hoped for but it is of substantial benefit and must be regarded as a great victory for us when the size and strength and persistency of the bank lobby is considered.

The new law amending section 5219, permits the states to include the dividends on national bank shares in the taxable income of the town, or to tax the income of the bank, or to tax the shares directly; but to use only one of these three methods. The direct tax on the shares is our way out for the future. The only limitation on this last-named power is that the tax shall not be greater than that imposed upon other moneyed capital in the hands of individual citizens of the state "coming into competition with the business of national banks." But it is also provided, for our benefit, "that bonds, notes, or other evidences of indebtedness in the hands of individual citizens, not employed or engaged in the banking or investment business, and representing merely personal investments not made in competition with such business, shall not be deemed moneyed capital within the meaning of this section."

I am informed that the leading men in Congress believe that under this provision Massachusetts cities and towns may tax national bank shares in the future at the local rate applicable to real estate and tangible personal property, provided our Legislature passes an act authorizing a similar tax on the capital of private bankers which is actually used in competition with national banks. If such capital of private bankers is taxed directly of course the income of it should be exempted. This change in our statutes would probably not result in obtaining larger taxes from the private bankers, and probably they would not object, but at all events, I favor this plan as it will enable the cities and towns and the Commonwealth to get the great benefit of a continuance of the existing system of taxing national bank shares on their capital value.

The part of the new Act of Congress which provides that the states may by legislation validate the taxes already paid on national bank shares is not as satisfactory to us, because it is limited "to the extent that such tax was valid under said section (5219). This means that, in Massachusetts, if the taxes now in litigation, are decided to be invalid, and that we can validate them only to the extent of a sum representing the income tax, then we would have to return about two thirds of such taxes. But the state has the power to assess taxes retroactively, and if our Legislature passed an act validating such taxes and taxing private bankers retroactively, then the courts might hold the taxes previously assessed on national bank shares to be valid. That process treats the individual investor on his own account in bonds, notes and other evidences of indebtedness, as a negligible factor, and this may turn out to be wrong as a matter of law. But the leaders in Congress, even among those who opposed complete validation, say that Massachusetts may keep all the bank shares taxes, if its Legislature provides for an assessment on the competing capital of private bankers at the same rate as that applied to national bank shares.

I believe their opinion is supported by reason and my present view is that this experiment should be tried, for if it succeeds we can retain all the bank taxes previously collected, whereas if we do not adopt this plan we will be able to retain only about one third of these taxes. No doubt further litigation would result, but as I feel we are equitably entitled to retain all of these taxes, it seems only fair to the general taxpayers to adopt a plan which may prove to be legally sound and which, in that event, would be greatly to their advantage. In carrying out the plan of back taxing private bankers provision should be made for a return of such part of the income taxes paid by them as represents income from business which is shown to have been done with capital in competition with the business of national banks. I doubt that the private bankers would suffer any actual loss by the change, but as the national banks have claimed a discrimination exists in favor of private bankers there is no reason why that discrimination should not be removed, if they are actual competitors in the banking business to any material extent. My opinion on the means to be adopted to accomplish full validation is not final, however, and this branch of the subject needs further study in order that no mistake be made which would be disadvantageous to the general body of taxpayers.

In conclusion I wish to have it known that I believe the city should fight out the pending bank tax cases against it and seek all further helpful legislation by the state, and by Congress in the next session. Other states have already determined on this course and I believe Massachusetts should join with them and keep the ranks unbroken until a full measure of justice is secured.

REQUESTS OF ORGANIZED LABOR.

Mayor Curley will be requested by the Boston Central Labor Union to borrow $50,000.000 outside of the debt limit to be used in relieving the housing shortage. This action has been voted by the executive board and will be recommended to the meeting upon the 18th instant.

The School Committee will be asked to name a new school after the late Henry Abrahams.

TRADE EXPANSION.

ADDRESS BY HIS HONOR JAMES M. CURLEY, MAYOR OF BOSTON, BEFORE THE MEMBERS OF THE TROY CLUB,
TROY, NEW YORK, MARCH 1, 1923.

New England and New York have much in common. Their trade and industry are similar; there is a kinship in their history and tradition; upon their fields and by their sons much of the struggle for national independence was fought and won; and here and among the other North Atlantic Coast states there developed that mind and spirit which transformed the provincialism of earlier days into the Americanism and nationalism we proclaim today.

From the earliest days our ports have been the natural gateways of American foreign trade; our growth and development have been the indexes of the growth and development of the new and unfolding West; and the commercial and financial service our East gave to the pioneer communities of the growing West was a potent element in their wonderful agricultural expansion, industrial growth and financial prosperity. The country in and west of the Mississippi Valley owes much to the vision, energy and economic sanity and courage of New York and New England; through us lay the natural and legitimate routes to the markets for the products of the West. Trade channels represent the lines of least traffic resistance; trade relations are dictated by enlightened self-interest and not by emotions of gratitude and ingratitude; and when there comes a time when trade is diverted from its tested and well-established channels and tortured into routes that have been made temporarily profitable by artificial concessions and questionable methods to lure that trade into ports of dubious facilities and disadvantageous locations, we must conclude that these results are the calculated outcome of a conspiracy to cripple and destroy the commercial usefulness and prosperity of the seaports whose growth represents natural selection and established custom.

This condition is now confronting us and constitutes a call to action by New England and New York.

It needs no extensive investigation to show us that there is a well-organized conspiracy to divert the trade and commerce of the seaports of New York and New England to other ports, a diversion that in its final results must be seriously detrimental to the economic well-being of the most industrious and progressive region of the United States. This conspiracy directs its activities along three separate lines; the procurement of discriminatory railroad rates from the great distributing center of grain and food products, Chicago, directed against New York and New England; agitation to secure the financial and administrative aid of the National Government in the construction of a St. Lawrence river canal system; an organized effort on the part of foreign shipping interests and their American allies in and out of Congress to cripple and destroy the American Merchant Marine by procuring injurious legislation and preventing helpful legislation bearing on American shipping.

Let us examine and amplify these statements.

Chicago shippers are given a uniform blanket rate on all commodities, class and class, to all ports on the Pacific, Gulf and South Atlantic Coasts. This is laid down as the settled policy of the Interstate Commerce Commission. When we come to the North Atlantic ports discrimination begins and the settled policy of the commission is ignored in such wise that the existence of a conspiracy to cripple and destroy becomes the only explanation of a "differential" rate which penalizes New York and New England, and favors Philadelphia and Baltimore on all business between those ports and Chicago.

The well-advertised and well-financed agitation for the construction of a canal system along the St. Lawrence river by the government of the United States of America is one that is distinctly unpatriotic in purpose, dishonest in exploitation and commercially injurious to American interests generally and to those of the North Atlantic States specifically. The necessity for such waterway is not apparent; it is designed solely to aid the interests of certain Canadian and international electric power industries as opposed to all-American companies; it would create utilities that could only function seven months in the year and that would serve the commercial and financial activities of Montreal and its dependent territory at the expense of American interests; they would cut the throat of New York's canal system that has cost some $200,000,000, and by diverting American business from American channels and into alien and antagonistic hands would seriously injure New York and transform New England into a commercial cul de sac. Moreover, experience has taught us that when America enters any project of joint international control of any character, the foreign partner usually gets the cream of the bargain and America the skim milk plus the privilege of paying the bills.

The interests of our American Merchant Marine call for an appropriation or subsidy from the national treasury to enable it to live and compete with the well-subsidized shipping companies of our foreign rivals. These foreigners make no secret of their commercial enmity to the American Merchant Marine and their determination to put it out of business; and in order to secure their ends we have the amazing spectacle of British and other foreign shipping concerns maintaining and financing an audacious lobby in Washington and enlisting the eager services of bankers, senators, congressmen, and others to do their dirty work. This treason is so impudent and barefaced that it merits the severest condemnation; and the traitors in and out of Congress, engaged in this despicable work of wrecking the American Merchant Marine should be driven relentlessly from public life and held up to the contempt of American citizens.

Let us imagine for a moment that the interests of American shipping should lead us to set up a lobby and a corrupt agency in London to destroy the British Merchant Marine that ours might flourish; and that we were able to hire British bankers and members of the House of Lords and Commons to help along our nefarious work. How long would English self-interest and public honor tolerate such a condition? Our hired men employed to betray their country and its vital interests would be driven ignominiously out of English public life over night; and yet that is the system we permit to exist. Isn't it time for us to get together and organize a system of exposure and publicity that will make the existence of a foreign shipping lobby with its banking and congressional alliances an impossibility.

The agricultural forces of the West have banded themselves together in Congress under the name of the "Farmers' Bloc," not only to promote their own interests, but to assail those they believe to be inimical to them directly or remotely. They have achieved a measure of success that is a threat to the Republic but from which we can learn a lesson. These blocs and sectional combinations mark a significant retreat from nationalism to sectionalism; and unless we are willing to fight the devil with his own weapons and organize and utilize an Eastern bloc, to guard our interests, we must expect to be reduced to the status of a conquered province, and see the most industrious, enlightened, progressive and wealth-producing section of America become a helpless milch cow to be milked at will by the various predatory combinations operating in the national capital.

It is our duty to combine; self-preservation demands it. Principles and platitudes are poor weapons against plunder.

The project for erecting in Troy, the eastern terminus of the New York canal system, a sufficiency of elevators and warehouses to take care of the unmarketed grain and food products of the western harvests is imperatively necessary; it should be the distributing point during the winter when navigation is closed for our domestic and foreign markets; and will enable us to do for our own region what certain insidious international concerns are seeking to accomplish for Montreal and its related interests at our expense. These international philanthropists come with glittering promises of industrial power and commercial expansion. Let us beware of the Greeks when they come bearing gifts.

With great grain and food product storage facilities at Troy to be tapped for distribution during the winter season we make a beginning towards holding what we have and of reclaiming the trade that nature and native energy gave us in the past and which today is being filched from us by the combined arts of commercial conspiracy, legislative treason and administrative treachery.

Let our policy be union and strength; a determination to meet bloc with bloc; an unyielding front in the maintenance of our industrial and commercial rights and privileges free from the evils of discrimination, favoritism and betrayal.

The time for action is now.

CONTRACTS AWARDED.

Permission to award contracts for work, materials and supplies, in accordance with recommendation of department heads, has been approved by the Mayor.

James A. Cotter Company, Item 1, $49,899; Item 2, $48,899; Item 3, $48,827.

*No bid in auditor's office.

Upon March 15 the Mayor approved a contract, under Item 1, with the John Bowen Company for erecting and completing, all trades, a lower elementary school in the Theodore Lyman district, East Boston. Bids for the work, opened March 9, were as follows:

John Bowen Company, $148,840; Henry C. Shiels, $154,540; Joseph Rugo, $167,000; Leighton-Mitchell Company, $168,385; C. & R. Construction Company, $171,000; Thomas O'Connor & Co., $175,925; W. H. Whitcomb Construction Company, $177,500; A. Piotti Company, $209,280.

ADDITIONS TO AND DEDUCTIONS FROM CONTRACTS.

The following additions to and deductions from contracts have been approved:

PUBLIC BUILDINGS DEPARTMENT.

An addition, in the amount of $652.42, on contract with Michael Soretto for work in erecting and completing the Engine 31 and Police Division 8 Building.

For additions: Thirty-two steel lockers, police station, $529.92; ten cell bunks, police station, $612; one coal chute, police station, $88; one pressure reducing valve, police station, $120—$134.92. Deductions: Hardware allowance, $2,500; hardware contract, $2,250; saving, $250; waterproofing allowance, $3,600; waterproofing contract, $3,200; saving, $400; storage tank allowance, $575; storage tank contract, $527; saving, $47.50. Total saving, $697.50; net addition, $652.42. Original contract, $195,300; total additions, $14,874.87; contract as standing, $210,174.87.

A deduction, in the amount of $784, on contract with Herbery W. Dotson, for furnishing and installing furniture at the courthouse, Forest Hills. For deducting allowance for plumbing fixtures. Original contract, $10,961; total deductions, $784; contract as standing, $10,177.

EXTENSION OF CONTRACTS.

HOSPITAL DEPARTMENT.

A further extension of time has been granted for completion of contract made with the John Bowen Company for erection and completion of the Thorndike Memorial Building, from March 12, 1923, to June 1, 1923. This request for extension is asked for because of unavoidable delays.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT (Sewer Service).

An extension of time has been granted for completion of contract made with the Petroleum Heat and Power Company for complete oil-burning installation for sewerage pumping station at Calf Pasture, Dorchester, from December 30, 1922, to April 11, 1923, 100 days. This extension of time is due to waiting for the completion of boiler setting and other work by other contractors, and the interference with excavating and refilling by severe winter weather.

An extension of time has been granted for completion of contract made with John Guarino & Company for building sewerage works in Cass street, between Powell and Centre streets, West Roxbury, from February 17, 1923, to June 30, 1923, 133 days. This extension of time is due to delay caused by weather conditions.

An extension of time has been granted for completion of contract made with the Oil City Boiler Works for new boilers for the Calf Pasture pumping station, Dorchester, from October 25, 1922, to March 10, 1923, 136 days. This extension is requested for the reason that delay was caused by other work being done by the city, by the embargo on freight, and by severe winter weather.

TRANSFERS OF APPROPRIATIONS.

City Auditor Rupert S. Carven announces the following transfers of appropriations in the various departments of the City of Boston, indorsed by Budget Commissioner Charles J. Fox and approved by his Honor the Mayor:

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

Paving Service.

Boston, January 31, 1923.

To the Honorable the Mayor:

In accordance with the advice of the City Auditor, I respectfully request that transfers to the appropriation for the Paving Service, to meet final deficits for the fiscal year ending January 31, 1923, be made as follows:

From the appropriation for Street Cleaning Service, B-6, Hire of Teams and Auto Trucks, $30; Soldiers' Relief Department, $34,042.81, to the appropriation for Paving Service, B-21, Removal of Snow, $34,072.81.

Yours respectfully,

JOSEPH A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 31, 1923.

Sanitary Service.

Boston, January 31, 1923.

To the Honorable the Mayor:

In accordance with the advice of the City Auditor, I respectfully request that transfer to the appropriation of the Sanitary Service, to meet final deficits for the fiscal year ending January 31, 1923, be made as follows:

From the appropriation for Soldiers' Relief Department, $15,386.66, to the appropriation for Sanitary Service, Removal of Ashes, Dirt and Garbage, $15,386.66.

Yours respectfully,

JOSEPH A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 31, 1923.

SUIT OF INJUNCTION.

Charles P. Curtis, Roger F. Hooper, A. W. Longfellow, Alfred Hemenway, Sidney L. Beals, Walter H. Black, Russell G. Hall, Carleton C. Butters, George A. Kearsley, Bennett Benshimol, Albert Matthews and Nathan B. Day have filed a bill in equity in the Supreme Court against the City of Boston, Mayor Curley, the Street Laying-Out Department, the Treasurer and Auditor of Boston, to prevent the carrying out of an order for establishing a building line on Province street between School and Bromfield streets.

The plaintiffs say that the $250,000 of bonds authorized by the order have been issued and now are outstanding obligations of the city.

The Street Commissioners, in an order passed and approved by Mayor Curley, said that there were no betterments and awarded to the Massachusetts General Hospital damages of $96,485, to the Olympia Realty Company, $75,515, and George U. Crocker et al., trustees Boston Five Cents Savings Bank; Robert H. Gardiner et al., trustees, and the State Street Trust Company, trustee, $1 each.

The court is asked to declare illegal and void the order of the Street Commissioners because not authorized by the statute; to declare null and void the appropriation of $250,000; and that Mayor Curley and the other officials named as respondents be enjoined from paying drafts for damages to the Massachusetts General Hospital and others.

Mayor Curley issued the following statement:

"The Board of Street Commissioners have deemed the widening of Province street a necessary public improvement.

"I have acted on their recommendation which I hope to carry through to completion both as a measure of fire prevention and convenience to the public. Regardless of the action of any individual or group of individuals who profit by the improvements which their neighbors make in the matter of unearned increment on dead-end property, it is my purpose to use every legitimate means within my power as Mayor to carry out that character of constructive program that will be beneficial to the entire community rather than a limited element of the community."

BUILDING PERMITS ISSUED MARCH 8 TO MARCH 14.

MEMORIAL BUILDING ESTABLISHED.

Mayor Curley addressed the following letter to Superintendent Fred J. Kneeland of the Public Buildings Department upon the 14th instant:

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
March 14, 1923.

MR. FRED J. KNEELAND,
Superintendent of Public Buildings:
DEAR SIR:—In view of the fact that the law provides for redistricting every ten years and that there is no certainty of the retention of ward lines and ward numerals, in my opinion it would be advisable in future to designate public buildings after worthwhile citizens rather than follow the custom that has so long obtained of naming them after the wards in which they may be located.

Two outstanding figures in the life of Boston are deserving of official recognition. One, the former Archbishop of Boston, his Grace John J. Williams, whose contribution to the moral and spiritual welfare of the people has been sufficient to not only enshrine his memory in their hearts but to be deserving of commemoration by the city in some form of enduring monument. I accordingly recommend that the building at Brookline street and Shawmut avenue be suitably inscribed and designated as Archbishop John J. Williams Municipal Building.

The position occupied by Boston in the field of music has been due almost wholly in the past half-century to the generosity of a patriotic and public-spirited citizen without whose annual contribution the City of Boston would have been deprived of the benefits of classical music through the service of the Symphony Orchestra, to which in a period of the twenty years of its existence he contributed approximately one million dollars. The exceptional patriotic service rendered in the Civil War and the splendid civic service rendered subsequent to the war entitles Henry L. Higginson to the recognition of his fellow citizens of Boston, and I accordingly recommend that the main hall of the building at Brookline street and Shawmut avenue be designated as Henry L. Higginson Hall.

In view of the fact that the building has been completed, you are hereby directed to arrange a program for the opening of the same on Easter Sunday, April 1, 1923, at 3 p. m. with suitable dedicatory exercises.

Respectfully yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Hon. Patrick J. Melody, senator of the Fourth Suffolk District, has been selected by his Honor the Mayor as chairman of the committee in charge of the dedication of the Archbishop John J. Williams Municipal Building, Brookline street and Shawmut avenue, to be held Sunday, April 1, at three o'clock p. m.

EXCHANGE OF BONDS.

The financial standing of the City of Boston was forcibly demonstrated during the week when a syndicate of six of the leading financial institutions of Boston submitted a proposal for an exchange of United States Government 4½ per cent bonds for City of Boston securities.

The Commissioners of Sinking Funds voted to exchange $1,972,000 of City of Boston Bonds for a like amount of United States Government Treasury 4 1/2 per cent bonds, on the basis of bond for bond, with a cash bonus to the city in addition of $75,666.

In addition to the cash bonus, which becomes immediately available, there will be an annual income during the term of the bonds accruing to the city of $2,954.50 in excess of what formerly was received by the city.

The result of the transaction during the life of the bonds will net to the city approximately $200,000 in excess of what the city would otherwise receive.

NEW BRIDGES.

Mayor Curley announces that the city must soon provide a new bridge over the Fort Point channel at an approximate expenditure of $500,000. Commissioner Joseph A. Bourke of the Department of Public Works will advertise for bids upon the new bridge and the Mayor has presented to the City Council a request for an appropriation of $30,000, from which the plans for the new bridge will be drawn. The present structure at Fort Point channel was built in 1885 and is pretty well worn out.

The Mayor also announces that a new bridge must be built at Dartmouth street, over the railroad tracks of the New York, New Haven & Hartford and Boston & Albany Railroads, and in proximity to the Back Bay Station. Mayor Curley will ask the State Department of Public Utilities for an apportionment of the cost between the transportation corporations and the City of Boston.

POLICE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

General Order No. 233.

A trial board, consisting of Captains Gallivan, Walkins and Kneeland, having heard by reference a complaint against Patrolman James A. Michaels of Division 9, charging him with first, failure to report cause and length of absence from duty, and second, conduct unbecoming an officer, has reported to the commissioner a finding of guilty on the first charge and not guilty on the second charge. In accordance with which, it is hereby ordered that the said Patrolman James A. Michaels perform one hundred and five hours' punishment duty.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 234.

My attention has been called by a number of persons doing business in the vicinity of Merrimac square to an admirable piece of police work performed in that locality by Patrolman Walter Donovan of Division 3.

In the forenoon of January 13, 1923, Patrolman Donovan while patrolling his route in Merrimac square, saw running towards him a horse attached to a covered wagon. Observing that the driver had evidently lost control of the horse, as the reins were lying across the horse's back, the officer immediately ran into the roadway and as the horse came near him, grabbed the bridle. He was dragged a short distance, but soon succeeded in bringing the horse to a standstill.

I am very much pleased to hear of the excellent police work on the part of Patrolman Donovan and I warmly commend him, not only for his courage, which is the attribute of all good police officers, but for the alertness of mind and quickness of action which enabled him to stop this runaway horse and thus prevent the damage and possible loss of life which must otherwise have resulted in a locality so crowded with traffic.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 235.

A trial board, consisting of Captains Goodwin, McConnell and McDevitt, having heard by reference a complaint against Patrolman John J. Mullen of Division 15, charging him with conduct unbecoming an officer, reported to the commissioner a finding of guilty. In accordance with which, the said Patrolman John J. Mullen was on February 27, 1923, dismissed from the Police Department.

Due notice of such dismissal with the reasons therefor was duly and specifically given in writing on February 27, 1923, to the said John J. Mullen.

On the twenty-eighth day of February, 1923, the said John J. Mullen, by his attorneys, requested in writing a hearing as provided by the General Laws, and the Police Commissioner set down Friday, March 9, 1923, at eleven o'clock a. m., at the office of the Police Commissioner as the time and place for said hearing and duly notified the said John J. Mullen.

The said John J. Mullen was present at the said time and place with counsel and was heard with his witnesses. Whereupon after hearing the case, the Police Commissioner found the said John J. Mullen guilty as charged and further found that the said John J. Mullen should stand dismissed from the Police Department of the City of Boston.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 236.

Patrolman Charles J. Haskins of Division 11, having arrived at the age of sixty-two and two-twelfths years, having performed faithful service in the Police Department for thirty-two and eight-twelfths years, and having requested to be retired from active service, it is hereby Ordered, That the said Patrolman Charles J. Haskins be retired from active service and that his name be placed upon the department pension roll with pay at the rate of nine hundred (900) dollars per annum, said sum being one half of the amount of compensation received by him in the office from which he is retired; to take effect Wednesday, March 14, 1923, at 5.45 p. m.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 237.

A trial board consisting of Captains Goodwin, McConnell and McDevitt, having heard by reference a complaint against Patrolman Arthur E. Nadreau of Division 19 charging him with first, conduct unbecoming an officer, in that he, "while in uniform and on duty was under the influence of intoxicating liquor to such an extent that he was unable to perform police duty;" and second, with being absent without leave, has reported to the commissioner a finding of guilty.

After having carefully reviewed all the testimony in this case, I find the issue presented to me for decision is whether the physical condition of Patrolman Nadreau, on the eighteenth day of February, 1923, was caused by the voluntary use of intoxicating liquor or whether it could reasonably be attributed to some other cause to which no blame would attach. The testimony of the physician who examined him shortly after he was brought to the station, in my opinion being of no probative value, does not assist me in any way in arriving at a just decision.

The officer who first saw the defendant suffering from some physical discomfort was not brought before the trial board, and the sergeant who, together with this patrolman, brought the defendant to the station, would not testify that the defendant was under the influence of intoxicating liquor. The records of the station house show that Patrolman Nadreau pulled all his duty calls for that day in regular order.

In view of this conflicting testimony, there is considerable doubt in my mind that the charges against Patrolman Nadreau have been proved. Therefore, setting aside the finding of the trial board, I find Patrolman Arthur E. Nadreau not guilty as charged in the complaint, and it is hereby ordered that the complaint against the said Patrolman Arthur E. Nadreau be dismissed and that his suspension be lifted, to take effect with full pay for the term of said suspension.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 238.

The following transfer is hereby ordered, to take effect Thursday, March 15, 1923, at 5.45 p. m.

Patrolman Arthur E. Nadreau from Division 19 to Division 17.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 239.

General Order No. 231, under date of March 8, 1923, is hereby amended by striking out the fourth paragraph of said order and inserting in place thereof the following:

"Licenses will be made out in duplicate, one blue and one white, and both sent to the office of the Police Commissioner. The blue copy will be returned to the station to be delivered to the owner of the dog, the white copy will be kept on file at the chief clerk's office. The fee for the license of the dog will be paid by the owner at the time of making application for the license," so that General Order No. 231 shall read as follows:

Commanding officers in making out dog licenses for 1923 will place the letter of their station after the word "number" and write the number assigned by the division commander to the dog or dogs in figures after the letter.

Each station will have a letter as follows:

Station 1, A; 2, B; 3, C; 4, D; 5, E; 6, F; 7, G; 8, H; 10, J; 11, K; 12, L; 13, M; 14, N; 15, P; 16, R; 17, S; 18, T; 19, V.

Division commanders will instruct the owners of dogs that the letter on the license granted to them must be placed before the number on the dog's collar.

Licenses will be made out in duplicate, one blue and one white, and both sent to the office of the Police Commissioner. The blue copy will be returned to the station to be delivered to owner of dog; the white copy will be kept on file at the chief clerk's office. The fee for the license of the dog will be paid by the owner at the time of making application for the license.

The property clerk will furnish each station with its letter and a red ink pad. In stamping the letter upon licenses, use the red pad only.

Each station will immediately make requisition on property clerk for the number of applications and licenses required for its use for 1923.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

REPORT OF INSTITUTIONS DEPARTMENT.

Mayor Curley has received from David J. Johnson, M. D., Commissioner of the Institutions Department, the following report of the activities of the department during the month of February, 1923:

PENAL DIVISION.

Population.—The average population at the House of Correction, Deer Island, during the month of February was 340.

Repairs.—The roof of the gut house has been patched and new shingles put on where needed. Two new doors for the cow barn have been made, and the shoe shop windows repaired. The altar in the chapel was a little too small for the chaplain's needs, and a new one has been installed, which makes a much better appearance. New wings have been built on the coal pocket, 150 feet of 2-inch plank being used. A partition has been built in the hallway of the top floor of the receiving room house at the wharf. This is to stop the soot and dirt from the boiler room down stairs from coming up into the living quarters, which are being put in shape. A detail of eight men under the supervision of an officer have been doing great work in the line of repairs. They have put the old hospital in the laundry building in excellent shape, and have painted the rooms and beds. The wharf house rooms, which are being made ready for officers' sleeping quarters, are being painted, and all the ceilings have been whitewashed; after another coat of paint these rooms will be ready for occupancy. A detail of prisoners under the supervision of our officer and plumber have been doing a great deal of plumbing work on the steamer "Michael J. Perkins." Much work has been done in the women's prison on cell blocks. Two tiers have been completed and one tier all drilled, in all thirty-six cell blocks have been completed.

Bakery.—The monthly output of the bakery is as follows: Inmates' bread, 6,265 loaves; raisin bread, 163 loaves; officers' bread, 706 loaves; Graham bread, 66 loaves; brown bread, 555 loaves; cake, 35 pounds; hermits, 77 dozen; coffee cake, 99 pans; pies, 364; rolls, 292 dozen; doughnuts, 1724 dozen; molasses drop cakes, 1,630; corn bread, 36 pans.

Clothing Industry.—Clothing is being made for the institution as well as for Long Island and the Child Welfare Division of this department. The value of the work turned out for the month amounted to $734.47. Seventy-two dozen of brownie overalls were made during the month for J. B. Pearson Company, at an income of $73.44.

Shoe Industry.—Shoes have been made for Deer and Long Islands and the Child Welfare Division, the value of the work being $547.50 for the month of February.

Laundry.—The laundry has turned out 23,600 pieces of laundry for Long Island at a value of $360 in addition to taking care of the laundry work for Deer Island.

Farm.—Very little farm work is being done at the present time on account of the weather, the men being needed to clean the walks and break out the roads. Our herd of milch cattle are producing on an average of 340 quarts of milk daily. Our farm superintendent, with the aid of his vocational training student, has already planted various vegetables under glass for early consumption.

Drug Addicts.—The drug addicts are still isolated in the women's prison and no complaints are being received,—they all seem to be happy and contented. They have done all the work of cutting the ice, and already the ice house is filled, and the overflow ice production is now being stored in the concrete cellar near the laundry.

Recreation.—Moving picture shows are being held every Thursday. On February 22 eight boxing bouts were held between the inmates and enjoyed by all. A splendid minstrel show was given at the island on the night of February 20, staged by the inmates and which was a great success.

School.—Our day school for illiterates is progressing. The average daily attendance is thirty. The illiterates who study under an inmate during the day are taken in hand by Mr. Anderson, the paid instructor, at the night session.

Coal Detail.—Those inmates sentenced for short terms and minor offences are still working on the coal for the city's poor at the Navy Yard in Boston. From February 5 to 28 an average of fourteen men were transported back and forth daily by the steamer "George A. Hibbard" to the Navy Yard at Charlestown. They have helped considerably in relieving the coal situation for the needy poor of Boston. During the month an average of six men per day have been sent to the Long Island institution to do cleaning and chores of different kinds.

INFIRMARY DIVISION.

The average population at the Boston Almshouse and Hospital during the month of February was 870. There were four major operations performed by Doctor Kebajian and three minor operations by Doctors Blakey, Kababjian and Gill. During the month the dentist had seventy-four patients, fourteen of whom were from Deer Island. On February 17 one case of scarlet fever occurred in the children's ward. Three other cases followed. All showed typical rash, but none of them were very ill. All cases were put in complete isolation, and the other children exposed kept under careful observation. No new cases have developed since February 27.

Industrial Department.—The engineers have been working on the sprinkler system in the laundry and have also re-filled the fire extinguishers.

The lights on the back wharf have been repaired. A new telephone for use in connection with the sprinkler system in power house, pump house and main office have been installed. The slides for the X-ray have been repaired and the electrician has made a starting box for the X-ray rotary.

The painting in the east wing has been completed and the painters are now working in the center wing. The employees' room has been completely renovated and painted. Plastering has been done in the diet kitchen, inmates' dining room and children's building. The subways have all been whitewashed and the pipes painted, also the sterilizing room.

The stationary transoms in the children's wards have been remodeled so that they can be opened for ventilation. A new gang plank had been made for the front wharf. Two rooms in the female hospital have been remodeled and are now being used for a linen room. The roof of the laundry has been reinforced and a new floor has been laid in the toilet of the center wing.

The following work has been done in the sewing room during the month: 74 nurses' dresses, 15 children's night dresses, No. 10, 12 children's dresses, No. 6, 48 baby slips, 60 inmates' white aprons, 36 T. binders, 12 crib sheets, 60 inmates' drawers, 60 pillow slips, 180 bed bags, 48 inmates' chemises, 72 men's nightshirts, 12 inmates' large dresses, 48 colored aprons, 156 sheets, 24 babies' night dresses, 96 babies' shirts, 1,910 pieces mended, 36 women's nightgowns.

The inmates have enjoyed the moving pictures each week.

CHILD WELFARE DIVISION.

The average number of dependent and neglected children cared for in this division during the month was 1,059. There were twenty-two admissions as dependent children, and one neglected child was admitted during the month.

There were thirty-four children taken to the various hospitals, Boston Dispensary, Tufts Dental, Boston City Hospital, Eye and Ear Infirmary and Children's Hospital.

During the month 222 packages of clothing was sent to our dependent children by mail and ninety packages by express.

STEAMERS.

On February 1 Captain Cook, who has been in the employ of this department for twenty-five years, retired on a pension, and Capt. Matthew J. Kelly was appointed in his place to take charge of the steamer "Michael J. Perkins." The month of February was particularly severe in regard to conditions of weather, and the extent of the ice flows in the vicinity of Long and Deer Islands was greatly in excess of any previous years during the past decade. However, in the face of these natural difficulties, the new steamer "Michael J. Perkins" proved very satisfactory. The chief engineer states that the actual coal consumption of the "Michael J. Perkins" is less than that of the former steamer "Monitor," a vessel of considerably less steam horse power. This is certainly a most gratifying condition.

The steamer "George A. Hibbard" has been carrying the prisoners who have been working on the coal at the Navy Yard back and forth to Deer Island each day in spite of the bad condition of the harbor, in addition to making her other trips to Long Island.

INDORSEMENT OF THE MAYOR.

Mayor Curley has received the following letter of indorsement from the United Improvement Association:

UNITED IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION.
6 Beacon Street, Boston, Mass.

WALTER R. MEINS, President,
Roxbury Improvement Society.
FRANK W. MERRICK, Treasurer,
Savin Hill Improvement Association.
GEORGE F. MURPHY, Recorder,
East Boston Improvement Association.
JAMES H. KNOWLES, First Vice President,
Faneuil Improvement Association.
ROBERT A. WOODS, Second Vice President,
South End Improvement Association.
FREDERIC H. FAY, Third Vice President,
Savin Hill Improvement Association.
WAYLAND F. DOROTHY, Executive Secretary,
United Improvement Association.

March 12, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—At the last meeting of the United Improvement Association a vote was taken that this association hereby indorses the action extending the sewers, and also that this association indorses the loan for the renovation of the fire houses and the loan for the renovation of the police stations.

Very truly yours,

UNITED IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION,
by WAYLAND F. DOROTHY,
Executive Secretary.

MOVING PICTURE PROTECTION.

Mayor Curley, Fire Commissioner Theodore A. Glynn and Building Commissioner John H. Mahony summoned thirty managers of local moving picture houses to City Hall and carefully advised them relative to the danger to children who are patrons of these houses. Some of the houses are conducted without regard to primary rules of fire protection, according to the officials. First-class houses are obeying all the rules for safety, it develops.

"I will not shoulder the responsibility for loss of life by fire that may occur in your motion picture houses," Mayor Curley advised the managers. "You managers may as well get together among yourselves on this proposal. If you don't the state will act, and then you will have a two-headed supervision."

Commissioners Glynn and Mahony have acquainted the Mayor with what they call the seriousness of the situation. District chiefs, after person canvasses in their territories, have informed Mr. Glynn that, of forty houses visited, twenty-eight have no fire patrol as required; eight houses have the required one patrol apiece and four houses have the patrol of two men.

These patrols are given training by Fire Department attaches. They are supposed to wear distinctive badges, to keep unceasing vigilance for the protection from fire of their charges, and to drill theater employees twice weekly, reporting regularly to district fire chiefs.

Commissioner Mahony warned the managers that some of their number are allowing overcrowding.

"You are rushing at the state, which will take control of your industry away from you and prohibit standing in your theaters, altogether," he said. He blamed some of the managers for negligence of their employees to clear snow from fire escapes and side-door exits. Some managers have even abused his disposition to be lenient with them, Mr. Mahony said.

Commissioner Glynn made a plea to the managers to "go the limit" in safeguarding the lives of the little children which are in their keeping during their presence in the theaters.

ASSESSMENT ABATED.

In the matter of the application for revision of assessments levied on account of the construction of sewerage works, the Board of Street Commissioners, acting under the provisions of chapter 359 of the Acts of the year 1896, and deeming it just and proper that such action should be taken upon said application,

Order, That the amounts hereinafter specified, being the annual apportionments of said assessments for the year specified below, be and the same are hereby abated:

Mary Ann Travers heirs or devisees, 1922 apportionments, $8.12:
Lot 4, Branch street, May 9, 1913..... $8 91
Lot 5, Branch street, May 9, 1913..... 8 91
$17 82

PRIVILEGE AT DEER ISLAND.

Inmates of Deer Island are to be allowed to present constructive suggestions for improvements. Prisoners are to commit their complaints and suggestions to paper and drop these stations, anonymously, in letter boxes placed for the purpose in each prison tier at the island.

City Institutions Commissioner D. J. Johnson made the announcement. He has studied the Osborne system and its operation and thinks much benefit lies in its proper working, not only to the prisoners, but to the keepers as well.

Maj. James L. Malloy, master at the institution, is enthusiastic for the innovation. He has suggested that a prisoners' welfare committee, like that in the Osborne system, might be one of the early developments of the present experiment.

BUILDING TRADE CONFERENCE.

Upon the initiative of Mayor Curley a conference between the Building Trades Employers' Association and the United Building Trades Council, representing more than 29,000 mechanics, was held at the Mayor's office upon the 14th instant.

Mayor Curley stated upon the adjournment of the conference: "Both sides are in agreement on the question of a two-year contract, but a difficulty has arisen over the question of wages, with the employers standing firm for a wage of $1 an hour and the union men for an increase to $1.123 an hour."

MASSACHUSETTS CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS.

The Massachusetts Civil Service Commissioners announce examinations for desirable positions as follows:

ELECTROCARDIOGRAPHIC TECHNICIAN (FEMALE), BOSTON CITY HOSPITAL,
MARCH 22, 1923.

The salary is $24 a week. Applicants should possess a knowledge of the electrocardiograph and its use, as well as practical ability to make, develop, and print records, also a knowledge of general and physiological chemistry.

The subjects of examination with their respective weights will be as follows: Training and experience, 1; practical questions on the duties of the position, 1; total, 2.

Applicants are required to obtain at least 65 per cent in training and experience in order to become eligible.

The parade was strictly military in character and started promptly at 2.30 p. m. Chief marshal and staff formed on Boston street, facing north, resting at Roseclaire street. Members of the staff procured their mounts on Boston street near Roseclaire street. Staff, mounted, reported to chief of staff at 1.45 p. m. The staff assumed their position at the sounding of "First Call."

The various commands reported to the places assigned at 2 p. m. A report of their arrival was made to the chief of staff. Each organization as designated turned into the column in the order named. Troops and organizations other than veteran organizations marched in column of platoons; veteran organizations marched in column of squads. The uniform was prescribed by the commanding officer of each organization.

Troops marched in columns of squads both to and from the parade. Before reaching B street and West Broadway the parade halted, formed on a line to the left, dressed to the right, and when the Governor, Mayor and other distinguished guests approached the courtesy of the arm of service of each organization was rendered. The commanding officer of Battery A rendered the salute for that unit without forming line.

The Governor, Mayor, commanding general, First Army Corps and other distinguished guests reviewed the parade from a stand at West Broadway. The chief marshal and staff reviewed the parade at Dorchester avenue and Broadway.

ROUTE OF PARADE.

The parade started at Andrew square, proceeded through Dorchester street to Broadway, Broadway to K street, K street to Sixth street, Sixth street to P street, P street to Fourth street, Fourth street to L street, L street to Broadway, Broadway to point of dismissal, Dorchester avenue and Dover street.

The South Boston Citizens' Association gave a large banquet in the evening at the Municipal Building, South Boston. Hon. Thomas F. Cassidy and Mayor James M. Curley were the special guests and delivered addresses.

GOLD MONEY IN UNITED STATES AND OTHER COUNTRIES.

Reported by Director United States Mint as follows: (1) United States, $2,901,232,000 or 35.18 per cent of total for 48 countries, viz., $3,245,826,000; (2) Great Britain, $804,232,000 or 9.75 per cent; (3) France, $685,517,000 or 8.31 per cent; (4) Japan, $645,486,000 or 7.83 per cent; (5) Argentina, $494,438,000 or 6.00 per cent; (6) Spain, $473,762,000 or 5.75 per cent; (7) Russia, $300,000,000 or 3.64 per cent; (8) Germany, $260,028,000 or 3.15 per cent; (9) Holland, $255,729,000 or 3.10 per cent.

AUTOMOBILE STATISTICS.

Registration and licensing of motor vehicles and operators in Massachusetts is in charge of the State Department of Public Works, Registrar of Motor Vehicles. In year ending November 30, 1921, there were registered 360,732 automobiles, an increase of 56,101 over the total in 1920 and 90.58 per cent more than 5 years ago, also 12,058 motor cycles. New York ranks first among the states in number of automobiles in use November 1, 1921, viz., 651,795; (2) Ohio, 616,800; (3) Pennsylvania, 570,164; (4) California, 568,892; (5) Illinois, 568,759; (6) Iowa, 437,300; (7) Texas, 427,634; (8) Michigan, 412,717; (9) Minnesota, 364,312; (10) Indiana, 332,707; (11) Massachusetts, 304,631; (12) Missouri, 295,817; (13) Wisconsin, 293,298; (14) Kansas, 265,396; (15) New Jersey, 226,459. The West leads in ratio of automobiles to population, the farmers being the most numerous users. In Iowa, California, Nebraska and South Dakota there is one to every 6 inhabitants and most of the other western states show from one to 7 to one to 9. In Massachusetts the ratio is one to 13 and in New York State, one to 16. Reported (unofficially) owned in Boston alone, in 1921, 46,725 or 36,706 passenger cars and 10,019 trucks. Persons licensed to operate in State, 380,519 (i. e., 18,940 more than in 1920), of which 247,769 were classed as operators and 132,750 as chauffeurs; licenses revoked, 1,119. Total received by State in 1921 for all fees, $472,890 or $852,659 more than in 1920.

Number of deaths from accidents in State in year ending November 30, 1921, 544 (i. e., 63 more than in 1920); injured, 11,486 or 9,696 less than in 1920; in Boston alone, 88 killed and 1,914 injured. Prosecutions by Boston police for violation of automobile laws in year ending November 30, 1921, 9,408 (1,000 less than in 1920), of which 4,513 were of non-residents and 995 of minors.

Deaths from automobile accidents in cities in year 1920: New York, 773; Chicago, 472; Philadelphia, 226; Detroit, 175; Cleveland, 155; Los Angeles, 142; St. Louis, 104; Boston, 89. Highest death rate per 100,000 population in California, 21.1; (2) Connecticut, 15.6; (3) New York, 13.5 and Washington the same; (4) Rhode Island, 12.8; (5) New Jersey, 12.7; (6) Colorado, 12.4; (7) Ohio, 12.3; (8) Pennsylvania, 11.9; (9) Massachusetts, 11.7.

The automobile industry, begun about 23 years ago, now ranks fourth (if not third) in this country. In 1921, the production was approximately 1,668,500 vehicles or 1,514,000 passenger cars and 154,500 trucks, all valued (wholesale) at $1,260,000,000. Total automobiles in operation in United States in 1921, 9,187,572; in 1918, 4,941,276; in 1915, 1,754,570; in 1910, about 400,000; in 1905, about 85,000. Total fees paid by owners in U. S. in 1921 $102,000,000 (approx.), about 90 per cent of same being used for highway improvement.

Total exports of automobiles and parts of, from United States in year ending Dec. 31, 1920, $298,219,875 in value (i. e., 96.6 per cent more than in 1919).

In year 1921 the total exports fell to $81,922,357 in value, or 7.478 commercial ($10,329,903) and 30,950 passenger ($32,592,454); automobile parts, exclusive of engines and tires, $39,058,729; tires, $15,954,515; gasoline engines, $1,821,120. Imports of automobiles and parts in year 1921, $2,044,568.

STATE DEPARTMENTS AS REORGANIZED.

By Chapter 350, General Acts of 1919, the executive and administrative functions of the State and except those pertaining to the Governor and the Council and others performed by officials serving under them, were redistributed so as to be comprised in twenty principal departments, viz.: Dept. of the Secretary, of Treasurer and Receiver-General, Auditor, Attorney-General, and the following new departments: Of Agriculture, Conservation, Banking and Insurance, Corporations and Taxation, Education, Civil Service and Registration, Industrial Accidents, Labor and Industries, Mental Diseases, Correction, Public Welfare, Public Health, Public Safety, Public Works, Public Utilities and Metropolitan Commission.

The work of the decennial census, formerly done by Bureau of Statistics, was placed in charge of Dept. of the Secretary; that of forestry, fisheries and game and animal industry went to Dept. of Conservation; of Board of Conciliation and Arbitration, Minimum Wage Commission, the divisions of Bureau of Statistics concerned with labor and manufacturers, also public employment offices, etc., to Dept. of Labor and Industries; of State Board of Charity, Homestead Commission, trustees of State Infirmary and State Farm, etc., to Dept. of Public Welfare; of District Police, with building and boiler inspection, etc., also Fire Prevention Commissioner, to Dept. of Public Safety; of Mass. Highway Commission, with registration and regulation of motor vehicles, also Commission on Waterways and Public Lands, to Dept. of Public Works; of Public Service Commission, with regulation of steam railroads, electric railways and telephone service, also Gas and Electric Light Commission, to Dept. of Public Utilities; of Metropolitan Park Board and Water and Sewerage Board to a single Metropolitan Commission. This reorganization went into effect Dec. 1, 1919, the appointment of the 64 new officials required having been made by the Governor in November. Many of these appointees held similar positions prior to the consolidation. Most of the new departments are under the control of a single head called Commissioner.

POPULATION OF COUNTIES, 1920, WITH INCREASE OVER 1915 (RANKED FROM LARGEST).

(1) Suffolk (3 cities and 1 town) 835,522 or 8.721 over 1915; (2) Middlesex (11 cities and 43 towns) 778,352 or 44.728; (3) Essex (8 cities and 25 towns) 482,156 or + 18,494; (4) Worcester (3 cities and 57 towns) 455,135 or + 24,432; (5) Bristol (4 cities and 16 towns) 359,005 or + 12,041; (6) Hampden (3 cities and 20 towns) 300,305 or + 37,361; (7) Norfolk (1 city and 27 towns) 219,081 or + 17,174; seven other counties (4 cities and 127 towns) 422,800 or — 3,905. Total for the 14 counties (38 cities and 316 towns) 3,852,556 or 159,046 (i. e., 4.3 per cent) over 1915. Of said total, 2,741,599 (i. e., 71.17 per cent) were in the cities and 1,110,757 (i. e., 28.83 per cent) in the towns. The four counties, Suffolk, Middlesex, Essex and Bristol contain 63.73 per cent of the State's inhabitants.

If the municipalities having a population of 5,000 or over are properly called urban, then the percentage of urban population in the entire State reaches the notable figure of 90, while the rural shows but 40 per cent.

* Contracts awarded.

Incident to the award of this contract, Superintendent Frank P. Rock of the Supply Department made the following statement:

"Permission is respectfully requested to award the contracts to the lowest bidder in each district, except in the Dorchester district where the bid of George H. Noone on sand is the second lowest bid, and in this case I believe it advisable to award the sand and gravel in the same district to the same concern. In the case of gravel in District No. 10, city proper, where the bids of M. Doyle & Co. and George H. Noone are identical on bank gravel, I have awarded the bank gravel to M. Doyle & Co. for the same reason as stated above."

WITHOUT ADVERTISING.

The Mayor has approved the following contracts, awarded without advertising; requests of heads of departments to do the work with the department forces without advertising; additions to and deductions from contracts.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT (Artificial Stone Sidewalks).

Upon March 20 the Mayor approved a contract with J. R. McPherson for building artificial stone sidewalks. A communication from Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department was as follows:

Boston, March 15, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—Permission to award a contract for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks in the public streets, without advertising, to J. R. McPherson, 25 Burr street, Jamaica Plain, Mass., is hereby requested on the ground that this contractor is not selected by the city in the first instance but by the abutters; and secondly, the expense of construction being divided by the city and abutters; also because such contracts vary greatly in amounts and seldom involve one thousand (1,000) dollars.

Respectfully yours,

JOSEPH A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Upon March 20 the Mayor approved a contract with Joseph Cerra for building artificial stone sidewalks. A communication from Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department was as follows:

Boston, March 19, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—Permission to award a contract for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks in the public streets, without advertising, to Joseph Cerra, 12 Athol street, Allston, is hereby requested on the ground that this contractor is not selected by the city in the first instance but by the abutters, and secondly, the expense of construction being divided by the city and abutters; also because such contracts vary greatly in amounts and seldom involve one thousand (1,000) dollars.

Respectfully yours,

JOSEPH A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Upon March 21 the Mayor approved a contract with the Adams-Pond Company for building artificial stone sidewalks. A communication from Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Department of Public Works was as follows:

Boston, March 21, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—Permission to award a contract for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks in the public streets, without advertising, to Adams-Pond Company, 568 Columbia road, Dorchester, is hereby requested on the ground that this contractor is not selected by the city in the first instance but by the abutters, and secondly, the expense of construction being divided by the city and abutters; also because such contracts vary greatly in amounts and seldom involve one thousand (1,000) dollars.

Respectfully yours,

JOSEPH A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

SUPPLY DEPARTMENT.

Upon March 20 the Mayor approved a contract with the Good Roads Machinery Company for fifty Champion snow plows for the Public Works Department. A communication from Superintendent Frank P. Rock of the Supply Department was as follows:

Boston, March 16, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—Permission is respectfully requested to award a contract, without public advertisement, to the Good Roads Machinery Company for furnishing to the Public Works Department fifty Champion snow plows at $250 each, the total amount of the contract being $12,500. This type of plow is now being used by the Public Works and Park Departments and has proven very successful. The price quoted for these plows is lower than what they have been purchased for in the past although the cost of materials entering into the manufacture of them has advanced. These plows are to be delivered to the department as directed on or before November 1, 1923, and my reason for making this contract at this time of the year is to take advantage not only of prices quoted, but also to insure the Public Works Department of delivery of these plows before the winter season starts.

Trusting that the permission requested will be granted, I am,

Respectfully yours,

FRANK P. ROCK,
Superintendent of Supplies.

Upon March 21 the Mayor approved a contract with the R. H. Long Company for furnishing one seven-passenger Bay State sedan car for the Park Department, less an allowance in exchange for a touring car of the same manufacture. A communication from Superintendent Frank P. Rock of the Supply Department was as follows:

Boston, March 20, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—Permission is respectfully requested to award a contract, without publicly advertising for same, to the R. H. Long Company for furnishing one seven-passenger Bay State sedan at a price of $2,500; less allowance for one Bay State touring car, $1,620; net total, $880.

The Park Department has notified this department that in order to put the old machine they are now using in proper condition, it will approximately cost $300 plus the cost of painting same and in view of the generous allowance made us on the old machine, I respectfully request that the permission asked for be granted.

Respectfully yours,

FRANK P. ROCK,
Superintendent of Supplies.

EXTRA WORK UNDER CONTRACT.

The Frank E. Ross Company have been directed to perform the following extra work under contract for masonry settings for new boilers at Calf Pasture pumping station, Dorchester. Items ordered: Extend first baffles with plastic material 3 or 4 inches below lowest tubes. Extend second baffles at top to level with top of tubes. Furnish and place 12 pieces of refractory tile, 12 inches by 4 inches by 24 inches, instead of fire brick at front ends of boilers between drums and side walls. Estimated cost of extra work, $165; extra work previously ordered, $400; total, $565.

Antony Baruffaldi has been directed to perform the following extra work under contract for building sewerage works in Maverick street, between 500 feet southeast of Jeffries street and Lamson street, East Boston. Items ordered: Furnish and leave in place about 95 M. feet B. M. 2-inch spruce sheeting above grade, for which no price was set in the proposal, between station 0 plus 0 and station 15 plus 26 at $50 per M. in accordance with section 4, Item 1, page 51, of specifications—the estimated cost of extra work being $4,750.

Antony Cefalo has been directed to perform the following extra work under contract for building sewerage works in Centre street between a point 700 feet south of Louder's lane and a point 830 feet southerly and outlet in private land, Arboretum and Arborway, West Roxbury. Items ordered: Move by wheelbarrows from line of work in planting space to roadway, all loam for refilling trenches in planting space and all surplus material due to the Arboretum officials refusing to allow any teams to enter the planted area. Estimated cost of extra work, $336; amount of previous order, $370; total, $706.

RETIREMENT OF ASSISTANT LIBRARIAN.

Otto Fleischer, assistant librarian of the Boston Public Library since 1900 and a member of the library staff since 1891, will retire from active service upon May 1. In fact, Mr. Fleischer will leave his desk in the librarian's office on April 1 to enjoy a month's vacation before availing himself, four weeks later, of the library's new retirement plan.

By thirty-two years of service, the greater part of it spent in important official positions, Mr. Fleischer has acquired an exceptional knowledge of the operation of the Boston Public Library in all its details as well as in all its major policies. He was born in Austria sixty-eight years ago, and acquired much of his early education at Milan, Italy, and in extensive travel. Coming to Boston in 1879, he found employment with the firm of booksellers and book auctioneers then known as Sullivan & Libbie, and for many years made the firm's catalogues and appraised the value of its books. In 1891 he entered the shelf department of the Boston Public Library, which was then housed in its old building in Boylston street.

Mr. Fleischer's knowledge of books, his administrative ability and his indefatigable industry won early recognition. When the library moved to the new building in Copley square, he was made custodian of special libraries, including the fine arts, music, Barton and Ticknor collections. Here he had a great task of organization to plan and execute, largely "from the ground up," because the special libraries had not before existed as an extensive department in themselves, with a whole floor set aside for them. Some 70,000 volumes were placed in his personal care from the outset, and the additions made, including the strengthening of the now important collection of photographs, were all determined and guided by his judgment. In fact, the whole fine arts department, as an instrument of popular service, stands today largely a creation of Mr. Fleischer's. It was he who first brought it into wide public use, planning visits to it from the schools, and arranging exhibits of value and interest to the public at large.

The position of assistant librarian, second in command of the library's administration, was revived by the trustees on January 12, 1900, with the special purpose of offering it to Mr. Fleischer, and so turning to full account his executive talents and his knowledge of books. During the twenty-three years of his service in this capacity he has carried a large part of the administrative burden of the city's growing library system, and has been always the ranking officer of the library in the librarian's absence.

STREET CLEANING ORDERS.

Mayor Curley addressed the following communication to Commissioner of Public Works Joseph A. Rourke upon the 17th instant:

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
March 17, 1923.

JOSEPH A. ROURKE, Commissioner, Public Works Department:

DEAR SIR,—The severity of the past winter has resulted in great injury to the highways of the city generally. I am desirous that you notify every contractor whose five-year guaranty is still in force that the city insists that he start immediately upon the work of restoring street surfaces.

I have examined Beacon street, from Charles street to Park street, and believe that it would be advisable to resurface the entire street, but not with the type of paving so frequently recommended by the Finance Commission as desirable, and which I have consistently refused to approve the installation of, namely, Topen.

The recent winter has proved beyond any doubt that macadam, Telford and Topeka are types of paving that must be permanently abandoned, and you will, I trust, kindly investigate and ascertain if my opinion in this matter is sound, and, if it is, discontinue these types.

The condition of Arlington street and of Massachusetts avenue is such as to make it advisable to rebuild the surface of both streets at once. Tremont street, from Dover street to Arlington square, another Topeka surface laid less than three years, and which surface the contractor was required to replace in large part last year, is almost wholly destroyed this year.

It would be advisable, without further delay, to have this surface restored at once.

The last winter, unquestionably the most severe that the city has known in its history, with a total snow fall of seventy inches and with ice coating the streets for a period of nearly ten weeks, has worked havoc with street surfaces generally. The public will shortly be voicing a protest regarding the surface of the streets, despite the fact that more than two thirds of the entire streets of Boston, or approximately 420 miles, are of macadam or Telford construction, totally unsuited to motor vehicle traffic, and always in need of repair at the close of even a mild winter, but which, as a result of the unduly severe winter which we have just passed, are actually in need of complete reconstruction.

Under the circumstances it would be advisable to employ as many additional men as in your opinion may be necessary to repair street surfaces throughout the city, as the probability is that we will not witness a winter of equal severity for the next decade.

The accumulation of debris upon the highways of the city which, owing to the severity of the winter and the constant freezing, it has been impossible to remove in many places, is now, with the passing of the snow and ice, in evidence upon the highways generally, more particularly perhaps in the congested centers of the North and West Ends.

This is a condition impossible of correction during the last ten weeks and which can only be corrected now by the immediate employment of large numbers of men and vehicles.

Under the circumstances I do not believe it would be advisable to await the customary spring cleaning in April or May, but start the spring cleaning now.

Sincerely yours,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

OPEN HOUSE, FRANKLIN UNION.

Director Walter B. Russell announces the Franklin Union will observe its fifteenth annual open house upon Monday evening, March 26, from 7 to 10 o'clock.

The public is invited to inspect the exceptional facilities made possible by Franklin's $5,000 gift to his native town.

The continued introduction of technical processes into industry and the increasing application of inventions to modern manufacturing lend special significance to the work which will be shown. The metallography equipment, the electric wiring and the automobile repair shop are among the features recently added.

Through the courtesy of the "American Printer," a series of prints, engravings and reproductions relating to Franklin will be on exhibition on the walls of the lobby. The collection is particularly effective in supplementing the mural paintings by Mills, which form the chief permanent frieze of the main entrance hall.

MUNICIPAL PROBLEMS.

ADDRESS OF HIS HONOR JAMES M. CURLEY, MAYOR OF BOSTON, AT THE BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY,
THURSDAY, MARCH 15, 1923.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

The subject assigned has been "Some of the Major Problems Confronting the Municipality."

I confess that sometimes it is rather difficult to determine just what are the major problems, because every problem whether the condition of the streets, public health, public schools or public works, are all for the time being major problems, and difficult of solution, for, despite the prevailing opinion, the fact remains that municipal administration in America is as yet an uncharted science and each chief executive in an American city is required in a large measure to carve out his own method of procedure, and determine, as it were, his own destiny and the destiny of the municipality over which he is chosen to preside.

Municipal administration in a measure is a matter of progression and each one in his time does his part as God gives him the light to interpret it. My conception of the duty of municipal administration, or state administration, or federal administration, is not the hoarding of money but the expenditure of public money in such economic and efficient manner as results in the greatest measure of health, happiness and prosperity of the people. I appreciate that perhaps that is not a popular public doctrine at the present time, but I believe it is sound and will ultimately be so regarded.

I believe in generous expenditures for the combating of disease at the source. I believe that no expenditure is too great to make for bacteriological research work and because of that belief, Boston occupies a most favorable position today among the cities of America in the matter of combating disease.

I entertain the same view in the matter of expenditures for public parks. Last year the expenditure for parks, park extensions and improvements in Boston approximated nearly one million dollars.

In the four years of my first administration, 1914 to 1918, although the World War was in progress during almost the entire period, the expenditure for park development and extension and improvements represented a total of approximately two million, six hundred thousand dollars, as against a total appropriation in the four years 1918 to 1922 of about one million, four hundred thousand dollars.

I have been conducting a great reclamation project in the South Boston section of our city, a reclamation project that will represent a total expenditure of approximately $2,000,000 dollars, but one which, nevertheless, will result in the reclamation of a land area that if sold by public auction would in all probability return an amount in excess of the total expenditure made by the city, and which will return in the years to come dividends as represented by public health and opportunities for recreation that cannot be measured in the term of dollars.

I personally believe that the reclamation of two and one half million square feet of land at the Strandway, South Boston, and the discontinuance of the emptying of sewage discharge there at the greatest public bathing beach in the entire United States, is the character of improvement that is beneficial to the people of our city.

The prevailing impression is that it is a very simple matter to bring about any worthwhile reform. The contrary is, however, true. Good women and good men for many years in this city endeavored to secure the enactment of a law that would result in a discontinuance as places of habitation of any portion of any building below the level of the adjoining street. After a fight lasting nearly ten years, a law was enacted in 1915. That law was not on the statute books two months when an endeavor was made by the interests who had been dispossessed of a prolific source of revenue to have the law repealed. By the adoption of that law 2,200 basement tenement properties were discontinued as places of habitation in Boston. They were structures below the level of the street where sunshine seldom penetrated and fresh air was unknown. We wiped out these 2,200 basement tenement properties and then we inaugurated a program in 1917 which if adhered to for fifty years would wipe out slum tenement property, for after all there is no excuse for what is known as slum districts in a republic fashioned along the lines of our own. However, just so long as necessity compels and adversity demands, persons will be found who will occupy what is known as slum tenements. Unfortunately we have considerable of that property in the northern and western ends of Boston. There are numerous pieces of property of a similar character scattered throughout the city.

In 1917 we condemned a parcel of property covering one full acre in the most congested section of the North End and through the expenditure of $200,000 we razed the buildings and established a breathing spot there, now known as Morton Street Playground. With the exception of a certain portion of the East side of New York, the number of persons living in the block was greater than any similar area in the entire world. The continuance of this service for a period of fifty years would, without embarrassment or overburdening any generation, render it possible to eliminate an institution that has no right to exist in a free republic, the slum institution.

We have an institution in our harbor where it is customary to send these who are unfortunate enough to grow old, without accruing wealth, and where in the last few years it has been the custom to send any individual without sufficient finances or political backing who was afflicted with any chronic illness. About two years ago in the wisdom of those in authority we established what was known as the Institutions Department, and the poor and the chronic sick poor and the delinquent children and the criminals were all classified in one department, so to be poor, for the first time was considered a crime. There are approximately 450 cases at Long Island; the institution is three and one half miles down the harbor and when you quarter the chronic sick with the unfortunate poor, which we have formerly called paupers, you realize what an injustice you are doing to the chronic sick, because when a person is poor and enters the poor-house, his relatives desert him and he ceases to have friends.

The average number of visitors at Long Island is less than one visitor per year per patient, and there on that island, bleak and desolate, for more than six months of the year, these unfortunates wait their release from a punishment for a crime for which they are not responsible and the only release from which is death itself.

I believe that the first obligation of the city is to provide proper quarters for the chronic sick and proper quarters for the unfortunate poor. The prevailing impression is that were these facts generally known there would be an aroused public opinion that would make it possible over night to end this injustice; unfortunately, this, however, is, not true.

I recollect in 1905, when John L. Bates was Governor, I presented a bill calling for a change in the name of the institution from Pauper to the Infirmary Department. It passed the House and Senate and reached the Governor and a committee of well-intentioned men and women asked for a hearing by the Governor. I attended the hearing and these men and women protested changing the name, saying that the change would result in an increasingly large number of people going there. However, the Governor, in his wisdom, signed the bill, and there was no increase in the number of inmates other than the normal increase due to the growth of the city.

In 1917 we had a convention of the Order of Elks in Boston and they decided to do something worthwhile for the city, state and nation, and it was suggested to them that they endow a hospital in Boston in which those maimed in the World War would receive treatment. The city provided the land at about one half its actual value and the Elks built the hospital on the top of Parker Hill. This was probably the first hospital for wounded soldiers established in America and the hospital represents an expenditure of a half million dollars.

I journeyed to New York two months ago and submitted a proposal to the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks that they sell the institution to the city for $75,000 and finally compromised on $100,000. The Council has approved the purchase by the city and we expect within thirty days to complete the transaction and start moving the unfortunate chronic sick from Long Island to a real institution on Parker Hill.

We will establish a suitable nurses' home and other necessary improvements in the hospital, and with that character of institution there it will no longer be an inconvenience for a doctor or surgeon to cater to the needs of the unfortunate chronic sick, where today it means the loss of an entire day to visit Long Island and as a consequence patients at Long Island do not receive the treatment their condition requires.

The greatest scourge of any American city as far as children are concerned is what is known as cross-infection. A child recovering from an infectious disease is brought in contact with nurse, patient or doctor treating another, and the child becomes infected and, if surviving, is fortunate, and this condition were are endeavoring to remedy.

We had an institution at West Roxbury where it was customary for many years to send boys convicted of truancy. They never sent boys whose folks were wealthy, but it was always the child of some poor family whose mother needed the son to work. Mother needed the son's aid but received nothing and the boy was hired out to some farmer in this or some other state where he worked until twenty-one years of age. In justice to this city we tried to close that institution for years and could not do it. It was only when I was elected Mayor and I refused the appropriation and that automatically closed the institution. We released 110 boys and conducted an investigation and discovered that 42 per cent of the boys sent to the institution terminated their careers at Concord Reformatory or State Prison.

The government needed an institution for the care of the mentally defective during the war and we turned over the buildings at West Roxbury. The government is building a great institution in Northampton sufficient to house all men with mental ailments and will abandon the institution at West Roxbury in the fall or spring of 1924. When they abandon that institution we are going to remove the unfortunate poor from Long Island and are going to put them in West Roxbury where there are trees and grass and they will have opportunity for a little sunshine where now all is sorrow and darkness.

Thanks to the generosity of a great Boston citizen, George F. Parkman, it was made possible to improve our park system, made possible the Zoo, the Aquarium and good roads and which will make possible during the coming year an expenditure of $100,000 for a rose garden at the Fenway.

It was Thomas A. Forsyth whose generosity made possible the establishment of the first dental infirmary where the teeth of the children of Boston may be cared for without expense and which will continue until the end of the year. One million dollars is represented in the buildings and equipment and two million dollars in the custody of the Old Colony Trust Company for the maintenance of the institution.

A more recent contribution of a worthwhile citizen, George R. White, whose confidence in the city and its form of government was most commendable, provided that the income from this great benefit, amounting annually to $250,000, be placed in the hands of a body consisting of the Mayor, President of the City Council, City Auditor, President of the Chamber of Commerce and President of the Bar Association. The greatest need of the City of Boston, and every other American municipality, is the co-ordination of all activities represented by the organizations of well meaning men and women of the city, who have today and for years past have been working at cross purposes, with unnecessary overhead expenses and the constant duplication of effort and of work itself. We hope through the income of the George R. White Fund to establish a system of so-called health units, five in number, one located in each congested section of the city, where it will be possible to bring together all the agencies working for the common good of the people and establish a clearing house making worthwhile plans for the combating of disease and thereby make possible a reduction in the next five years of at least ten per cent of the infant mortality of Boston. These are some of our plans along lines of public health. We have started this work and in order to carry on we need more of that real co-operation that made possible this American Republic and that made possible the great progress and prosperity of the Nation.

INFANT MORTALITY.

By DR. FRANCIS X. MAHONEY, COMMISSIONER OF HEALTH.

Statistics of the American Child Health Association give the infant mortality rate for the entire United States last year as slightly over 90 in every 1,000 under a year old. In Boston the infant mortality in 1921 was 77 per 1,000 births.

That year we had the lowest death rate for infants we have ever had in Boston. Last year, 1922, the infant mortality in Boston was 92.71 per 1,000 births. We have a number of hospitals here that are patronized to a great extent by people who do not live in the city proper. If we excluded the infants born outside the city and who die in Boston hospitals, the rate would be somewhat lower, and confining the rate to residents of Boston, it is one of the most favorable in the country. In 1921 the infant mortality rate of Boston-born babies was 72.34 per 1,000 births. A few years ago 110 in a large city was considered a fair infant mortality rate.

The decrease in infant mortality is to be attributed to the pasteurization of milk, to an improved water supply and to better sanitary conditions in the homes as the result of improved methods of plumbing. Over one half the infants who die fail to live because they are congenitally defective. We have made little or no progress in handling cases of this kind, but we have made considerable progress in keeping the milk and water supply pure and in improving the sanitary living conditions of the population.

Compared to other cities in Massachusetts, Boston is an especially healthy place for infants. In Fall River and other factory towns the death rate was higher than Boston. In 1921 the rate of infant mortality in Fall River was 114, in Chicopee 105, New Bedford 95, Holyoke 92 and Lowell 91. In Brookline and similar suburbs the rate is very low, the rate last year being only 41 in Brookline.

ASSESSMENT OF DAMAGES.

The Board of Street Commissioners determine that the undermentioned estates sustain damages by the taking made for school purposes on the northwesterly side of Warren street and the southwesterly side of Townsend street, and on Harnishof street, between Humboldt avenue and Warren street, Roxbury, in the amount hereinafter set against them, and awards said amount therefor.

	Amount.
John D. Williams et al. , trustees under will of David W. Williams, 241, 480 square feet; a person or persons unknown, 39,173 square feet and buildings	$95,000

The City of Boston acquires title to over 250,000 square feet of land and buildings at Warren and Townsend streets, Roxbury, known as the Williams homestead. Mayor Curley having approved the Street Commissioner's agreement with John D. Williams et al., trustees.

Roxbury's two intermediate high schools are to be erected upon this fine property. The Schoolhouse Commission will soon ask for bids for the planning of the structure and proceed to award the contract.

LAND-TAKING IN ROXBURY.

The Mayor has approved the order of the Board of Street Commissioners for the taking of the estate now or formerly of John D. Williams and Moses Williams, trustees, on the northwesterly side of Warren street and the southwesterly side of Townsend street, and land, owners unknown, known as Harishof street, between Humboldt avenue and Warren street, Roxbury, for school purposes.

The property is bounded as follows: A parcel of land, supposed to belong to John D. Williams et als., trustees under will of David W. Williams, bounded:

Easterly by Warren street, by two measurements, one hundred thirteen and 7-100 feet, and two hundred six and 4-100 feet; southerly by the northerly line of Harishof street, eight hundred seventy-two and 43-100 feet; westerly by land supposed to belong to Nathan Block and Bencion Moskow, one hundred ten feet; northerly by land supposed to belong to Max Simons and Annie R. Somers, one hundred twenty feet; again westerly by land supposed to belong to Annie R. Somers, one hundred ten feet and 14-100 feet; again northerly by Townsend street, seven and 35-100 feet; northwesterly by Townsend street, by two measurements, one hundred fifteen and 86-100 feet on a curve of one hundred and ninety feet radius, and by a straight line one hundred thirty-seven and 83-100 feet; again northerly by Townsend street, twenty-eight and 29-100 feet on a curve of fifty feet radius, and by a straight line four hundred sixty-eight and 35-100 feet; northeasterly by Townsend street, fifteen and 30-100 feet on a curve of ten feet radius; containing two hundred forty-one thousand four hundred and eighty square feet, more or less.

A parcel of land, supposed to belong to person or persons unknown, bounded:

Northerly by the northerly line of Harishof street, nine hundred and seventy-six and 39-100 feet; easterly by Warren street, forty and 4-100 feet; southerly by the southerly line of Harishof street, nine hundred and eighty-two and 42-100 feet; westerly by Humboldt avenue, forty and 22-100 feet; containing thirty-nine thousand one hundred seventy-three square feet, more or less; and this parcel is taken with the reservation to the owners, their heirs and assigns, of the land abutting thereon to use said land in accordance with their legal rights.

SPECIAL ELECTION.

Hon. Herbert A. Wilson, Police Commissioner, has issued the following order relative to the special election for representative in the Twelfth Suffolk District:

General Order No. 241.

The Superintendent of Police is hereby directed to make the following details for duty at the special primary on Tuesday, April 3, and at the special election on Tuesday, April 17, 1923, to be held in the Twelfth Suffolk Representative District (Ward 12), in this city:

1. The necessary number of patrolmen from Police Divisions 5 and 9 to attend the several polling places in those divisions, on special primary day and special election day, April 3 and 17, respectively, to preserve order and protect voters in the full exercise of their rights.

2. One sergeant to report at the office of the Board of Election Commissioners, City Hall Annex, Court square, at 8.30 o'clock a. m., Tuesday, April 3, and Tuesday, April 17, 1923; thence to proceed in a motor vehicle, to be provided for the purpose, with ballot boxes, etc., to the several precincts in Ward 12, and deliver same to the police officer detailed in each precinct.

3. One patrolman to each of the ten precincts in Ward 12, at 8 o'clock a. m., Tuesday, April 3, and Tuesday, April 17, to receive ballot boxes, etc., from sergeant detailed on truck, in case such provided; such detail to continue until the ballots are counted and the result declared. They are then to bring the ballots and returns to the Election Commissioners' office on each of the days stated: April 3 and 17.

4. On receipt by the patrolman from the sergeant, detailed on motor vehicle, as herein provided, of registering ballot box, voting lists and such other documents as may have been received from Election Commissioners, the patrolman detailed at polling place will deliver same to the warden or clerk of the precinct, allowing no person to take or handle them before such delivery, and hand the key of the registering ballot box to the warden. On delivery of the ballots to the warden, the patrolman will take from him a receipt for the ballots, which receipt will be returned to the Election Commissioners.

5. After the warden has opened the box and allowed the election officers and the public to see that it is empty, the box is to be again locked and the key given to the patrolman who is to retain it until after the polls have closed, except that, at the request of the warden, the patrolman may allow him to open the box for the purpose of pressing down the ballots, in order to make room for more ballots, after which the patrolman will see that the box is again locked, and the key returned to the police officer.

6. The patrolman will obtain from the warden copies of poster, which will be sent to the latter, in relation to smoking and the use of liquor in polling places, and post same in conspicuous places where it may be easily read. Tacks will be sent for that purpose.

7. The warden will deliver to the patrolman detailed at the polling place for his use at that place a copy of the descriptive voting list, which must be returned to the warden at the close of the polls.

8. When the polls are opened, the patrolman will mark in the place indicated on the tag attached to the key the figures which the register shows before any ballots are cast.

9. At 8 p. m., Tuesday, April 3, and Tuesday, April 17, 1923, when the polls close, a sergeant will report in Ward 12 to meet motor vehicle at last point of morning distribution; thence to proceed to each of the several precincts in Ward 12, and receive registering ballot box (which must be locked) and key thereof, voting lists envelope, signed by the warden and other election officers, receipt for ballots, unused ballot envelope (containing unused and spoiled ballots), stamps for marking spoiled ballots, carry them to the Election Commissioners' office and deliver same to some member of the Board of Election Commissioners.

10. When the polls are closed, the patrolman will mark on the same tag the figures which the register shows after all ballots have been cast. He will then hand the key to the warden, who will open the box and take out all the ballots to be sorted and counted. The warden will then cause the voting lists, including the list used by the police officer, to be sealed up in an envelope and the envelope certified by the signatures of himself and the other election officers, and the same returned to the Election Commissioners, as described in section 9 of this order. The patrolman will not allow this envelope to be put into the ballot box. The sergeant, who will report on motor vehicle, will keep it about his person until delivery at the office of the Election Commissioners. The unused and spoiled ballots are then to be put in the envelope for unused ballots, and the envelope sealed and certified.

11. It is important that the patrolman sees that the voting lists' envelope is signed by the warden, clerk and all the inspectors. The patrolman will also see that the special book for signatures of voters is returned in the registering ballot box.

12. In case a patrolman is detailed to relieve another after the close of the polls, the commanding officer will see that he is instructed as to the duty of bringing the official returns, the box of ballots cast, and the press return to the Election Commissioners' office as soon as they are delivered to him by the election officers.

13. When the ballots have all been counted, the ballots thus counted, tally sheets and nothing else, shall be placed by the warden in the leatheroid box sent for that purpose, which must be sealed up and signed by all the election officers. The patrolman will particularly see that this box is properly sealed up and that all the election officers have signed their names to the certificate on the box. The patrolman will then bring the box official return, press return and stamps for marking defective ballots to the City Hall Annex, Court square, and deliver same to the Election Commissioners. The patrolman is directed not to allow the official return or record book to be placed in the leatheroid box.

14. While the polls remain open an officer of rank will visit the polling place in each precinct of Ward 12, at stated intervals, to be designated by the captain, and in case of any disturbance will report the fact to the commanding officer at the station house without delay. If additional men are needed beyond the number available in that division, the officer in charge will communicate immediately with headquarters.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

APPOINTMENT OF LABORERS.

The Mayor has granted permission to Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke, of the Department of Public Works, to appoint three hundred laborers at a wage of $4 a day in the Sanitary and Street Cleaning Service for a period of sixty days. These men are to be certified by the Massachusetts Civil Service Commission from the special list of unemployed veterans and are to be assigned to the cleaning of streets and to assist in the collection of ashes.

THE NECESSITY OF STREET WIDENING.

Mayor Curley addressed the following letter to the Committee on Municipal Finance of the Massachusetts Legislature, upon the 20th instant.

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
March 20, 1923.

DEAR SIR,—The recommendations made by the City of Boston upon pending measures providing for street widenings under consideration by the Committee on Municipal Finance were based upon the report of the City of Boston Planning Board which has made a study covering a period of years.

The recommendations made by the Boston Finance Commission that no action be taken at the present time and that the question of street widenings be postponed until further study has been made of conditions in surrounding cities and towns with which the streets it is proposed shall be widened may connect, is neither logical nor equitable.

The widening of Cambridge street and Court street will provide an outlet for Boston's congestion to the north by way of Cambridge over the Boston and Cambridge Bridge with a thoroughfare on the Cambridge end 100 feet in width, and connecting with arteries to Somerville and the North Shore.

The widening of Cambridge and Court streets has not only received the endorsement of the City Planning Board but, in addition, the Boston Chamber of Commerce and the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange and numerous other organizations interested in this most necessary public improvement. So far as I have been able to learn, the only organization that is not favorable to immediate action is the Finance Commission and it is a question in my mind whether the proposition for postponement of action at this time can be construed as opposition.

With reference to the widening of Exchange street, it requires but a visit by the committee or any member of the committee during the busy hours of the day to determine the necessity for immediate and favorable action upon this widening. The present structures are antiquated and can be removed at a minimum of expense. The present Exchange street has long been termed the "neck of the bottle" of Boston traffic and unless advantage is taken of present low realty values, to institute the widening, it will be financially an impossibility to do it after property valuations have been developed through erection of expensive structures on this most favorable realty.

The project for the widening of Province street, between School and Bromfield streets, was first recommended subsequent to the Boston fire and has constituted a fire menace to the heart of Boston since that time. The request of the Finance Commission for further study on this project, in view of the action of the Fire Department in directing attention to the fire hazard represented there annually for the last forty years, is hardly justifiable. The construction of this short thoroughfare would unquestionably result in a development within a period of five years which through increase in valuations should be sufficient to compensate the city for the entire investment made in addition to disposing of what is commonly regarded as the most dangerous fire hazard in the entire city.

The other street widening bills presented by the City of Boston have not been pressed for action at this time by the officials of the city who realize that the present imperative need is an outlet to the north from Boston and the elimination of a fire hazard which in the event of conflagration might destroy the most valuable section of the entire city.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

LAND-TAKING IN DORCHESTER.

The Mayor has approved the order of the Board of Street Commissioners for a taking of land for sewerage works in Stow road, Dorchester.

The right and easement is taken to lay and maintain sewerage works in the following described lands, exclusive of any interest in trees, buildings or other structures standing thereon, reserving to the owners thereof the right to use the lands for any purpose except such as may injure or obstruct said works, and except for placing or maintaining any structure on said lands not authorized in writing by the Mayor of said city; trees, buildings or other structures standing upon or affixed to the land in which an easement is hereby taken are to be removed therefrom within sixty days following a notice of the city's intention to enter upon said taking for the purpose of constructing said sewerage works. Said lands are in that part of Boston formerly Dorchester, and are bounded and described as follows:

A parcel of land, owners unknown, being part of the private way known as Stow road, bounded:

Southwesterly by land now or formerly of Franklin I. Smith, trustee, six and 21-100 feet; northwesterly by another part of Stow road, three hundred and thirty-eight and 3-100 feet; northeasterly by a taking made for sewerage purposes by the City of Boston in Stow road under an order dated July 11, 1922, six feet; southeasterly by another part of Stow road, three hundred and thirty-nine and 63-100 feet; containing two thousand and thirty-three square feet, more or less.

The sewerage works to be constructed are as follows:

Three hundred and fifteen (315) linear feet of 10-inch pipe sanitary sewer.

Betterments are to be assessed for the making of the improvement ordered herein.

The Board determines that no person sustains damages in his estate by the taking of said easement and construction of said sewerage works and awards no damages therefor.

Ordered, that this Board estimates that the lots of abutting land on the northwesterly and southeasterly sides of Stow road, between Doane avenue and land now or formerly of Franklin I. Smith, trustee, excluding the lot of land at the southerly corner of Doane avenue and Stow road, now or formerly owned by Franklin I. Smith, trustee, will receive benefit or advantage other than the general advantage to the community, from the improvement ordered herein, each of the particular lots within said limits to the amount respectively set against them herein:

MAYORS TO DISCUSS EMBARGO.

Mayor Curley has called a meeting of the Mayors' Club of Massachusetts at Young's Hotel upon the 24th instant for the purpose of devising ways and means to bring about the raising of the embargo on New England railroads against the handling of building and other supplies not listed as actual necessities.

John F. Walsh, secretary of the Building Trades Employers' Association, who recently appealed in behalf of the association to the Interstate Commerce Commission and to the local railroad agents for relief from the embargo, will be a guest of Mayor Curley at the meeting.

Hon. John A. Sullivan will discuss the National Bank Act and Register Frank A. Goodwin the automobile tax.

REPORT OF SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT.

William B. Snow, Assistant Superintendent of Schools, in accordance with the provisions of section 3 of chapter 274 of the Acts of 1914, has filed a report relative to his recent attendance at the meeting of the Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association, held at Cleveland, Ohio, from February 25-March 2, 1923, inclusive:

To the School Committee of the City of Boston:

In accordance with the provisions of section 3 of chapter 274 of the Acts of 1914, I respectfully submit the following report on attendance at the meeting of the Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association held at Cleveland, from February 25 to March 2, 1923, inclusive.

Your delegates left Boston at 2 p. m. on Saturday, February 24, and returned on the train reaching Boston at 11 a. m. on Friday, March 2.

In addition to the following summary, I have prepared and delivered before the Principals' Association, a detailed report of the meeting, and filed two copies thereof with the Superintendent of Schools.

Features of especial interest were:

1. Report of John J. Tigert, United States Commissioner of Education, who stated that he appeared "with the consent and approval of the President of the United States" and outlined the administration proposal for a department of education and welfare, to include education, public health, social service and veterans' relief, each division to be under an assistant secretary.

2. Reports by superintendents of leading cities on points of especial interest:

(a.) The boy scout activities carried on in Detroit, under the auspices of the School Board, reported by Superintendent Frank Cody.

(b.) The concrete floors, varying in size from 40 feet by 70 feet to 60 feet by 120 feet, constructed in Council Bluffs, Iowa, at a cost of 20 cents per square foot, for out-of-door gymnastics. They find them extremely useful.

(c.) The report of Superintendent Condon of Cincinnati, on janitor service, which is now let by contract, the cost of which has been reduced from $1,272 per day, in 1920, to a present bid of $783, a saving of approximately $150,000 in the school year covering 313 days. A single contractor looks after the school buildings of the entire city. Janitors are under the immediate control of school principals. The contractor is under a bond of $78,000 and if he fails to live up to his specifications, the business agent, under the contract, has the right to have the work done at the contractor's expense.

(d.) The plea of Superintendent Bair of Colorado Springs for more clerical service, "so that principals may be educational dynamos instead of high-class chore boys."

(e.) Three points suggested by Superintendent Hartwell of Buffalo to improve the quality of teaching:

1. Clerical assistance, that the work of principals may be educational leadership and not making out reports.

2. Demonstration teachers to give lessons, under assignment, with regular teachers as auditors.

3. Extension courses.

Prominent topics of the convention were, adequate financing of the constantly increasing demands for education, involving a study of the available sources of taxation, the most economical organization of school programs, the most effective type of school buildings, and finding an adequate supply of competent teachers.

The convention was greatly interested in the proposal of Superintendent John H. Beveridge of Omaha to establish in Washington a permanent bureau for standardizing school practice and collecting and distributing statistics desired by departments of investigation and research in the public school systems.

Prof. John J. Coss of Columbia University told of a new survey course of especial interest to educators. Those organizing the course propose to answer two questions:

1. What kind of world do we want?
2. What material have we in human nature with which to build?

The course was developed under the guidance of three dominant thoughts:

1. The notion of democratic control.
2. The rise of mass production.
3. The use of exact method for the control of property.

Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, emphasized the importance of outstanding personality in teachers, who give permanent direction to character.

Associate Superintendent William McAndrew of New York emphasized the importance of omitting minor subjects from the curricula, and emphasizing civic service and useful citizenship as the justification and end of public education.

Assistant Superintendent Spain of Detroit explained the platoon system as they use it in a six-grade school, with 960 pupils, one half of whom are studying the three R's in their home rooms, while the other half are in special rooms, gymnasium, auditorium, playground, and classrooms for geography, English literature, music and art. Doctor Spain believed that the system gave 20 per cent more instruction with less fatigue and better results; that it added 30 per cent to the capacity of the building with no increase in cost of construction or maintenance.

Dr. George D. Strayer told of the results of the recent Baltimore survey. This city has voted $22,000,000 for new buildings and the renovation of old ones. Minimum areas of 5 acres for elementary schools, 8 acres for intermediate schools, and 10 acres for high schools, are established. Twelve acres were taken for the first new high school, and two tracts of 36 and 39 acres have been secured for other school groups. The policy of Baltimore is to take outlying tracts. The pupils can be transported "against the traffic" going out in the morning on cars which have brought the workers in, and come back on cars that will take the workers out home.

Modern schoolhouse construction was shown in an exhibition of plans and elevations of some 200 junior and senior high schools, from seventy-five cities and twenty-one states, with varying construction costs per pupil and per cubic foot of space.

Boston delegates were especially happy over the election of Payson Smith, our Massachusetts Commissioner of Education, as president of the Department of Superintendence for the next year.

Respectfully submitted,

WILLIAM B. SNOW,
Assistant Superintendent of Schools.

THE NECESSITY OF NEW BUILDING LAW.

Mayor Curley addressed the following letter to each member of the Massachusetts Senate and House of Representatives upon the 20th instant:

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
March 20, 1923.

DEAR SIR,—House Bill No. 1304 provides for an increase in the height of buildings in Boston from 125 feet, the present limit, to 155 feet. The adoption of this bill is vital to the consummation of the building program contemplated in Boston during the years 1923 and 1924. At the present time it is estimated by the Building Commissioner of Boston that plans are under consideration, many of which have already been filed, representing a total building program in excess of $135,000,000. Included among the projects are the Statler Hotel at an estimated cost of nine million dollars, and the new hotel at Hollis and Tremont streets at an estimated cost of seven million dollars, the Elks Building at Tremont street, opposite Hollis street, at an estimated value of two million dollars, complete, and numerous other projects.

The indications are that unless the present limit is changed many of these building projects will not be undertaken because of the knowledge that the additional height is necessary to insure a return upon the money invested. Boston has had but one addition to its hotel properties in a period of twenty years, and it is impossible to house guests constantly seeking accommodations at the present time. A building program such as is contemplated is essential not only to the future of the city but to the building trades workers who through these undertakings will secure employment.

This legislation is imperative for the reason that its adoption will result in the establishment of a definite law with reference to height of buildings and in addition provide an incentive for new construction and will render it impossible for any builder to take advantage of the present situation under which it is possible to construct a building to a height of 125 feet and with a proper set back after reaching 125 feet to extend the superstructure for a distance as great as 200 additional feet, thereby rearing a structure in any portion of Boston which would prove a menace in the event of fire to all surrounding property.

The present height of building law has not been amended since 1892 and it is absolutely essential that favorable action be taken upon the measure now pending.

Trusting that you will give favorable consideration to the claim of Boston and its people upon this proposed legislation, I beg to remain,

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

WATER BILLS AS LIEN.

Mayor Curley addressed the following telegram to the Mayors of Massachusetts cities upon the 20th instant:

House Bill one eighty-one provides that unpaid water bills shall constitute a lien on property. The adoption of this bill is a protection to the cities of Massachusetts estimated at one half million dollars annually. The bill has been adopted by the House and will be considered by the Senate tomorrow. A wire to your Senator that this legislation is necessary for the protection of your city will be most helpful.

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

TRANSFERS OF APPROPRIATIONS.

City Auditor Rupert S. Carven announces the following transfers of appropriations in the various departments of the City of Boston, indorsed by Budget Commissioner Charles J. Fox, and approved by his Honor the Mayor:

DISTRICT COURT OF CHELSEA.

CHELSEA, January 31, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—I respectfully ask for the transfer of $70 from B-35 to B-33 and 4 cents from B-35 to B-4. Also for the transfer of $8.78 from D-2 to D-1 in the budget of the District Court of Chelsea.

Yours truly,

JOSEPH M. CURLEY,
Clerk.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 31, 1923.

SUPREME JUDICIAL COURT.

BOSTON, January 31, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—Our appropriations for budget items B-12, B-13, B-35 and D-1 are exhausted and we need, to meet our bills, the sum of $9.75 for budget item B-12; $13.59 for budget item B-13; $738.17 for budget item B-35, and $213.63 for budget item D-1; a total of $975.14, and I respectfully request that this amount be transferred from budget item A-1 (the appropriation for Court Officers) to meet these different amounts, 5 at $1,956 per year.

Yours very truly,

JOHN F. CRONIN,
Clerk.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 31, 1923.

MUNICIPAL COURT OF THE CITY OF BOSTON.

BOSTON, January 31, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—I recommend that the following amounts be transferred from item, "Special Justices, 4, $8,000," on our salary sheet, to item on said salary sheet, "Civil Court, Clerical Assistants," the sum of $119.97; to item on said salary sheet, "Chief Probation Officer," the sum of $73.98; to item B-2, on our general budget sheet, the sum of $121.50; to item B-13, on our general budget sheet, the sum of $82.03; to item D-1, on our general budget sheet, the sum of $315.40.

Very truly yours,

WILFRED BOLSTER,
Chief Justice.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 31, 1923.

MUNICIPAL COURT, ROXBURY DISTRICT.

BOSTON, January 31, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—I would respectfully request that the sum of $100 be transferred from A-2, Probation Officer for Delinquent Children, pro tem., to A-2, Special Justices.

Yours truly,

MAURICE J. O'CONNELL,
Clerk.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 31, 1923.

MEDICAL EXAMINER, NORTHERN DISTRICT.

BOSTON, January 31, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

YOUR HONOR,—I respectfully request that the following sums be transferred within the appropriation for the Medical Examiner Service, Southern Division, for the reasons given below:

From B-35 to B-5, $21. Cartage of bodies to the mortuary. Outstanding January, 1923, bills make this transfer necessary.

From C-4 to C-12, $12.50. A necessary expenditure for scissors makes this transfer necessary.

Respectfully yours,

TIMOTHY LEARY,
Medical Examiner.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 31, 1923.

MUNICIPAL COURT, BRIGHTON DISTRICT.

BOSTON, January 31, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—Receiving information to the effect that the appropriation of this court, under heading B-4, Transportation of Prisoners, would be insufficient to take care of expenses, his Honor, Judge Thomas H. Connelly respectfully requests that $6 be transferred from the appropriation for this court, under heading B-13, Communication, to take care of the said deficit, the appropriation for B-13 being sufficient to stand this withdrawal, and it appearing that the said deficit has been caused by conditions which were overlooked, but were absolutely necessary.

Yours very truly,

DANIEL F. CUNNINGHAM,
Clerk.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 31, 1923.

ASSOCIATE MEDICAL EXAMINER, SOUTHERN DISTRICT.

BOSTON, January 31, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—In order to cover my expenses for the year may I ask for a transfer of $18 from B-4 to B-35, in the appropriation for the Associate Medical Examiner of Suffolk County, Southern District.

Respectfully yours,

W. H. WATTERS,
Associate Medical Examiner.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 31, 1923.

SUPERIOR COURT.

BOSTON, January 31, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—I request that transfers within the appropriation of "Superior Court, Civil Session, Clerk's Office," be made as hereinafter specified. Such transfers are necessary because of expenditures required to carry on the business of the courts.

From B-39 to B-1, $181.60; from B-39 to B-13, $15.83; from B-2 to B-13, $7.12; from B-2 to D-1, $86.10; from C-9 to D-1, $23.83; from A-1 to D-1, $62.70; from A-1, 4 clerks at $1,080-$1,180 per year to D-1, $73.19. (Item 1158-1258.)

Respectfully,

FRANCIS A. CAMPBELL,
Clerk.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 31, 1923.

MEDICAL EXAMINER, NORTHERN DIVISION.

BOSTON, January 31, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

From D-1 Land Court, $13.50, to A-2, Clerical Assistance, $13.50.

This transfer is requested to replace part of the $16.90 automatically used in August and October, and January, 1923, from Contingent D-1 and B-39, in the Mortuary Account, and to meet the expense of clerical assistance.

Total, $374.82.

Yours very truly,

GEORGE BURGESS MAGRATH, M. D.,
Medical Examiner for Suffolk County.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 31, 1923.

EAST BOSTON DISTRICT COURT.

EAST BOSTON, January 31, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—You are respectfully requested to authorize the immediate transfer of $10.30 to be applied to the following items from the unexpended balance under B-15: $9.90 to be added to the balance remaining under B-13; $0.40 to be added to the balance remaining under G-1.

The foregoing transfer is requested to meet bills and vouchers submitted in excess of the amount appropriated therefor.

Very truly yours,

JOHN S. C. NICHOLLS,
Clerk.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 31, 1923.

SUFFOLK COUNTY JAIL.

FIRE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

General Order No. 20.

I. SIGNS FOR HYDRANT LOCATIONS.

Metal signs are to be placed at the head of each driveway in the Kneeland street yard of the Boston & Albany Railroad to assist this department in locating hydrants. The signs will be marked as follows:

HYDRANTS IN THIS DRIVEWAY.

No. 1.....	in 100 feet.
No. 2.....	in 200 feet.
No. 3.....	in 300 feet.

II. TRANSFER.

David J. Lamie, fourth engineer, Engine Company 44, has been transferred to the Institutions Department, to take effect at 9 a. m., Friday, March 9, 1923.

III. PROMOTION.

The following promotion took effect at 9 a. m., Friday, March 9, 1923:

Fifth Engineer Bernard J. Mullen of Engine Company 44 to fourth engineer.

IV. RETIREMENT.

The following retirement, which took effect at 9 a. m., Friday, March 16, 1923, is hereby announced:

Ladderman James F. Boyle of Ladder Company 7. Ladderman Boyle was appointed to the Fire Department on July 2, 1897.

By order of the Fire Commissioner.

JOHN O. TABER,
Chief of Department.

General Order No. 21.

I. DISTRICT CHIEF JAMES J. CAINE.

The Fire Commissioner regrets to announce the death on March 16, 1923, of District Chief James J. Caine of District No. 6. District Chief Caine was appointed to this department January 13, 1893. His promotions were as follows: Lieutenant, November 8, 1898; captain, January 4, 1907; district chief, July 12, 1920.

The funeral will be held from his late residence, 15 Wilcox road, Dorchester, at 8.30 a. m., Tuesday, March 20, 1923, followed by services in St. Gregory's Church, Dorchester avenue, at 9 a. m.

The chief of department will detail thirty men, under command of Deputy Chief Walter M. McLean, to act as a funeral escort. The escort will report at the quarters of Engine Company 46, Peabody square, at 8 a. m. Uniform overcoats and white gloves will be worn by the escort.

II. NEW FIRE ALARM BOX.

A new fire alarm box will shortly be established at the following location:

By order of the Fire Commissioner.

JOHN O. TABER,
Chief of Department.

General Order No. 22.

COMPANY DRILLS.

1. The annual company drills at headquarters commenced September 1, 1922, and were completed November 13, 1922. While the main purpose of the drills is to acquire accuracy and standards in the execution of the duties of firemen, nevertheless the drills this year were marked not only in increased efficiency in these two characteristics, but in a general reduction in time of performance over that of previous years. The evolutions performed were as follows:

- (1) Connect two lines, 100 feet each, from engine to deluge set.
- (2) Connect two lines, 100 feet each, from engine to Morse gun.
- (3) Raise 50-foot ladder to fourth floor window and dog same.
- (4) Run 200 feet of 2½-inch line over 50-foot ladder, up stairway and show pipe out fifth floor window.
- (5) Raise 30-foot ladder to fire escape, carry 17-foot ladder over same to story above. Dog 30-foot ladder.
- (6) Run 250 feet of 2½-inch line over 30-foot ladder, over fire escape to roof, 75 feet from ground.
- (7) Take life line and haul 25-foot ladder to roof 75 feet from ground.
- (8) Take life line, haul 200 feet 2½-inch hose to roof.
- (9) Run 100 feet 2½-inch hose from engine, connect Morse gate and Bresnan nozzle.
- (10) Connect chuck to hydrant (flexible section), water to engine.

2. The following pages show the result of the drills in which all companies participated, except the three fireboat crews. These tables show the list of companies drilling, the time consumed in each evolution, and the time consumed by each company in completing all evolutions.

3. On the whole the drills were performed in a highly efficient and satisfactory manner, and the Fire Commissioner commends the officers and men for the interest and morale manifested in these drills.

By order of the Fire Commissioner.

JOHN O. TABER,
Chief of Department.

POLICE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

General Order No. 240.

The resignation of Patrolman Walter Donovan of Division 3 having been presented, it is hereby accepted, to take effect Monday, March 19, 1923, at 745 a. m.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 242.

Patrolman Thomas F. Devine of Division 19, having performed faithful service in the Police Department for twenty-two and four-twelfths years, having requested to be retired from active service, and it appearing to the Police Commissioner that the said Patrolman Devine is physically incapacitated for useful service in the Police Department, it is hereby Ordered, His Honor the Mayor having approved the same, that the said Patrolman Thomas F. Devine be retired from active service and that his name be placed upon the department pension roll with pay at the rate of nine hundred (900) dollars per annum, said sum being one half of the amount of compensation received by him in the office from which he is retired, to take effect Monday, March 19, 1923, at 5.45 o'clock p. m.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 243.

A trial board, consisting of Captains Gallivan, Walkins and Kneeland, having heard by reference a complaint against Patrolman Alphonse Blondin of Division 15, charging him with conduct unbecoming an officer, has reported to the commissioner a finding of guilty on said charge. In accordance with which it is hereby ordered that the said Patrolman Alphonse Blondin perform two hundred and ten hours' punishment duty, and that his suspension be lifted, to take effect as of March 19.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 244.

A trial board, consisting of Captains Gallivan, Walkins and Kneeland, having heard by reference a complaint against Patrolman Francis D. Butler of Division 6, charging him with neglect of duty, has reported to the commissioner a finding of guilty. In accordance with which it is hereby ordered that the said Patrolman Francis D.

Butler perform one hundred and forty hours' punishment duty.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 245.

A trial board, consisting of Captains Gallivan, Walkins and Kneeland, having heard by reference a complaint against Patrolman Adrian Ward of Division 6, charging him with neglect of duty, has reported to the commissioner a finding of guilty, with a recommendation that the complaint against him be placed on file.

After a careful review of the evidence submitted in this case, I am of the opinion that the violation of the rule of which Patrolman Ward is found guilty warrants some penalty other than "on file" as recommended by the trial board. I wish again to call to the attention of the members of the force the importance which I attach to an officer leaving his route and entering a building not in the performance of his duty. It is an easy matter, should it become necessary for an officer to leave his route, to telephone to the station for permission so to do, and future violations of this rule will be treated with severity. It is therefore ordered that Patrolman Adrian Ward perform seventy hours' punishment duty.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 246.

The resignation of Patrolman Charles L. Hurd of Division 20, having been received while charges are pending against him, it is hereby accepted, to take effect Thursday, March 22, 1923, at 5.45 o'clock p. m., seven days' notice waived.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 247.

The check books and cards relative to police listing were delivered to the various stations on March 22 and 23, 1923.

It is to be noted that the check books this year provide for the checking of the cards for four years rather than two years as has heretofore been the practice.

The usual procedure of comparing the check books and cards will be followed as is customary upon receipt of the same, and every effort should be made to prevent having any building left off.

The officers should be instructed that if by any chance they come to a building for which they have no "master card," a card should be written for such building, thereby insuring as far as possible the listing of all persons who are entitled to be listed.

As April 1 comes on Sunday this year it is to be understood that there shall be no listing on that day but that the work of listing shall start promptly after the 7.45 a. m. roll call on Monday, April 2, 1923.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

SAFETY UPON HARVARD BRIDGE.

Mayor Curley has addressed the following communication to John E. Carty, Division Engineer, Bridge and Ferry Division, Public Works Department, upon the 21st instant:

DEAR SIR,—The City Planning Board have arranged a public meeting to be held at the State House Auditorium upon Friday, March 23, at 3 p. m., to discuss the question of the erection of a bridge to replace the present Harvard Bridge between Boston and Cambridge at Massachusetts avenue.

The Public Works Commissioner informed me this day that, in the event of the Legislature failing to approve the construction of a new bridge, it is imperative in the interests of public safety that an appropriation be made for the construction of a temporary bridge to replace the present Harvard Bridge when authorization for the same has been approved by the Legislature.

I assume that the position taken by the Commissioner of Public Works of the City of Boston is predicated upon the belief that the present Harvard Bridge will not survive the year 1923, and in the interests of public safety I am desirous that your engineers make a complete and thorough examination as to the safety of the present structure, and submit such recommendations as in your opinion are essential to the protection of all persons using the bridge during the present year.

Sincerely yours,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Mayor Curley will close Harvard Bridge to public travel unless the Legislature takes the step this session that will mean rapid construction of a new bridge to meet urgent public necessity.

Declaring there is an urgent need, approaching an emergency, in replacing the Harvard Bridge with a new structure, the cities of Boston and Cambridge officially opposed a bill providing for an investigation of the matter by the Metropolitan District Commission, upon the 21st instant. Corporation counsel for these cities presented their arguments at a hearing of the House Committee on Ways and Means. They said that Mayor Curley and Mayor Quinn each wanted immediate action and were decidedly against any further investigation.

Hon. E. Mark Sullivan, Corporation Counsel, declared that more dangerous than the uneven surface of the present bridge is its weakened substructure. He compared the bridge to the one-horse chaise, and said that it might well be closed to traffic before long, as the factor of safety was becoming more and more important in all considerations of a new bridge, and that it had already become a predominating factor.

Peter J. Nelligan, city solicitor of Cambridge, said that his community is opposed to anything which means further delay in the construction of a new bridge.

APPEAL OF MAYOR FOR NAVY YARD.

Mayor Curley received the following letter from Commander E. J. Marquart, U. S. N., of the office of Assistant Secretary Roosevelt of the Navy, Washington, D. C., upon the 19th instant:

NAVY DEPARTMENT.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY'S OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, March 15, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—In reply to your long-distance telephone message relative to contemplated overhaul work at the Boston Navy Yard, any schedule of work planned necessarily can be only tentative. However, the Boston Navy Yard will be allotted its fair share of the limited funds appropriated by Congress and a proportionate amount of work will be assigned on different vessels which may be available.

Very truly yours,

E. J. MARQUART,
Commander, U. S. N.

By direction of the Assistant Secretary.

THE NATIONAL BANK TAX CASE.

Mayor Curley addressed the following telegram to each of the members of the Mayors Club of Massachusetts upon the 21st instant:

His Excellency the Governor has agreed to submit a message to the Legislature upon the national bank tax case. In the event of the legislation proposed by the City of Boston being adopted by the Massachusetts Legislature, the cities and towns of Massachusetts would be relieved from the burden of reimbursing the national banks to the extent of eight million dollars.

The proposed legislation being of vital importance to every city in the state, it is essential that you attend the luncheon of the Mayor's Club at Young's Hotel, Saturday, March 24, at 1 p. m. and have your city solicitor present also. Former Corporation Counsel John A. Sullivan of Boston, in charge of the national bank tax case during the past year at Washington, will present his report and submit for your approval and recommendation legislation necessary to safeguard the finances of each city in the Commonwealth.

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

THE LEASE OF THE ARMY BASE.

Mayor Curley addressed the following letter to Chairman Lasker of the United States Shipping Board upon the 22d instant:

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
March 22, 1923.

MR. A. D. LASKER, Chairman United States Shipping Board, 1705 Eighteenth Street, Washington, D. C.:

MY DEAR MR. LASKER,—In the event that the Shipping Board contemplates leasing the Army Base at South Boston to any private individual or corporation, the City of Boston desires an opportunity to submit a proposal before final action is taken.

The present arrangements, so far as the commercial interests of the city are concerned, are eminently satisfactory, but the prevailing opinion is that a transfer of custody of this important work to any agency other than the federal, state or municipal government would be injurious, and while the state is not disposed to look with favor upon the taking over and operation of the base, the city would not hesitate to assume this obligation provided the alternative was private operation.

Very truly yours,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

PROPOSALS FOR LAYING AND RELAYING WATER PIPES IN BRADEN STREET, CLEMENT AVENUE, TETTER STREET, MYRAUL ROAD, STEELMAN ROAD, WEST HOSKINS PARKWAY, WEST HOSKINS, DORCHESTER AVENUE EXTENSION AND RHODES STREET, DORCHESTER.

The Commissioner of Public Works of the City of Boston, office 508 City Hall Annex, invites proposals from citizens of the United States and corporations or other legal associations wherein the controlling interest to the extent of at least over one-half thereof is owned by a citizen or citizens of the United States for laying and relaying about 4,000 feet of 8-inch, 10-inch and 12-inch water pipe in Braden and other streets. A bond will be required for doing the work of a surety company approved by the Commissioner in the sum of fifteen hundred ($1,500) dollars, to secure the due performance of the contract and the full protection of the city. Plans and proposals may be obtained at Room 508, City Hall Annex. Each proposal should be inclosed in an envelope, sealed, marked "Proposals for Laying and Relaying Water Pipes, Braden Street, etc.," and left at Room 508, fifth floor, City Hall Annex, Boston, on Tuesday, March 27, 1923, with a certified check for three hundred ($300) dollars, payable to and to become the property of the city if the proposal after acceptance is not carried out. The proposals will then and there be publicly opened and read. Proposals must be made in duplicate, the model duplicate, without check, to be deposited by the bidder with the City Auditor previous to the time named for opening the proposals. If the price of any item appears to the Commissioner to be abnormally high or low, or the bidder neglects to bid on each and every item, it may lead to the rejection of the proposal containing such price. The undersigned reserves the right to reject any or all proposals or to award the contract as he deems best.

NEW BRIDGE, FORT POINT CHANNEL.

The following was received:

Office of the Mayor, March 12, 1923.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I am in receipt of the inclosed communication from the Commissioner of Public Works requesting a loan in the sum of $30,000 to provide for the preliminary work incident to the construction of a new bridge at Congress street, over the Fort Point channel.

The probability is that the ultimate cost of this necessary improvement, which is to replace the present Congress Street Bridge that has been in operation continuously since 1855, will be $500,000, and it is desirable that the preliminary work, such as the preparation of plans, making of borings, etc., be started at once.

I accordingly recommend the passage of the accompanying order by your honorable body.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,

Public Works Department,

March 10, 1923.

To the Honorable the Mayor:

I respectfully recommend that a loan of $30,000 be provided to cover the preliminary work incident to the early construction of a new bridge at Congress street over Fort Point channel. As this money is available the department will be in a position to commence surveys, make the necessary borings and prepare plans.

Yours respectfully,

J. A. ROUBEK, Commissioner of Public Works.

Ordered, That the sum of $30,000 be and the same is hereby appropriated, to be expended by the Commissioner of Public Works, for Congress Street Bridge, plans, etc., for rebuilding, and that to meet said expenditure, the City Treasurer be authorized to issue, from time to time, upon request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

TEMPORARY LOAN, ANTICIPATION OF TAXES.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, March 12, 1923.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I am in receipt of the inclosed request that I submit to your honorable body for adoption a resolution authorizing the City Treasurer to make a loan of $100,000 to provide for the necessary funds to meet the financial requirements in anticipation of taxes for the year 1923-24.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,

City Auditor's Office, March 12, 1923.

Hon. James M. Curley, Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—I am submitting herewith customary order for temporary loan in anticipation of taxes for the year 1923-24, and request same to be forwarded to the City Council, with recommendation for its adoption.

Respectfully yours,

RUPERT S. CARVEN, City Auditor.

Ordered, That to provide temporarily money to meet the appropriations for the financial year 1923-24, the City Treasurer issue and sell at such time and in such amounts as he may deem best, notes or certificates of indebtedness of the City of Boston not exceeding four hundred dollars in amount, in anticipation of the revenue of the current municipal year; that all such notes or certificates of indebtedness be dated the day the money for the same is received, be made payable with the interest thereon within one year of their date from the revenue of the year 1923, and bear interest from their date until the same are made payable at such rate as the City Auditor, the City Treasurer, and the Mayor may determine.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

HOURS OF OPENING POLLS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

To the Office of the Mayor, March 6, 1923.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—The Election Commission are desirous that a trial be given the proposed change in the hours of opening and closing the polls and selling that the same would be beneficial to the public and an improvement over the existing system, I respectfully recommend the passage of the accompanying order by your body.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Ordered, That for the special election to be held April 17, 1923, for a representative from the Twelfth District, the polls shall be opened at ten o'clock a. m. and closed at eight o'clock p. m.

Ordered, That so much of the election order passed by the City Council March 5, 1922, and approved by the Mayor March 6, 1923, as relates to the time of opening and closing the polls, be hereby rescinded.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

FIRE HOUSE, SAVIN HILL, DORCHESTER.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 6, 1923.

I beg to return herewith report of the Fire Commissioner in answer to order adopted by your Board under date of February 19.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Fire Department, March 1, 1923.
Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir:—In connection with the order passed by the City Council on February 19, 1923, as follows:

"Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor be requested to ask the Fire Commissioner to consider and report to the City Council as to the advisability of establishing a fire house in the Savin Hill section of Dorchester."

In accordance with your Honor's instructions I have thoroughly investigated this request and submit the following report:

The Savin Hill section of Dorchester includes the area bounded by Dorchester avenue, Dorchester Bay and Romney street. The most congested part of this section lies between Dorchester avenue and the tracks of the Old Colony Division of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, a strip of territory about one quarter of a mile wide and one mile long. The remainder of the section is in the form of a peninsula, and while well built, also comprises Savin Hill Playground and James E. McConnel Park. The district referred to is served by ten fire alarm boxes to which the following apparatus is assigned to respond on first alarm.

Engine 21, Columbia Road and Annabel street.

Engine 17, Meeting House Hill.

Engine 43, Andrew square.

Engine 7, Meeting House Hill.

Ladder 20, Andrew square.

This is the same amount of apparatus that is assigned to practically all boxes outside the city proper on the first alarm.

On reviewing the present situation we should not lose sight of the fact that the horse-drawn apparatus is now being replaced by motor apparatus, and one of the great benefits of motor apparatus is that it is capable of a greater radius of operation than ever could be considered for horse-drawn apparatus. In referring to motor apparatus I do so to draw attention to the fact that the Savin Hill section is receiving the same protection today that it did when the apparatus was drawn by horses, and this protection is augmented by the increased efficiency of motor-driven apparatus. There is only one piece of apparatus today in Dorchester which is drawn by horses, and this piece is not assigned to any of the Savin Hill boxes. By comparison with other sections of the city we believe that the Savin Hill section is well protected. To illustrate this I would draw attention to the following:

The main artery to the Savin Hill section is Savin Hill Avenue, which crosses the tracks of Engine 43, at Andrew square, has the longest run to respond to boxes on the first alarm, and this company, in an actual test made this week, under adverse conditions, made the distance from Andrew square to Dorchester and Savin Hill avenues in exactly four minutes. This test was made with no preparations, and it is safe to say that under normal conditions better time would be made. As stated above, Engine 43 is farther away from this corner than the other two engine companies which respond on a first alarm. Engine 21 and Engine 17 are each about half a mile away, and would arrive at the corner of a first alarm in this section much earlier than Engine 43.

In conclusion it should be borne in mind that the establishment of a fire station consideration must be given to the entire community rather than single sections. Apparatus is called upon to operate outside the immediate district in which it is located, and engine company in the Savin Hill section would be practically in a pocket, with a very limited operating radius, and with only one way of getting out when called to other sections. There are other instances where similar conditions exist in the city and it has been a problem for the Fire Department for many years to move these companies which are now "off center" to some of the main and more accessible arteries. The companies which respond to Savin Hill section on the first alarm are, in the opinion of the officials of this department and in which concur, in good locations, well distanced apart and easy of access. Engine 17 and Ladder 7 on Meeting House Hill are on the remodeling program. The quarters of these two companies are in very poor condition. When the money is provided to do this work, and the proposition is thoroughly gone into, it may be decided as a move in the right direction to change the location of this house to a main street or square in the vicinity of its present location. If this is done the quarters at Savin Hill section will be correspondingly improved.

In view of the foregoing facts and the study that has been made of the situation it does not appear to me or to the officials of this department that conditions warrant the establishment of a fire station in the Savin Hill section.

Yours very truly,
THEODORE A. GLYNN,
Fire Commissioner.

Placed on file.

REBUILDING OF DARTMOUTH STREET BRIDGE.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 12, 1923.

To the City Council:
Gentlemen,—I am in receipt of the inclosed communications in which the Commissioner of Public Works directs my attention to the necessity for rebuilding the Dartmouth Street Bridge over the tracks of the Boston & Albany Railroad, and in which the Corporation Council directs my attention to the necessity for the adoption of an order by your honorable body authorizing him to petition the Department of Public Utilities.

I accordingly recommend the passage of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Works Department,
February 28, 1923.

To the Honorable the Mayor:
In connection with the rebuilding of Dartmouth Street Bridge over the tracks of the Boston & Albany Railroad, it is required by law that the Public Utilities Department render a decision as to the necessity for such rebuilding, for which preliminary plans have been prepared in this department and can be submitted to the state department.

It is respectfully requested that your Honor ask the City Council to petition the State Department of Public Utilities for a decision in this matter.

Yours respectfully,
J. A. ROHRKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

City of Boston,
Law Department, March 9, 1923.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:
Honored Sir,—In compliance with your request in your letter of March 6, with reference to the draft of an order to be passed by the City Council, providing for the reconstruction of the Dartmouth Street Bridge over the tracks of the Boston & Albany Railroad Company, I herewith inclose an order which will be necessary for the City Council to pass, and when that is done I shall petition the Public Utilities Department. After they have acted there will be no reason why the city cannot proceed with the rebuilding and alterations proposed.

Yours respectfully,
E. MARK SULLIVAN,
Corporation Counsel.

Whereas, Dartmouth street, a public way in the City of Boston, crosses the tracks of the Boston & Albany Railroad by an overhead bridge;

Whereas, We are of the opinion that it is necessary, for the security and convenience of the public, that said bridge should be rebuilt and that alterations which do not involve the abolition of the crossing at grade should be made in said overhead bridge and its approaches;

Ordered, that the Corporation Counsel, in the name of the City of Boston, apply to the Department of Public Utilities for its decision upon the necessity of such alteration or alterations, describing the manner and limits within which they shall be made, and if the decision of the Department of Public Utilities is that an alteration or alteration is necessary, that the Corporation Counsel take such legal proceedings as are necessary to have such decision carried into effect in compliance with sections 59 to 62, both inclusive, chapter 129, General Laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

Coun. BRICKLEY in the chair.

REMOVAL OF SNOW AND ICE AROUND CATCH-BASINS.

Coun. HAGAN offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor be and he is hereby requested to instruct the Commissioner of Public Works, through his division superintendents, to start at once to remove snow and ice from around the catch-basins in anticipation of the inevitable thaw which will come.

Coun. HAGAN—Mr. Chairman, I have hesitated for some time before introducing an order of this sort, because I did not want to be misunderstood. To be sure, the removal of this kind at this time, or in fact at any time, savors somewhat of criticism of the administration of the Mayor and of his department heads. I do not care to plant myself in that position; I don't care to create any antagonism on the part of any of the members here. Neither do I care to focus publicity on them, if I can avoid it. But, if it does seem to me, Mr. Chairman, as if the hour had arrived when it has ceased to be a question of justice to the citizens who sent me here, who sent all of us here, something should be said and done, if not in criticism or fault-finding, for the purpose of trying to jack up city officials so that something will be accomplished. The streets of Boston are in a most deplorable condition. They have been that way almost ever since the last storm. The Mayor has called conferences in his office and it is very clear that even in his mind somebody fell down on the first snowstorm and that they have never been able to catch up. We have arrived at a condition where it has cost the merchants of Boston thousands of dollars because of street conditions. People are not able to get around. People hesitate to come in from out of town. Then, while the conditions have been deplorable from a business standpoint, that is nothing whatever in comparison with the conditions from the standpoint of health and comfort of the community. There is a tremendous amount of suffering, Mr. Chairman. Every hospital, private and public, is filled away beyond capacity. That condition has been brought about, very largely because of the condition of the streets, which promote ill-health, colds and other things that develop. In my own particular line of business it must be manifest that people suffer, because there has been an abnormal demand for foot protection, in the line of rubbers and overshoes and for about four weeks during the worst of the storm, there wasn't a pair of rubbers or overshoes available for love or money anywhere in the eastern part of the country.

Coun. WATSON—Then the rubber manufacturers fell down, too?

Coun. HAGAN—The rubber manufacturers have supplied their normal demand through the retail distributors, but this has been an abnormal demand of course, and I was confronted with that as a reason and as an excuse. I know that it has been an abnormal winter. There is no argument necessary to dispute that. But I have lived in this latitude for fifty years and I have seen winters come and go. I have lived through all those winter months running away from anything, and have seen some pretty hard conditions in that time. But nothing I have ever seen has compared with the condition of the streets of Boston today. I noticed conditions after the last storm, Mr. Chairman. I think the last flake of snow ceased at noon time, and at nine o'clock that night on Washington street, up by the Adams House, not a pound of snow had been removed. I was curious enough to take a taxi and go up to Boylston street and see what conditions were there, and I saw conditions also along the Common, and near the Hotel Somerset. The conditions there were the same. I don't think that is surprising or action. If men in the apartments are overworked, then let us employ extra help at such times. There are plenty of people who will be glad to get the work. I don't see, any of you, why we haven't the money to do it, because I notice that we have plenty of money to fritter away for luxuries and other things not anywhere near as useful or necessary as the cleaning of the streets of Boston. What I am trying to arrive at through this order is to see what I can do, to see if anything can be done to jock up the officials of the Public Works Department today, to see if something cannot be done toward cleaning our streets and our catch-basins, so that the serious conditions of flow of water that will be inevitable when the rain and thaw come. If something is not done, and done quickly, there is going to be a great deal of misery and suffering in the community. We should all rise to the emergency and try to do our duty by the people of this city. As far as conditions are concerned, in other years I have many times seen as bad weather conditions in the Dorchester district, where I have resided for years, as I have seen here, just as much as I have seen in my door as there is today, but this is the first year when I have noticed that the gutters have not been cleaned out for the better flow of water. I have seen boys and men in the Dorchester avenue cleaning catch-basin entrances. In the thaw of last week the catch-basins at both ends of my street were clogged up, so that there was no flow of water, and I have seen the same thing in other parts of the city. If you will go along Tremont street from Massachusetts avenue to Eliot street you will find that there is not a catch-basin open, and the snow is going to melt, and the water is going to run somewhere, and if there is no means of carrying it off as it runs from the sidewalk and the street, it is going to back up, and run into the places, and cause all sorts of trouble and sickness, and think all that can be avoided in very great measure if the City Council will call attention to conditions, and ask the Public Works Department to put their men at work to clean out around the catch-basins so that the water will be able to get into the flow. I think we can safely neglect some other things at the present time in order to do this, for the health and happiness of the people, and I think there is no more important work that the Public Works Department can do than to act in the matter, and that there is nothing more important for the City Council to do than to interest themselves in calling attention to conditions and trying to have them improved. Therefore, I ask a suspension of the rule and the passage of the order.

The rule was suspended and the order was passed.

RECESS TAKEN.

The Council voted at 3.22 p. m., on motion of Coun. WALSH, to take a recess subject to the call of the President.

The members of the Council reassembled in the chamber and were called to order by the President at 4.13 p. m.

Ordered, That the persons named in the foregoing schedule be and the same are hereby assessed the sums set against their respective names as their proportionate parts of the cost of constructing sidewalks on the above named street, from Henshaw street to Sparhawk street, and the same is ordered to be certified and notice given to the parties as aforesaid.

The order was passed.

MINORS' LICENSES.

Coun. HAGAN submitted reports on petitions for twenty-one minors and their vendors for licenses—recommending that the same be granted.

Reports accepted; licenses granted on the usual conditions.

LEGISLATION CONCERNING W. F. HARRIS.

Coun. WALSH offered the following:

Resolved, That the City Council hereby favors legislation concerning petition of Wilbur F. Harris for counsel fees expended by him while a member of the police force of the City of Boston.

Adopted under a suspension of the rule.

RECOMPENSE FOR WILLIAM J. COPPELL.

Coun. LANE offered the following:

Resolved, That the City Council of Boston hereby favors the enactment of legislation to enable the City of Boston to recompense William J. Coppell for injuries received while assisting a police officer in making an arrest on May 1919.

Adopted under a suspension of the rule.

LEGISLATION CONCERNING THOMAS HOWE.

Coun. GILBODY offered the following:

Resolved, That the City Council of Boston favors legislation concerning Thomas Howe, formerly employed in the Public Works Department of the City of Boston.

Adopted under a suspension of the rule.

CLAIM OF D. DOHERTY COMPANY.

Coun. GILBODY offered an order—That, under the provision of paragraph 127 of the Acts of 1923, the sum of $5,030.91 be allowed and paid to the D. Doherty Company in reimbursement of the losses sustained by said company in supplying coal for use in the schools in 1919 and 1920, on account of seizure of its coal by the federal government.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

MONEY FOR HOUSING SITUATION.

Coun. MORIARTY offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor be requested to petition the Legislature for authority to borrow five million dollars outside the debt limit to meet the present acute emergency in the housing situation.

Coun. HEALEY—Mr. President, may I suggest to the councilor that an order is before the Public Buildings Department and the Rent and Housing Commission with reference to housing conditions in Boston. Do you remember time? They may want to borrow fifty million, may want to borrow ten million, or perhaps it may develop that somebody of a philanthropic nature may be able to suggest some way in which the thing can be carried along on broader and more comprehensive lines than have yet been considered. I would now suggest, therefore, that pending the decision on the order at present being considered, this matter lie on the table, then, if less or more money is needed, the councilor can amend his order accordingly.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. President, I would be willing to allow the matter to lie on the table for a certain time, but not indefinitely pending a report from them, because I am not sure when there may be such a report and I am not sure what we would find, following what we have seen in the past, that the order would remain in the files forever. If the councilor wishes to name a specific date at which the matter will be taken up, within a reasonable time, I would be willing to assent. But my only object in wishing to have reasonably prompt action upon a matter of this importance is because there is too great delay the Legislature may be in such a mood that they will not even allow the bill to be introduced, and action will have to go over for another year. I shall be glad to consent to have action delayed for a reasonable length of time; but I think the best action to take under the circumstances is to have the order referred to the Executive Committee.

The order was referred to the Executive Committee.

PENSION FOR MRS. CAINE.

Coun. MORIARTY offered an order—That the sum of $500 per annum be paid to Mrs. Sarah S. Caine, widow of District Chief James J. Caine of the Boston Fire Department, who died in 1915, and who was killed in the performance of his duty, said sum to be paid to her as long as she remains a widow.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

OUT-PATIENT BUILDING, BOSTON SANATORIUM.

Coun. HAGAN called up unfinished business, No. 3, viz.:

3. Ordered, that the sum of $150,000 be and the same is hereby appropriated to be expended by the trustees of the Boston Sanatorium for the establishment of an out-patient building, and that to meet an appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized to issue, from time to time, upon request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

On March 5, 1923, the foregoing order was read once and passed, yeas 9.

The order was given its final reading and passed, yeas 9, nays 0.

POLICE STATION, HYDE PARK.

Coun. HAGAN called up unfinished business, No. 4, viz.:

4. Ordered, That the sum of $200,000 be and the same sum hereby is appropriated to be expended by the Superintendent of Public Buildings for the establishment of a police station, Hyde Park district, and that to meet an appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized to issue, from time to time, upon request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

On March 5, 1923, the foregoing order was read once and passed, yeas 9.

The order was given its final reading and passed, yeas 9, nays 0.

RECESS TAKEN.

The Council voted at 3:14 p. m., on motion of Coun. DONOGHUE, to recess subject to the call of the President.

The members reassembled in the chamber and were called to order by the President at four o'clock p. m.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE REPORTS.

Coun. WATSON, for the Executive Committee, submitted the following, viz.:

1. Reports on petitions (referred today) for permits for children under fifteen years of age to appear at various places of amusement—that permits be granted.

Jennie May Trainor, Jordan Hall, April 27.

Reports accepted; permits granted on the usual conditions.

2. Reports on communications from Street Commissioners concerning petitions for licenses to store and keep for sale gasoline—that the same be placed on file.

Frank J. McLaughlin (referred February 10), Main street, Ward 3.

P. D. Shanahan (referred February 26), Cambridge street, Ward 5.

Reports accepted; communications placed on file.

3. Report on order (referred today) to reimburse the D. Doherty Company for losses sustained in certain coal deliveries—that the order ought to pass.

Report accepted; order passed.

4. Report on communication from Central Labor Union received earlier in session and referred to the Executive Committee. In the communication and accompanying resolutions be placed on file.

The question came on the acceptance of the report.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. President and members of the Boston City Council, I want to say that in my fifty-five years of life in this Council this is the first time in that five years that a communication from the Boston Central Labor Union has ever been received by the Council, and I am glad to know that the intention that the same should not be made a part of the record. In order that it may become a part of the record, so that we may all know what resolutions were adopted at the meeting of the Boston Central Labor Union yesterday, and in order that it may appear as part of the minutes of the City Council and be printed in the City Record. I am going to read the resolution. It is on the stationery of the Boston Central Labor Union, and I understand that it was brought in by the secretary of the Boston Central Labor Union in person and placed in the hands of those in charge of such matters in the City Clerk's office, which I am glad to have in my hands this letter, on the stationery of the Boston Central Labor Union, and signed by the secretary of the Boston Central Labor Union.

"Boston, March 19, 1923.

"To the City Clerk:

"I transmit herewith a copy of resolutions adopted by the Boston Central Labor Union on March 18, 1923, which you are respectfully requested to submit to the City Council.

Yours sincerely,

P. H. JENNINGS, Secretary."

That communication, with the accompanying readings, was given to the City Clerk. The City Clerk, in turn, at the meeting of the Boston City Council, read the title of the communication, and the Chair referred it to the Executive Committee. It is the first time in my experience as a member of the Boston City Council that a communication coming from any body was not read in the Executive Committee by the Executive Committee to the members of the Boston City Council; and the members of the Boston City Council—and I say this advisedly—without knowing what was in it, what was intended to place them upon the files. I want to say that if every other member of the City Council was given an opportunity to vote on resolutions, I was not given that opportunity. So, in order to have it made a matter of record, I want to have read the communication, to be sure that it was properly read.

"Whereas, City Councilor John A. Donoghue has seen fit to make certain statements before the Boston City Council, under a question of personal privilege:

"Whereas, in his statement he refers to the Boston Central Labor Union as an autocratic body, as a body of political parasites, going beyond the scope of decency, and charges an attempt to dictate to the City Council; therefore, said City Council, said statements being printed in the City Record; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Boston Central Labor Union, in meeting assembled, reiterates the stand taken at its meeting on March 4, that Coun. John A. Donoghue, in his efforts to disrupt duly accredited labor organizations through a secession movement, deserves no support from the representatives of the people in the Boston City Council; and be it further resolved, That the Boston Central Labor Union condemns the statements of City Councilor Donoghue made at the meeting of the City Council on March 4, as entirely unwarranted, untrue, and unworthy of a man holding political office; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be transmitted to the recorder of the Boston Central Labor Union and a copy forwarded to the City Council of Boston.

"Passed Sunday, March 18.

BOSTON CENTRAL LABOR UNION,

by E. A. JOHNSON, President

P. H. JENNINGS, Secretary."

Mr. President, I think you do not cherish this job. I take the floor of the Boston City Council upon this communication with a lot of hesitancy. I would rather have seen the same sent on to the President of the City Council, the president of the Boston City Council. I would rather have seen an open fight where something other than that of a personal quarrel would be involved. But after the last meeting I changed my mind several times. I questioned whether I should have taken the floor, or whether I should let the matter go. But after the last week I thought I feel, after my association of long years with the Boston Central Labor Union, for twenty-two years, having for a long time in that body served in a representative ca-capacity and as a delegate, that I should say a word. My associations with the members of the Boston Central Labor Union have been friendly, individually. I have received many a kicking upon the floor of the Boston Central Labor Union, and I have had many stories upon the floor of the Boston Central Labor Union to abide by the will of the majority of the organization. I come here today in a difficult position. I am a member of the Boston City Council, because I am here in a dual capacity, as a member of the Boston City government and also a delegate to the Boston Central Labor Union, but I am here on March 5, printed in the proceedings of the City Council, Coun. Donoghue said:

"I have got as good a record as any member of this organization. I am a member of any other union, so far as my connection with labor problems and my dealings with the affairs of those whom they are supposed to represent is concerned. My record in this regard is as good as that of any one who has ever come from their midst. But, because of the fact that I saw fit to exercise my God-given right to decide as to what would be the best for the men I represent, I am to be criticised and castigated by these political parasites."

Of course, I will have to disagree with my brother member of the Boston City Council when he says that the Boston Central Labor Union and the members of the Boston Central Labor Union are not honest men, because there are just as many honest men and women delegates to the Boston Central Labor Union as in any gathering that ever assembled in the City of Boston. We have had men and we have had women who have been decorated by governors, by mayors, by the President of the United States, who have had important positions in the trust who have been delegates to the Boston Central Labor Union and who have been a credit to the laboring class in Boston, and I credit the members of the City Council of Boston cannot stand here in my dual capacity as a delegate to the Boston Central Labor Union and a member of the City Council, and say things that sort of go unnoticed, without my voice being raised. He again said:

"I spent eight years among them, and I know what they are capable of. I want to tell you that I pay practically as little attention to a communication from the Boston Central Labor Union when they attempt to interfere with the City Council as I do when they appear in our Boston City Council as I would to the vapors of any other person or group of individuals. I will simply dispose of that thing. I think that they have absolutely no right whatever to send to any member of this Council any communication asking the members of the City Council to interfere in any way whatsoever with the deliberations of this body."

Mr. President, I don't care what body. I do not care what group of individuals. I may agree to get together and send a communication in here, we should receive that communication with the same spirit and send them the same kind of a communication here. Of course, I don't know what would be done with the communication if it came from the Chamber of Commerce. In my five years here, now starting my sixth year, every communication that ever came here from the Chamber of Commerce or any other organization was received. Whether we were of one mind in regard to the matter or not, it became a matter of record. The Boston Central Labor Union is an organization of long standing.

Consequently, referring to an organization that has been during their entire existence, since 1875, can stand up and say that, in so far as their delegates are concerned, they are not the last organization as any other organization organized in this city. Coun. Donoghue said—well, I don't know that I want to quote Coun. Donoghue further. I want to quote about the fight of the telephone workers and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. But I do know this, that this is no place for a personal quarrel. I want to say that that pertains to the differences between organizations of labor. I do, however, in order to straighten out the matter in so far as the City Council is concerned, personally am concerned, to the best of my knowledge and ability, want to say just a word. Having been for many years connected personally and officially with the labor movement, I think I can say here without fear of contradiction that the organization that Coun. Donoghue represents, in the same manner as the same organization did not take every step inside the organization to straighten out the situation as the constitution of the Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. I do not know of it. Of course, every man and every woman joining a labor organization takes an oath in joining that organization that they will work for the good of the labor organization they will abide by the decisions and by the majority vote of their organization. That is what a man or a woman doing a labor organization does, and that is generally

Coun. HAGAN called up unfinished business No. 2, viz.:

2. John Leyden, to be an Inspector of Pressed or Bundled Hay and Straw; Ida Karas, to be a Weigher of Coal; Louis Beriman and Conrad Konig, to be Weighers of Goods.

The question came on confirmation. Committee—Walsh and Moriarty. Whole number of ballots cast 9, years 9, nays 0, and the appointments were confirmed.

GENERAL RECONSIDERATION.

Coun. BRICKLEY moved a general reconsideration on all business transacted at the meeting, hoping that the same would not prevail. Lost.

BALLOT FOR PRESIDENT.

Coun. LANE—Mr. President, I move that we proceed to a ballot for the election of a President.

Coun. WALSH—Mr. President, I move that we do now adjourn.

The motion to adjourn was declared carried.

Coun. LANE—Mr. President, I doubt the vote.

The motion to adjourn was carried, and the Council stood adjourned to meet on Monday, March 26, at two o'clock p. m.

POLICE DEPARTMENT STATISTICS.

Number of police force, December 1, 1921, was 1906 (338 more than in 1919 and 60 more than in 1920), viz., the Superintendent, Deputy Superintendent, 28 captains, 28 inspectors, 41 lieutenants, 135 sergeants, 1666 patrolmen and 6 patrolwomen, distributed in 19 divisions, and a traffic squad, the latter numbering 156. Total number of arrests in year ending November 30, 1921, 72,161 or 13,344 more than in 1920, but 7,394 less than the average for past five years; of those arrested, 5,137 were discharged and all others held for trial; foreign-born persons arrested, 26,297; boys, under 15 years of age, 1,698 or 27 less than in 1920; women and girls all ages, 5,020 or 735 more than in 1920; non-residents, 27.4 per cent of all arrested; drunkenness the cause of 42.9 per cent of all arrests, the total for this offence being 30,987 or 9,187 more than in 1920, but 23,613 less than the average for past five years. The arrests for homicide numbered 102 or 14 more than in 1920. Sick and injured persons assisted 6,159; insane persons taken in charge, 420; lost children restored to homes, 1,867; persons imprisoned, 2,950 or 998 more than in 1920; persons fined, 16,703, the fines amounting to $193,902; stolen property recovered, $1,627,331 or $224,450 more than in 1920; licenses granted, 23,056 (including 8,904 for dogs and 8,488 for vehicles and drivers), for which $62,795 was received. Of 3,190 applications for license to carry loaded revolvers, 2,843 were granted and 347 rejected. Accidents from all causes in the streets, parks and squares caused death of 130 persons and injury to 3,535, or 11 less killed and 107 less injured than in 1920. Automobile accidents caused 52.3 per cent of total fatalities or 5 per cent more than in 1920.

Annual salaries: Commissioner, $8,000; Superintendent, $7,000; Deputy Superintendent, $4,000; Chief Inspector, $3,800; captains, $3,500; inspectors and lieutenants, $2,500; sergeants, $2,300; patrolmen, $1,400 the last year, with $100 yearly increase until maximum of $1,800 is reached.

In the year ending November 30, 1921, the Police Department made 2,015 prosecutions in the State court and 184 in the United States court for violation of the liquor law, 1,557 applying to foreign-born persons.

The arrests for drunkenness in the single month of July increased from 669 in 1919 (the first month of prohibition) to 1,914 in 1920 and 2,700 in 1921, the latter number being over 50 per cent of the usual number for July before prohibition was in effect.

PUBLIC RECREATION IN BOSTON.

Number of large parks, 24; separate playgrounds, 44, with total of 324.5 acres, also 13 playgrounds in parks, with area of 155 acres; small parks and squares, 72.8; total area, 24,686.79 acres. Cost of Main Park System, i. e., 1,386 acres (including Common and Public Garden, 72.65 acres) land and construction (since 1877 when begun), $12,204,876; of Marine Park System, i. e., 457.9 acres (since 1883), $4,601,045; of all other parks and public grounds, $2,537,898; of separate playgrounds, $4,458,331. Total cost, $23,802,150, of which $9,789,096 is for land alone.

The leading attraction of the Main Park System is Franklin Park (named for Benjamin Franklin), acquired in 1883-84, and containing 527 acres, about 80 of which are occupied by the Zoological Garden, 15 miles of walks, 8 miles of driveways, etc., the entire cost up to 1921 being $4,496,801. There are also within the City limits 964 acres of Metropolitan parks and parkways under State control, chief of which is Stony Brook Reservation in West Roxbury, containing 464 acres of wild forested hill and dale with many rocky knolls and an extensive view of the Charles River valley and beyond.

Number of public indoor baths open all the year, 14; 9 beach baths and 7 floating baths open during summer; indoor gymnasiums, 11; total number of indoor baths taken in year 1921, 1,527,171, of which 74.3 per cent were by men and boys.

Park Department maintenance for 1921-22 (including Cemetery Division), $1,366,048 or $63,260 less than in 1920. Outlay for playground improvements, $72,883; for park improvements, $394,748, of which $254,575 was from Park-man Fund income. Gross debt for parks, public grounds, etc., outstanding February 1, 1922, $9,681,050; for playgrounds, $2,224,300; total, $11,905,350 or $794,250 less than in 1921. By Chapter 13, Ord. 1920, the Cemetery Department was merged with the Park Dept., the latter title being substituted for Park and Recreation Department.

Including the State assessments of $948,310 for Metropolitan parks, boulevards, etc., and $238,073 for Charles River Basin improvements, the total expended for public recreation purposes in 1921 was $2,903,689 or $82,752 more in 1920.

Total valuation of City properties devoted to recreation $69,306,900 (including $55,112,400 for Boston Common and Public Garden), which far exceeds that of any other American city except New York.

BANK STATISTICS FOR THE PAST YEAR.

Bank clearings or exchanges in calendar year, 1921, $14,327,564,663, a decrease from 1920 of $4,849,414,033, or 23.86 per cent and from 1919 of 19.97 per cent. Total clearings for first six months of 1922, $7,812,000,000 (approx.) or 10.62 per cent more than in 1921. On March 10, 1922, the 17 national banks showed aggregate capital of $37,350,000; surplus and undivided profits, $54,763,573; deposits, $429,018,471; loans and discounts, $371,953,689. On same date, the 22 trust companies showed aggregate capital of $24,250,000; surplus, undivided profits and guaranty fund, $34,397,272; deposits, $304,153,127; loans and discounts, $276,733,766; 17 trust companies each have a savings department with total deposits of $56,999,890. Total resources of the national banks, $568,951,951 or $7,936,565 less than in February, 1921; of the trust companies (both commercial and savings), $455,292,851; grand total of the 39 banks, $1,024,244,802. Savings banks, 24, with $373,058,036 deposits (as of October 31, 1921); co-operative banks, 44, with total assets of $46,088,281 (as of October 31).

Among the twelve Federal Reserve banks that of Boston on August 9, 1922, ranked fifth in these respects, viz., total resources (i. e., $362,447,000), capital paid in, surplus, total reserves and total deposits; sixth as to total earning assets and total discounts (bills on hand). Total gold reserves of all F. R. banks, $3,071,643,000.

On June 30, 1921, the number of national banks in United States had increased to 8,178, with aggregate capital of $1,276,720,500, circulation of $743,290,300 and total resources of $200,000,000,000 (approx.).

The Boston Clearing House, established in 1856, ranks fourth in total clearings. The highest record for clearings in United States was in 1920, viz., $451,103,066,529, an increase of 8 per cent over same in 1919 and of 14.95 per cent over 1915 total. In year ending September 30, 1921, the total fell to $375,130,397,000. Combined resources of all banks in United States (about 30,100) on June 30, 1920, including Federal Reserve, National, State and private banks, $53,079,100,000. In 1920 the United States Sub-treasury system, established in 1846, was discontinued, the Federal Reserve banks taking over its currency functions.

UNITED STATES FOREIGN TRADE, 1915-1921, AND PER CENTS BY PORT GROUPS IN 1920.

Total value for fiscal years ending June 30, all ports, 1915, $4,442,759,085; 1916, $6,531,366,390; 1917, $8,949,043,579; 1918, $7,865,366,774; 1919, $10,328,002,754; 1920, $13,347,240,777, the maximum, then decreasing in 1921 to $10,170,764,776. In the record year (1920) the 12 Atlantic ports' total trade was 66.62 per cent of all 38 ports (New York alone having over seven-tenths of this total); 5 Gulf ports, 13.16 per cent; 11 Northern Border, 11.95 per cent; 7 Pacific, 7.53 per cent; 3 Mexican Border, 0.74 per cent.

In 1921 the exports amounted to 64.07 per cent of total trade; in 1920 to 60.75 per cent; in 1919 to 70.02 per cent. About 2 per cent of the exports are shipments from foreign countries through United States ports.

Exports per capita increased from $17.75 in 1900 to $18.26 in 1910; to $41.30 in 1916; to $75.20 in 1920. In 1915 about 54 per cent of all domestic exports were agricultural; in 1917 the per cent was 31 and in 1919 nearly 51. In 1890 the per cent of agricultural was 75.

THE COMMERCE OF GLOUCESTER.

ADDRESS OF HIS HONOR JAMES M. CURLEY, MAYOR OF BOSTON, BEFORE THE MEMBERS OF THE GLOUCESTER CHAMBER OF COMMERCE, GLOUCESTER, MASSACHUSETTS, MARCH 29, 1923.

The city of Gloucester is a child of the sea; ever since its first stones were laid the men of Gloucester have gone down to the sea in ships; and all that Gloucester had, has or hopes to have came out of the seas that lie at its doors. To speak of Gloucester is to visualize the sea, and the name of Gloucester is synonymous with the courage and hardihood that have toiled and trawled, fished and fought in storm and calm upon the waters of the deep.

Here in other and heroic days were raised the men and built the ships that kept the seas and did their share in the work that made America free and independent, and here in these days, when the maritime glories of former years are apparently being ignored and forgotten, the mystery and mastery of the sea can still appeal to Gloucester and stir men to work for the return of the halcyon days.

The work of Gloucester and her people is a fine combination of the poetic and practical, the serious and the sentimental; this city by the sea is still a nursery of navies; and, consciously or unconsciously, Gloucester's instincts and intuitions teach her what America is forgetting—that no country is truly free and genuinely independent that does not control its own seas, own its own maritime fleets and carry its own trade to all the lands and latitudes of the world.

The courage, enterprise, fortitude, seamanship and pride of achievement that are yours are a part of the heritage of Massachusetts; and today the Commonwealth calls to you to unite with other Commonwealths, as she is uniting with other Commonwealths, to restore the maritime glory of other days and make and maintain its supremacy against all comers and conditions.

Gloucester dreams but it works; and as a practical people it never forgets that work is the basis of all civilization, all prosperity, all opportunity for home and happiness.

America is a hive of industry, and whether the products of that industry come from the farm, the forest, the factory or the fishery they must be marketed and sold that the producer, the worker may get his reward. Today in America we are producing the annual requirements of our domestic market in seven months; and the product of the other five months must be sold in foreign markets, if the worker is to have work and wages twelve months in the year. If we do not reach these foreign markets, and cannot sell our surplus, then production ceases, idleness begins and the greatest menace to the peace and security of a free democracy, unemployment, is with us.

A foreign market for our surplus is a necessity; it can be sought and secured only by a merchant marine; it can only be made permanent and profitable when those surpluses are carried to market in an American merchant marine. It is said trade follows the flag; what is more significantly true is that the carrier controls the market for the cargo; and that cargo is only certain of its market and more confident of its merchant when it is carried under your own flag. American commerce must be carried in American bottoms under the American flag, and until that commercial ideal is realized American industry will never be safe, and the American worker will never be sure of constant work and wage, upon which his home and happiness are founded.

Foreign merchant marines are able to maintain the seas because they are heavily subsidized by their governments; because their conditions of ship work and wage are cheaper than ours; and because of these facts they are able to put unprotected American ships out of business. To meet this foreign competition, which eats into the very vitals of American industry, commerce and national safety, our American merchant shipping must be protected by our government and the only way to protect it is to put it on an economic equality with the foreigner by subsidies that will enable our ships to carry cargoes and compete with every other ship on the high seas.

We protect our industries and interests by tariffs; we give subsidies to the farmer and forester; we dam rivers and build reservoirs to reclaim waste lands; we give aid to the improvement of rivers and harbors; and every national interest is protected—except the really vital and strategic interest—our merchant marine.

You ask why? Because the foreign shipping interests have money enough to maintain a rich and audacious lobby in Washington, rich enough and clever enough to buy law and lawmakers to destroy their rivals, the American merchant marine. Isn't it time we woke up and organized to drive out and destroy this foreign lobby; to put it out of business; and with it the traitors who betray American interests to foster foreign interests.

This is one of the jobs Gloucester must help to do.

What would Gloucester think of Gloucester's representatives if it found them selling their services to aliens who were organized to drive your fishing fleets from the sea and destroy your fishing industry? I know what Gloucester would do; and what you would do here in Gloucester we must all unite to do in Washington—expose and expel the enemies of American shipping.

Again Massachusetts must unite with others to see that Washington and its bureaus shall not be permitted to destroy the trade and commerce of the Commonwealth by railroad rate discriminations that divert the trade between the West and the overseas markets from Boston and compel it by such favoritism to seek other ports.

The unquestionable superiority of Boston and its maritime facilities over other Atlantic ports is understood by all who give the question any thought; its harbor is equaled by none on the coast; it is served by three railroads; it is a day nearer to Europe, and its docks and piers are unsurpassed and only a few hours from the open sea. Yet by the ukase of the Interstate Commerce Commission all these natural and acquired advantages are rendered useless; and by the imposition of rates that are manifestly unfair and discriminatory Boston's trade is diverted, her prosperity injured and the whole fabric of Massachusetts industry and commerce imperiled.

The Interstate Commerce Commission is not intended to treat Boston with ordinary justice; her claims are ignored and rejected; and it has become plain that, if Boston is to receive ordinary justice, it must not be looked for in the hearings of the Interstate Commerce Commission, but on the floor of Congress. The life and death of the industry and commerce of Massachusetts and New England are not questions of politics and parties; in the consideration of measures affecting them there must be neither Republicans nor Democrats in Congress representing us; there must be Massachusetts men and New England men only; and it is up to us to get that fact written broad and deep on the minds and souls of them we send to Washington.

This is the message I bring to Gloucester, an appeal to a city of seamen, fishermen, Americans, a city full of the best and most glorious traditions in our history, to gird up your loins and work for the preservation of our homes and prosperity, by keeping the American flag flying on the seven seas as your fathers did, to the end that the trade and commerce of Massachusetts may live and thrive and her workers be enabled to live and work in constancy and contentment.

The upbuilding and preservation of Christianity was in the beginning committed to the guardianship of a fisherman; the care and preservation of the noblest political structure raised by men for men, and dedicated to democracy and good government, I am confident can appeal to all that is best in this American city of American fishermen.

New England and its neighbors are not idle; we are working and we want every unit and every energy in the campaign for the safety and security of our interests.

The grain trade that false friends and foolish advisers have been allowing to slip away from us must come back to us over routes and by means that are practical and plain. We must not be fooled by canal projects that will serve alien interests and injure ours; projects we are told that will give Boston trade by carrying it by our doors.

Already plans are at work for the erection of large grain elevators at Troy, New York, the terminus of the Erie Canal, through which much of the grain trade of the great West is carried. Troy is equidistant from Boston and New York, and elevators there will mean a rebirth of Boston's grain trade and a permanency of shipping service for overseas trade out of the ancient gateway of New England—Boston.

There are other plans, other projects, other movements for the benefit of this old Commonwealth; but whether they are for the preservation and prosperity of our American merchant marine, the elimination of discriminatory railroad rate policies, the securing of equitable treatment for New England's interests, and the development of industry and the expansion of commerce in this Commonwealth, they are all dependent for their success upon one factor—the unity of aim and action, push and purpose of every interest, every association, every city and town in Massachusetts and New England.

I have no doubt where Gloucester stands and will stand in a campaign for the restoration of our commerce on the ocean, under the American flag; for the revival and maintenance of our industrial and commercial activities; and for a broader, nobler and more vigorous growth of American nationalism, which without in any way forgetting its relations and duties to the world at large, has come to realize that when it is well with this old Commonwealth and this great republic, it is well with all earth. Only in a strong, wholesome, self-respecting and self-asserting Americanism, can this republic and its people work out their destiny; and only in proportion as we are strongly and sanely American in aim and purpose can we hope to achieve the aims of the fathers and founders of the United States, freedom and independence in all the departments of our national life.

LAND-TAKING IN BRIGHTON.

The Mayor has approved the order of the Board of Street Commissioners for an additional taking of land on the southeasterly side of Tremont street, lying next to land of the City of Boston, on the southwesterly side thereof, containing approximately twenty-two hundred and fifty square feet, Brighton, for school purposes.

The property is bounded as follows:

A parcel of land, supposed to belong to Laura T. Carey, bounded:

Northwesterly by Tremont street, twenty-seven and 31-100 feet; northeasterly by land of the City of Boston taken for school purposes under an order dated November 29, 1922, eighty-two and 54-100 feet; southeasterly by land supposed to belong to John and Ellen Murphy twenty-seven and 50-100 feet; and southwesterly by other land of said Laura T. Carey eighty-one and 99-100 feet; containing two thousand two hundred fifty-eight square feet, more or less.

The Board determines that the undermentioned person sustains damages by the taking of her estate on Tremont street, Brighton, for school purposes, in the amount hereinafter mentioned, and awards said damages therefor:

	Amount.
Laura T. Carey, 2,258 square feet.....	$1,354 80

FIRE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

General Order No. 23.

I. BASEBALL TEAM.

The formation of a Boston Fire Department baseball team is now being contemplated. This project is assured of the support and encouragement of the Fire Commissioner. If such a team is organized he would like to have it represent the best in the department, as well as one that can go about the state, meeting teams of similar character, and give a good account of itself in accordance with the traditions of the Boston Fire Department. It is the desire of the Fire Commissioner that all officers and men of the department give this matter careful consideration. All men who have played ball, or feel that they are qualified to play ball, are requested to submit their names to Hoseman Henry J. Welz, Engine Company 33. Competent, experienced and disinterested men will select from the candidates those whom they think are best fitted to represent the Boston Fire Department. An early response to this request will greatly facilitate matters.

II. FORM NO. 26.

A new form, known as Form No. 26, is to be distributed throughout the department and is to be used by district chiefs when reporting on the location of outdoor advertising signs in so far as they affect the operation of the Fire Department.

III. LAUNDRY.

A new contract for doing the laundry work of the Fire Department has been made with the United Laundries Company, 58 East Newton street, Boston, to take effect on and after April 1, 1923.

IV. CHANGE OF LOCATION OF FIRE ALARM BOX.

Fire Alarm Box No. 7161, formerly located on West First street, between E and F streets, has been relocated at West First and E streets.

V. FIRE COLLEGE.

The course at the Fire College which commenced on February 21, 1923, concluded on March 14, 1923. Following is the result of the examination held at the conclusion of the course:

Highest Honor.—Henry C. Sybertz, Ladder 17; Robert J. Ritchie, Engine 19; Edward J. Mulvey, Engine 29.

With High Honor.—James J. Eagan, Ladder 2; Charles L. McDevitt, Ladder 14; Carl A. E. Carlson, Engine 44; George A. Jones, Engine 16; Chester J. Melanson, Engine 34; Henry T. Brennan, Bureau of Supplies and Repairs; William E. Kelley, Engine 2; John F. O'Brien, Ladder 18; Frank B. Dunbar, Ladder 21.

With Honor.—James E. Goode, Ladder 29; Peter A. Reilly, Ladder 23; James J. Grady, Engine 42; Michael J. Murphy, Ladder 30; William J. Johnson, Engine 38-39; Joseph F. Joaquin, Engine 43; James E. Tracy, Ladder 7; Patrick T. Foley, Ladder 20; William J. Donnelly, Ladder 6.

Passed.—John J. O'Brien, Engine 5.

By order of the Fire Commissioner.

JOHN O. TABER,
Chief of Department.

THE NATIONAL BANK TAXATION.

Upon the initiative of Mayor Curley, the mayors of Massachusetts cities have joined in an appeal to his Excellency Channing H. Cox, Governor of Massachusetts, for a sound and equitable system of taxing the shares of national banks.

The communication of the mayors, addressed Governor Cox from their regular monthly meeting at Young's Hotel, Boston, upon the 24th instant, was as follows:

Boston, March 24, 1923.

HON. CHANNING H. COX,
Governor of Massachusetts:

YOUR EXCELLENCY.—The situation of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and its cities and towns with respect to the taxation of shares of national banks requires that legislative action be taken to establish a sound and equitable system for taxing such shares in the future and to provide the best possible means of validating in full the assessment and collection of the taxes on such shares for the years 1917-22, inclusive.

Your Excellency is doubtless familiar with the history of the litigation which was started by the national banks after the passage of the income tax law in 1916 but it will not be amiss to review some of the leading features of the controversy in order that the present situation may be fully appreciated.

The Legislature of 1916, by chapter 293, passed the income tax law, partly to provide more public revenue but principally to end a system which had become intolerable because of the evasion of taxes through concealment, fraud and perjury which resulted from the operation of the system. After the passage of the act the national banks remained under the same taxing system which had been in operation for fifty-one years before and under which these banks grew rich and prosperous. The trust companies of the state were taxed on substantially the same basis as the national banks. Individuals, however, were taxed on the income received from interest and dividends at the rate of 6 per cent, which is a lower rate than that applied to the cash value of the shares of national banks. One of these banks brought suit in 1918 to recover the taxes paid on its shares to the City of Boston for the year 1917 and since that time numerous suits have been brought to recover taxes paid by national banks. One suit has been brought directly against the Commonwealth and many suits have been brought against various cities and towns therein. The national banks did not complain that they were discriminated against in favor of the trust companies and incorporated banks. They did claim, however, that the taxes were invalid because houses like Kidder, Peabody & Co., Lee, Higginson & Co., R. L. Day & Co., Hornblower & Weeks, Richardson, Hill & Co. and others who were in the stock and bond business, were competitors in the banking business; and also that the ordinary citizens who made personal investments in taxable bonds were competitors in the loan market, and that these two classes of competitors were taxed under the income tax law at a lower rate than were the national banks. They claim that the competition was substantial in amount and that consequently the taxes assessed upon them were void under section 5219 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, which limits taxation of such shares to a rate not greater than that imposed upon other moneyed capital in the hands of individual citizens of the state. The Commonwealth and the cities and towns against whom suits have been brought have denied that there was any actual competition with the national banks by private bankers or citizens who had made personal investments in bonds, notes and other evidences of indebtedness, but that if competition within the legal meaning of that term did exist, it was not so substantial in amount as to discriminate against the national banks and render the taxes void. The first of these cases was brought against the City of Boston and was defended by counsel for the city and for the Commonwealth. The case has been heard by a commissioner appointed by the Superior Court and is still pending. Other suits have been brought from year to year since then and all these other suits are still pending. Because of the claim of illegality in the existing mode of taxing the shares of national banks, it has become imperatively necessary to secure legislation providing a system for future taxation that cannot successfully be challenged by the banks, and also to provide by legislative act for the validation of the taxes already assessed, so that the Commonwealth and its cities and towns that have received their respective shares of these taxes and have spent the money received for the support and maintenance of government, shall not be obliged in the event of an adverse decision by the courts to raise large sums of money by loan, in order to return past taxes to the national banks.

A means of relief is afforded by the recent act of Congress, approved March 4, 1923, amending section 5219 of the United States Revised Statutes. Under this act it is possible for the Legislature to provide that in future taxes shall be laid on the shares of national banks at the local property rates, provided that the same rates are applied to the capital employed by individuals and partnerships engaged in the business familiarly known as private banking. As the complaint of the banks is founded principally upon the alleged discrimination in favor of private banking interests, it seems only fair to the national banks and to the private bankers that they be taxed on the same basis if they are actually engaged in competition in the same business.

Unless such provision is made for taxing national banks in the future, they may be enabled to escape all taxation for an indefinite period, or at least to reduce their taxation to the income tax basis, thereby discarding a burden of taxation which would have to be assumed immediately by the general taxpayers in the state. That the latter class are already taxed to the limit of their capacity is only too evident and it would be unwise, if not unjust state policy to redistribute the burdens at the expense of the general taxpayers who are least able to bear them.

It is equally important to secure legislation that will enable the Commonwealth and its cities and towns to retain the taxes paid in the years 1917 to 1922, inclusive, by the national banks. These taxes were assessed according to a system which existed for over fifty years, a system which had not been challenged by the banks prior to 1917, except in a single instance in which the bank's contention was held by the courts to be unsound.

The taxes paid by the national banks since the passage of the income tax law in 1916 were well within their ability to pay. They were paid after the stockholders had received good dividends and large sums had been carried to the account of surplus and undivided profits. The capital of the national banks has been considerably increased since 1916. The capital of the largest was increased from $5,000,000 to $15,000,000. Meanwhile there has been no apparent difficulty in placing new bank stock on the market. No injustice would be done to the banks if they did not receive a single dollar of the taxes so paid.

While the means adopted to secure full validation may possibly be challenged, that should not defer the Commonwealth from proceeding in a manner which would secure justice to the taxpayers as a whole. If it is suggested that this is in the nature of an experiment and that partial validation would be a sufficient course, the answer is that partial validation would enable us to keep about 20 per cent of the taxes, whereas full validation would enable us to keep 100 per cent. Moreover, if the full validation plan should fail, resort can be had to Congress for a measure which will enable the Commonwealth to secure full validation without possibility of a doubt. Therefore it seems the part both of courage and of common sense to attempt to secure full validation. The attempt to secure complete validation should be made through an act of the Legislature providing for taxing retroactively the capital of individuals and partnerships, to the extent that it was actually employed in the banking business in competition with the national banks. Provision should be made in such an act for allowances on account of income taxes previously paid on such business. As a result of this process the national banks and their competitors will have paid taxes for the period in question at the local property rate and the alleged discrimination will have been thereby removed. It will be said that, even then, one ground of discrimination remains, namely, that individuals who have made personal investments in bonds, notes and other evidences of indebtedness have been taxed on their income only and that this will be sufficient to render the bank tax void. It remains to be seen, however, whether the Supreme Court of the United States will declare a state system of taxation illegal, because discriminatory, if the only ground of discrimination alleged is that individuals had made personal investments in securities, although they were not trading or dealing in such securities as a business.

If the banks should prevail in the pending litigation and the remedial acts hereinbefore recommended should not be enacted, the situation which would then confront the Commonwealth and its cities and towns would be appalling. It is not assumed, much less conceded, that any of the banks will prevail. In fact it seems certain that a portion of the suits will inevitably fail. Nevertheless, the possibilities must be considered. In this connection it is important that the amount of taxes paid and the amounts retained by the Commonwealth and its cities and towns, respectively, should be stated. And further, it is safe to say that if a part of the tax money must be returned to the banks by any city or town, the Commonwealth would not allow the entire burden to fall upon the city or town which collected the taxes, but would require contribution from the other cities and towns and the Commonwealth to which portions of the taxes collected were distributed. With this in mind the following table is presented showing the actual amount of the taxes retained by the Commonwealth and the cities and towns.

AMOUNTS OF NATIONAL BANK SHARE TAX RETAINED.

YEAR.	Commonwealth.	City of Boston.	Other Cities and Towns.	Total Received.
1917.....	$529,033 73	$293,181 82	$835,410 36	$1,657,625 91
1918.....	650,117 54	388,229 03	991,024 13	2,029,370 70
1919.....	758,683 75	464,032 04	1,116,844 88	2,339,560 67
1920.....	929,870 28	503,462 33	1,320,271 49	2,843,604 10
1921.....	917,347 04	485,715 84	1,313,291 58	2,716,354 46
1922.....	943,971 31	472,181 13	1,363,052 18	2,784,204 62
Totals.....	$4,734,023 65	$2,696,802 19	$6,939,894 62	$14,370,720 46

It should be noted that the table showing the amounts retained by the Commonwealth should, in strictness, be reduced by the sum of $690,829.79, which was turned over to savings banks, insurance companies, literary, scientific and charitable societies, as representing the tax on shares of national banks owned and held by such institutions. This would leave $4,043,193.86 as the Commonwealth's share. This is about one third more than the City of Boston retained ($2,696,802.19), but would be over four sevenths of the amount retained by the other cities and towns.

Some cities and town in which banks are located, but against which no suits have been brought, may seem at first glance not to be affected by suits brought against other cities and towns, but this is not the fact. The taxes received by them on account of residents owning shares in outside banks may have to be returned as a result of suits brought against the outside banks. The amounts returned in that event may be considerably more than the amounts retained out of taxes on their own banks. This is evident from the following, which is only a partial list of the towns affected in this manner:

PERIOD 1917-21, INCLUSIVE.

TOWN.	Amount Retained Out of Taxes on Banks in Town.	Amount Received from Taxes on Shares in Banks Outside the Town.
Beverly.....	$23,619 54	$165,548 61
Cambridge.....	10,212 27	110,538 47

Wellesley.....	5,981 87	41,847 86
	$57,294 52	$966,114 93

It is of course apparent that towns having no national bank, but receiving portions of the tax on shares in outside banks, would also be affected by suits against other cities and towns. A partial list is shown in the following table which excludes the towns which have received less than $10,000 in the period.

That the receipts of bank taxes have been of widespread benefit and that the return of the same would cause widespread hardship, appears from the fact that out of 355 cities and towns in the Commonwealth only twenty-two appear to have received no portion of bank tax money in any of the years 1917-21, inclusive. These towns are:

Auburn.	Peru.
Clarkburg.	Rutland.
Florida.	Sandisfield.

Knowing that your Excellency appreciates the gravity of the situation and will give the subject the consideration which its great public importance deserves, this statement is respectfully submitted.

The undersigned hereby indorse the efforts of the Commonwealth and the City of Boston in procuring the passage of an act of Congress, approved March 4, 1923, which enables the Commonwealth to validate taxes heretofore assessed by the cities and towns of the Commonwealth on the shares of national banks and to establish for the future a system of taxing such shares at their fair value at the local rate applicable to real estate and tangible personal property, and we pledge ourselves to support legislative bills providing for the complete validation of such taxes and the establishing of the aforesaid system of future taxation.

GREATER HEALTH PROTECTION.

The first definite steps in the matter of providing proper health protection for the great West Roxbury section, known as Germantown, has been taken by Mayor Curley in the presentation of a bill authorizing the City of Boston to construct and maintain a sanitary sewer in the town of Dedham. In the event of the Legislature adopting this act and authorizing the City of Boston to construct and connect it with the main sewerage system, it is the purpose of his Honor the Mayor to make available $100,000 as an initial expenditure in the establishment of sanitary facilities for that part of the West Roxbury section of Boston known as Germantown, which is the only section of the city where the privy system still obtains. This departure will provide a measure of health conservation long denied the West Roxbury section and will end what has long been regarded as a typhoid menace to the entire city.

GOOD FRIDAY OBSERVANCE.

Mayor Curley issued the following circular notice to department heads relative to the observance of Good Friday, upon the 29th instant:

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
March 29, 1923.

To the Department Heads:
GENTLEMEN.—In conformity with custom you are hereby directed to suspend all activities in your department from 12 m. to 3 p. m. on Good Friday, March 30, 1923.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Murray Engineering Company, $2,384; time required for boat to be out of commission, four days; Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, $2,499; time required for boat to be out of commission, seven days; the Atlantic Works, $2,500; time required for boat to be out of commission, five days; Richard T. Green Company, $3,142; time required for boat to be out of commission, eight days.

* Copy of bid received at auditor's office was unsigned.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT (Water Service).

Upon March 29 the Mayor approved a contract with V. Barletta for laying and relaying water pipes in Bradeen street, Clement avenue, Ethel street, Midvale road, Stellman road, West Roxbury Parkway, West Roxbury, also Dunbar avenue extension and Rhodes street, Dorchester. Bids for the work, opened March 27, were as follows:

V. Barletta, $4,489; A. Grande, $4,500.25; V. Grande, $5,019; L. Balboni, $5,104; Vozzella & Caponi, $5,546.50; John Guarino & Co., $5,548; M. DeSisto Company, $5,879; John Williams & Co., $6,224; A. DiLucci & Co., $6,344; Thomas Burke, $6,494; C. Russo, $7,229; DeCristoforo & Brothers Company, $8,231.50; F. Drinkwater Company, $10,184.25.

SCHOOLHOUSE DEPARTMENT.

Upon March 28 the Mayor approved a contract with R. J. Connolly for new cooking room, complete, in Portable No. 126, Minot School yard, Neponset. Bids for the work, opened March 13, were as follows:

R. J. Connolly, $2,949; Frank J. Gallagher & Co., $3,120; New England Building Company, $3,188; Walter Curley, $3,278; Herbert W. Doten, $3,382; Archdeacon & Sullivan, $3,525; M. S. Kellihier Company, $3,664.

SUPPLY DEPARTMENT.

Upon March 24 the Mayor approved a contract with Mace Moulton, Jr., Inc., for furnishing approximately 250 tons of emulsified cold patch-out back for the Public Works Department. Bids for the supply, opened March 20, were as follows:

Price, F. O. B. Boston.—Texas Company, $37.10 per ton; American Oil Products Company, $49.80 per ton; Standard Oil Company, $42.90 per ton; f. o. b. railroad siding in Boston; Joseph J. Galvin, $46.85 per ton; Mace Moulton, Jr., Inc., $39.13 per ton.^f

Price, F. O. B. Any City Yard.—Texas Company*, $39.10 per ton; American Oil Products Company, $51.60 per ton; Standard Oil Company, $44.40 per ton; Joseph J. Galvin, $49.50 per ton; Mace Moulton, Jr., Inc., $39.13 per ton.^f

Rebate On Empty Barrels.—Standard Oil Company, $1 per barrel, good condition; Joseph J. Galvin, $0.75 per barrel; Mace Moulton, Jr., Inc., $1 per barrel.

Discount, Ten Days.—American Oil Products Company, 1 per cent.

* Crossed out word "emulsified" in bid form. Carload lots.

^f Awarded contract.

Incident to the award of this contract, Superintendent Frank P. Rock of the Supply Department made the following statement:

"Permission is respectfully requested to award this contract to Mace Moulton, Jr., Inc., at $39.13 per ton, f. o. b. Boston, or f. o. b. any city yard, with an allowance of $1 for barrels returned to them. This bid is lower than the bid of the Texas Company at $37.10 per ton for delivery, f. o. b. Boston, and $39.10 per ton, f. o. b. any city yard, as the latter concern does not allow anything for barrels returned, and the allowance of $1 per barrel by the Mace Moulton, Jr., Inc., company reduces the price per ton $4 to $3 and for this reason I recommend the award as shown."

Upon March 24 the Mayor approved a contract with the Alden Speare's Sons Company for furnishing approximately 25,000 gallons of 60 per cent asphaltic road oil to the Public Works Department. Bids for the supply, opened March 20, were as follows:

Standard Oil Company, 7.65 cents per gallon; Texas Company, 8.4 cents per gallon, carload lots; Alden Speare's Sons Company, 6.95 cents per gallon²; American Oil Products Company, 9.9 cents per gallon; Joseph J. Galvin, 8.73 cents per gallon.

* Awarded contract.

Upon March 24 the Mayor approved a contract with the Alden Speare's Sons Company for furnishing 475,000 gallons of 45 per cent asphaltic road oil. Bids for the supply, opened March 20, were as follows:

Standard Oil Company, 7.9 cents per gallon; Texas Company, 7.45 cents per gallon; Alden Speare's Sons Company, 6.95 cents per gallon²; Highway Products Company, 7.8 cents per gallon; American Oil Products Company, 9.6 cents per gallon; Mace Moulton, Jr., Inc., 7.48 cents per gallon; Joseph J. Galvin, 8.73 cents per gallon.

* Awarded contract.

Upon March 24 the Mayor approved a contract with the Texas Company for furnishing 1,000 tons OA-2 road asphalt for construction to the Public Works Department. Bids for the supply, opened March 20, were as follows:

Galvin, $37.60 per ton; Barber Asphalt Pavement Company, $46.95 per ton, NA-1 for delivery 10 miles of contractor's plant plus $1.15 for each additional five miles or fraction.

* Awarded contract.

Upon March 24 the Mayor approved a contract with the Independent Coal Tar Company for furnishing approximately 200 tons of cold tar patching material to the Public Works Department. Bids for the supply, opened March 20, were as follows:

Independent Coal Tar Company, $30.98 per ton*; the Barrett Company, $31.70 per ton; American Oil Products Company, $23.25 per ton, in bulk, delivered at city yards; $29.90 per ton, in barrels, delivered at city yards, gross weight; Joseph J. Galvin, $33.70 per ton.

* Awarded contract.

Incident to the award of this contract, Superintendent Frank P. Rock of the Supply Department made the following statement:

"I respectfully recommend that the contract be awarded to the Independent Coal Tar Company, the second lowest bidder. In making this recommendation I feel that the best interests of the city will be served because of the fact that the Independent Coal Tar Company have had contracts with this department previously, and are thoroughly conversant with the needs of the Public Works Department regarding the deliveries of this material."

Upon March 26 the Mayor approved a contract with the Pease Company for furnishing edgestone to the Paving Service, Public Works Department. Bids for the supply, opened March 6, were as follows:

* Awarded contract.

Upon March 26 the Mayor approved a contract with the Headley Good Roads Company for furnishing approximately 250 tons of emulsified asphalt cold patch to the Public Works Department. Bids, for the supply, opened March 20, were as follows:

F. O. B., Boston.—Headley Good Roads Company, $42.78 per ton,* excluding weight of barrels; Barber Asphalt Company, $40 per ton, carload lots; delivered f. o. b. cars, Boston; packages weighed out.

F. O. B., Any Paving Yard.—Headley Good Roads Company, $43.94 per ton,* excluding weight of barrels; Barber Asphalt Company, $41.41 per ton, carload lots; delivered at city paving yard; packages weighed out.

Rebate On Empty Barrels.—Headley Good Roads Company, $1.10 per barrel, f. o. b. cars, Boston; Barber Asphalt Company, 60 cents per barrel, f. o. b. Maurer, N. J., 1 head, all hoops, $1 per barrel, f. o. b. Maurer, N. J., both heads, all hoops.

* Awarded contract.

Incident to the award of this contract, Superintendent Frank P. Rock of the Supply Department made the following statement:

"Permission is respectfully requested to award the contract to the Headley Good Roads Company as per prices on attached sheet. While apparently the bid of the Barber Asphalt Paving Company is low, the rebate allowed on empty barrels by the Headley Good Roads Company will bring their net cost for asphalt lower than that of the Barber Asphalt Company, and for this reason the contract is awarded to the Headley Good Roads Company."

* Awarded contract.

WITHOUT ADVERTISING.

The Mayor has approved the following contracts, awarded without advertising; requests of heads of departments to do the work with the department forces without advertising; additions to and deductions from contracts.

ASSESSING DEPARTMENT.

Upon March 28 the Mayor approved a contract with the Library Bureau for preparing a list of those legally responsible for the charging of a poll tax. A communication from Chairman Edward T. Kelly of the Assessing Department was as follows:

Boston, March 27, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—We desire your permission to make a contract with the Library Bureau for a list of persons liable to assessment of a poll tax for the year 1923.

The list is to be prepared from the copy as it is written for the Police Department, and is to be done while said work is in progress. This method would permit of the third copy being available on May 25, the date on which the list of residents is delivered to the Listing Board, a result not possible if the contract is awarded to anyone else.

We respectfully request your permission to make the contract with the Library Bureau at the figure submitted by them of $5,035, because they can complete the work at an earlier date than anyone else, having access to the lists during the progress of the police work, and because, in our opinion, it cannot be done at a less cost by anyone else.

Respectfully,

EDWARD T. KELLY,
Chairman.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT (Artificial Stone Sidewalks).

Upon March 26 the Mayor approved a contract with the Thomas J. Hind Company for building artificial stone sidewalks. A communication from Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Department of Public Works was as follows:

Boston, March 23, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—I am authorized to make a contract for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks in the public streets, without advertising, to Thomas J. Hind Company, 45 Milk street, Boston, is hereby requested on the ground that this contractor is not selected by the city in the first instance but by the abutters; and secondly, the expense of construction being divided by the city and abutters; also because such contracts vary greatly in amounts and seldom involve one thousand (1,000) dollars.

Respectfully yours,

JOSEPH A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Upon March 27 the Mayor approved a contract with Armington & Ellis for building artificial stone sidewalks. A communication from Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Department of Public Works was as follows:

Boston, March 26, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—Permission to award a contract for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks in the public streets, without advertising, to Armington & Ellis, 80 Warren street, Brighton, is hereby requested on the ground that this contractor is not selected by the city in the first instance but by the abutters; and secondly, the expense of construction being divided by the city and abutters; also because such contracts vary greatly in amounts and seldom involve one thousand (1,000) dollars.

Respectfully yours,

JOSEPH A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

SCHOOL BUILDING PROGRAM.

Boston's school accommodations and the need of an extensive building program were rehearsed before the Committee on Municipal Finance at the State House, upon the 26th instant.

Mayor Curley, City Auditor Rupert S. Carven and Chairman Richard J. Lane of the School Committee told of the agreement to provide a more just and equitable levy upon the taxpayers and thus to prevent the accumulation of unused money in the treasury.

The Mayor and city auditor have framed an amendment to the pending bill in the provision that $3,500,000 be provided in each of the three years, instead of permitting the School Committee to take $2.33 of every $1,000 in the valuation for three consecutive years, which would mean $3,700,000 for the first year and more in the other two years, according to the increase in taxable values of the city. The $3,500,000 a year is all that the School Committee should expect, Mayor Curley told the committee, though heartily agreeing that a three-year program should be planned.

It appears the Finance Commission wants a one-year program, which is impossible, in view of the depressing fact that there are 14,000 children improperly housed.

Both Mr. Lane and Auditor Carven impressed upon the committee that the $3,500,000 in the treasury this year, charged to school funds, is not an unencumbered allotment.

Asked how long it took for the commission to construct a school building, Chairman Lane replied that usually the architects require nine months to make their plans when the land is free. But, unfortunately, there have been few sites chosen in Boston which did not contain buildings, usually tenements. Notable exceptions are the sites taken for the new Dorchester High School, and the Roxbury High School. He announced for the first time that the School Department is anxious to acquire the Reservoir property in East Boston, which the Park Department would turn over if given the authority.

Mayor Curley remarked that he had tried to work in harmony with the School Department, especially in speeding up new construction. He berated the Finance Commission for advocating a one-year policy, saying that any large commercial house which thus acted would go out of business speedily. More than ever before a broad, constructive policy is necessary now, in view of the lack of building during the war.

"I realize the fact that the School Department's expenditures have increased 100 per cent since 1909," the Mayor said, "yet the extraordinary increase is one against which there is no protest. There should be a seat in the schools for every child, and the department should not be obliged to maintain portable buildings and hired quarters, which are dangerous in point of fire, sanitation and comfort."

COMPLETION OF BOULEVARD.

Mayor Curley and a score of other speakers appeared at the State House before the House Ways and Means Committee of the Legislature, upon the 28th instant, in favor of a bill to provide for the completion by the Metropolitan District Commission of the Old Colony boulevard. They described this stretch of highway as the "missing link" in the main artery of traffic from Boston and points north to the South Shore.

The route would be from near the crossing of Columbia road and the New Haven Railroad to a point near the Neponset Bridge in Boston and from a point near this bridge in Quincy to the Quincy Shore Reservation at Atlantic. The plan would be to have trucks continue to use Dorchester avenue, thus devoting the new highway to the travel of pleasure vehicles.

Mayor Curley stated that the matter had dragged along now for seven years, greatly detracting from the value of the city's $4,000,000 investments upon the Strandway. He declared that completion of the boulevard would materially aid the development of the district and furthermore would be an outlet for steadily increasing traffic to points along the South Shore.

Representative Coleman E. Kelly of Boston, one of the original petitioners for completion of the boulevard, spoke in favor of the present bill which is reported by the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs as the result of several petitions presented. The bill authorizes the expenditure by the District Commission of an additional $1,675,000 to the amount appropriated in 1912. Other speakers in favor of the bill were Representative Richard M. Walsh, Senator Walter Shuebruk of Norfolk and Plymouth and Charles A. Ufford of Dorchester, who proposed the plan of converting the New Haven Railroad right of way for street car travel in Dorchester.

POLICE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

General Order No. 248.

Section 8 of Rule 24 of the Rules and Regulations of the Police Department is hereby amended by striking out the whole of said section and inserting in place thereof the following new section, which shall be known as Section 8:

8. A division commander shall visit all parts of his division as often as once each week, noting the condition of the streets, sidewalks, street lights, etc., obstructions, nuisances and noncompliances with the city ordinances and all other matters requiring the attention of the police. He shall report to the superintendent in all cases of contagious disease, and any negligence which may expose the city to danger by fire, and all matters which require the attention of city departments. Division commanders will make a daily report to the superintendent of the names and addresses of the owners or occupants of buildings found improperly secured, the time when found improperly secured, the time when properly secured, name of officer who found building in such condition and properly secured the same and the time and notice was given to occupant by officer finding occupied building unsecured, and the name and address of occupant notified. Division commanders are charged with the duty of seeing that a proper record is kept on the journal of the station of all buildings found improperly secured.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 249.

Section 22 of Rule 27 of the Rules and Regulations of the Police Department is hereby amended by striking out the whole of said section and inserting in place thereof the following new section, which shall be known as Section 22:

22. He shall, while on his tour of duty, examine all doors, gates and windows of buildings (especially dwellings and stores) to see that they are properly secured, except that he shall not be required to examine doors, gates and windows of mercantile buildings when open for regular business. If a patrolman finds a building improperly secured, the occupant, if any, shall be notified and a written report made to the division commander. If the building is unoccupied, the patrolman shall make an immediate investigation of the premises, make them secure, and then make a full report by telephone to the station house not later than his next duty call of the facts discovered by him, and as soon as possible make a written report to his division commander, giving the street and number of the building, name of the owner or occupant thereof, and time when said premises were found open and time when said premises were properly secured. A proper record shall be made on the journal by the officer in charge of the station of the street and number and owner or occupant of all buildings found improperly secured, the name of officer finding the building improperly secured and name of officer securing same, the time reported found open and time reported properly secured, and name of each person to whom notice was given by officer that building was found improperly secured. He shall take special notice of all vacant dwelling houses to prevent depredations; be vigilant to prevent fire or waste of water; see that the fire escapes are not obstructed; call the attention of abutters to the state of sidewalks and roofs, where by snow, ice or other cause they are rendered dangerous, or when obstructed by fuel, boxes or other articles, or with goods; take note of all ashes, garbage, dead animals or other offensive matter thrown into the street, or when the street is used for washing carriages or horses or improperly obstructed thereby. When the laws and ordinances, orders, rules and regulations for the government of such cases, upon notice given, are not forthwith obeyed, he shall ascertain the names of the parties offending and report the same for complaint and prosecution.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

Commissioner.

General Order No. 250.

A trial board consisting of Captains Walkins, Rooney and Kneeland, having heard by reference a complaint against Patrolman Thomas F. O'Malley of Division 10, charging him with neglect of duty, has reported to the commissioner a finding of guilty, in accordance with which, it is hereby ordered that the complaint against the said Patrolman Thomas F. O'Malley be placed on file.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 251.

The resignation of Patrolman Edward J. Hayes of Division 20 having been presented, it is hereby accepted, to take effect on Thursday, March 29, 1923, at 7.45 a. m., seven days' notice waived.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 252.

The Rules and Regulations of the Police Department are hereby amended by adding at the end of the chapter on "Police Pensions and Benefits," on page 250, the following:

"The Contributory Retirement Act, chapter 521, Acts of 1922, includes both police officers of the City of Boston and civilian employees of the Police Department entering the service of the Police Department after February 1, 1923. Police officers in the service prior to February 1, 1923, and certain civilian employees in said service prior to this date, who are included in any previous retirement system supported wholly by the City of Boston or the County of Suffolk and who desire to take advantage of the provisions of the Contributory Retirement Act with credit for prior service, must first waive and renounce the benefits of said previous retirement system and then make written application before February 1, 1924, to join the contributory retirement system. Such police officer or civilian employee included in any previous retirement system who joins the contributory retirement system after February 1, 1924, will not be credited with prior service. Civilian employees in the service of the Police Department prior to February 1, 1923, included in no previous retirement system, are included in the new contributory system unless they give notice in writing to the Retirement Board within sixty days from February 1, 1923, of their refusal to join said system. Such a civilian employee who has so signified his intention not to join the new retirement system, may subsequently be admitted to membership and receive credit for prior service if he applies for membership in said system before February 1, 1924. Such a civilian employee can be admitted to membership in said contributory retirement system after February 1, 1924, but no credit for prior service will be given to such civilian employee."

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

Commissioner.

General Order No. 253.

Section 1 of Rule 55 of the Rules and Regulations of the Police Department relating to "Revolver Licenses" is hereby amended by striking out the whole of said section and inserting in place thereof the following new section which shall be known as Section 1:

1. Under the authority of General Laws, chapter 140, section 131, as amended by the Acts of 1922, chapter 185, section 9, the Police Commissioner may issue licenses, on application, to persons who wish to carry a pistol or revolver, "if it appears that the applicant has good reason to fear an injury to his person or property or for any other proper purpose, and that he is a suitable person to be so licensed," and upon payment of such license fee as the Police Commissioner shall prescribe.

Section 2 of Rule 55 of the Rules and Regulations of the Police Department is hereby amended by striking out the whole of said section and inserting in place thereof the following new section which shall be known as Section 2:

2. Applications for new licenses under this rule may be filed at any time. Applications for the renewal of licenses should be filed at least thirty days before the expiration of such licenses. All licenses issued under this rule shall expire annually on the thirty-first day of December, except that licenses may be issued in December to be valid for twelve months beginning the next succeeding first day of January. Persons whose licenses have expired and have not been renewed, will be liable to prosecution if carrying a weapon for which a license is required. Except for express, railroad, bank and government employees and in similar cases in which application is made by responsible central authorities rather than by individuals for themselves, licenses will not be issued to persons who are not residents of Boston, nor will minors be licensed.

Section 5 of Rule 55 of the Rules and Regulations of the Police Department is hereby amended by striking out the whole of said section and inserting in place thereof the following new section which shall be known as Section 5:

5. Licenses to carry loaded pistols or revolvers will not be granted for the purpose of authorizing persons engaged in any capacity in labor strikes or similar disputes to arm themselves. Members of the department may inform persons whose applications have been rejected on this or any other ground that the police commissioner is but one of many officials empowered to grant licenses of this character; that such licenses once granted are valid in all parts of the Commonwealth; and that under General Laws, chapter 140, section 131, as amended by the acts of 1922, chapter 485, section 9, they may be issued by "the justice of a court or a trial justice, the board of police or mayor of a city, the selectmen of a town, or the commissioner of public safety, or persons authorized by them."

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 254.

Within the last few months a number of complaints have been received at headquarters from relatives or friends of persons who have been arrested for drunkenness, that they have been refused permission at the station houses to see prisoners on the ground that they had not been in the cells long enough after arrest, that they were asleep, or some other similar excuse.

A prisoner arrested and booked for drunkenness shall be confined until he is in a fit condition to be bailed or committed for court. When the prisoner is in a proper condition to be bailed is a question for the officer in charge of the station to decide, not for the bail commissioner.

Officers in charge of a station will comply with the request of a prisoner that his relatives or friends be notified to visit him at the station, and said relatives or friends shall be granted the right of an immediate interview with the prisoner. If the prisoner requests the services of a physician, the physician mentioned by him shall be called, and at the same time the station house physician shall be summoned to be present at any examination of the prisoner.

The attention of the department is called to the superintendent's order of December 27, 1922, and upon division commanders rests the duty of seeing that this rule is strictly enforced.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

FIRE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

General Order No. 24.

I. PROMOTION.

The following promotion which took effect at 9 a. m., March 23, 1923, is hereby announced:

Ladderman Peter J. Connelly of Ladder 30 to be assistant engineer.

II. TRANSFERS.

The following transfers which took effect at 9 a. m., March 23, 1923, are hereby announced:

Peter J. Connelly, from Ladder 30 to Engine 42.

John T. Savage, from Engine 42 to Ladder 30.

III. CHANGES IN APPARATUS ASSIGNMENT.

The following changes in assignment of apparatus are hereby ordered to become effective at 9 a. m., Wednesday, March 28, 1923:

Boxes 242, 2423.—Second alarm, drop ladder 26; add Ladder 12; third alarm, add Ladder 26; drop Ladder 12; drop Ladder 13 to Ladder 26.

Boxes 2464, 2482.—Third alarm, drop Ladder 23; add Ladder 12; drop Ladder 7 to Ladder 23.

Company commanders and officers in charge of department branches will cause the necessary changes to be made in assignment cards.

IV. EXAMINATION FOR PROMOTION TO DISTRICT CHIEF.

This examination will be held on April 11, 1923, and will be open to the captains who have served in that rank, in accordance with civil service rules, for at least one year immediately preceding the date of examination.

Application blanks may be secured by applying in person or by letter at the office of the Department of Civil Service and Registration, Division of Civil Service, Rooms 147-152, State House, Boston. The vouchers on this blank need not be filled out. When completed, they should be returned to the civil service office to be placed on file on or before April 4, 1923.

The subjects of examination with their respective weights will be as follows: Training and experience, 13; thesis, 4; fire-fighting problems, questions on fire prevention and rules and regulations of the department, 8; total, 25.

Experience will be marked on the following basis: One year eligible, 70 per cent; five years following at 2 per cent a year; 10 per cent.

In estimating a man's length of service the unit shall be six months.

Credit for class or so-called "zone service" will be based upon the highest class or zone service an applicant has had up to the maximum of six years. Credit for this service is given only in a man's present grade. Classes or zones with their credits are as follows:

Zone A at $\frac{1}{2}$ per cent per year; Zone B at $\frac{1}{3}$ per cent per year.

In estimating zone service the unit shall be six months. Length of zone service credited will correspond with and not exceed the period of eligibility plus the period for which credit is given for seniority as outlined above.

Executive officer of officers' school,* 2 per cent; drill master, 2 per cent; engineer, 1 per cent; assistant engineer, 1 per cent; telegrapher, 1 per cent; chauffeur, 1 per cent; aide-to-chief, 1 per year, maximum 3 per cent, provided not more than five years have elapsed since such service; acting district chief, $\frac{1}{2}$ per cent for each six months (maximum five years); clear record, 1 per cent.

Commendations, Maximum Credits.—Ordinary commendations such as responding to alarm while off duty or other meritorious act, etc., 1 per cent; high commendation, 2 per cent; special commendation, 3 per cent; roll of merit, 4 per cent; Fitzgerald medal or Scott medal, 5 per cent.

Only commendations appearing in the records of the department and received in a man's present grade will be recognized. If, however, a commendation

*The duties of this position are to formulate and mark the examination papers of all the men who go through the officers' school and to take the place of those instructors who may be absent, etc.

was received in a man's previous grade after he had taken the examination, as a result of which he was promoted, he will be given credit for such commendation in his present grade.

Penalties, Maximum Demerits.—Insubordination, 4; cowardice at fire, 4; disrespect to superior, 3; conduct prejudicial to good order, 3; neglect of duty, 3; under influence of liquor, 3; conduct unbecoming a member, 3; other penalties, 1 to 3.

NOTE.—Penalties given above are the maximum in each case, the particular number of points deducted being determined at the discretion of the Civil Service Commissioners.

If an applicant has a clear record for the past five years no demerits will be given for reprimands or penalties received before that time. If, however, his record for the past five years is not clear, all reprimands and penalties will be taken into consideration.

Captains who make application for this examination will in due time receive a set of experience sheets on which Question 9 reads as follows: "Have charges ever been made against you, or have you ever been complained of, reprimanded, fined, suspended, or punished in any other way? If so, state fully the date and circumstances of each case, including penalties and final disposition." In answering this, applicants are required to state all reprimands, penalties, etc., he has ever received while a member of the Boston Fire Department.

This is necessary in order to determine whether a man has a clear record, for a bonus of 1 per cent for a clear record is given only to those men who have had no reprimands, etc., during their membership in the department.

Credit for certificate from Fire School will be given as follows:

(a) Certificate without honor, $\frac{1}{2}$ per cent; (b) certificate with honor, 1 per cent; (c) certificate with high honor, $\frac{1}{2}$ per cent; (d) certificate with highest honor, 2 per cent.

Failure on the part of an applicant to answer fully and clearly the questions on his experience sheet will not be regarded as sufficient reason for withholding the establishment of the eligible list until the difficulties brought about through such failure have been settled.

Each applicant should bring his own penholder, pen, blotter, pencil, eraser and ink.

Days off for April 10 and 11, 1923, will start at 8 a. m.

Changes in days off must be made so that those taking the examination will go on day off April 11, 1923.

By order of the Fire Commissioner.

JOHN O. TABER,
Chief of Department.

IMPORTANT STREET WIDENINGS.

The Legislative Committee on Municipal Finance has voted to report a bill, upon the petition of Mayor Curley, providing for the widening of Cambridge and Court streets, Boston, to a width of 100 feet, and authorizing an expenditure of $3,500,000 for the project. The bill providing for the widening of Exchange street has been tabled by the committee for further consideration but it is understood that it will eventually be reported favorably.

FINANCE COMMISSION.

BOSTON, March 23, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston.

SIR:—The consulting engineer of the Finance Commission has made a study of the contracts for bituminous street paving during the past year which were not awarded to the lowest bidders, and has submitted a report, a copy of which is hereto annexed.

Among other matters, it appears from this report that:

1. Last year in the large cities of the United States there were laid 79,100,000 square yards of bituminous pavements, of which 56,500,000 square yards, or 74 per cent, were sheet asphalt.

2. Sheet asphalt is the standard bituminous pavement for heavy traffic in all the large cities of the United States except Portland, Ore., and Boston.

3. The use of bituminous pavement other than sheet asphalt is confined to streets of light and medium traffic and to country roads.

4. Last year in Boston in twenty instances (comprising practically all that was done) competition was restricted to two kinds of bituminous pavement, sheet asphalt and Warrentite-bitulithic, the latter an untried type of pavement in Boston.

5. These two types of pavement were put in competition with each other, although it is well known that the cost of manufacturing and laying the Warrentite-bitulithic pavement is about one third less than the cost of manufacturing and laying sheet asphalt.

6. In fifteen of the twenty instances, sheet asphalt was offered at lower prices than Warrentite-bitulithic, yet only four of these lowest bidders were awarded the contracts. Eleven awards were for Warrentite-bitulithic at a higher price. Seven of these eleven awards were made to the Warren Brothers Company at $34,600 in excess of the lowest bids. This company claims to be the owner, under certain patents, of Warrentite-bitulithic.

7. This procedure cost the city, figured on the basis of the bids, $36,917.75. But a greater cost to the city is still to come, due to the necessity of excessive repairing and an earlier replacement of the entire pavement than would be necessary if the more substantial kind of pavement had been chosen.

In July of last year bids were opened for paving Blue Hill avenue, Dorchester, from Talbot avenue to Mattapan square, on the easterly side of the Boston Elevated tracks. The Central Construction Company was the lowest bidder, in the sum of $84,334.20 for sheet asphalt; but the contract was awarded to Warren Brothers Company for Warrentite-bitulithic, in the sum of $95,656, or $11,321.80 above the lowest bidder. Work under the contract was completed last December. With scarcely three months' use this pavement has already begun to break up. This street carries a stream of heavy traffic between Boston and points south of Boston.

No satisfactory explanation has been given why the Warrentite-bitulithic type of pavement, heretofore untried in Boston, should be used in such a street at a price higher than that of the lowest bidder, who offered sheet asphalt, the standard type of bituminous pavement for heavy traffic.

The Finance Commission approves the recommendations of its consulting engineer in his report hereto attached, and further recommends that in the future, on heavy traffic streets where bituminous pavement is to be used, sheet asphalt be used exclusively.

Respectfully submitted,
THE FINANCE COMMISSION,
by MICHAEL H. SULLIVAN,
Chairman.

BOSTON, March 19, 1923.

To the Finance Commission:

GENTLEMEN,—As a supplement to my report of January 16, 1923, in the matter of contracts awarded to other than the lowest bidders, I submit herewith a report regarding the contracts not awarded to the lowest bidders for bituminous pavement for heavy traffic streets, the methods employed to restrict free competition among contractors for such pavements and the effect of these methods on the finances of the city.

As already stated in the annual report of the Finance Commission, only two bituminous mixtures have been admitted to competition as pavements for the city streets during the past year, viz., sheet asphalt and the proprietary material now called "Warrentite-bitulithic," all other bituminous mixtures suitable for such work being excluded from competition. The situation is similar to other occasions when it became necessary for the Finance Commission to criticize the apparent disinclination of city officials to gain the fullest advantages of competitive biddings for bituminous street surfaces.

Sheet asphalt is the standard bituminous pavement for heavy traffic streets over the entire world, other types (such as bituminous concrete of varying mixtures and modifications) being used for country roads and light traffic streets in cities and towns, principally on account of less cost.

It is the type of bituminous pavement used for heavy traffic streets in practically all of the large cities of the United States except Boston. The best estimates for 1922 of the total yardage of asphalt pavements of all classes laid in 1922 show a total yardage somewhat in excess of 79,000,000 square yards, divided approximately as follows:

	Square Yards.
Sheet asphalt.....	56,500,000
Warrentite-bitulithic.....	8,600,000
Asphaltic concrete laid under open specifications.....	4,400,000
Asphaltic macadam.....	7,600,000
Total.....	79,100,000

These figures are more significant than appears at the first glance, on account of the fact that a much larger proportion of sheet asphalt is used for heavy traffic city streets than in the case of the other types of pavement. Some of the exceptionally heavy traffic streets in large cities now paved with sheet asphalt are Park avenue, Fourth avenue and Fifth avenue, New York; Fifth avenue being perhaps the heaviest traffic street in the world; State street and Wabash avenue, Chicago; Pennsylvania avenue in Washington; Broad street and Chestnut street in Philadelphia; Bedford avenue and Fulton street, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Baltimore street and the Fallsview, Baltimore, Md.; Woodward avenue and Jefferson avenue, Detroit, Mich.

Following is a table showing the yardage of sheet asphalt and bituminous concrete in some of the larger cities of the United States; these figures are significant as showing the consensus of expert opinion regarding the best type of asphalt pavement:

* January, 1923.

† Estimated from mileage, January, 1923.

During the past season, 1922-23, there were advertised in public competition twenty contracts, in which the laying of bituminous pavements was the principal item. In each case contractors were invited to submit alternative bids, either for sheet asphalt or Warrentite-bitulithic. The details of these bids are given in the table marked Appendix A, hereto annexed. An examination of this table will show that, although in fifteen out of twenty competitions the lowest bidders contemplated the use of sheet asphalt, in only four cases was the award made for this material, but contracts were given to the bidders for Warrentite-bitulithic at a higher price, amounting in total to $38,243.75. The actual loss to the city was less than indicated by the awards, as a change was made in the contract for paving Prince and other streets with Warrentite-bitulithic and the contractor was required to substitute sheet asphalt for Warrentite-bitulithic, with a reduction in the contract price of $1,326. This change reduced the total cost of the contracts above the total of the lowest bids to $36,917.75.

Examination will also show that the two streets, Huntington avenue and Humboldt avenue, comprising the greater area of sheet asphalt pavements laid during the season, are streets where the traffic is heavy and particularly wearing on the pavements, on account of car tracks that concentrate the traffic at the sides of the streets, and on account of steep grades.

In the majority of cases the official reason given by the head of the department for accepting the higher bid was that the lowest bidder offered sheet asphalt. This reason is not convincing, and is really not a reason at all, especially as the two materials in question were supposed to have been admitted to equal competition. In other cases no attempt to give a reason was made.

As regards contracts awarded by the Park Department, inquiry brought the explanation that Warrenite-bitulithic was chosen on account of the excessive amount of repairs that had been required on the sheet asphalt pavement laid on Commonwealth avenue during 1916-17. As regards this statement, it is shown by the records of the Central Construction Company, which did the work, that absolutely no repairs have been required to this pavement, so the reason given could not have been the true one. A similar reason is given by the Park Commissioners in their letter to the Mayor asking permission to award the contract to Warren Brothers Company.

Previous reports of the Finance Commission relating to bitulithic pavements may be disregarded in the present discussion, as the material now being laid by Warren Brothers Company under the name of Warrenite-bitulithic is a different type of pavement from the bitulithic pavement which has been the basis of previous discussions. Whatever may have been the merits of that pavement, they are of no importance at the present time as an argument for the present type of pavement laid by Warren Brothers Company. The patent for bitulithic expired in May, 1920, and since that time the new type of pavement has been laid. It is claimed that this new pavement is protected under various patents issued to Edwin C. Wallace of East Auburn, Cal., May 30, 1910, October 27, 1914, and May 16, 1916.

The essence of these patents is the "bonding and blending" of two layers of bituminous paving mixtures of different composition with a single rolling. This method varies from the method of laying the standard sheet asphalt pavement, in which each of two layers is rolled separately, and from the old type of bitulithic which was laid in a single layer, 2 inches thick. The Warrenite-bitulithic pavements as now laid are 2 inches thick. The lower layer, approximately 1 1/2 inches thick, is of a material which is similar in composition to the so-called close binders used in standard asphalt construction, and also similar to the old type of bitulithic. Over this layer, while hot and before rolling, a second thin layer is spread. The surface material is of a mixture similar either to sheet asphalt surfacing mixture or to the Topeka mixture, so-called, depending on the proportions of sand and small crushed stone used. The two layers are rolled together, making a pavement approximately 2 inches in total thickness. A similar method has been used by Warren Brothers Company since 1909 in laying a pavement called Endurite. Only a small amount of this type of pavement has been laid, as compared with the amount of bitulithic, and the only place to my knowledge where such material was laid on a street in the City of Boston is an area of 1,816 square yards laid in 1912 on Commonwealth avenue, near Naples road, Brighton. This small area has not developed any special merit over other types of mixed asphaltic pavements.

The Wallace patents have been litigated in the United States courts, and a decree of dismissal against the plaintiff, Warren Brothers Company, was entered May 29, 1922. (See Warren Brothers Company, plaintiff, v. Thompson Brothers, United States District Court in and for the Southern District of California, Southern Division.)

There is no existing information regarding the wearing qualities of Warrenite-bitulithic to warrant the award of contracts for this material on account of superiority over the sheet asphalt pavement, or any other commonly used type of machine-mixed bituminous pavement. To the contrary, experience with Warrenite-bitulithic in Boston's traffic streets so far does not indicate a superior type of pavement. The only large area of this pavement in Boston to be tested under a moderately heavy commercial traffic is in Blue Hill avenue in Dorchester. This area of pavement, completed during December, 1922, needs extensive repairs after three months' service. Both theory and observation of results obtained indicate that the method of laying which is the essence of the Wallace patents is not one that will secure the best type of pavement. The rolling of the two layers together without previous rolling of the lower layer is likely to separate the stone on the lower layer so as to destroy the bond due to interlocking between these stones, by forcing the material of the upper layer through the lower layer. This will also result in forcing some of the stones of the lower layer to the top surface of the pavement where they will be crushed by iron tires or wheels. In cases that have come to my attention, the single rolling method has been objected to by the engineer in charge of the work. In the California work already referred to, the method was abandoned in favor of the two-rolling method. In some of the work done in Boston each layer of material was rolled separately, as in sheet asphalt construction. If the intent of the designers is realized, the result is at best substantially a sheet asphalt pavement, with a 1/2-inch to 1-inch surface, instead of the 1 1/2-inch surface ordinarily used in sheet asphalt pavements.

As regards the comparative cost of manufacturing sheet asphalt and Warrenite-bitulithic, by applying the prices for materials and labor that prevailed during the past year to the quantities in each type of pavement, as shown by actual analyses and by observation of the methods used in laying, it is indicated that the cost of Warrenite-bitulithic is approximately two thirds of the cost of sheet asphalt. This difference in cost is primarily due to the 3-inch thickness of sheet asphalt, whereas Warrenite-bitulithic is 2 inches thick and consequently requires only approximately two thirds as much material as for sheet asphalt, and less expenditure for labor and teaming. There are also some minor factors that contribute to the result. Analysis also shows that there have been such economies made in the use of the more expensive materials used in the Warrenite-bitulithic mixtures as compared with the old type of bitulithic, so as to practically offset the increase of cost of labor and materials since 1917, and bring the cost of Warrenite-bitulithic to substantially the cost shown in the estimate in the Twelfth Annual Report of the Finance Commission, page 112.

The methods followed by the city officials during the past season were briefly as follows:

1. Competition was first reduced by eliminating all types of bituminous pavement, except sheet asphalt and Warrenite-bitulithic.

2. Certain particularly well qualified bidders were eliminated arbitrarily for no public reason.

3. Work was parceled out from time to time until late in the season, rather than being all advertised in the spring, when active and more extended competition could have been obtained. Some of the larger jobs, for example, the Blue Hill avenue job, were delayed until the late autumn. This action prevented the submission of bids as low as might have been obtained from local bidders, and entirely prevented bids from contractors from other cities, as the time before cold weather was not sufficient for completing the job properly and the unwelcome bidder could be forced to lose considerable money by stopping his work at the advent of cold weather and obliging him to divide his work through two seasons.

The above-mentioned methods not being entirely effective, recourse was had to the arbitrary exclusion of certain low bidders, although the city was morally bound under its form of advertisement to award to the lowest bidder, whether his figure was for sheet asphalt or for bitulithic. In one case the bids for the work on the Fens and Riverway were opened at the Park Department at noon, May 18. The award was made by the Park Commissioners immediately after the bids were opened to Warren Brothers Company, the third from the lowest bidder, for bitulithic. There were two lower bidders for sheet asphalt and one especially well equipped and responsible bidder offered to construct a bituminous concrete pavement, substantially the same in composition and quality as the old type bitulithic, at a price $1,332 below the bid of Warren Brothers Company. The action of the Park Commissioners makes it practically certain that they gave no serious consideration to the low bidders in the competition, that they did not intend to award a contract for sheet asphalt, although asking bids for it, and that they intended under any conditions to award the contract to Warren Brothers Company. The issue of the City Record succeeding the date of the opening of the bids states that the request for permission to award to Warren Brothers Company was approved by the Mayor May 19, but it also states that the bids were opened on May 10, which is not the fact. This statement makes it appear that a week was given to the consideration of the bids. It may be that this statement was a mistake of the editor of the City Record, but it is difficult to understand how such a mistake was made.

Discussion of what might have happened had other bidders than Warren Brothers Company been given the work is futile. Had the contractors for bituminous pavements been assured of fair treatment there would have been—as is well known—a larger number of bidders bidding on the Blue Hill avenue job, for reasons already given, and probably lower prices. There is no possible means of knowing at the present time who would have been the low bidder for any of the contracts let during the past season.

I believe that the Finance Commission should strongly insist:

1. That for the season of 1923 bids for bituminous pavements be advertised early enough in the season to have the work completed before the advent of cold weather.

2. That suitable types of pavement in addition to Warrenite-bitulithic and sheet asphalt be admitted to competition.

3. That the bids of the lowest responsible bidders be accepted, provided the bid is for one of the types of pavement allowed in competition.

Respectfully submitted,

GUY C. EMERSON,
Consulting Engineer.

THE FOLLOWING STATEMENT WAS ISSUED BY COMMISSIONER OF PUBLIC WORKS JOSEPH A. ROURKE, IN REPLY TO COMMUNICATION FROM THE FINANCE COMMISSION.

Replying to the labored and lengthy communication received this day from the Boston Finance Commission with reference to street construction, I beg to say that, as Commissioner of Public Works, I am more concerned with the building of streets that will prove durable when subjected to the severe climatic conditions that obtain in Boston, where the two extremes, heat and cold, are perhaps more pronounced than in any other city of the United States, than I am in gratifying the desires of the Engineer of the Boston Finance Commission, Guy C. Emerson, to get square with the Warren Company for some real or imaginary grievance.

The Finance Commission has, prior to this time, proved it is not an infallible institution, and that, if the city had accepted upon the recommendation of either the commission or its engineers, it would have been to the disadvantage of the city and its people. I am more concerned as Public Works Commissioner in an endeavor to secure as nearly as possible 100 cents upon each dollar on contract work that may be performed by the Public Works Department of the City of Boston, than I am in discharging obligations to any contractor or combination of contractors doing business in Boston.

It has been my experience, as Commissioner of Public Works, that the best interests of the city are served through the awarding of contracts to reputable firms who are desirous of protecting reputations which represent an investment of both brains and money; firms who in street construction have acquired standing by a character of construction that represents full value for money received. It does not require an intimate knowledge of street construction to determine the fallibility of the engineer of the Finance Commission. It is only necessary for an owner of an automobile to ride over Beacon street, from Park street to Charles street, or Tremont street, from Castle street to Dover street, or Centre street, Jamaica Plain, to determine this question.

Tremont street, from Castle street to Dover street, is perhaps the most glaring example of waste in the matter of road construction to be found in the entire city. This paving laid in 1919 had to be replaced in large part in 1922, and it will be necessary to replace it this year. This type of paving is what is commonly known as Topeka, which the Finance Commission, from 1914 to 1917, insisted that the Public Works Department in Boston lay, and which Mayor James M. Curley refused to allow the Public Works Department to use, basing his opinion on a personal investigation of similar construction in Baltimore, where it was abandoned within two years after the first yard had been laid.

Beacon street, another glaring example of the favored type of paving, constantly recommended by the engineer of the Finance Commission, was laid five years ago, between Charles and Park streets, and in my opinion it would be a good investment for the city to remove the entire road surface and replace it, but not with the favored Topeka.

Upon Centre street in West Roxbury, fortunately the five-year guarantee has not expired, the paving having been laid little more than two years, and it would be possible for the city under the terms of the guarantee to require the contractor who constructed the road to resurface it wherever impaired. The wisdom of the engineer of the Finance Commission in the matter of road construction was eminently demonstrated in his treatment of Morton street, upon which street the city found it necessary, for a period of four years, to station watchmen nightly, after the completion of what in the opinion of the engineer of the Finance Commission, was a road that would last for many years. Owing to the character of construction of this thoroughfare, it has been necessary to rebuild this road, but sufficient money has been expended in repairs to automobiles, to more than total the entire cost of the original construction of the bad road, plus the later construction of the good road.

I invite a comparison, by the automobilists who are best qualified to judge the relative merits of good and bad roads, between that part of Beacon street lying between Charles and Park streets, a Topeka road laid in 1918, now a total wreck, and Columbia road, a Warren bitulithic road, laid in 1915, upon which not one dollar has been expended either for repair or reconstruction. I further invite a comparison between the Topeka road laid on Tremont street, between Castle and Dover streets, a large portion of which it was necessary to replace last year, and the remainder of which it will be necessary to replace this year, and that section of Commonwealth avenue, between Massachusetts avenue and Arlington street, constructed of bitulithic laid in 1916, and upon which, up to the present time, not one dollar has been expended.

When the construction of Commonwealth avenue was under consideration in 1916, the Finance Commission protested against the award being made to the Warren Company for bitulithic paving on the ground that, through the installation of inferior type of paving, a saving of $8,600 would be effected. The residents of this section of Commonwealth avenue, substantial business men, recognizing the error of the Finance Commission, and with the desire that the very best type of paving be laid, voluntarily raised the sum, $8,600, to make up the difference between the cost of the bitulithic pavement and the cheaper pavement recommended by the Finance Commission.

In the early part of 1917, the engineer of the Finance Commission, smarting under the rejection of his recommendation with reference to the paving of Commonwealth avenue, and incensed at the support given the Commissioner of Public Works by the substantial business men residing on the avenue whose judgment the Commissioner of Public Works accepted in preference to the engineer of the Finance Commission, declared as set forth in volume 13 of the Reports of the Boston Finance Commission, upon page 111 as follows: (Commonwealth avenue showed marked signs of deterioration after about five months of winter wear, and it will probably have to be repaired within a year.) The fact that it was not necessary to spend any money on that section of Commonwealth avenue up to the present time, and that it will not be necessary to expend any this year, despite the most severe winter in a half-century, is abundant proof of the worthlessness of the judgment of the Finance Commission's engineer, Guy C. Emerson.

I invite a further comparison between Morton street laid in 1909, from Canterbury street to Blue Hill avenue, and Marlborough street, between Clarendon street and Charlesgate East, laid in 1914. This section of Morton street was laid under the administration of George A. Hibbard, and during the period that the engineer of the Finance Commission was superintendent of streets. Morton street, as every automobilist can recall, was a thoroughfare to be dreaded for a period of eight years after its much trumpeted merits by the then superintendent of streets, the present engineer of the Finance Commission, Guy C. Emerson. Until 1922, when the road, which had been in constant process of repair and reconstruction, was completely rebuilt, it was unsafe to any person with regard for limb or life to travel over.

It has not been found necessary since 1914, a period of nine years, to expend one dollar on Marlborough street, laid with Warren bitulithic. It is unfortunate, but it is nevertheless true, that the qualifications of the engineer of the Finance Commission in road construction are of a very mediocre character. Personally I have a profound regard for him socially, but as an engineer I recognize that, which to the present time has apparently escaped the attention of the Finance Commission, his possibilities for useful service are limited, perhaps not so much because of his lack of technical knowledge, as because of his personal enmity and his restricted viewpoint.

His work during the past decade has been confined to the reading of light literature rather than to the construction of highways. While most entertaining as a compiler of dubious statistics on road construction, in the capacity of an engineer in a large city, I believe and feel the opinion is generally accepted that he would prove a gross failure. The city has suffered sufficiently from highway construction of an inferior character, which invariably has been utilized either for the discharge of political debts or upon the specious plea of economy.

The mere matter of an initial saving upon the construction of a highway is of no value, provided the future maintenance cost is excessive as contrasted with a large initial expenditure for good construction, and a correspondingly small expenditure for maintenance.

Upon Blue Hill avenue 41,000 yards of Warren bitulithic was laid last year a large portion of the work being performed in the late fall and winter of 1922, yet despite this fact it will be necessary to replace less than twenty-five yards out of a total of 41,000 yards.

It must be evident to every lover of fair play that the Finance Commission, so quiescent during the administration of former Mayor Peters is now of the opinion that it is necessary, in order to justify its existence, to condemn everything done under the administration of Mayor Curley, regardless of merit or demerit. As Public Works Commissioner of Boston, it is my purpose, not only on highway construction but in the discharge of all other activities of the Public Works Department, to recommend that, which in my opinion, is best for the City of Boston, and it is not my purpose to permit a return to the wasteful policy of false economy discarded since I assumed the office.

The chairman of the Finance Commission has stressed the failure of the Public Works department to advertise in the early spring for street construction work to be performed during the year. The present administration disclaims all responsibility for failure to perform that which, owing to the charter requirements with reference to the organization of the government, it is impossible to do. The present administration, with a view to remedying this condition, not for its own benefit but for the benefit of succeeding administrations, prepared a bill providing for the organization of the government during the first week in January rather than as at present required by the city charter in February, and this constructive measure was defeated by the Legislature owing to the opposition of the Finance Commission. Early street construction is further hindered as to the amount the Legislature shall allow Boston each year in the tax limit. This is not usually determined until late in April. This results in delaying the passage of the budget. With a view to correcting this condition, a bill was presented permitting the City of Boston to fix its own tax limit in conformity with the law which applies to all other cities in the state, and this constructive measure was opposed by the chairman of the Finance Commission. Both of these reforms, namely an early organization of the city government and the right of the city to establish its own tax limit are essential, and without these two most necessary reforms, an early street construction program is impossible.

Constructive criticism is always welcome, but it can emanate only from sources which are capable of judging and which are free from bias.

JOSEPH A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

CHILDREN FROM EUROPE TO VISIT HERE.

Hon. John Barton Payne, former Secretary of the Interior, under the administration of President Woodrow Wilson, has notified Mayor Curley that forty-five children, boys and girls, from the Bakule School in Prague, Czechoslovakia, would visit Boston, under the auspices of the American Red Cross, during the latter part of April or early part of May.

President Masaryk of the Czechoslovak Republic believes the children will have great opportunity to learn the character of America, its government and institutions, during their stay in the United States, and is especially interested in the request that public spirited citizens may help entertain the children during their American journey.

The children have great musical ability and will present a concert of fine educational value.

Mayor Curley has directed E. B. Mero, secretary of the Conservation Bureau, to take charge of the children from Czechoslovakia on their arrival in Boston, and the Mayor will receive them at City Hall and arrange for a motor trip through the Boston park system and to points of historical interest hereabouts.

SALE OF FIRE ENGINE.

The Mayor has granted permission to Fire Commissioner Theodore A. Glynn to sell to J. C. Coleman & Sons Company, 1620 Tremont street, Boston, an old steam fire engine for the sum of $300. This is one of the old steam fire engines which have been displaced by motor apparatus and this particular engine has been condemned as being unfit for service as a fire-fighting unit.

REPORTING OF COMMUNICABLE DISEASES.

By DR. FRANCIS X. MAHONEY,
Health Commissioner.

Under the laws of Massachusetts a physician who visits a person professionally, and knows that the person whom he visits is infected with smallpox, diphtheria, scarlet fever, or any other diseases declared dangerous to the public health, is required to give written notice thereof, over his own signature, to the local board of health. Similar duty is imposed by a similar law upon the householder. The purpose of this reference to the legal duty imposed upon persons having knowledge of the existence of diseases declared dangerous to the public health is, however, to impress upon physicians the absolute necessity of reporting such cases immediately to the local board of health.

The local board of health is required to use all possible care to prevent the spread of infection from diseases dangerous to the public health. In order that this duty may be properly carried out it is essential that practising physicians within the City of Boston, as an ethical and legal duty, keep the Health Department informed of all such cases that come to their attention. This co-operation of the physicians is something that is required as an aid in the protection of the public health, and even though it is a mandatory duty imposed upon physicians by the Commonwealth, knowledge of which is impliedly in the possession of all physicians, it is for the purpose of stressing the necessary importance of this duty that this reminder is addressed particularly to the physicians of Boston.

To bring the situation home more forcibly, the following statement of an actual occurrence within the past few weeks in Boston coming to the attention of the Health Department is set forth.

A physician had been called to attend a child of school age for an illness. The illness, as events later proved, was that of a contagious disease. The physician treated the patient for the illness diagnosed, but neglected to report the case to the Boston Health Department. It was only through exclusion from the school which the child was attending as a result of the discovery of symptoms indicating infection from a contagious disease by the school physician that the Health Department was informed officially of the existence of this particular case. The complete facts with respect to the original visit of a physician to the child, and his failure to report the case to the department, were brought out when a medical inspector of the department visited the child, who had been excluded from school, for the purpose of quarantining and giving instructions to the mother as to proper isolation from other children in the house, to prevent spread of the infection to them. As a matter of fact, the need for quarantining had entirely passed because of the delay in reporting the disease, which had spent itself at the time of the medical inspector's visit. If this case had been originally reported to the Health Department the child would have been immediately quarantined, and would not have been permitted to return to school until all danger from infection to others had passed.

Fortunately there was no spread of the infection to other children by the sick child while she was in the school. But this fortunate occurrence is not attributable to the family physician who neglected to report the case. It is attributable rather to the watchfulness of the school physician over the physical condition of the children under his care and supervision, and even though the case was finally discovered and reported in that manner, it is not an excuse for the physician who was originally at fault in not reporting it immediately to the Health Department at the time of his original visit three weeks before the case was brought to the attention of the department. Exactly what form of excuse the statement of the attending physician in question will take is not yet known, and until it is known it will not be possible for the Health Department to take any action with respect to his neglect in the situation outlined.

The necessity for taking punitive measures of any kind, however harsh or lenient they may be, should be entirely unnecessary because of the absolute responsibility upon the physicians of Boston to see to it that they are not negligent in any single instance with reference to the reporting of communicable diseases coming to their knowledge. The experience of the physicians of Boston in their personal observations in their chosen field of endeavor will tell them more explicitly than can otherwise be pointed out to them that dangerous consequences are apt to result from the failure, in any single instance, on the part of a physician to report promptly to the Health Department a case of contagious disease coming to his attention. The physicians of Boston know that a child having a contagious disease and who is not properly isolated from other children in the family may pass that disease along to the others through eating out of the same dishes and using the same eating utensils that others in the family use, when no precautions are taken. The physicians of Boston also know that an unreported case of disease within their knowledge in a child of school age may result in the spread of the infection to others in the school which the child attends before the school physician has discovered and excluded the child from attendance; and it is entirely possible that for one reason or another the condition of the child may not come to the attention of the school physician at all during the entire illness of the child in question, thus increasing the danger of spread of the infection to other school children.

All of these facts are but mere repetition of facts within the knowledge of Boston physicians. Since the need for constant watchfulness on the part of health officials with respect to the good health of the community compels such officials to reiterate with emphasis, for instance, the importance of complete reporting of all cases of communicable diseases to the Health Department, and even though the physicians, collectively, feel that they are not lax in their duty in this regard, the laxity of one physician, however excusable, is sufficient reason for calling forcibly to the attention of all physicians the necessity for the exercise of diligence on their part to prevent lapses from the path of duty.

It is hoped and expected, therefore, that this statement will sufficiently bring home to Boston physicians a realization of the importance for complete co-operation with the Boston Health Department in the matter of reporting promptly all cases of communicable diseases coming under their supervision.

THE CITY CLEANING PLAN.

Mayor Curley received the following letter from Commissioner Rourke of the Public Works Department relative to the accumulation of refuse, upon the 28th instant:

To the Honorable Mayor:

As a result of the severe snow conditions of the past winter there remains in the streets and alleys an accumulation of snow, ice, dirt, ashes, etc., which condition is generally prevalent throughout the city, although on the suburban streets where the snow had a good chance to melt there is very little snow and ice, but there is an accumulation of dirt.

It is impossible for the day labor forces to make much impression on this accumulation and we have made an arrangement with the six snow contractors to help out, on a cost plus basis, and there are employed about 300 men and 50 trucks and teams. We have increased the force of the Street Cleaning Service by the addition of 300 temporary men and hired equipment. The ten of the out-of-town street cleaning districts who have been employed in removing snow in the city proper all winter have been sent back to their various districts, and all of the force is now engaged in cleaning the streets and to some extent the public alleys. The latter are quite a problem, as there is a great accumulation of ashes and dirt, partly due to the non-collection and also partly caused by the property owners not providing a sufficient number of receptacles. This clean-up campaign is starting a month earlier than usual, but it is justified by present conditions. Greater progress would have been shown during the past week had the weather not become colder, causing the materials in the street to freeze and preventing them from being handled effectively.

It is intended to start, at once, an agitation for a cleaner Boston and enlist the co-operation of all the city agencies possible to further this work. The presence of so much snow during the winter has made the people grow more careless than ever as they utilized the excuse of snow and ice in the gutters to throw their refuse, ashes and other material into the streets, making conditions much worse, and it is noticed that this condition is continuing in the streets which we have cleaned. It looks as though a stronger effort than ever must be made to bring about a cleaner city.

Together with the United Improvement Association and the Chamber of Commerce representatives the writer had conferences last year, at one of which the Police Commissioner was present and agreed to co-operate with us in bringing about better conditions, and, after warnings had been given, to arrest at first the most flagrant offenders and later any offender—it being felt that if the city authorities were able to stop spitting on the sidewalk they could also stop the throwing of litter onto the streets and sidewalks.

We have provided $5,000 additional in the street cleaning budget this year for the purchase of wire barrels and box containers for litter, to be placed on street corners, and it is hoped that the opposition of abutters so frequent in the past will not obstruct this provision for a cleaner city.

The suggestion has been made that the Police Department incorporate a provision in licenses for taxicab stands that the licensee keep the street the entire length of the stand, and six feet from the curb, clean of litter, snow and ice, at the licensee's expense. It is also suggested that the licensed newsboys, particularly, those who have special corners or locations, be obliged to keep their neighborhood clean, as we find that the greater amount of litter is in these neighborhoods and the boys themselves have thrown ropes and bundles of papers near the catch-basins, and in some cases have stuffed them into the gutter mouths.

Newspapers, of course, can help a great deal in this campaign, as can also the School Committee by having the teachers talk to the scholars—both young and old—at short intervals; Boy Scouts could be enlisted, and civic centers and settlement houses and other agencies could be called upon to help.

It is discouraging to walk along a street directly after it has been cleaned and find material which has been thrown into the roadway by some careless pedestrian or driver, and particularly aggravating is it to have shopkeepers deliberately throw litter into the streets or sweep it from the sidewalks.

Yours respectfully,

JOSEPH A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

THE LEASE OF THE ARMY BASE.

Mayor Curley received the following letter from the United States Shipping Board, Washington, D. C., upon the 26th instant:

UNITED STATES SHIPPING BOARD,
WASHINGTON, D. C.,
March 24, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

MY DEAR MR. MAYOR:—In the absence of Mr. Lasker I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your favor of the 22d with reference to the possible leasing of the army base at South Boston to private individuals or corporations, and note your suggestion that the City of Boston desires an opportunity to submit a proposal before final action is taken. I will hold your letter and call it to Mr. Lasker's attention immediately upon his return. You may be sure, however, that no action along the line suggested in your letter will be taken without giving the City of Boston an opportunity to submit a proposal.

With very best wishes, I am,

Sincerely yours,

RALPH V. SOLLITT,
Assistant to the Chairman.

MAYOR FOR ARBITRATION.

The Building Trades Employees and Building Trades Employers held a meeting at City Hall, called by Mayor Curley, upon the 27th instant.

The Building Trades Employees have agreed during the process of settlement and until such time as they finally have approved of the agreement, that they will not order or participate in any strikes and the Building Trades Employers have agreed to submit to the employees a recommendation for an increase of ten cents an hour for a two-year agreement, five cents of the agreement to be effective April 1 of this year, and five cents to be effective April 1 of next year. The Building Trades Employees have agreed to hold their meetings at once and report back their determination on Wednesday of next week.

RESTORATION OF FANEUIL HALL.

Mayor Curley sent the following order to the City Council upon the 26th instant:

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
March 26, 1923.

GENTLEMEN,—The restoration of Faneuil Hall has been an acute problem avoided by every administration for the last quarter of a century.

The institution is a historical landmark which we, as custodian, should protect and preserve. In 1917 $68,000 was provided and architects of the firm of Cram & Ferguson were selected to restore Faneuil Hall to colonial lines.

In the opinion of the succeeding administration it was deemed inadvisable to proceed with the work of restoration and as a consequence the work for which the fund was created four years ago was never done. During a portion of these four years, due to the failure to properly heat the building, priceless works of art were injured and the interior of the structure suffered.

The architects estimate that the probable cost of restoration of Faneuil Hall, with fire curtains and fire proofing sufficient to protect it even in the event of conflagration in that section of the city, will represent an approximate cost of $200,000 and I believe it the duty of the city to provide this money.

At present there is some $65,000 available and I accordingly recommend adoption of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Ordered, That the sum of $150,000 be and the same is hereby appropriated to be expended within the debt limit for restoration of Faneuil Hall and that the City Treasurer be authorized to issue, from time to time, bonds for the said amount and for the said purpose.

Cram & Ferguson are the architects in charge at Faneuil Hall and the details are in the care of an associate, Chester N. Godfrey. When the work is completed the only outward changes to be noticed will be the original color of the brick and the substitution of a steel and concrete canopy with glass over the sidewalk in place of inflammable wooden and cloth coverings.

One of the most important of the improvements will be that of a water curtain to protect all sides of the building, this protection being deemed of absolute necessity, owing to the proximity of inflammable construction and contents. There will be fireproof beams of steel and concrete in place of the wooden supports and fireproof window casements.

Every inch of the exterior will be gone over by masons to remove broken or crumbling brick and to fill up apertures. When the old paint of several thicknesses has been removed, the surface will be given a chemical bath of weather-proofing material which will be readily absorbed.

It was in 1917 that the City Council passed an appropriation of $68,000 for the building and the firm of Cram & Ferguson were chosen to restore the structure to colonial lines.

REPORT OF FRANKLIN UNION.

President Nathan Matthews informally awarded fifty-six certificates in two, three, and four year evening courses at the Franklin Union Thursday evening, March 22. Monday evening, March 26, was observed as the fifteenth annual public inspection of the building and exhibition of students' work, both day and evening. Over fifteen hundred people took advantage of the opportunity to look over the facilities which the union offers for training adults.

New equipment has been added during the year in electric wiring, industrial chemistry, pharmacy, self starting and lighting, and automobile repair. The new course in metallography (including steel treating) and the wireless installation course attracted much attention.

The exhibit served to call attention to the fact that Franklin Union courses offer something more than lectures or correspondence. Practical laboratories are everywhere provided, and students are given actual contact with the finest and most up-to-date equipment in classes limited in size, so as to insure careful and thorough understanding of the principles underlying present industrial and technical development. In meeting the demand for advanced training between that of high school and college, Franklin Union is limited only by the lack of funds for satisfactory maintenance, its only source of permanent income being the donation made by Mr. Andrew Carnegie in 1908.

SPRING COURSES, 1923.

Franklin Union provides instruction intended to supplement the daily work of men in the trades or industries. The classes listed do not teach trades. Evening study, to produce results, must be supplemented by years of practical experience. Classes are open to women.

Evening classes open at 7 p. m. and close at 9 p. m., unless otherwise stated.

SURVEYING, FIELD PRACTICE.

Elementary, CE-4. Saturdays, 1.45 p. m. to 5.30 p. m. Nine afternoons. Registration fee, $10. Opens March 24, 1923, closes May 19. Use and adjustment of instruments. Practical surveying problems.

Advanced, CE-5. Saturdays, 1.45 p. m. to 5.30 p. m. Nine afternoons. Registration fee, $10. Opens March 24, 1923, closes May 19.

RAILROAD CURVES AND EARTH WORK, CE-6.

Three evenings a week, Monday, Tuesday and Thursday, starting April 2, 1923, and closing Thursday, May 24. Registration fee, $12. Prof. Samuel L. Conner, in charge.

ARCHITECTURAL WORKING DRAWING.

Three evenings a week, Monday, Tuesday and Thursday, starting April 2, 1923, and closing Thursday, May 24. Registration fee, $8. Open only to men with some knowledge of architectural drawing.

AUTOMOBILE ENGINES, ELEMENTARY.

Three evenings a week. Monday, Tuesday and Thursday, 7 to 9 p. m., opening April 2, and closing May 24. Registration fee, $10. This course provides class and laboratory instruction, but not road work.

SELF-STARTING AND LIGHTING.

Three evenings a week, Monday, Tuesday and Thursday, 7 to 9 p. m., opening April 2, and closing May 24. Registration fee, $12. Requirements for admission: Complete familiarity with the automobile. A tool kit and instruction book will be required costing about $6 additional.

MATHEMATICS.

Monday, Tuesday and Thursday, 7 to 9 p. m. Registration fee, $8 for any two subjects as arranged. Opens April 2, closes May 24.

Arithmetic, 7 to 8. Elementary applied arithmetic, with practical problems pertaining to shop work. Mensuration, 8 to 9, consisting of the practical calculations of lengths, areas, volumes and weights of various objects. Elementary algebra, 7 to 8. Commencing at the beginning and going as far as time will permit. Plane geometry, 8 to 9. This will be the type necessary for entrance examinations, and will cover the fundamentals. Logarithms and slide rule, 8 to 9. The use of the tables and the manipulation of the rule as applied to practical problems. Trigonometry, 7 to 8. A study of the fundamental tools of the subject and their application to all types of calculations.

The following combinations of the above subjects may be taken:

Algebra and logarithms with slide rule.

Algebra and geometry.

Logarithms, slide rule and trigonometry.

Arithmetic and mensuration.

Geometry, physics, logarithms, with slide rule, and a continuation of algebra may be taken by men who have had algebra through factoring, with the second term of Lowell Preparatory Course, P-2A. Registration fee, $20. Closing August 17, 1923.

Trigonometry, and a continuation of algebra, geometry and physics may be taken by men who have had algebra through fractions, some geometry, physics and logarithms with the Lowell Preparatory Course, P-2. Registration fee, $15. Closing May 24.

RADIO INSTALLATION, P-6C.

Monday and Tuesday, 7 to 9 p. m., April 2 to May 22, inclusive. Registration fee, $12. This course covers the practical installation of equipment for receiving broadcasting, and consists of class-room and laboratory practice.

INDUSTRIAL CHEMISTRY.

Monday, Tuesday and Thursday, 7 to 9 p. m. Registration fee, $12. Opens April 2, closes May 24. General chemistry, C-1. Lectures, recitations and laboratory work. The essentials and uses of chemistry as applied to practical industrial work. Qualitative chemical analysis, C-2. The course should qualify the student to detect the common metals and acids in the analysis of commercial inorganic substances and thus to identify the substance itself. Quantitative chemical analysis, C-3. Instruction and practice in the methods used to determine the per cent purity of substances and the quantity of a given substance in a mixture. It leads to the complete analysis of raw materials, commercial products, foods and drugs. Organic chemistry, C-4. Conferences and laboratory work in class reactions and organic preparations. Pharmacy, C-5. Instruction and practice in the methods of manipulation and manufacture of galenic pharmaceutical preparations and compounding.

NOTE.—The spring courses are given to enable students to finish uncompleted work and prepare for advanced fall courses; also to provide additional practice. Special work is permissible. Courses are dependent on the number of applicants. Dr. Norman A. Dubois, in charge.

Students will be held personally responsible for breakage or waste in laboratories.

For applications, address, WALTER B. RUSSELL, Director, Franklin Union, Berkeley and Appleton streets, Boston 18, Mass.

LAND-TAKING IN WEST ROXBURY.

The Mayor has approved the order of the Board of Street Commissioners for the taking of land for sewerage works in Hemlock street, West Roxbury.

The right and easement is taken to lay and maintain sewerage works in the following described lands, exclusive of any interest in trees, buildings or other structures standing thereon, reserving to the owners thereof the right to use the lands for any purpose except such as may injure or obstruct said works, and except for placing or maintaining any structure on said lands not authorized in writing by the Mayor of said city; trees, buildings or other structures standing upon or affixed to the land in which an easement is hereby taken are to be removed therefrom within sixty days following a notice of the city's intention to enter upon said taking for the purpose of constructing said sewerage works. Said lands are in that part of Boston formerly West Roxbury and are bounded as follows:

A parcel of land, owners unknown, being part of the private way known as Bellevue avenue bounded:

Westerly by a part of Bellevue avenue, eight and 48-100 feet; northeasterly by another part of Bellevue avenue twenty-two and 62-100 feet; easterly by the line of Hemlock street eight and 48-100 feet; southwesterly by another part of Bellevue avenue twenty-two and 62-100 feet; containing one hundred thirty-six square feet, more or less.

A parcel of land, owners unknown, being part of the private way known as Hemlock street, bounded:

Westerly by the line of Hemlock street eight and 48-100 feet; northeasterly by another part of Hemlock street seven hundred and ninety six and 77-100 feet; southeasterly by the line of Washington street six and 1-100 feet; southwesterly by another part of Hemlock street seven hundred ninety-one and 10-100 feet; containing four thousand seven hundred sixty-four square feet, more or less.

The sewerage works to be constructed are as follows: three hundred and fifteen linear feet of 18-inch pipe, 150 linear feet of 12-inch pipe and 328 linear feet of 10-inch pipe surface drain.

The Board determines that no person sustains damages in his estate by the taking of the aforesaid easement and construction of said sewerage works and awards no damages therefor.

BOSTON FINANCE COMMISSION.

BOSTON, March 29, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

SIR,—The Finance Commission submits the following report on the procedure of the Commissioner of Public Works in the matter of securing a contractor to install piping and other equipment for new boilers at the Calf Pasture pumping station.

Plans and specifications for this work were prepared by Arthur W. Norton, consulting engineer, co-operating with various officials of the Public Works Department. The first set of bids were opened on February 16, 1923, and are as follows:

J. P. Dwyer Company	$26,497
Walworth-English-Flett Company	$2,000
General Construction and Repair Company	$4,500
Ingalls & Kendrick	$4,500
Lumsden & Van Stone	$8,370

The J. P. Dwyer Company, the lowest bidder, was willing to execute a contract based on its bid as submitted, but the Commissioner of Public Works intimated to the J. P. Dwyer Company that it had probably made a mistake in figuring the contract so low. Thereupon the J. P. Dwyer Company went over the figures on which it had based its bid and reported that it had made a mistake in extending its totals on one item but that, even with the mistake corrected, it was still the lowest bidder by $400.

The city's interests and the fairness with which the city ought to deal with prospective contractors demanded that the contract be awarded either to the J. P. Dwyer Company at its bid as originally submitted, or to the next lowest bidder, Walworth-English-Flett Company. The Commissioner of Public Works, however, did not follow either of these alternatives. The contract was readvertised.

In the specifications on which the first bids were based, the time within which the city required the work to be done was not mentioned. This omission was discovered before the first bids were opened, but in a conference between the Commissioner of Public Works and the consulting engineer who drew the specifications it was decided that the matter of time within which the contract was to be performed could be fixed with the contractor to whom the contract was awarded on a satisfactory basis to the city. The contract, therefore, was not readvertised because of the omission of the time within which the contract should be performed.

The policy of readvertising is unfair to bidders and costly to the city. It is rarely or never necessary. It certainly was not necessary in this case.

The second set of bids was opened on March 1, 1923, as follows:

General Construction and Repair Company	$31,390
J. P. Dwyer Company	$31,500
Lumsden & Van Stone	$4,900

It will be noted that instead of five competitors only three appeared in response to the readvertisement.

The Commissioner of Public Works has awarded the contract to the J. P. Dwyer Company, the second lowest bidder, without assigning any reason in his letter to your Honor for so doing. He stated to the Finance Commission that his award of the contract to the J. P. Dwyer Company was because it was a Boston firm, while the lowest bidder has a place of business outside Boston.

If public competition among contractors is to be confined to those residing in Boston, then that ought to be stated in the proposal. In this case it was not so stated.

For reasons that do not appear, it is obvious from the investigation made by the Finance Commission that not only did the Commissioner of Public Works desire that the J. P. Dwyer Company should get the contract, but also that that company should get the contract at a price as great as or greater than that bid by any other firm. The city's interests seem to have been entirely disregarded.

It also appears that just before the specifications for this contract were completed the engineer in charge of the pumping station suggested that a tank be provided in connection with the new boilers, in which to store boiler compound. This provision indicates an intention on the part of the Public Works Department to make use of a boiler compound for cleansing purposes. The Finance Commission has advised against the city using boiler compound for the purpose of cleaning or preserving boilers. The reason underlying this advice is that the water used in the City of Boston does not leave deposits in boilers that it requires a boiler compound to remove, if ordinary operating precautions are observed.

The Finance Commission recommends that your Honor examine more carefully the procedure of the Commissioner of Public Works in awarding contracts that have been submitted to public competition, before giving your approval.

Respectfully submitted,

THE FINANCE COMMISSION,
by MICHAEL H. SULLIVAN,
Chairman.

Mayor Curley sent the following reply to the communication of the Finance Commission:

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
March 29, 1923.

HON. MICHAEL H. SULLIVAN, Chairman
Finance Commission, Boston:

DEAR SIR,—I beg to acknowledge receipt of communication with reference to the award of contract for equipment at Calf Pasture pumping station, which was published in full by the press prior to its receipt by me.

With regard to the particular contract to which you make reference, I beg to state that the standards of honesty observed in every case by the Public Works Commissioner would not permit of his approving a contract where upon its face it was apparent that an error had been made in the final computation of the bids submitted which would entail a loss of approximately $5,000 to the contractor on a total contract slightly in excess of $30,000.

The most important branch of the city service, in my opinion, is the sewage disposal and it is so important that there is no way to justify the making of a contract with any firm other than one which, in the opinion of the Public Works Commissioner, is thoroughly reliable and qualified to perform the work, as upon its proper performance depends in a large measure the health of the entire people of Boston.

Awarding the contract to a local firm with an A-1 reputation as against awarding to a firm which has never performed any work for the city leaves only one course open and I approve that course, a course which the commissioner followed in making the award to the local firm.

Your recommendation that I examine more carefully the procedure of the Commissioner of Public Works in the awarding of contracts is amusing, in view of the fact that while the Finance Commission has been working overtime in an endeavor to embarrass the present administration, the only recommendation which it makes in this case is the adoption of a policy favoring not only of sharp practice but downright dishonesty, and this policy it is not my purpose to pursue to please your commission.

Respectfully yours,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

THE TAX ON GASOLENE.

Mayor Curley supported the recommendation of Governor Cox that gasoline be taxed two cents a gallon and that one half the revenue so derived be distributed among the cities and towns before the Joint Committee on Ways and Means at the State House upon the 29th instant.

Mayor Curley declared the proposal was favored by the Mayors' Clubs of Massachusetts. He believed, however, that there should be a guarantee that all the money derived from the tax should be put into permanent roads, such as concrete or granite block pavement. He said that good roads will benefit the motorists more than the gas tax will hurt them, for in cities which have much smooth pavement it has been shown that the life of an automobile is longer than it is in Boston. In Boston the life of a car is only 80 per cent as long as in Philadelphia. He said that over 70 per cent of the freight of the port of Boston is hauled over the highways and only 30 per cent is handled by the railroads. The Mayor opposed using any of the gasoline tax money for snow removal.

THE SCHOOL HEADQUARTERS.

The completion of the Administration Building of the School Committee, at 15 Beacon street has made it possible to transfer the various school activities under the direction of the committee that were housed originally at Mason street. Some of the departments that have been located at 218 Tremont street, such as the Department of Manual Arts and the Department of Vocational Guidance, were transferred to 15 Beacon street, upon this 29th instant. The other departments which were located at 218 Tremont street will be transferred to the Continuation School building on Common street, which has been reconstructed to meet their convenience. These offices comprise the supervisor of licensed minors, the certifying office, and the office of the examining physician in connection with the issuance of employment certificates.

The combining of the certifying office and the Continuation School activities in one building will prove more convenient and accessible to parents and pupils than to have them separated as heretofore. This will be specially true of pupils frequenting the certifying office which is visited by several hundred people daily.

THE NORTH END HEALTH UNIT.

Mayor Curley sent the following letter to Assistant Corporation Counsel Joseph P. Lyons, upon the 27th instant:

CITY OF BOSTON,

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,

March 27, 1923.

DEAR SIR,—I am desirous that the George R. White Fund Health Unit Building be located on the land of the Park Department formerly occupied by the Temple Beth Israel, rather than upon the Police Station No. 8 site, which, in the opinion of the City Council and the people of the North End, and, I believe, the Trustees of the White Fund, is a better location for the interests of this section of the city.

I would greatly appreciate your having the matter adjusted at once.

Sincerely yours,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

PUBLIC LIBRARY LECTURES.

The last of the Shakespeare lectures given under the auspices of the Drama League of Boston will be given on Sunday afternoon, April 1.

The subject is "Shakespeare as a Character in Plays Written About Him." The lecturer is Prof. Albert H. Gilmer, of the English Department of Tufts College.

References will be made to the plays by Shakespeare revived this season in New York. The lantern slides will show scenes from the productions, and especially many pictures of the New York and London productions of Clemence Dane's modern drama, "Will Shakespeare."

This year will be celebrated the centenary of the publication of "Mr. William Shakespeare's Comedies, Histories and Tragedies. London, 1623," generally known as the "First Folios."

EXTENSION OF CONTRACTS.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT (SEWER SERVICE).

An extension of time has been granted for completion of the contract made with the Frank E. Ross Company for masonry settings for new boilers at the Calf Pasture pumping station, Dorchester, from February 6, 1923, to April 30, 1923, eighty-three days. This extension of time is occasioned by waiting for work to be done under other contracts and to severe winter weather.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT EXPENDITURES PER CAPITA IN LEADING CITIES (BY RANK).

Boston, $42.07 (as corrected); Pittsburgh, $39.70; New York, $38.81; Los Angeles, $36.94; Philadelphia, $32.52; San Francisco, $31.80; Chicago, $29.78. (See U. S. Census Bureau's Financial Statistics of Cities, 1920, Preliminary Reports.)

BOSTON'S TRUST FUNDS AND BEQUESTS.

Number of permanent funds and bequests held by the City, Feb. 1, 1922, for various purposes, 128, representing a total value of $10,146,580. The earliest dates back to 1674, viz., Gibson School Fund. The largest fund is the bequest of the late George F. Parkman, consisting of various parcels of real estate (now mostly sold) valued at $5,000,000 to $5,500,000, the income from which ($210,975 in 1921) is used for the upkeep and improvement of the older parks. Total amount of Parkman Fund in custody of City Treasurer, $5,392,877; next in amount, $918,127, made up of 17 funds in charge of the Overseers of the Public Welfare; (3) the Franklin and Franklin Union, amounting to $788,124; (4) Public School Teachers' Retirement, $721,564; (5) 8 Cemetery funds, $687,822; (6) 41 Public Library funds, $576,762; (7) Permanent School Pension, $422,531; (8) Police Charitable, $207,550; (9) 19 School funds, $171,982; (10) 19 Hospital funds, $97,750; 18 others, $161,491. Average annual income from all invested funds, nearly 4 per cent.

Two other funds are held by incorporated members of the Fire Dept. and Police Dept. respectively, viz., Firemen's Relief Fund, amounting to $254,000 and Police Relief Fund, $268,477.

In 1922 a large bequest ($5,000,000 approx.) came to the City by the will of the late George R. White. It consists of first-class real estate property and the income received therefrom up to Sept. 1, 1922 amounted to $186,088.

MEN NATURALIZED IN MASSACHUSETTS.

In the 13 years ending June 30, 1922, the aliens naturalized numbered 106,953, or 62,245 by the Federal court and 44,708 by State courts. Largest number in any one said years, 16,321 in 1918-19, 16,330 in 1919-20, 12,671 in 1920-21, 9,454 in 1921-22. The notable increase during the three years 1918-1920 was due to the large number of foreign born soldiers and sailors who had served in the World War and were, by the U. S. law of May 9, 1918, and that of July 19, 1919, allowed to become citizens because of their military service without being subject to the regular requirements.

PROPOSALS FOR SEWERAGE WORKS IN MILTON STREET, FROM WORDSWORTH STREET TO POINT STREET, EAST DORCHESTER.

The Commissioner of Public Works of the City of Boston, office 508 City Hall Annex, invites proposals from citizens of the United States and corporations or other legal associations wherein the controlling interest to the extent of at least over one half thereof is owned by a citizen or citizens of the United States, for sewerage works in Milton street, from Wordsworth street to point street, easterly, East Boston. A bond will be required for doing the work of a surety company approved by the Commissioner in the sum of two hundred and fifty ($250) dollars to secure the due performance of the contract and the full protection of the city. Plans and proposals may be obtained at Room 508, City Hall Annex. Each proposal should be inclosed in an envelope, sealed, marked "Proposal for Sewerage Works in Milton Street," and left at Room 508, fifth floor, City Hall Annex, before 12 m. on Friday, April 13, 1923, with a certified check for one hundred (100) dollars, payable to and to become the property of the city if the proposal after acceptance is not carried out. The proposals will then and there be publicly opened and read. Proposals must be made in duplicate, the sealed duplicate, without check, to be deposited by the bidder with the City Auditor previous to the time named for opening the proposals. If the price of any item appears to the Commissioner to be abnormally high or low, or the bidder neglects to bid on each and every item, it may lead to the rejection of the proposal containing such price. The undersigned reserves the right to reject any or all proposals or to award the contract as he deems best.

PETITION FOR KINDERGARTEN IN NEW SCHOOLHOUSE IN WEST ROXBURY.

A communication was received from the Superintendent, under date of Mar. 19, 1923, to whom was referred at the meeting of Dec. 13, 1922 (see p. 396), a petition from the West Roxbury Woman's Club for the establishment of a kindergarten in the Theodore Parker School, West Roxbury, reporting that in the Longfellow District there is now a kindergarten in the Longfellow School and there is also a kindergarten in the Unitarian Church Building on South Street, Roslindale.

On June 5, 1922, the School Committee authorized the establishment of an additional kindergarten in the Longfellow District to take effect September 1, 1922, in response to repeated petitions from the representatives of the district for a kindergarten in the Mozart School. It was planned to have this additional kindergarten opened in September, 1922, but this was not possible because of lack of suitable accommodations.

The Assistant Superintendent in charge and the Principal of the district are of the opinion that the needs of the district will best be met by the transfer of the kindergarten now housed in the Unitarian Church to the new Theodore Parker School when that building shall be ready for occupancy, with the understanding that the kindergarten authorized for the Mozart Building will be established when available accommodations shall permit. In this opinion the Superintendent concurs, and recommends the passage of the accompanying order.

Placed on file.

On motion of the Superintendent, it was ORDERED, That the kindergarten now established in the Roslindale Unitarian Church, Longfellow District, is hereby transferred to the Theodore Parker School, Longfellow District, to take effect when that building shall be ready for occupancy.

REPORT ON ATTENDANCE AT CONVENTION.

A communication was received from the Superintendent, under date of Mar. 19, 1923, submitting, in accordance with the provisions of section 3 of Chapter 274 of the Acts of 1914, a brief report from William B. Snow, Assistant Superintendent, concerning his recent attendance at the meeting of the Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association, held at Cleveland, Ohio, from Feb. 25 to Mar. 2, 1923.

Placed on file.

SALARIES OF FIRST ASSISTANT ASSESSORS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 26, 1923.

To the City Council:
Gentlemen,—The importance of the work performed by the first assistant assessors is such that it is desirable that the best possible character of reality men not only be retained in the Assessing Department but that the compensation be sufficiently attractive to other men qualified to perform this important and exacting work.

That the high standard which at present obtains may continue, I recommend adoption of the accompanying amendment to the ordinances.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

An Ordinance Concerning the Salaries of the First Assistant Assessors.
Be it ordained by the City Council of Boston, as follows:

Section five of chapter three of the Revised Ordinances of 1914, as amended by chapter five of the Ordinances of 1915 and chapter one of the Ordinances of 1916 is hereby further amended in the clause establishing the salaries of first assistant assessors by striking out the said clause and inserting in place thereof the following: "The first assistant assessors each sixteen hundred dollars for street work and preparation therefor, for services on dooming board, and for work on abatements and investigations."

This ordinance shall take effect April 1, 1923.
Refered to the Executive Committee.

STATION FOR HEALTH UNIT.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 26, 1923.
Gentlemen of the City Council:
I am in receipt of communications from the Police Commissioner, Hon. Herbert A. Wilson, and the Superintendent of Public Buildings, relative to the property formerly occupied by the Police Department, and designated as Police Division 8, and located at corner of Battery and Commercial streets.

The Police Department, through its commissioner, having served notice in writing that the premises in question are no longer required for police purposes, and in view of the fact that the City of Boston is in accord with the desire of the trustees of the George Robert White Fund that this site, acquired by purchase by the City of Boston upon May 14, 1866, be utilized as a health unit, I respectfully recommend the adoption of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Buildings Department,
March 24, 1923.

Hon. James M. Curley,

Mayor of Boston:
Dear Sir,—I am inclosing to you communication received from the Police Commissioner relative to Police Division 8 building, corner Battery and Commercial streets, which they have recently vacated and turned over to this department.

In connection therewith, I wish to say that the Public Buildings Department has no use for this property and I await your pleasure as to its disposition.

Respectfully yours,
FRED J. KNEELAND,
Superintendent of Public Buildings.

City of Boston,
Police Department,
March 21, 1923.

Fred J. Kneeland, Esq.,
Superintendent of Public Buildings:
Dear Sir,—This is to inform you that we have moved Police Division 8, corner of Battery and Commercial streets, to the new building on Commercial street, end of North End Park, and have abandoned the old building.

I am turning the old building over to you as the Police Department has no further use for the same. The door of the building is now secured with a padlock, and the key may be obtained by applying to Captain Perry at the new Police Station 8.

Yours respectfully,
HERBERT A. WILSON,
Police Commissioner.

Whereas, The City of Boston acquired by purchase by deed dated May 14, 1866, the premises now situated on Battery street, Commercial street and Salutation street, which premises were formerly used for police station purposes, and

Whereas, The Police Commissioner has given notice in writing that he no longer requires said property and has abandoned the use of the same for police department purposes; and

Whereas, The premises are now occupied by buildings that are no longer fitted for any public use;
Ordered, That the building or buildings on said premises be forthwith removed by said trustees and that his Honor the Mayor in the name and behalf of the City of Boston transfer and convey to the City of Boston its capacity as trustee under the will of the late George Robert White, said premises for the sum of one dollar by an instrument in writing satisfactory to the Law department, and that the same be conveyed upon condition that the said trustees erect forthwith thereon a building in the nature of a health unit which shall be maintained by the City of Boston for purposes not inconsistent with the terms of said will.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

PLAYGROUND AND IMPROVEMENTS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 26, 1923.

To the City Council:
Gentlemen,—The development of twilight baseball games throughout the city, resulting, in a large measure, from the adoption of daylight saving law, provide an opportunity for healthful outdoor recreation not only to the players, but to the spectators that is worthy of encouragement.

Unfortunately, the public attending these games, numbering not infrequently in excess of 25,000, are greatly inconvenienced by the absence of proper seating accommodations.

Arrangements have already been made and money appropriated to provide for a seating capacity of 12,000 persons in various playgrounds throughout the city.

It is desirable that additional accommodations be provided at the earliest possible opportunity, and I accordingly recommend the passage of the accompanying order providing for 3,000 permanent concrete bleacher seats at the John J. Connolly Playground, 1,000 at the William Eustis Playground, and 1,000 at the William E. Carter Playground.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Ordered, That the sum of $60,000 be and the same is hereby appropriated for Improvements, etc., William Eustis, William E. Carter and John J. Connolly Playgrounds, and that to meet said appropriation, the City Treasurer be and hereby is authorized to issue, from time to time upon request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

Coun. WATSON.—Mr. President, in order to save time, or, rather, to avoid delay, I would like action on those orders at this time.

The PRESIDENT.—Do you object to referring to the Executive Committee?

Coun. WATSON.—I anticipate the Executive Committee will be in session quite a long while, I thought perhaps it might be just as well to act at this time.

The PRESIDENT.—The Chair will entertain a motion to that effect. You mean suspension of the rules?

Coun. WATSON.—Yes.

The rule was suspended and the order was passed, yeas 9, nays 0.

PETITIONS REFERRED.

The following petitions were received and referred to the committees named, when appointed, viz.:

SIDEWALK SCHEDULES.

Notices were received from the Commissioner of Public Works recommending the passage of orders, viz.:

Ordered, That the persons named in the foregoing schedules be and the same are hereby assessed the sums set against their respective names as their proportionate parts of the cost of constructing sidewalks in front of their estates on the following named streets, and the same is ordered to be certified and notice given to the persons as aforesaid, viz.:

Cowper street, from Centre street across Short street, Ward 1, $1,140.19.

Moore street, Ward 1, $2,164.48.

Humboldt avenue, Ward 16, $857.72.

The orders were passed.

MONEY FOR SOLDIERS' RELIEF.

Coun. GILBODY offered an order—That there be allowed and paid to the Soldiers' Relief Commissioner, and charged to the appropriation for Soldiers' Relief Department, the sum of $300, said sum to be expended subject to the approval of the Committee on Soldiers' Relief, by said commissioner in affording immediate relief to the needy and to aid under chapter 79 of the Revised Laws and acts in amendment thereof and addition thereto.

Coun. DONOGHUE—Mr. President, I hope the matter is referred to the Street Committee in view of the fact that I read in the City Record, I think it was under date of March 17, that something like $34,000 had been transferred from the Soldiers' Relief Department to the Public Works Department. It seems rather peculiar to me to think that at the end of the fiscal year they have an amount such as $34,000 that can be transferred to another department, and then have to come in here two or three weeks later asking for an emergency appropriation of $300.

The PRESIDENT—Coun. GILBODY, have you any objection to referring it to the Executive Committee?

Coun. GILBODY—No objection, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT—Referred to the Executive Committee.

SOLDIERS' RELIEF ALLOWANCES.

Coun. GILBODY offered an order—That under the provisions of chapter 115 of the General Laws, and acts in amendment thereof and in addition thereto, the amounts set forth in the list of allowances hereto annexed, for the month of March, 1923, of aid to soldiers and sailors and their families residing in the City of Boston or having a settlement therein, be hereby approved and paid unless otherwise ordered, unless the person named said previously become ineligible to receive said aid.

Passed under a suspension of the rule.

VARIOUS LOAN ORDERS.

Coun. HAGAN called up unfinished business Nos. 1 to 6, inclusive, separately, viz.:

1. Ordered, That to provide temporarily money to meet the date from the revenue of the financial year 1923-24, the City Treasurer issue and sell, at such times and in such amounts as he may deem best, notes or certificates of indebtedness of the City of Boston not exceeding fourteen million dollars in the total, in anticipation of the revenue of the current municipal year; that all such notes or certificates of indebtedness be dated the day the money for the same is received, be made payable with the interest thereon within one year of the date from the revenue of the year 1923, and bear interest from the time until the same are made payable at such rate as the City Auditor, the City Treasurer, and the Mayor may determine.

On March 12, 1923, the foregoing order was read once and passed, yeas 9.

The order was given its final reading and passed, yeas 8.

5. Ordered, That the sum of $100,000 be appropriated to be expended for the erection of a bath house at World War Memorial Park, to be expended by the Park Commissioners, and that to meet said appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized to issue, from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

On March 12, 1923, the foregoing order was read once and passed, yeas 9.

The order was given its final reading and passed, yeas 8.

6. Ordered, That the sum of $10,000 be and the same hereby is appropriated for the erection of concrete stands on the John J. Connolly Playground on Marcella street, Roxbury, and that to meet said appropriation the City Treasurer be and hereby is authorized to issue, from time to time, upon request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

On March 12, 1923, the foregoing order was read once and passed, yeas 9.

Coun. GILBODY—Mr. President, No. 6 of the calendar I would be laid on the table.

The PRESIDENT—Coun. Gilbody moves No. 6 be laid on the table.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, for the matter of keeping the records straight I would like to state that the gentleman anticipated my motion, evidently, because I understand that a loan order for considerably larger sum was coming in for this purpose, and rather than to have this pass and be vetoed I was going to make the same motion. The motion was carried, and No. 6 of the calendar was laid on the table.

REINSTATEMENT OF PATRICK J. FLAHERTY.

Coun. MORIARTY offered the following: Resolved, That the City Council of Boston hereby favors legislation for the reinstatement of Patrick J. Flaherty as a member of the Boston Fire Department.

Passed under a suspension of the rule.

RECESS TAKEN.

The Council voted at 3.45 p. m., on motion of Coun. BRICKLEY, to take a recess subject to the call of the President.

The members of the Council reassembled in the chamber and were called to order by the President at 5.30 p. m.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE REPORTS.

Coun. WATSON, for the Executive Committee, submitted the following, viz.:

1. Report on petition of Ethel and Ramona Hawkins (referred today) for permit for children under sixteen years of age to appear at Jordan Hall, April 17—that permit be granted.

Report accepted; permit granted on the usual conditions.

2. Report on order (referred today) for appropriation of $300 for Soldiers' Relief Commissioner—that the order ought to be passed.

Report accepted; order passed.

3. Report on message of Mayor and ordinance (referred today) relative to salaries of city assistant assessors—recommended reference of the same to the Committee on Ordinances.

Report accepted; said reference ordered.

Report on communication from the Street Commissioners (referred March 5) concerning hearings on petitions for sale and storage of garbage—that the same be placed on file.

Report accepted; communication placed on file.

4. Report on communication from the Mt. Lebanon Cemetery Association and communication from the Health Commissioner, also from associations in West Roxbury (referred March 12, 1923, respectively)—recommended that a public hearing be given on said petition on Wednesday, April 11, at two o'clock p. m., and that the same be duly advertised in the Standard.

Report accepted; hearing set for the date as recommended.

6. Report on message of Mayor and order (referred February 19) for loan of $500,000 for Highways, Making of—that the same be referred to the Committee on Finance, when appointed.

Report accepted; said reference ordered.

7. Report on various papers (referred today) relative to tercentennial celebration—that the same be placed on file.

Report accepted; papers placed on file.

8. Report on communication from the Street Laying-Out Department (referred today) as to estimated cost of laying out streets—that the same be placed on file.

Report accepted; communication placed on file.

FLUSHING OF STREETS.

Coun. HAGAN offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor consider the advisability, and if possible of accomplishment, the City Council request him to have the streets of Boston thoroughly flushed by the high pressure service where available, and by hydrant service wherever possible, for the purpose of cleaning the streets as best as can be done preventative to sickness, and particularly in the congested sections of the city.

Coun. HAGAN—Mr. President, in offering this order I wish to state that we all know what the condition of the streets have been. The rain and the sunshine have helped out some, but the rain and the sunshine are not going to be sufficient unto themselves unless we co-operate as best we can. The thought came to me that in the thickly congested districts of the city where the sun, garbage and other things have been thrown into the streets during the winter months because of the inability of the residents to have them removed from their homes, that those streets are in more or less bad condition and it is going to be a great cause for sickness unless something is done. As the hospitals are filled to capacity, our homes all have more or less of the inmates ill, and I think every effort should be made and even heroic measures used if we can, by the flushing of the streets to remove the debris, remove garbage, remove all the offensive accumulation of the winter months as speedily as possible. I believe this can be accomplished by the utilization of the high pressure service wherever available, and by the use of hydrant service where the high pressure service is not available. I therefore move suspension of the rules.

The rule was suspended and the order was passed.

PLACING OF SCRUB WOMEN UNDER CIVIL SERVICE.

Coun. HAGAN offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor be urgently requested to confer with the trustees of the Public Library and urge them to have the twenty-one women now employed as scrubwomen in the Public Library placed under the civil service rules, so that these women city employees may enjoy the same privileges as to pensions, holidays and vacations now given to other women employed by the city similar to other.

Coun. HAGAN—Mr. President, this came to my attention through a newspaper editorial that led me to believe, if they are right in their conclusions, that certain city employees, the scrub women of the Public Library, are not receiving the same degree of consideration from the city as are other women employees of other departments of the city. Now, that is unfair, if such is the case, and it is to bring it to the attention of the Mayor, asking him to bring to the attention of the Public Library Trustees, that this order is offered, so that this evil can be remedied. The scrub women in the Public Library should receive the same consideration as the city, should come under the provisions of the pension, weekly vacation without loss of pay, and other considerations that are received by the women employees of the city. If that is denied them now, it is unfair. Perhaps it is unintentional, perhaps it is nothing but thoughtlessness or carelessness, but the change has been brought to attention through this newspaper editorial and I hasten to do what I can individually to remedy this evil, if more.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. President, I will say I took this up with the trustees at the budget hearing for three years in regard to these women, and I am glad to say that with the change of makeup of the trustees that at their last meeting they did take it up, and they are going to recognize that some of the women have been in the employ for twenty-five years, and they are going to put them on as regular employees.

The rule was suspended and the order was passed.

GENERAL RECONSIDERATION.

Coun. MORIARTY moved a general reconsideration on all business transacted at the meeting, hoping that the same would not prevail. Lost.

Adjourned at 5.38 o'clock p. m., on motion of Coun. MORIARTY, to meet on Monday, April 2, at two o'clock p. m.

NEW FIRE ALARM STATION.

The City of Boston through the Law Department has presented a bill to the Legislature seeking the passage of an act authorizing the city to maintain a fire alarm signal station within the limits of the Back Bay Fen. The event of the act being adopted it is the purpose of his Honor the Mayor to erect in the Back Bay Fens, a fire alarm station that will cost approximately $550,000 and which will remove from its present hazardous location in the lumber district the fire alarm signal system of Boston. This contemplated change has been under consideration for a period of twenty years. The fire alarm system occupies relatively the same position as far as the protection of life and property is concerned as the heart does to the human system, and in the event of conflagration at any time in the past twenty years in the lumber district resulting in the destruction of the fire alarm signal station, the city would be without protection other than that afforded by telephone communication or police until such time as a new one might be erected, in all probability for a period of six months, or more.

NATIVES AND CITIZENS OF BOSTON AND VICINITY HONORED IN HALL OF FAME.

In the American Hall of Fame, New York City, dedicated in 1901, are inscribed on bronze tablets the names of 56 eminent men and 7 distinguished women deemed worthy of the highest honor on account of their services and attainments. Of the 63 individuals thus selected (up to 1920 inclusive) by an electorate of 100 leading Americans, 27 were natives or for some time citizens of Boston or vicinity. The names of the latter are as follows: Chosen in 1900—John Adams, Benjamin Franklin, William Ellery Channing, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Daniel Webster, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, Horace Mann, Nathaniel Hawthorne, George Peabody, Samuel Finley Breese Morse, Joseph Story, Asa Gray, Gilbert Stuart—total, 13.

Chosen in 1905—John Quincy Adams, James Russell Lowell, John Greenleaf Whittier—total, 3.

Chosen, in 1910—Edgar Allan Poe, Oliver Wendell Holmes, George Bancroft, John Lothrop Motley, Phillips Brooks—total, 5.

Chosen in 1915—Louis Agassiz, Francis Parkman, Rufus Choate, Charlotte Cushman—total, 4.

Chosen in 1920—William Thomas Green Morton, Alice Freeman Palmer. Five additional names every fifth year are to be selected and inscribed until the year 2,000, when the 150 tablets in the colonnade will be complete.

If those who were natives or residents elsewhere in the State are added to the list, the following 7 names increase the total to 34 for Massachusetts or more than half the whole number, viz.: William Cullen Bryant, Jonathan Edwards, Mark Hopkins, Elias Howe, Eli Whitney, Maria Mitchell, Mary Lyon.

If all New England is included, 4 more names will bring up the total to 38 or 60.3 per cent of whole number chosen, viz.: Roger Williams, Henry Ward Beecher, Harriet Beecher Stowe, Emma Willard.

CITY CHARTER CHANGES.

In 1854, 1885 and 1900 important changes in the original City Charter of 1821 were effected for the purpose of improving the methods and efficiency of the City Government. The revision of 1854 (Chap. 448, Stat. 1854) referred to the voters for acceptance, gave the Mayor a qualified veto over the action of the City Council, also the power of removal of appointed officials, besides providing for his election by a plurality instead of a majority vote. The amendments of 1885 (Chap. 265, Stat. 1885) were not submitted to the voters for approval. They transferred all the executive powers to the Mayor, prohibiting the City Council from interference with the executive and administrative business of the City. This was done in order to remedy the inefficiency resulting from an excessive number of joint committees, a municipal development conforming to the traditions of the outgrown town government.

The amendments of 1909 (Chap. 486, Stat. 1909) cut down the number and powers of the legislative branch of the government to a minimum, the Board of Aldermen (13 members) and the Common Council (75 members) being abolished. For these was substituted a single City Council of nine members to be elected at large for a 3-year term. The Mayor's position was further strengthened by giving him a 4-year term, subject to recall at end of two years, but requiring a majority of the registered voters to make the recall effective. The Mayor's power over appointments was no longer subject to check by aldermen but by a State board, the Civil Service Commission, and City elections were removed from all connection with national and State politics, no primaries nor caucuses being permitted, all candidates for office to be selected by means of nomination papers. The only question in this Act of 1909 which was submitted to the voters was contained in section 35, i. e., whether Plan 1 or Plan 2 should be adopted, the first providing for a term of two years for Mayor and a City Council of 36 members to be chosen in primaries. Plan 2 was adopted by a majority of 3,894. Charter of 1909 amended later as follows: (1) By Chap. 437, Acts of 1910, exempting loans issued for Rapid Transit construction from the prohibition of the establishing of sinking funds, as contained in sec. 26. (2) Chap. 730, Acts of 1914, fixing date of annual municipal election on the sixth Tuesday after the state election instead of in the following January, as in sec. 32; changing the requirement as to signatures on nomination papers to 3,000 for Mayor and 2,000 for City Council and School Committee instead of 5,000 for all, as in sec. 53, also limiting the number of nomination papers issued to 300 for a candidate for Mayor and 200 for other candidates, referring to sec. 54. (3) Chap. 37, Special Acts of 1918, annulling the jurat at end of nomination papers. (4) Chap. 94, Special Acts of 1918, abolishing recall of Mayor, and making him ineligible for re-election, i. e., establishing a single term of four years, but not prohibiting the election of any Mayor for more than consecutive terms. (5) Chap. 288, Acts of 1921, fixing date of the annual municipal election on the first Tuesday after the second Monday in December, also making slight changes as to nominations.

LIQUOR LICENSES AND NATIONAL PROHIBITION.

The national prohibition amendment (i. e., the 18th) to the Constitution, having been ratified by 45 States and becoming effective on January 16, 1920, the legalized trade in intoxicating liquors ceased then. It was supposed to stop about 6 months sooner because of the Federal war regulation providing for prohibition on July 1, 1919, to be effective until the army could be demobilized. But as there was no Massachusetts law forbidding the issuing of licenses after July 1, the Boston Licensing Board issued 702 such for the remainder of the license year with the proviso that the license was no protection against violation of Federal law. After July 1, under Federal law, the only liquor which licensees claimed the right to sell was beer and ale containing not over 2.75 per cent of alcohol. Sales of these lighter beverages continued to October 28, 1919, when Congress enacted a law (Volstead Act) forbidding the sale of any liquor as a beverage containing more than 0.50 per cent alcohol. The validity of this act being widely questioned, the United States Supreme Court upheld it on Jan. 5, 1920, and again on June 7, 1920. The result of this decision was that former applicants for liquor licenses did not apply for them in 1920. The Supreme Court of Mass. later in the year decided that the liquor laws of the State remain in force where not inconsistent with the Volstead Act. The Boston Board therefore issued 146 licenses to druggists and 17 4th-class, permitting sales for non-beverage purposes only. In 1921 there were issued 192 licenses to druggists, 15 4th-class and one 5th-class. On May 17, 1922, Chap. 427, Acts of 1922 (consisting of 27 sections) was approved, providing for the carrying into effect in Mass. of the 18th Federal (i. e., prohibition) amendment. This law is subject to a referendum at State election on November 7, 1922.

By Chapter 392, Acts of 1922, the retailing of non-intoxicating beverages is subjected to license, with fee of not more than one dollar for each year ending April 30.

PUBLIC STREETS IN BOSTON.

Total length of the 2,447 paved (accepted) streets, February 1, 1922, 606.33 miles; total area, 11,459,009 square yards, or 8.47 per cent of the City's total land area. This is exclusive of the private streets (not accepted), numbering about 2,890. 366.10 miles, or 60.38 per cent, are paved with macadam (including 128.03 miles bituminous macadam); 105.66 miles with granite block; 45.50 miles with asphalt; 29.32 miles with gravel; 36.63 miles with asphalt concrete (17.55 m. being bitulithic and 13.71 m. Topceka); 11.69 miles with wood block; 5.42 miles with brick. Old macadam pavement is gradually being replaced with more satisfactory and durable kinds, such as bitulithic, concrete, granite block, etc., $5,138,678 having been expended during the past four years in reconstructing and improving 313 miles of streets and parts of streets. Granolithic sidewalks laid in 1921, 97,049 square yards or about 21 miles, averaging 8 feet wide, 50 per cent of cost assessed on estates benefited.

New highway construction completed in period 1918-1921 includes 13 streets in Boston Proper; 34 in Dorchester; 37 in West Roxbury; 14 in Roxbury; 24 in Brighton; 6 in East Boston; 3 in Hyde Park; 4 in South Boston, and 1 in Charlestown, roadway pavement bitulithic, or asphalt surface on concrete, and bituminous macadam. Gross debt outstanding February 1, 1922, for all street construction, including damages, $22,267,141 or $925,700 more than in 1921, this increase due to new loan for Stuart St. construction.

NATIONAL DEBT BECAUSE OF WORLD WAR.

On July 1, 1918, 15 months after entrance of United States into the World War (April 6, 1917) the public debt (less cash in Treasury) had risen to $10,924,281,355, or $103.92 per capita and 4.8 per cent of total estimated wealth of country, viz., $228,000,000,000. On July 1, 1919, the debt reached the maximum of $24,479,302,376 ($229.34 per capita), of which $9,710,525,000 represented loans to eleven of the allied foreign Governments, the five largest being Great Britain ($4,277,000,000), France ($2,997,477,800), Italy ($1,648,034,000), Belgium ($349,214,488) and Russia ($187,729,750).

On July 1, 1921, the debt was $23,427,772,447, or $1051,529,929 less than on July 1, 1919.

MUNICIPAL SERVICE.

Complaints, inquiries or suggestions regarding the work of municipal departments should be made in writing to the officials directly in charge. The failure of such officials to make reply within a reasonable length of time should be brought to the attention of the Mayor.
Communications should be directed as follows:

TO THE BOARD OF STREET COM-MISSIONERS, Room 401, City Hall Annex, for information relative to the laying out, relocation, widening and the discontinuance of highways; the taking of real property for municipal purposes; the assessments of betterments for streets and sewers; the plotting of undeveloped

*Awarded contract.

Incident to the award of this contract Superintendent Frank P. Rock of the Supply Department made the following statement:

"Permission is respectfully requested to award the contracts to the lowest bidders in each district except Districts 5 and 6, viz., West Roxbury and Dorchester and Ashmont. In District 5, I recommend that the bid be awarded to the New England Crushed Stone Company, the third lowest bidder, as the lowest bidder, the Highland Contracting Company, has been awarded three districts, which I believe are as many districts as any one contractor is capable of handling; and in the case of the second lowest bidder, the Standard Contracting Company, the stone does not meet the specifications of the City of Boston.

"In District 6, Dorchester and Ashmont, I have awarded this contract to the second lowest bidder, the West Roxbury Trap Rock Company, because of the reason stated above, viz., that the Highland Contracting Company have been awarded three districts."

Upon April 5 the Mayor approved a contract with the Paine Furniture Company for furnishing furniture to be used in the equipment of the Thorndike Memorial Building at the Boston City Hospital. A communication from Superintendent Frank P. Rock of the Supply Department was as follows:

Boston, April 3, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—Permission is respectfully requested to award a contract, without publicly advertising for same, to the Paine Furniture Company for furnishing furniture to be used in the equipment of the new Thorndike Memorial Building, at a price of $2,380.15, as per attached sheet.

The canvass of bidders was made by this department on the requirements submitted by the City Hospital, and said bids were referred to Doctor Dowling for recommendation. He has signified that in his opinion the furniture supplied by the Paine Furniture Company will best meet his requirements, and in view of this recommendation I respectfully request that the permission asked for be granted.

Respectfully yours,

FRANK P. ROCK,
Superintendent of Supplies.

ADDITIONS TO AND DEDUCTIONS FROM CONTRACTS.

The following additions to and deductions from contracts have been approved:

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT (Sewer Service).

An addition, amounting to $547, on contract with Anthony Baruffaldi for sewerage works in Glendale road outlet, Section 1, and North avenue, West Roxbury, on account of removing old sheeting platform, etc., between station 15 plus 44 and station 15 plus 97. Original contract, $46,554; total additions, $6,462; contract as standing, $53,016.

An addition, amounting to $336, on contract with Anthony Cefalo for sewerage works in Centre street and outlets, West Roxbury, on account of moving by wheelbarrows from line of work in planting space to roadway, all loam for refilling trenches in planting space and all surplus material due to Arboretum officials refusing to allow any teams to enter the planted area. Original contract, $16,423.75; total additions, $706; contract as standing, $17,129.75.

An addition, amounting to $87, on contract with the Frank E. Ross Company for masonry settings for new boilers at Cal Pasture pumping station, Dorchester, on account of setting nine steel uptakes on top of boilers; culling and sorting 2,000 old sidewalk brick furnished by city. Original contract, $7,300; total addition, $652; contract as standing, $7,952.

EXTRA WORK UNDER CONTRACT.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT (Sewer Service).

Antony Baruffaldi has been directed to perform the following extra work under contract for sewerage works in Glendale road outlet, section 1 and North avenue, between Metropolitan sewer and Centre street, West Roxbury. Items ordered: Remove old sheeting platform, etc., between station 15 plus 44 and station 15 plus 97—the estimated cost of extra work being $547.

Byrne & Company have been directed to perform the following extra work under contract for Spring street brook conduit in Centre street and private land, West Roxbury. Items ordered: Increased cost of excavation, concrete and cleaning conduit, due to water used in flooding Billings Field Playground being allowed to flow down over the line of work of the conduit. Detailed explanation of this work will be filed in the City Auditor's office—the estimated cost of extra work being $9,000.

Joseph P. McCabe has been directed to perform the following extra work under contract for building B and Seventh streets overflow extension in land of New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad from existing overflow, built in 1917, 244 feet westerly, to harbor line of 1898, South Boston. Items ordered: Excavate material in line of trench in excess of that shown on plans, the excess having been caused by tidal wash of fill placed in the vicinity of the overflow extension since profile shown on plans was taken—the estimated cost of extra work being $2,100.

EXTENSION OF CONTRACTS.PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT (Sewerage Works).

An extension of time has been granted for completion of the contract made with V. Barletta, for building sewerage works in Public Alley No. 930, between Peterborough and Queensberry streets, Roxbury, from January 31, 1923, to June 16, 1923, 136 days. This extension of time is occasioned by the recent severe winter weather.

An extension of time has been granted for completion of contract made with V. Grande for building sewerage works in Belle avenue, between Baker street and summit, 1,100 feet southerly, West Roxbury, from March 10, 1923, to April 30, 1923, fifty-one days. This extension is due to delay caused by weather conditions.

An extension of time has been granted for completion of the contract made with Martino De Matteo for building sewerage works in Newburn street, Richards avenue and Dana avenue, Hyde Park, from April 1, 1923, to May 1, 1923, thirty days. This extension is in addition to a previous extension dated December 23, 1922, and makes a total of 128 days, and is occasioned by the fact that the severe winter weather impeded the progress of the work necessitating this extension of time.

An extension of time has been granted for completion of contract made with William Barrett & Co. for building sewerage works in Village brook, Brighton, from Brookline line to Prendergast avenue, from January 1 to July 14, 1923, 194 days. This extension is due partly to the work not being begun for two months after the date of the contract and partly to severe weather conditions.

An extension of time has been granted for completion of the contract made with Timothy Coughlin for building sewerage works in Lorna road, Tiverton road, Stow road, Doane avenue, Glenhill road and Owen street, Dorchester, from April 1, 1923, to June 1, 1923, sixty-one days. This extension is in addition to two previous extensions dated respectively October 30, 1922, and December 30, 1922, and makes a total of 217 days, and is occasioned by the fact that the severe winter weather has impeded the progress of the work necessitating this extension of time.

SUPPLY DEPARTMENT.

An extension of time has been granted for completion of the contract made with the R. D. Wood Company for furnishing 12 and 16 inch high pressure fire pipe from March 15 to June 15, 1923. The Public Works Department has notified the department that the delay in the completion is due to mechanical difficulties at the foundry which are now being rapidly overcome.

An extension of time has been granted for the completion of the contract made with the Kennedy Valve Manufacturing Company for furnishing 16-inch gate valves to the Water Service, Public Works Department, from March 15 to May 15, 1923. This extension is asked because of the delay which the Kennedy Valve Manufacturing Company has experienced due to the non-receipt of the metal stems, which are part of the gate valves, from the company making same.

An extension of time has been granted for completion of the contract made with the Davis Foundry Company for furnishing special castings to the High Pressure Fire Service from March 15 to May 15, 1923. This extension is asked for in view of the unforeseen delay which the contractor has experienced in the installation of testing apparatus.

An extension of time has been granted for completion of the contract made with J. Massiman & Co., for furnishing Portland cement to the Transit Department for six months from March 1, 1923. This extension is requested as the Transit Department was unable to take the cement owing to the exceptional weather conditions but are now ready to receive deliveries.

CONSTRUCTION WORK.

The Mayor has approved, upon request of Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department, the following construction work: A sanitary sewer of 10-inch earthen pipe in Stow road, between Doane avenue and a point 325 feet southwesterly, in the Dorchester district, at an estimated cost of $2,600.

A surface drain of 10-inch, 12-inch and 18-inch earthen pipe in Hemlock street, between Roslindale avenue and Washington street, in the West Roxbury district, at an estimated cost of $4,800.

RENT INCREASES.

Five hundred families have complained to the Rent and Housing Committee at City Hall that their landlords have demanded more rent of them beginning May 1 and have threatened evictions unless the demand is met. Mayor Curley may take a drastic hand in the matter, it is hinted.

Adjuster Herbert C. Ellis says most of the 500 complaints have come in since the first day of this month when most tenement and apartment dwellers must pay their rents. They were notified then of the proposed raise in every case, it appears.

Mayor Curley and Adjuster Ellis say that not only is there no general ground for rent increases at this time but that economic conditions may be cited to justify decreases in rents, which have tremendously increased during the post-war period because of housing shortage.

With a renewed working agreement effected in the building trades and with new apartment house construction that will be put through this summer, there would appear good reason to expect some decreases in rentals, it is declared at City Hall.

"We feel that all citizens, bankers and real estate men should join their efforts with those of the Rent and Housing Committee to help relieve this serious situation in Boston," Mr. Ellis said.

He points out that many families will leave the city for seashore cottages on May 1, and looks upon this annual exodus as another reason why there shouldn't be any general rent increases. Scores of apartments will be thus vacated and be available for renting by families that wish them.

NORTH END BATHING BEACH.

Mayor Curley announces that two large concrete tanks into which clean salt water will be pumped continuously, and a couple of dozen shower baths of fresh water, are to replace the bathing beach at North End Park.

This decision was reached following a conference of Health and Park Department heads and the City Planning Board. The old beach arrangement is to be discontinued altogether, as insanitary because of its location and the consequent stagnant and polluted condition of the water.

Rev. Augustine J. Duarte, Representatives Langone and Scigliano and City Councilor Healey advised with the Mayor.

One of the tanks will be for women and girl bathers, and the other for men and boys. The piers will be opened in summer to mothers and babies.

THE FIRE HAZARD.

Since March 15, 1923, the Fire Department has been called upon to respond to and extinguish an excessive number of grass and rubbish fires. The excessive number of fires are attributed to the fact that we have had no rain for several days, and there are accumulations of dry grass, leaves, rubbish, etc., in the outlying sections of the city.

Many of the fires are due to the malicious activity of children and the carelessness of adults. Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson is co-operating with Fire Commissioner Theodore A. Glynn in suppressing fires of this character. At the request of the Fire Commissioner the patrolmen of all stations have been instructed to be on the lookout for grass and rubbish fires, and report all persons suspected of being implicated in their origin or cause.

The Fire Commissioner has called attention to the fact that no person may ignite or increase a fire in the open air, such as the burning of grass, leaves, rubbish, etc., in the City of Boston without a permit from the Fire Department.

The following regulations have been drawn up and must be strictly observed in connection with these permits:

a. Under no condition shall a permit be issued to other than a responsible person.

b. The applicant for a permit must have the premises equipped with a garden or fire hose attached to a faucet, ready for immediate use. Watering pots should also be at hand.

c. Ground in the immediate vicinity of the fire must be thoroughly wet down before fire is lighted, and kept wet down while fire is burning.

d. The use of kerosene or other inflammable liquids in starting a fire is strictly prohibited.

e. In the discretion of district chiefs and commanding officers very small amounts of rubbish may be permitted to be burned in a metal receptacle or stone inclosure, on condition that sufficient buckets or pails of water are on hand to thoroughly extinguish burning embers on leaving.

f. Fires must at all times be under the personal supervision of the applicant or other adult person acting under his direction, who shall remain at the location of fire until same is thoroughly extinguished.

g. No heap of rubbish shall be lighted, the dimensions of which exceed 3 feet high by 3 feet wide at any one time.

h. No rubbish permits shall be issued for or used on the 17th of June, 4th of July, or any other day celebrated as such.

The greatest hazard, however, at the present time, with which the department has been called upon to contend, is the causing of fires in dry grass, leaves and rubbish by sparks from passing locomotives. On last Saturday (March 31) there were no less than twenty-three fires due to this cause. One locomotive in particular caused three such fires in a single run in the Hyde Park district. The course of the locomotive can be followed by the way the alarms were received from three different boxes.

Box 3711 at River and Massasoit streets was received at 2:26 p. m. Box 3783, at Washington and Tyler streets, was received at 2:29 p. m., and Box 3761, at Beacon street and Vose avenue, was received at 2.43 p. m.

The number of fires arising from this cause, and the conditions surrounding the roadbeds of the various railroads has prompted the Fire Commissioner to send the following letter to the executives of all railroads operating in and around Boston:

"Your attention is called to the fact that on Saturday, March 31, 1923, the Boston Fire Department responded to approximately twenty-three needless alarms for grass fires, caused by sparks from passing locomotives. This is a nuisance which should be abated. The calling out of the apparatus of this department to these fires is not only needless, but it weakens the protection of the entire city in a season when more serious demands may be made.

"In this connection I desire to call your attention to the following extract from section 235, chapter 160, of the General Laws of Massachusetts:

"Every corporation operating a steam railroad shall, subject to the approval of the department, install and maintain a spark arrester on every engine in its service in which wood, coke or coal is used as fuel, and shall, between April 1 and December 1 in each year, keep the full width of all its locations over which such engines are operated, to a point 200 feet distant from the center line on each side thereof, clear of dead leaves, dead grass, dry brush or other inflammable material, and shall not at any time leave any deposit of fire, hot ashes or live coals upon its locations in the immediate vicinity of woodlands or grass lands."

You are therefore requested to take such steps as are necessary to correct the present conditions and hazard that exists for the protection and conservation of the property of the City of Boston.

Yours very truly,

THEODORE A. GLYNN,
Fire Commissioner.

LISTING OF CITIZENS.

The annual police listing of all residents of Boston over twenty years of age, both male and female, to be used for the compilation of the voting lists, started upon Monday, the 24th instant, at 7.45 o'clock, with 1,300 police officers assigned to the task. Superintendent Michael H. Crowley estimates that 500,000 names will be taken. Last year's figures totaled 480,106.

Every building in the city will be visited and the names of all persons over twenty taken, regardless of whether they are citizens. The residence this year as well as the place of abode last year will be listed. All persons who served in any branch of the service during the World War will be so designated on their cards.

The work of listing will continue during the day and will be carried on by the night police until 9 p. m. Officers have been instructed, however, not to disturb residents where it is believed that the family has retired for the night.

When returns are completed the cards will be sent to Station 16 where a staff, headed by Inspector Thomas Mulreys, will arrange the cards in proper form.

Commissioner Wilson, in a letter of instruction to the men of the department, has urged them to use all speed consistent with accuracy in the work.

NEW COAL SITUATION.

Sealer of Weights and Measures Charles B. Woolley, upon the direction of Mayor Curley, has completed a searching investigation of the city coal yards. He was accompanied by Jacob Bitzer, special assistant to the office of Attorney General Jay R. Benton.

Mr. Woolley reports that Boston's largest coal dealers are now receiving coal in rapidly increasing consignments, and of excellent quality, and are of the opinion that all customers will be well taken care of during the spring and summer.

The announcement that can be made from actual survey of coal and railroad yards, that practically no "washery" material is now being received or sold, as the result of the drastic legislation passed more than a week ago.

Conditions are now greatly different from those of a week ago when numerous seizures of "fireproof" coal were made and in one Roxbury yard the officials were amazed at the bins of "washery" coal that had accumulated, hundreds of tons of which had been sold to the poor during the winter.

During the inspection, which was in charge of Sealer Woolley, acting under Mayor Curley's direction, only one car of poor coal was discovered in the yards, this having been consigned to another Roxbury dealer, who, when notified that a sample had been taken, announced that he had already rejected the car. Coal on the sidings and in the barges is not of uniform quality, but it is of such high grade as to surprise the officials who inspected it.

What is now experiencing, as the result of the new law, is witnessed all over the state, according to Mr. Bitzer. Shipments of bad coal are becoming rare and the many sealers, who have authority under the legislation to enter any place where coal is kept and take samples for analysis, have reported that coal dealers are anxious to avoid the slightest suspicion of handling coal that is not of high grade. "It can be confidently affirmed," Mr. Bitzer says, "that the coal bill has improved the quality of coal shipped into Massachusetts since its operation; and the credit for the present improved condition is largely due to the activity of the Sealers of Weights and Measures in enforcing the law. The citizens of Massachusetts can rest assured that with a sealer in every city and town on the lookout for fraudulent coal, their interests will be protected, and this body of sealers constitutes a machine for enforcing the law which does not cost the taxpayers an additional cent."

Nobody can visualize Boston's official vigilance in guarding the interests of the people against short-weight and fraudulent coal unless he makes a tour of the city and seeks the many places where coal comes to the railroad yards and the bins of the dealers. There are so many points of contact that it seems entirely possible for much wrong doing to escape the eyes of the deputy sealers. To prevent all of it would require a force several times larger than Sealer Woolley has, but the many cases brought to the courts for short weight clearly indicate that the winter just passed was the most active in the history of the department, and, throughout the campaign, Mr. Woolley was acting under positive direction of Mayor Curley.

In past years poor coal was not much of a problem. The mine owners were apparently content to ship their best product and to permit the "washery" material to accumulate as unsalable. The winter shortage gave the opportunity to dispose of it, not only in car lots without disguise, but by cleverly mixing it with good coal. Some of this undisguised material sold at the mines as high as $10.75 a ton; other lots sold as low as $8. It would appear as if Boston received thousands of tons of it, all of which was handled by the smaller dealers and largely sold to the peddlers who disposed of it in bags to the poor, and at the same price that was paid for coal of high quality.

There appeared to be no sufficient law under which such frauds could be stopped. Sealer Woolley made known the situation to the state officials and his complaints were borne out by reports from many cities and towns. Attorney General Benton called a conference on February 19, consisting of James J. Phelan, B. Preston Clark, A. M. McLeod, of the fuel administrator's office; Eugene C. Hultman, of the Commission on the Necessaries of Life; Col. A. F. Foote, Commissioner of Public Safety, and Herman C. Lythgoe, state chemist. At that time many samples of this "fireproof" coal had been analyzed. As the result of this conference the attorney general appointed Jacob Bitzer to receive complaints and to co-operate with the sealers. On March 8, the Governor sent a bill to the Legislature with a special message requesting immediate action.

The opponents of the legislation claim that it is too drastic and that it will prevent the shipment of anthracite into Massachusetts. Several of the coal dealers are inclined to this view today, but the attorney general's office believes that the best answer to this criticism is contained in a letter from William S. Jenney, vice president and general counsel of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad Company, in which he says:

"If the bill inclosed becomes a part of the law of your state, I should say that it would depend entirely upon how it is construed and enforced by the Massachusetts authorities, as to whether it would affect the shipment of coal into the state, and I agree with you that if the penalties of the bill shall be applied by the authorities only to the coal which is not fit to burn, it will not deter the shipments of responsible selling companies to people of your state."

Within twenty-four hours after the Governor signed the bill a seizure of 400 tons of coal unfit to burn was made at the plant of the Adams Coal Company, Somerville, and two days later about 2000 tons were either seized or notice served on owners that the coal was subject to analysis, and, if proved unfit for ordinary use, was liable to seizure. At various points in Massachusetts carloads already have been seized, and in other instances notice had been served on freight agents that the cars are subject to investigation.

Neither Sealer Woolley nor Mr. Bitzer considered it necessary to inspect the plants of the large dealers upon their latest tour of the city, for the reports of the Boston deputy sealers had all been of highly satisfactory nature, but these officials desired to see how fast the coal is coming in and to observe to what degree the high quality is being maintained. They were delighted at what they saw. No cheap coal was discovered at any of the yards of the Metropolitan Coal Company, Batchelder Brothers, John A. Whittemore's Sons, the Staples Coal Company, the American Coal Company, the Commonwealth Coal Company, and the City Fuel Company. In each instance, the officials in charge accompanied the party through the yards, directing coal to be brought forward for close inspection, halting drivers who were on their way to customers with loaded carts or trucks and leading the way to the unloading barges and throughout the bins.

Mr. Woolley exclaimed, when the inspection was over, "it is all good coal now, I am delighted." Commenting upon the poor coal story of the winter, he estimated that 10,000 tons of "washery" coal had been shipped to New England, for the first time in any quantity, and he said that it made his blood run cold to see how the poor people had been victimized to the great profit of the mine owners, who had been able to get rid of their unsalable fuel. "This bad coal has never been handled by the responsible dealers," he said. "Their coal has been as good as ever all winter, and they have done all that possibly could have been done to co-operate with the authorities and see that the coal was distributed fairly and honestly. According to our interviews, the big dealers believe that we shall have plenty of coal from now on."

PUBLIC LIBRARY LECTURES.

The course of free public lectures at the Boston Public Library is to be extended one and possibly two weeks, with an innovation in the form of a tentative series of "visual lectures" to be given there by the recently organized City of Boston Conservation Bureau. Motion pictures will be given as a feature of these programs for the first time in the history of the Public Library. The pictures will relate mainly to Boston affairs or be of general instructive nature.

The first of the supplementary "visual lectures" will be given Sunday afternoon, April 8, at three o'clock. The second will be on Thursday evening, April 12, at eight o'clock. If the success of these two meetings warrants, the series will be continued the following week on Sunday afternoon and Thursday evening.

The program on each occasion will be enjoyable, with information to arouse civic pride in the city. The newly finished film entitled "Why Are You Careless?" showing everyday street and traffic conditions in Boston, will be presented Sunday afternoon. This film was made jointly by the city and the Elevated Railway Trustees to assist in bringing home to the people present-day conditions that need to be overcome, and showing how drivers and pedestrians may both help to better the situation. A message from Mayor Curley incorporated in the film says: "Make the streets of your city safe and solve a vital civic problem."

Other features of the Sunday program will be community singing of songs relating to Boston, a vocal solo, a five-minute address by a traffic officer and a picture talk on the screen entitled "Boston in History Points to Its Future."

The meetings are free and the public is invited.

CHARLES F. D. BELDEN,
Librarian.

INDORSEMENT OF HOSPITAL POLICY.

Mayor Curley has received a strong indorsement from the members of the medical and surgical staff of the Long Island Hospital in commendation of his effort to secure the hospital property at Parker Hill, Roxbury, for the treatment of the chronic cases of the present inmates at Long Island. The physicians and surgeons are unanimous in their belief that, in bringing the chronic cases at the Long Island Hospital to the mainland, the institution can be placed on an equal rank with the other hospitals, which provide for the suffering poor in the City of Boston.

The letter of the physicians and surgeons is as follows:

BOSTON, March 30, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—The staff of the Long Island Hospital wishes to express its gratification for your efforts in building up the work of the hospital and promoting the interests of the chronic invalid.

A great defect in the Boston hospital system has been the neglect of chronic cases, and the establishment of the Long Island Hospital as a hospital promoting this work and placing it on an equal rank with the other hospitals will be of the greatest benefit to the suffering poor of Boston.

We have been interested for so many years in this aspect of disease in this city, that we welcome your innovation and you may be sure it will have our most hearty support and co-operation.

Yours respectfully,

STAFF OF THE LONG ISLAND HOSPITAL.

Mayor Curley has replied as follows:

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
April 5, 1923.

DEAR DOCTOR,—I am deeply appreciative of your cordial indorsement of the proposal to transfer the inmates of the Long Island Hospital to Roxbury, where those who suffer from chronic diseases may have opportunity for the highest character of medical and surgical service.

I thank you sincerely for your pledge of personal and mutual support, as I believe that no more important step for the welfare of the community has been presented in the last generation, and assure you I shall work unceasingly until the invalids at Long Island Hospital have opportunity to receive your valued professional labors under more favorable circumstances.

Sincerely yours,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

THE RUSSIAN OUTRAGES.

Mayor Curley issued the following statement upon the 3d instant relative to the execution by Soviet authorities in Russia of Vicar General Butchkavitch:

"The substitution of license for liberty as evidenced by the execution of Vicar-General Butchkavitch by the Soviet Government is a crime so unpardonable as to lose for the present government in Russia the good of every believer in a republican form of government. The establishment of stable government in any portion of the world is only possible through aid and sympathy of existing governments. Russia has been on trial since the termination of the World War, and through her action in this case merits the loss of that sympathy and aid from other governments and people, without which it is difficult if not impossible to succeed."

TRADE AGREEMENT SECURED.

Mayor Curley recorded a notable achievement, upon the 4th instant, when he succeeded in securing an agreement accepted by representatives of the Building Trades Employers' Association and the United Building Trades' Council, by which peace in the building industry is assured in this city, until April 1, 1925, at the least.

By the terms of the agreement, the workers will receive an increase of wage of five cents an hour as soon as the agreement is signed and another five cents increase beginning July 1. This compromise was accepted by the men and employers when the Mayor showed them that a collapse in the building program, which calls for nearly $150,000,000 worth of construction, would positively follow a break in relations.

For the first hour of the conference, which started at three o'clock, after the representatives of the trades had refused to accept the proposal offered last week, the entire discussion was upon the question of signing individual trade agreements. This discussion was futile and suddenly Mayor Curley, after getting the employers into an adjoining room, suggested that the increases offered be dated to October 1, next.

He told the union men that they were getting an exceptionally good offer, but as the large majority of them attended the meeting under instructions, they could not take action. It was suggested, however, that if the second raise came at the end of three months instead of six, it was practically certain that the agreement would be ratified. After an hour's talk by Mayor Curley, the employers accepted this basis of settlement.

The representatives of fifteen of the trades present accepted the final proposition. Four accepted subject to ratification by their unions; the tile layers took no action, as they are now working under a national agreement, while the laborers accepted on condition that the wage basis be made that paid them in 1920, before the reduction at the time of the strike. The members of the Carpenters' Unions are now voting by referendum on the wage question, but it was said that no doubt exists but that the new agreement will be accepted.

Mayor Curley issued the following statement at the conclusion of the conference:

"It is a very great pleasure to congratulate the building trades' employees and the employers for having finally arrived at an agreement that is amicable. I realize the difficulty that confronts the employer who has contracts now in operation at a price that will represent a financial loss. Many employers, parties to this agreement, stand to lose a considerable sum of money. Nevertheless, I believe the benefit both to the employer and employee resulting from an agreement extending for a period of two years will prove sufficient to ultimately offset losses due to signing of terms agreed to this day.

"The agreement reached may perhaps not be pleasing to all the members of each particular union, but the retention of the wage that came out of the World War with an addition to it is a compliment to the leadership of both organizations who are parties to the agreement. Co-operation that is based on a desire to give the fullest measure of equity possible on the part of the employer and employee is the need of the hour, while the submission to arbitration of incidental details without resorting to the savagery of strikes is a long step forward that should prove of genuine benefit to the entire city.

"The realization that they are to receive a wage that will make it possible for them to provide for their families in a better manner than ever before should arouse in them a greater interest in their work and a desire to give full measure in return for the money received. The big question, the question of wages, has been settled and is to continue in force for a period of two years in Boston, and this settlement should prove invaluable to capital and of benefit to every business concern in Boston.

"In adjustment of minor details I am confident you can approach with open minds each problem as it arises, with the knowledge that an advantage gained by one trade at the expense of the entire organization is not a benefit, rather is it an injury.

"The figures submitted by the Building Department for the month ending March 31, 1923, represent a total on new construction and alterations totaling $4,707,000 as against $1,839,000 in 1921. The total for the year 1920 was $1,831,000 and for the year 1921 $1,839,000, which was nearly a full $3,000,000 less than 1920, and this stagnation or falling off may be traced directly to the unsettled conditions in the building trades industry.

"The agreement arrived at today providing for an increase of five cents an hour in the wages of every worker in the building trades industry in immediate effect upon the signing of the agreement and for five cents additional beginning the first day of July is a guarantee of peace and stability that should make possible the consummation of the building construction program now pending in Boston, which, in the opinion of the Building Commissioner of Boston, will represent a grand total of $135,000,000.

"The agreement for the settlement of disputes that may arise without resorting to strikes during the period that the agreement is in force, namely, until April of 1925, will be welcomed by the entire people of Boston, and more particularly by the women in the homes of the workers, who, after all, are the real sufferers in any strike."

LAND-TAKING IN DORCHESTER.

The Mayor has approved the order of the Board of Street Commissioners for a taking of land for sewerage works in Astoria street, Dorchester.

The right and easement is taken to lay and maintain sewerage works in the following described lands, exclusive of any interest in trees, buildings or other structures standing thereon, reserving to the owners thereof the right to use the lands for any purpose except such as may injure or obstruct said works, and except for placing or maintaining any structure on said lands not authorized in writing by the Mayor of said city; trees, buildings or other structures standing upon or affixed to the land in which an easement is hereby taken are to be removed therefrom within sixty days following a notice of the city's intention to enter upon said taking for the purpose of constructing said sewerage works. Said lands are in that part of Boston formerly Dorchester and are bounded as follows:

A parcel of land, owners unknown, being part of the private way known as Astoria street, bounded:

Southwest by land of the City of Boston (Norfolk Street Playground) six and 1-100 feet; northwest by another part of Astoria street, one hundred eighty-one and 58-100 feet; northeast by easement taken by the City of Boston for sewerage purposes in Astoria street July 9, 1903, six feet; and southeast by another part of Astoria street, one hundred eighty-one and 25-100 feet; containing ten hundred eighty-eight square feet, more or less.

The sewerage works to be constructed are as follows: 182 linear feet of 10-inch pipe sanitary sewer, in the above described premises, being part of the private way known as Astoria street, leading northeasterly from the Norfolk Street Playground for a distance of about one hundred and eighty feet.

Betterments are to be assessed for the making of the improvement ordered herein.

The Board determines that no person sustains damages in his estate by the taking of the aforesaid easement and construction of said sewerage works and awards no damages therefor.

Ordered, That this Board estimates that the lots of abutting land on both sides of Astoria street for a distance of about one hundred and fifty feet northeasterly from land of the City of Boston (Norfolk Street Playground) will receive benefit or advantage, other than the general advantage to the community, from the improvement ordered herein, each of the particular lots to the amount respectively set against it herein:

PROTECTION FOR CHILDREN.

Fearing that unless energetic preventive action is taken many children will be killed this spring and summer by automobiles, state and city officials and the Safe Roads Federation are considering additional measures to protect the young.

John H. L. Noyes, chairman of the Boston Street Commissioners, proposes to close certain thoroughfares in the congested tenement house sections of Boston to vehicular traffic, setting such streets aside as "children's play streets," and requesting that guards be furnished by the Police Department.

Mr. Noyes' plan is indorsed by Register of Motor Vehicles Frank L. Goodwin, who issued a statement that while eighteen persons were killed by automobiles in Massachusetts in March, as compared with eighty-four in March, 1922, the number of children killed remained nearly the same.

Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson has intimated that police officers will be instructed to keep children off the roadways, but he said the parents must impress on their children the danger of carelessness if anything is to be accomplished.

Lewis E. McBrayne, manager of the Safe Roads Federation movement in Massachusetts, is planning an educational campaign in collaboration with the police and school authorities and parent-teacher associations throughout the State. He said if the ratio of increase continues this year 220 children will be killed and 5,854 injured in automobile accidents.

REPORT OF DELEGATE.

Arthur L. Gould, Assistant Superintendent of Schools, has, in accordance with the provisions of section 3 of chapter 274 of the Acts of 1914, presented his report relative to his recent attendance at the meeting of the Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association, held at Cleveland, Ohio, February 25-March 2, inclusive, and which is as follows:

In the report of my attendance at the annual meeting of the Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association, held at Cleveland, Ohio, from February 24 to March 2, 1923, I shall outline briefly the two special investigations which I made:

I. The co-operation between the Cleveland public schools and the Public Library.

II. The Cleveland School of Education.

In addition to these two brief reports I have summarized under the title "Curriculum Reorganization and Adjustment" what seemed to me the principal points made by several speakers of prominence on this subject, which occupied an important place in a program dealing with many phases of educational work.

I. CO-OPERATION BETWEEN LIBRARY AND SCHOOL AS CARRIED ON IN CLEVELAND, OHIO.

During my attendance at the meeting of the Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association, I was instructed by the Superintendent to study the plan of co-operation between the Cleveland Public Library and the public schools.

It is well known that the city of Cleveland has progressed further than almost any other city in the country in the correlation and co-ordination of these two educational institutions.

At the present time in Boston plans are under way for the establishment of a teachers' professional library in the new administration building at 15 Beacon street, and for this purpose the Board of Superintendents is investigating plans used by other cities.

In Cleveland the library occupies one of the largest rooms in the building of the Board of Education. It is open at all times to teachers in the public schools with the exception of two hours when used by the Board of Education for its general meeting. It is well equipped with the best pedagogical books, magazines, periodicals and reference material; books dealing with literature, history, art, science. Educational books and magazines are purchased by the Board of Education. All others, including all the leading magazines, are purchased from the city library funds.

The library is in charge of a trained librarian, selected because of special qualifications needed to meet the requirements of the position. The salary for this work is paid in equal portions from the budgets of the Board of Education and the Public Library.

The position was established because of the needs of meeting the educational demands of a large system in the collection and organization of data necessary in solving large administrative problems and because of the very urgent need of broadening the interests of teachers through the preparation of book reviews, the classification and analysis of important magazine articles, collection of the best books for children, and the preparation of bibliographies of current educational method and practice.

Every month the librarian meets with the superintendent and his staff, and gives a talk on the important new books and articles that have appeared. Material for this work is obtained through weekly round-table conferences with the officials of the Public Library.

At board meetings there are distributed brief bibliographies and digests of material that have a direct bearing on the field of work for which each superintendent or director is immediately responsible. On request, books, magazines and articles in which any member of the supervisory staff may have particular interest are supplied.

The librarian meets at least once a month with each of the four groups of district principals for a discussion of matters pertaining to their special field. Occasionally prepared lectures are given on the best books of modern fiction, travel and plays.

In the Board of Education building there is maintained a complete set of school text and supplementary books, which may be consulted at any time by the principals and teachers.

In direct relation to teachers' councils and special committees appointed for study of important school problems the work of the librarian is most telling. The detailed work of collecting and organizing data in accordance with a plan of study outlined by the council or committee is placed in the hands of the librarian. The intensive work by the committee or council can be begun at once without the long delay consequent to gathering and organizing material. A similar type of work is carried on for the teachers in the field, and embraces all subjects in the course of study. Such a plan, in my opinion, is an invaluable aid in the necessary correlation between the school and the library, a great time-saver in revisions of the course of study and in general studies carried on by the school officials.

II. THE CLEVELAND SCHOOL OF EDUCATION.

This school constitutes the training school for teachers in the elementary schools of the city. Connected with it is the Observation School, composed of pupils of elementary school age who live in the immediate vicinity. This school has its own independent organization, but regular teachers of the School of Education may teach classes while being observed by their own students at any time. The pupils' and teachers' weekly holiday is on Monday, instead of Saturday. This arrangement provides opportunity for teachers from the entire city to observe the work of the Observation School as carried on by a carefully selected teaching body.

The schedules for these Saturday classes are prepared a week in advance, mailed to all schools in Greater Cleveland, and posted in libraries, so that teachers can plan their work accordingly.

The result is that on many Saturdays from 300 to 500 teachers gather at the Observation School to see the best methods of teaching.

Because there is no practice training done in the Observation School, and because only expert teachers are permitted to conduct recitations, these Saturday visiting teachers are assured of the opportunity to see high grade instruction carried on.

When the students have completed their first semester and are ready for practice training they go to other elementary schools and put their ideas into practice with the regular teacher observing and criticizing.

The Observation School is the laboratory, the other schools are training centers.

The entrance requirements are severe enough to keep the number of graduates down to that amount needed for teachers in Cleveland schools, and to keep the quality up to the highest type of young women. They must not only be high school graduates; they must also have been ranked in the first half of the class in regard to scholarship and personal fitness, which includes neatness, courtesy, honesty of thought and conduct, ability to co-operate and to lead, tactfulness and alertness. They must pass the medical examination required for Cleveland teachers. Even after entrance has been gained the standard must be kept up if the pupil wishes to remain in school. The student who does not measure up in her work is frankly advised to withdraw.

Besides the Junior Teachers' College of the School of Education, which prepares Cleveland high school graduates for positions in Cleveland elementary schools, there is another department of the school, known as the Senior Teachers' College, which is in reality an extension course for teachers in service, and offers preparation for teachers for the secondary schools of Cleveland. This is a joint enterprise of the School of Education and Western Reserve University, with the co-operation of the Cleveland School of Art, the Cleveland Museum of Art, the Cleveland Museum of Natural History, Western Reserve Historical Museum and the Cleveland Public Library.

Classes are conducted for teachers in fifteen places throughout Cleveland in schools and libraries. The degrees of bachelor of education and master of education are granted by Western Reserve University. At the present time there are approximately two thousand Cleveland teachers in the extension courses which they pursue in connection with their school work. The summer session of the school attracts from twelve to fifteen hundred teachers from all over the country.

III. CURRICULUM REORGANIZATION AND ADJUSTMENT.

In dealing with this subject I have attempted to put together under this item the principal thoughts offered by speakers representing many school systems from different sections of the country on the important subject of needed changes in present-day curricula. While the attention of the Department of Superintendence cannot be said to have centered around this thought, it occupied a very prominent part in the educational topics under discussion.

Partly in response to the caustic criticism of the American school system by Henry S. Pritchett, president of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Learning, many speakers at the convention plead for simplification of our educational program. Prominent among those who sympathized with the views of Doctor Pritchett was Milton C. Potter, superintendent of schools in Milwaukee, unsuccessful candidate for the presidency of the Department of Superintendence. Mr. Potter was insistent that the elimination of "fads" was essential not only for properly financing the schools but for the good of the pupils as well. His views are somewhat similar to those which Secretary Hughes advanced at the recent convention in Boston, and to those of Dean West of the Graduate School of Princeton, who maintains that the American public school system has been passing through a period of bewildering multiplication of studies which have been offered without due regard to their comparative value. Superintendent Potter states in substance that curricula have spread so rapidly that there is little depth to the training which the child receives. The inevitable result is that the average pupil enters the business world with only a smattering knowledge and no real equipment for life. He believes that it is perfectly possible to accomplish many times the work now being done without adding greatly to material equipment and without vast expenditures of public funds. He believes that through reorganization of school programs the school buildings which we now have can accommodate adequately a vastly increased number of students.

Dean Russell of Teachers' College, speaking before the Division of Elementary Principals, placed no small part of the responsibility for confusion and lack of co-ordination in school training on the shoulders of the specialists or supervisors of special subjects. He pointed out the danger of the specialist who loves his subject and who frequently crowds it to the extent that all other subjects of the curriculum must be subordinated to it. He warned of the danger of the specialist in the school usurping some of the powers and responsibilities of the principal who, in dealing with as many personalities as he has teachers and supervisors, must hold his ideals and the ideal of his school higher than the personal whims, fancies and desires of any member of his staff.

In speaking of the rapid expansion and development of our curricula, J. C. Engleman, field secretary of the National Education Association, suggested that the emphasis may well be placed upon the belief that the schools should not bear the whole burden of our national delinquencies and weaknesses; but that they should face the all-important question as to whether they are ministering to the greatest needs of our children. He expressed the view that the school as an institution is not fully conscious of its mission to develop character as well as to increase knowledge; that as teachers, we are not likely to attach as much importance to the proper training of the emotions and the will as to the development of the intellect; and that, while the highest type of citizen possesses both wisdom and morality, the state can better afford to have its children become more moral, even if less intellectual, than to become more intellectual, if less virtuous.

At this point it is interesting to note that at the present time committees are at work in our own school system studying how best to develop in our pupils, through worth-while school activities, the power of mental discrimination, aesthetic appreciation and moral responsibility.

Doctor Snedden of Teachers' College attributed many of the weaknesses of our school training to unscientific prediction concerning courses of study. Since courses of study are based upon predictions, it is essential that educators be able to judge the needs of a community as well in advance as do business men who invest their money in the construction of commercial buildings. He further stated that it is only in very recent times that we have discovered how expensive these false predictions have become, and that their elimination in the future will depend largely upon our willingness to use scientific data obtained through careful follow-work up.

The principal speaker of the conferences on junior high school was James M. Glass, formerly principal of the Washington Junior High School, and now director of junior high schools for the state of Pennsylvania. Mr. Glass advocated a course of study for the junior high school in which the constants were English, general mathematics, social studies, general science, practical arts, and school health, with four groups of electives from which the pupils should elect one. He made clear the necessity of shifting the emphasis from differentiated courses of study to guided exploration in a restricted field of electives. He maintained that the pupils were too immature to undertake the crucial work of election without the assistance of trained experts for guidance; and further that the acceptance of a group of constants was necessary to prevent pupils from shifting from one course to another, thus getting no thorough comprehensive training in closely related subjects in a given field.

In rather sharp contrast to many speakers who emphasized the necessity of eliminating the so-called "fads" was the splendid address on the subject of leisure time by Henry Turner Bailey, a former agent of the Massachusetts State Board of Education. In urging the importance of training children to use their leisure time profitably he said in substance:

"Leisure is the most precious and at the same time the most dangerous gift to mankind. It is the most precious because it enables the human soul to participate in its priceless heritage, the spiritual world. The spiritual world is that wonderland created by the seers, the prophets, the poets, the artists, the musicians, the dramatists and the novelists of our race. It is the celestial health resort for all children. To be a free citizen of it is health and joy and peace. The right use of leisure makes this possible. But leisure is the most dangerous of gifts in the hands of those who do not know how to use it wisely. When men and women spend their leisure hours in idleness, in vicious gossip, and in similar forms of dissipation, the more leisure they have the worse it is for them and for everybody else. They depreciate in value; they become a menace to society; and often a burden that the state has to carry. A primary function of the school is to educate for the right use of leisure."

Vocational guidance is important, but avocational guidance is more important. The teaching of sewing and cooking, of typewriting and accounting, of wood-working and electric wiring, is all right so far as it goes; but the teaching of the so-called fads of education is of supreme importance.

Mr. Bailey then represented the spiritual world as a square whose gates on the north side are philosophy, biography, belles lettres; on the south, fiction, nature study, and religion; on the east, music, poetry, and travel; and on the west, architecture, sculpture and painting. It should be assured, he said, that every pupil in every school shall discover the door of hope, his entrance into the enchanting realm of the spirit, his pathway to a successful life.

Respectfully submitted,

ARTHUR L. GOULD,
Assistant Superintendent.

THE VALUE OF OIL AS FUEL.

Mayor Curley sent the following letter to the heads of all city departments upon the 31st ultimo:

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
March 31, 1923.

GENTLEMEN,—The announcement by the coal dealers of Boston that it is their purpose to reduce the price of coal $1 per ton is abundant evidence that there is but slight possibility of a return in the future to prewar prices. The supply of coal used by all city departments prior to the installation of oil-burning devices was approximately 150,000 tons annually. The recently announced price represents an advance of nearly 100 per cent on anthracite and bituminous coal as purchased by the city prior to the war. This enormous increase approximates an increase of nearly a million dollars annually and can best be offset through savings effected by substitution of oil which from the standpoint of labor costs is economical and from the standpoint of efficiency, more particularly in those city buildings where heat is required for eight hours or less, such as schools and public buildings generally, is such as to render it advisable to make provision at once for the installation of oil-burning devices through which it should be possible to effect a saving over the announced prices for coal as fuel of about $400,000 annually.

This contemplated change would result in the release of about 4,000 coal cars and in addition to being of benefit to the city directly would be of benefit to the public as a whole.

It is not my purpose to again direct your attention to this matter since necessary changes should be completed by September 1, as the existing agreement on the mining of coal, between the operators and miners, expires about this date and in the event of a suspension of activities at the mines, New England may again be confronted with a coal famine next winter.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

LETTER OF APPRECIATION.

Mayor Curley received the following letter from an appreciative veteran of the World War, upon the 1st instant:

U. S. VETERANS' HOSPITAL 44, WEST ROXBURY, MASS.,
March 31, 1923.

MAYOR CURLEY:

DEAR SIR,—It was with great pleasure I noted a potted plant in my room here placed there yesterday, coming from you. A few minutes ago I came into the hut and looking around at the flowers my mind went back six years. How proud I felt being in uniform and anxious to get overseas, which I did in September, 1917, went through everything, came back. Of course everyone has his own things to look after and possibly I was wrong when I thought for a moment the fellows that went through were forgotten, but I see by your remembrance, with all your duties as chief magistrate of as large a city as Boston, you did not forget. I hope some day to repay your kindness.

Sincerely yours,
THOMAS J. CROSSIE.

POLICE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

General Order No. 255.

The commanding officer of Police Division 14 has called to my attention a most excellent piece of police work performed by Patrolman John H. Gottschalk of that division.

While Patrolman Gottschalk was patrolling his route on Commonwealth avenue on March 12, at about 11:30 p. m., an automobile with all the curtains down passed him and stopped near a lunch room at the corner of Commonwealth and Brighton avenues. The officer noticed that the car contained three men and that its first three registration numbers were 156. Having been notified at roll call a few days previous to be on the lookout for an automobile bearing these numbers, the officer watched this car, saw two men get out and look into the lunch room, and noticed that the third man was keeping the motor running. As Patrolman Gottschalk started towards the automobile with the intention of questioning its occupants, the two men on the sidewalk ran up Brighton avenue and the man in the car prepared to start it. On being ordered by the officer to stop, he attempted to pull an automatic pistol, whereupon Patrolman Gottschalk overpowered him, knocking the pistol out of his hand, and drawing his own revolver placed him under arrest. After this man was booked at the station house, he was identified as William E. Gray, wanted for the robbery of the Blake drug store on Commonwealth avenue, and also for several other daring holdups in this city. The automobile had been reported as stolen in Cambridge on March 1.

It is exceedingly gratifying to learn of such an admirable piece of police work on the part of Patrolman Gottschalk and I take great pleasure in commending him for the alertness and courage which he displayed in apprehending this dangerous criminal.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 256.

The commanding officer of Division 14 has called to my attention the following action performed by Patrolman Arthur F. Wall of that division.

At about 6:05 p. m., February 26, as Patrolman Wall was leaving the station house, he noticed a runaway horse attached to a covered laundry wagon coming down Washington street hill. The driver, having dropped one of the reins, had lost control of the animal. Officer Wall ran into the street, caught hold of the rein near the bridle, and although he was dragged several yards succeeded in stopping the runaway.

I am very much pleased to learn of this efficient police work on the part of Patrolman Wall and warmly commend him for his quickness of thought and courageous action in stopping this runaway horse and thereby preventing possible, dangerous accidents.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 257.

My attention has been called by the commanding officer of Police Division 9 to a commendable piece of police work recently performed by Patrolman William J. Mason of that division.

At about 6:30 p. m., February 14, as Patrolman Mason, at the completion of his tour of duty, was walking down Washington street on his way home, he noticed that the old Codman Hill House was on fire, and hearing a woman screaming for help, immediately ran up the hill to the house, broke in the front door and rescued a woman and child from the burning building. Patrolman Mason then telephoned to police headquarters to notify the Fire Department.

I am very glad to learn of this excellent piece of police work on the part of Patrolman Mason and I take pleasure in commending him for the courage and presence of mind which he showed in this emergency.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 258.

With the return of good weather, there has been a sudden increase in the number of persons killed and injured by automobiles in this city. This is particularly true in reference to children.

In 1921, 88 persons were killed by automobiles in Boston. In 1922, the number increased to 105, although the total number killed throughout the state showed a decrease over the figures of the previous year. Last year, according to the figures of the registrar of motor vehicles, there were 209 children killed and 4,619 injured throughout the state, and 88 per cent of all these accidents took place in thickly settled or business districts. Most of these accidents were caused by overspeeding and reckless drivers, operators while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, or persons who persisted in passing out other vehicles going in the same direction.

It is apparent to any one who gives any thought to the above situation that something must be done to reduce this loss of life and injuries to persons using our highways. The principal remedy in my opinion is the rigid enforcement of the law relating to the speed of automobiles and trucks and the elimination from the road of reckless operators and persons driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. At this time I give notice to the department that all persons who persist in speeding or operating automobiles while under the influence of liquor shall be prosecuted.

Responsibility rests with the parents or guardians of children to see that children use, whenever possible, the sidewalks only and keep off the highways except to cross the same at proper crossings. With the co-operation therefore of all members of this department and that of the parents or guardians of the children throughout the city, I hope to see the number of persons killed and injured during the remainder of this year greatly reduced if not entirely eliminated. It is the plain duty of every official to see that reckless driving and speeding come to an end.

The growing practice of trucks being operated with dirty, obscure or illegible number plates or, after dark, with unlighted tail lights must also be stopped.

The attention of the department is at this time also called to the superintendent's order of August 26, 1922.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 259.

Section 14 of Rule 24 of the Rules and Regulations is hereby amended by striking out the whole of said section and inserting in place thereof the following new section, which shall be known as Section 14:

14. A division commander shall report to his station at 7:40 a. m., daily, except that on primary and election days he shall report for duty not later than six o'clock a. m., and thereafter he shall be at his station house throughout the day unless necessarily called away. Before leaving his post he shall enter in his own handwriting in full on the journal and in abbreviated form on the detail book, the time, the duty on which he has been called away, and the name of the officer left in charge; and immediately upon returning to the station house he shall enter upon the journal and detail book the time of return and the name of the officer in charge whom he relieved. He shall reserve a space at the beginning of the daily record in said journal of at least three inches in depth and record therein his doings as required by this section, and if obliged on account of lack of room in said space or said detail book, or both as the case may be, to make entries farther on in the record, he shall note in said space or said detail book, or both as the case may be, where said entries are to be found. While in the station house he shall answer promptly and personally, as far as possible, all telephone calls from headquarters.

A division commander, when leaving the station to go on the division shall, from time to time, keep in touch with the station house, and before leaving shall notify the officer left in charge where he is going, so that if wanted in an emergency, he can be communicated with immediately.

This section shall apply to any officer of rank, while in charge of the station house, as well as to any officer acting temporarily as division commander.

A superior officer designated by the superintendent will, from time to time, inspect journals and detail books of the several divisions to see that the provisions of this section are complied with.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 260.

My attention has been called by the commanding officer of Division 4 to a commendable piece of police work performed by Patrolmen Peter McGrath and Richard H. Hickey of that division.

On March 15 Patrolmen McGrath and Hickey were called into a lodging house on Broadway, city, by the landlady and found a man in an unconscious condition from gas poisoning. The officers applied the Shaffer or prone system to him so successfully that upon his arrival at the hospital he had partially regained consciousness and the physician stated that their prompt action had undoubtedly saved his life.

I am very much gratified to learn of this excellent work on the part of Patrolmen McGrath and Hickey and particularly as indicating that they have profited by the instruction furnished by the Police Department, and I warmly commend these officers for the resourcefulness and quickness of action which enabled them to save a human life.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 261.

A trial bond consisting of Captains Gallivan, Walkins and Kneeland, having heard by reference a complaint against Patrolman Harry Chubbuck of Division 13, charging him with conduct unbecoming an officer, has reported to the Commissioner a finding of not guilty. In accordance with which, it is hereby ordered that the complaint against the said Patrolman Harry Chubbuck be dismissed.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 262.

The commanding officer of Police Division 3 has called my attention to the following meritorious piece of police work performed by Patrolman Michael J. McCarthy of that division.

On January 31 Patrolman McCarthy, while patrolling his route on Green street, had occasion to step into a pawn shop and while he was there a young man known as Jack Fulton, carrying a bag apparently containing clothing and other articles, entered the shop. His appearance so aroused the officer's suspicions, that he stepped outside to wait for Fulton, and when the latter came out, Patrolman McCarthy and Patrolman Lynch of his division, who had joined him, placed Fulton under arrest and brought him to the station house where he was booked on suspicion. It was found that Fulton was wanted for breaking and entering in Brockton and for larceny in Abington, in which towns he was afterwards sentenced to the House of Correction, and that he had a long record as a criminal in several other states.

I am very much gratified to learn of this excellent police work on the part of Patrolman McCarthy and heartily commend him for the acumen and good judgment which he displayed in singling out and bringing to justice this much-wanted criminal.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 263.

The commanding officer of Police Division 20 has called to my attention the following meritorious piece of police work performed by Patrolman Andrew R. Smith of that division.

On March 9, shortly before two o'clock, a telephone message was received from Police Headquarters in restruct all officers to be on the lookout for a Ford sedan, Massachusetts registration 156494, and if found, to bring in the occupants. In common with other officers, Patrolman Smith received this information at the 2:30 p. m. roll call and made a note of the numbers and shortly after returned to his post on Boylston street at Berkeley street.

At about 4:30 p. m. a Ford sedan was signaled by Patrolman Smith to go ahead, and as it passed him, he noticed that the last three registration numbers were 494, the first three being hidden by mud. Patrolman Smith immediately commandeered a passing taxicab, caught the automobile before it reached Arlington street, and with the assistance of Patrolman John F. Lyons, took the two men found in the automobile to the Traffic Division where they were identified as men wanted by the police of both Boston and Cambridge.

I am very much pleased to learn of this excellent police work on the part of Patrolman Smith and heartily commend him for his attention to orders and for the alertness of mind and quickness of action which enabled him to apprehend these men.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 264.

The commanding officer of Division 19 has recently brought to my attention a most meritorious piece of police work performed by Patrolmen William Balch, James A. MacRea and William E. Broderick of that division.

On the afternoon of March 9, because of information received that a "hold-up" of the messenger of the Mattapan National Bank was to occur in the drug store at the corner of Talbot and Colonial avenues, Patrolman Balch, MacRea and Broderick were detailed to that vicinity. At about half past three, Patrolmen MacRea and Broderick saw two men whom they had had under observation start up the street and followed them. When the men saw the officers they started to run, and Patrolman MacRea followed one of them, who afterwards proved to be John J. Conroy of South Boston, up Talbot avenue towards Codman square. When Conroy saw the officer approaching him, he drew a revolver and threatened to kill him. The officer shouted to Patrolman Balch, who was at the Codman square end of the avenue, and as the latter drew near, Conroy threw his revolver into a pile of snow, from which it was afterwards recovered and found to be fully loaded.

Patrolman Broderick brought in the other man whom he had pursued and who was identified as Marke Ridge of Dorchester, with a criminal record, and later the two patrolmen arrested George E. Barnett of Dorchester as a suspicious person.

I am exceedingly pleased to learn of this excellent police work on the part of these three officers and I warmly commend them for the courage and zeal which they displayed in apprehending these criminals.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 265.

I wish to inform the commanding officers that copies of the various amendments to the Rules and Regulations of the Police Department are now being printed and will be distributed to the stations as soon as they are completed, thus eliminating the necessity of having copies made at the stations.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

FIRE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

General Order No. 25.

I. PROMOTION.

The following promotion is hereby announced to take effect at 9 a. m., Friday, March 30, 1923:

Capt. Harry M. Hebard of Engine Company 45, to district chief.

II. DEMOTION.

At his own request, Assistant Engineer Robert J. Callahan is reduced from the grade of assistant engineer to hoseman, to take effect at 9 a. m., Friday, March 30, 1923.

III. TRANSFERS.

The following transfers are hereby announced to take effect at 9 a. m., Friday, March 30, 1923:

District Chief Harry M. Hebard, from Engine 45 to District 6.

Robert J. Callahan, from Engine 7 to Engine 26-35.

Thomas P. Reilly, from Engine 26-35 to Engine 7.

IV. CHANGE IN NAME OF STREET.

The department is notified that the name of Walnut street, between Bunker Hill street and Medford street, Charleston, has been changed to Chappie street.

By order of the Fire Commissioner.

JOHN O. TABER,
Chief of Department.

General Order No. 26.

I. GRASS AND RUBBISH FIRES.

The attention of the department is directed to General Order No. 37, series 1922. The regulations defined in that order are to be strictly observed this year, with a view to reducing the number of grass and rubbish fires and the excessive response of fire apparatus to alarms of fire.

II. DEPARTMENT DRILL SCHOOL.

The sessions of the Department Drill School for probationary members of the department will commence on Wednesday, April 4, 1923. There will be two sessions of the school, one in the morning at 10 a. m., and one in the afternoon at 3 p. m. The school will be in command of Lieut. Daniel W. Baker, executive officer of the Fire College and drill master. He will be obeyed and respected accordingly.

Company commanders will have the following-named men report to the drill master, at the quarters of Water Tower 2, Bristol street, at the time indicated below and at such other times as the drill master may direct:

Ten a. m., Wednesday, April 4, 1923:

Daniel J. Foley, Engine 9; William E. Kenealy, Engine 29; William M. Daniels, Engine 34; Thomas J. Banks, Engine 49; James F. Callahan, Ladder 6; John R. Concannon, Ladder 25; Paul P. Bangs, Engine 27; John F. O'Brien, Engine 30; Thomas J. Watson, Engine 45; George D. Ryan, Engine 52; John C. J. Merrill, Engine 15; Laurence D. Barry, Engine 53; John T. Savage, Ladder 30.

Three p. m., Wednesday, April 4, 1923:
Edward J. Powers, Engine 9; John T. Hanley, Engine 30; John J. Hurley, Engine 45; William F. Walsh, Engine 53; Frederick F. Keenan, Engine 29; James F. Cody, Engine 47; Henry M. Ducey, Engine 16; Edward L. Mitchell, Engine 44; Bernard M. Monagle, Engine 51; Miles V. Murphy, Ladder 16; Edward P. Burke, Engine 34; William H. Leonard, Engine 49; John C. Kennedy, Ladder 25.

III. NEW FIRE ALARM BOX.

The following new fire alarm box will shortly be established:
Box 2629—Park and Martin streets. The apparatus assignments will be the same as for Box 2626. The box will be connected into circuit No. 42.

IV. VACATIONS.

The requirements of rule No. 406 of the rules and regulations of the department are hereby revoked, and the following is substituted:

a. Members of this department, appointed prior to March 1, will be allowed two weeks' vacation.

b. Members of this department, appointed after March 1, and previous to June 1, will be allowed one week's vacation, to be taken at such times as the district chiefs and heads of department branches may designate.

By order of the Fire Commissioner.

JOHN O. TABER,
Chief of Department.

General Order No. 27.

I. GENERAL ORDER NUMBER.

The General Order issued April 2, 1923, and numbered 25, should have been numbered 26. Commanding officers will make this correction on general orders.

II. OPENING OF BOX CIRCUITS.

When district chiefs are notified that a fire alarm circuit, previously reported open, has been closed they will promptly notify private box owners on that circuit that the circuit has been closed. Reports have been received that private owners have not been notified, and as a result the box is continued as "out of service" by them. Such practice interferes with the efficiency of the department. District chiefs will therefore see that prompt notice is given to the owners of private fire alarm boxes when circuits have been closed and the box is in service.

III. BASEBALL TEAM.

Members of the department interested in the formation of a baseball team, as referred to in paragraph I, General Order No. 23, c. s., should forward their names to Hoseman Henry J. Welz, Engine Company 33, on or before Tuesday, April 10, 1923.

IV. ROSS THAWING DEVICE.

The Ross thawing devices now carried on a certain few pieces of motor-driven apparatus are to be removed from the said apparatus on April 15, 1923, and conveniently stored in the quarters of the companies to which they are assigned. They are to be so located as to be available for immediate service should the occasion arise. The compound now carried in the boiler of the thawing outfit will be left there as a preventive against deterioration. Company commanders will be held strictly responsible for the carrying out of the above instructions.

By order of the Fire Commissioner.

JOHN O. TABER,
Chief of Department.

CLAIMS.

The Mayor has approved, with the indorsement of the Corporation Counsel, the following claims:

Louis Rothstein, 564 Washington street, Boston, in the amount of $33, as charge due him from the Supply Department for goods delivered to said department, October 11, 1922.

Lizzie Pekin, 10 High street, Salem, in the amount of $150, as compensation for personal injuries caused by defect in Nashua street, city proper, September 25, 1922.

J. C. Pushee & Sons, 3 Randolph street, South End, in the amount of $200, as compensation for damage at said address caused by break in street main, October 20, 1922.

S. H. Appleman & Co., 10 Commercial street, city proper, in the amount of $200, as compensation for damage to property at said location caused by water from sewer, September 12, 1922.

Arthur W. Chapin, 23 Radford lane, Dorchester, in the amount of $11.98, as compensation for damage to automobile by automobile of the Park Department, July 28, 1922.

EASTER DAY GOOD CHEER.

Mayor Curley, in a desire that veterans of the World War should appreciate something of the spirit of Easter Day, directed Chairman James B. Shea of the Park Department to forward plants to the disabled soldiers, sailors and marines in the various hospitals in Greater Boston. Two hundred and sixty-five plants were forwarded to Veterans' Hospital No. 44, West Roxbury; 285 plants to the Chelsea Naval Hospital, Chelsea; 50 plants to the State Hospital, Mattapan, and 25 plants to the Army and Navy Club, 10 Park square, Boston, for private distribution.

The acknowledgments of the disabled veterans have been received by Mayor Curley during the past week, and the messages of grateful appreciation were often extremely pathetic in character.

FINANCE COMMISSION.

BOSTON, March 31, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

SIR.—The Finance Commission transmits herewith a report of its consulting engineer on the work under a contract for the paving of the easterly side of Huntington avenue, between Massachusetts avenue and a point near the junction of Tremont street and Huntington avenue.

Representatives of the commission observed the work of the contractor practically during the entire time while this street was being paved. The report of the commission's consulting engineer contains, in the opinion of the commission, many valuable suggestions drawn from his daily observation and the reports of his subordinates constantly on the work.

Aside from the defects occurring because of improper planning and coordination of the paving between the street car tracks and the street itself, the paving has withstood the weather and traffic of the past winter without apparent injury.

The Finance Commission believes that careful and sympathetic study of the report of its consulting engineer by the Paving Service of the Public Works Department will do much toward obtaining better and more economically built streets in the City of Boston.

Respectfully submitted,

THE FINANCE COMMISSION,
by MICHAEL H. SULLIVAN,
Chairman.

BOSTON, MARCH 29, 1923.

To the Finance Commission:

GENTLEMEN.—Following is a report relating to the construction by contract of a sheet asphalt pavement on the southerly side of Huntington avenue, between Hemenway and Tremont streets, as reported by inspectors employed by the Finance Commission and verified by the personal observation of the writer.

The contract for the work requires the completion of the pavement to South Huntington avenue, and the portion between Tremont street and South Huntington avenue remains to be completed.

The first matter for your consideration is a matter of the specifications of the work. The specifications allow the use in all types of bituminous pavements of "broken trap rock, equally good and suitable granitoid rock, siliceous limestone, or flint gravel, acceptable to the commissioner." The only definite thing about the specifications as indicating the quality of the stone is as regards trap rock. No one at present connected with the Paving Service knows what kind of stone is included under "granitoid rock" or "siliceous limestone." It is certain, however, that no such limestone is available in this locality. Neither can it be determined what is meant by "flint gravel." Gravel in which all of the particles are composed of a large percentage of silica—which is the element composing flint—is impossible to obtain. On the other hand, nearly all gravel stones contain some silica.

The result has been that the ordinary bank gravel in this vicinity has been used to a large extent for the construction of bituminous pavements under the city specifications, although it is recognized by all persons familiar with the matter that it is far inferior to trap rock and an improper material where the best work is to be secured. Gravel is far cheaper than trap rock, and where its use is allowed as an alternative to trap rock the contractors will, for financial reasons, select it.

Examination of the figures, maximum and minimum limits, for the different sizes of particles of stone in sheet asphalt mixtures shows that it is difficult to secure within the limits given a suitable mixture that will total 100 per cent. The principal matter for comment, however, is as regards the interpretation of these specifications by the officials at City Hall. Different gradings of the mineral aggregate in bituminous mixtures require different proportions of asphalt binding material, and the mineral aggregate should be so proportioned of the best available material as to secure the least percentage of void spaces in the aggregate to be filled with the binder. It is clearly the intent of the specifications to allow the city engineers to change the specifications so as to get the best mixture within the limits specified. The city engineers, however, seem to interpret the specifications as meaning the contractor is allowed to use any mixture he sees fit, so long as it is within the limits of the specifications, an entirely different interpretation than was intended.

As regards the preparation of the foundation of the Huntington avenue job, as is customary, the work of relaying and grading the tracks of the Boston Elevated Railway Company was done in conjunction with the work of the contractor. Included in the work is the third track of the Boston Elevated Railway in Huntington avenue, extending from the Art Museum to the Y. M. C. A. building. This track was laid a number of years ago, when there was a baseball ground on Huntington avenue, and was considered a temporary expedient for the storage of cars, which were necessary to accommodate quickly the large crowds at the ball games. Since this location has been abandoned by the ball club the track has been allowed to remain. The ties used were approximately 8 feet long and extended approximately 17 inches beyond the rails into the street. The track was protected with two layers of paving stones, laid on edge, taking up a space of approximately 9 inches, and the asphalt pavement was laid against this row of paving stones. The result was that the ties of the track extended under the asphalt pavement approximately 10 inches. Observation of the track laying force showed that its work was not in all cases done in the best manner. In tamping gravel under the ties more care was taken near the middle of the tie, where it carries little or no weight, than under the rails and the end of the ties, where the pressure from passing cars is greatest.

With the cars passing over this new track which had not settled into place before the pavement was laid, the movement of the track was certain to cause fracture of the pavement near it. This result was inevitable and has taken place to a considerable extent as expected, the finished pavement being cracked along this third track in different places, from 4 inches to a foot from the track. To prevent this action the block pavement along the rails should have been extended to the end of the ties approximately 18 inches from the rails, or as an inferior alternative, the ties should have been firmly embedded in cement concrete.

This matter does not involve criticism of the contractor, but is entirely a matter of design that should have been attended to by the engineers at City Hall and the work of employees of the Boston Elevated Railway Company. The work of the contractor is excellently done and it appeared anxious and willing to co-operate with the city engineers and with the inspectors of the Finance Commission at all times.

The contractor in reshaping and preparing the Telford foundation for the asphalt surface was required to use material from the old bituminous macadam street surface over a large part of the area. This was not good practice. Bituminous macadam is not a homogeneous mixture. Many stones have no coating of asphalt, while others have an excess coating. There is also in such material many particles and small lumps of free asphalt from the old binder. This asphalt is of a softer grade than the binder used in the lower layer of sheet asphalt. There is danger that the excess of soft asphalt from the old material will, under summer heat, mix with and flux the asphalt in the new pavement, making an excess of asphalt and soft spots from which disintegration may start.

The sheet asphalt pavement was laid as a subcontract. The Finance Commission has frequently called attention to the necessity of a plant inspector at the various mixing plants of the contractors manufacturing bituminous pavements. For a time this recommendation was adopted by the city, but recently it has been neglected. It is universally recognized by all experts that plant inspection is a much greater necessity than street inspection. Therefore the Finance Commission placed one of its inspectors at the contractor's plant. Screenings to determine the mixture of mineral aggregate were made daily and tests of the finished material, to determine its suitability, were made.

Here also the subcontractor appeared willing to co-operate with the Finance Commission's employees, and many of their recommendations were accepted. There were, however, existing conditions that made it impossible to secure as good a quality of work as should have been done. For example, the work was being done late in the fall and on some days the weather was intensely cold. The contractor's plant was not inclosed from the weather, with the result that it was difficult on many days to secure as high a temperature in the bituminous mixture as is necessary for the best work.

One of the most important elements in the manufacture of sheet asphalt pavement is to secure a proper quality of so-called filler, that is, very fine dust that will pass through a sieve having 40,000 meshes to the square inch, or 200 meshes to the linear inch. This material is commonly known as 200 mesh material. With the unprotected condition of the plant and high winds a large part of this material was blown away. This could not be helped, and the result was undoubtedly a pavement inferior to what might have been secured.

Difficulty was experienced with the scales at the plant, particularly those weighing the asphalt, and for a large part of the work it was necessary to measure the asphalt cement in dippers, instead of weighing it. This is an inaccurate method, particularly where the operators are inclined to be careless and rapid work is necessary, and the best results cannot be obtained by the use of this method. Incidentally, when the scales were repaired, conditions were found that indicated that the scales had never been accurate, even when new.

The material, especially sand, was delivered to the plant in comparatively small quantities, so that the variation in the texture of the sand used from day to day was considerable, and changes in the proportions of asphalt cement were frequently necessary. This feature made it difficult for the different testers to obtain similar results, as there was considerable disagreement between the figures arrived at by the representatives of the city's laboratory and the Finance Commission's inspectors. Methods, however, were finally adopted which brought these two parties into substantial agreement as regards their tests.

As regards the street work, it was found that the contractor's plant was inadequate for the amount of work which it was required to carry on simultaneously. The contractor for a large part of the time appeared to have three contracts going on that required the delivery of materials in three widely separated localities, from a plant of capacity not more than sufficient to supply the needs of one job. The result was that the gang on Huntington avenue was waiting for materials a large part of the time with nothing to do. This procedure caused the contractor a large and unnecessary expense and no useful purpose was served. The contractor should have been allowed to do his various jobs in succession, so as to secure better work for the city with less expense to the contractor.

This delay also resulted in a large number of joints in the pavement, where one load of hot material had been put in place, rolled, and allowed to cool before the material for the adjoining section was available. On some days there was "cold joint" after practically every load of material. This makes unsightly spots in the pavement, as well as places from which disintegration may start. The work should have been carried on so that there would not be more than two such joints in the day's work, one at night and one at noon, and with care not more than one should be necessary, the one at noon being eliminated.

Samples of the hot surfacing mixtures were taken frequently from the material delivered on the street and from the mixing plant. These samples were sent, for examination and analysis, both to the city's laboratory and to the laboratory of Dow & Smith in New York. Frequently the tests showed deficiencies of some sort. I cannot find that any attention was paid by city officials to this information and the contractor was never obliged to remove imperfect work.

The work of Dow & Smith developed a peculiar feature that may be of importance if confirmed by future tests. The Boston specifications, and in fact nearly all specifications for sheet asphalt surfacing mixture, limit the amount of asphaltic cement used from 10 per cent as a minimum to 12 per cent as a maximum, the amount being determined by the grading of the mineral aggregate used. It was found that the sand used for the surfacing mixture on Huntington avenue was, as designated by Dow & Smith, a "freak" sand, that is, it required a greater amount of asphaltic cement to saturate it than does ordinary sand used for such purposes. Sand found in certain localities in South Carolina and in Colorado has similar properties. The sand used frequently required nearly, if not quite, 13 per cent of asphalt cement for the best mixture. It is thought by Dow & Smith that this peculiar sand may account to some extent for the unsatisfactory mixtures that have been used in Boston in past years.

Under the present policy of the Paving Service, inspection of bituminous pavements is of little or no value. The results depend almost entirely on the honesty and skill of the contractor.

It is a fact that there are in the city's force very few, perhaps not more than two or three, inspectors who are competent to supervise the construction of bituminous pavements. The essential points, however, are not hard to learn and, if properly instructed, there is no reason why efficient inspection should not be obtained from the present force. These men, however, must be suitably instructed and supported by their superiors.

To summarize: For the benefit of bituminous sheet pavements to be laid in the future the following matters should receive immediate attention.

1. Specifications should be revised so that only trap rock of the best quality will be allowed for the mineral aggregate coarser than 10 mesh of all bituminous concrete mixtures. For sheet asphalt a somewhat softer stone may be allowed in the binder course, especially on light and medium traffic streets. The use of gravel should not be allowed.

2. No old bituminous macadam mixture containing asphalt should be used in preparing foundations for bituminous pavements.

3. Block paving along car tracks should be of sufficient width to extend to the end of the ties, unless firmly embedded in strong cement concrete.

4. Contracts should be let early enough in the season to insure the completion of the work before November 15.

5. Contractors should be required to house their mixing plants so as to protect the paving materials from the effect of high winds and low temperatures.

6. Competent inspectors should be stationed at all mixing plants as well as on street work.

7. Plant inspectors should make daily and more often, if necessary, tests to determine the quality of the raw materials used and of the hot mixture produced. These results should be verified by analyses of samples from the mixer and from the street by the chemists at the city's laboratory.

8. Whenever tests and analyses show that the contractor has departed from the limits of the formula representing the best mixture, he should be obliged to correct matters, even though it involves removal of work already completed.

9. Contractors should not be obliged to carry on at the same time so many different jobs as to interrupt continuous operation on any important piece of work.

Respectfully submitted,

GUY C. EMERSON,
Consulting Engineer.

COMMISSIONER JOSEPH A. ROURKE OF THE DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS HAS MADE THE FOLLOWING REPLY TO THE COMMUNICATION OF THE FINANCE COMMISSION.

CITY OF BOSTON,
PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

April 5, 1923.

HON. MICHAEL H. SULLIVAN, Chairman,
Boston Finance Commission:

DEAR SIR:—In reply to your letter of March 31, accompanied by report of the commission's consulting engineer, regarding the paving of the easterly side of Huntington avenue, between Massachusetts avenue and a point near the junction of Tremont street and Huntington avenue, by the Alco Contracting Company, the following reply is transmitted:

In regard to your criticism of the specification requirements for coarse aggregate, these were incorporated in the paving specifications upon the advice of a consulting engineer in 1920 and are properly comprehensive as regards materials. It may be true that gravel is not suitable for the thinner types of bituminous tops, and it is understood that in the Warrenite-Bitolithic trap rock exclusively is utilized.

In the grading of mineral aggregate there is a maximum and a minimum for each sized stone, and it is very difficult to achieve any mixture that will total 100 per cent without having variations in one or more of the different sizes. As long as these maximum and minimum limits are not exceeded, the city has no right to interfere with the contractor.

A change in our specifications to provide for a suitable amount of bitumen depending on the different gradings of the mineral aggregate, which may change from day to day in any plant, would be practically impossible of accomplishment. The experience, skill, reputation and desire of the contractor to furnish a good mixture are the best guaranty for bringing this about.

As regards the criticism of having a wider brow than two granite block stretchers in connection with track paving, we have decided that in future construction it would be wise generally to have the old header brow extend 18 inches on either side of the outside rail. It is noticeable that practically all of the bituminous pavement laid under the previous administration had the same type of brow that the commission now criticises on Huntington avenue.

It is customary for the Paving Service at all times to have a competent inspector at the various asphalt plants furnishing material for the streets. The same men have been on this work for many years, and are competent for the work, but unfortunately they receive but $1,600 a year. As regards the men hired by you for inspection on this job, the man at the plant received $12 a day and had little or no previous experience on plant work as he was always employed on the street. The inspector following the work on the street admitted that he had no previous experience in this class of work, and he received $7 a day.

In regard to the criticism of the amount of 200-mesh sand used in the mixture and the shortage of such material found by the commission's experts, Dow and Smith: Their custom was to take ten grams of this material for their test, which is rather unfair, as possible small discrepancies are exaggerated. Our chemist uses 500 grams in order to arrive at a fairer result.

It is rather curious for the commission to criticise the inadequacy of the plant for this particular work, as you have previously criticised us for not awarding other contracts to this firm on account of their being lower than the accepted bidder.

We obtain daily samples from the mixing plant and from the street, which are tested as soon as possible at our laboratory, and the results transmitted at once to the plant. If there is any discrepancy from our specifications, the plant data he street are notified at once.

As regards the award of contracts early enough in the season to insure completion before November 15, it was the intention early in the season to award no contract which could not be finished before the close of the construction period, the date for which varies from year to year, depending entirely on weather conditions. There is no sense in establishing any particular rigid and unchangeable date beyond which construction work cannot proceed, as we have known cases where street construction continued until the first of January and proceeded continuously with the exception of a very few days.

In connection with our work, the only contracts awarded after November 1 were Boardman street, East Boston, which is principally a fill job; Centre street, Centre avenue and Victoria street, Dorchester, contract for top only, as the scarifying and preparation of the base had been done by the department force; and Chambers street, which was a small job of placing a top on the existing granite block pavement between Cambridge and Green streets. All of this work would have been completed at the end of the season had the weather not closed in sooner than was anticipated.

Your attention is called to the following contracts awarded during the Peters administration:

1919.
Hale Park avenue, approved November 6, amount, $124,585.

Rutherford avenue, approved November 24; amount, $98,319.56.

Tremont street, approved November 18; amount, $89,034.75.

1920.
River street, approved November 2; amount, $23,381.30.

Marlboro and Arlington streets, approved November 2; amount, $97,742.10.

Centre street and Green street, Jamaica Plain, approved November 23; amount, $34,112.30.

1921.
Three contracts approved between November 8 and November 25, aggregating $70,965.45.

Other smaller contracts for these years are not included in this list.

We are glad to receive information in regard to the peculiarities of sand found in this neighborhood, although this is scarcely a good reason for many examples of poor bituminous pavements now existing in the city.

It is admitted that the Huntington avenue job is a good one, and we hesitate to attribute this fact to the extra supervisory expenses assumed by your commission in watching the work. Up to date Dow and Smith have received $360.66 on account of this work, and how much has been expended for the services of the two inspectors, one of whom receives $7 a day and the other $12 a day, we are unable to state, but it probably reaches a substantial amount.

Yours very truly,

JOSEPH A. ROYKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

BUILDING TO BE RAZED.

Mayor Curley has granted permission to Building Commissioner John H. Mahony to take down the building located at 36 Locust street, Ward 11. The owners, David Collins heirs, have been served with a notice but neglected to remove the cause of complaint. The building is in such a condition as to constitute a fire menace and a nuisance.

THE DISPLAY OF THE CITY FLAG. OFFICE OF DIRECTOR OF PUBLIC CELEBRATIONS, ROOM 40, CITY HALL.

On May 1 of last year, 1922, the one hundredth anniversary of the incorporation of the City of Boston, an appeal was made by proclamation of his Honor the Mayor and the Public Celebrations Association for the display of the official City of Boston flag with the national colors on that historic occasion.

The response was a very gratifying considering the short time for preparation and the scarcity of official flags, but even the partial display resulting was one of the truly inspiring features of the celebration.

It is the earnest desire of the Mayor that this practice be continued, and that on Boston's birthday, May 1 of each year, the occasion be honored by the flying of national and city flags from every staff in the city to the end that civic pride may be stimulated and fostered by this beautiful municipal symbol, and that each May 1, perpetuated as the beginning of a new civic year, may awaken in our hearts a deeper pride in our birthright, and strengthen the bonds of unity and co-operation between the interests, spiritual, industrial and social, which must all strive for the progress and betterment of our municipality.

For the benefit of mercantile establishments which may be able to manufacture the city flag, I am herewith inclosing the specifications approved by the Art Commission, and am sending to all flag and regalia manufacturers and decorators a copy of this circular letter with the request that they be prepared to furnish all applicants.

May we count on your co-operation, and hope that on each May 1, from now until the great tercentenary celebration in 1930, when the custom will have been irrevocably established, wherever there is a flagstaff or suitable convenience from public buildings and private houses, mercantile establishments, hotels, newspapers, clubs and all other organizations, there be flown, alongside Old Glory, this beautiful emblem of our civic pride and devotion?

Very sincerely yours,

J. PHILIP O'CONNELL, Director.

EXTRA SANITARY SERVICE.

Every contractor whom it is customary to employ on snow removal was ordered to start in cleaning up the city upon the 5th instant. This means the employment of some 100 additional trucks and wagons and 500 men in addition to the 300 who were recently drawn from civil service, to work in the various city yards.

Contractors have been instructed not only to clear the streets of snow, ice and filth, but to remove ashes and garbage wherever found in the various streets and alleys of the city. This immense force was ordered to work ten days ago, but, owing to the inclemency of the weather, work was discontinued on Saturday of last week, but will now be renewed until every section has had its annual cleanup.

ELEVATOR AT FANEUIL HALL.

Mayor Curley has directed that an $8,000 elevator be placed in Faneuil Hall.

It is estimated that 30,000 persons a year inspect the colonial possessions of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company.

STREET IMPROVEMENTS.

Mayor Curley has promised residents of the Fisher Hill section, Roxbury, new granolithic sidewalks and curb edgings, to cost about $10,000, and to be built immediately.

INDORSEMENT OF MAYOR CURLEY.

Mayor Curley has received the following letter from Dr. Robert Soutter in indorsement of his effort to remove the patients from the Long Island Hospital to Roxbury:

133 NEWBURY STREET, BOSTON,
March 31, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

MY DEAR MR. CURLEY.—I wish to express to you my appreciation of your farsightedness and your high regard for the needs of the chronically ill of Boston. You have taken a great deal of time and pains to investigate the conditions when your time must be full of other important matters which are constantly claiming your attention.

It seems to me that the whole public should be grateful to you for seeing that the chronic hospital of Boston is to be on the mainland where the best medical care may be obtained and the hospital put on an equal footing with the acute hospitals of Boston and other cities. I feel sure that every member of the staff feels as I do in this matter.

Again expressing to you my regards for your good efforts in this matter.

Very sincerely yours,

ROBERT SOUTTER.

PUBLIC BUILDING DEDICATION.

Mayor Curley will deliver the principal address at the dedication of the Archbishop John J. Williams Municipal Building, Shawmut avenue and West Brookline street, Sunday, the 8th instant.

The program thus far formulated, under the direction of Mrs. Margaret A. Gallagher, provides for a concert by an orchestra of more than 50 pieces during the half hour preceding the exercises, scheduled promptly for three o'clock, with State Senator P. J. Melody presiding.

Inasmuch as the main hall, named for the late Henry L. Higginson, has a total seating capacity of not more than 1,000, the admission, while public, will probably be limited to adults. A children's day is likely to be held on Saturday afternoon in the early future.

NATIONAL ASSEMBLY WILL ENTERTAIN MAYOR.

Mayor Curley has accepted an invitation of Lawson Purdy, president, and Flavel Shurtleff, secretary, of the National Conference on City Planning, to address the National Assembly at the Hotel Southern, Baltimore, Md., upon the evening of Wednesday, May 2, 1923.

Officials interested in city planning and municipal development from every city of the United States will be in attendance, and the city of Baltimore, noted for its hospitality, through Mayor W. F. Broenning and other city officials, have arranged a delightful entertainment for the visitors.

NEW POLICE HEADQUARTERS.

The Legislative Committee on Municipal Finance have reported a bill authorizing the City of Boston to borrow $1,000,000 outside the debt limit for land and a building for new Police Headquarters.

GREATER FIRE PROTECTION.

Mayor Curley addressed the following communication to Fire Commissioner Glynn relative to fire protection upon the 31st ultimo:

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
March 31, 1923.

MR. THEODORE A. GLYNN, Commissioner Boston Fire Department, Boston:

DEAR SIR,—The alarming increase in the number of fires during the past week is a matter deserving of immediate and serious consideration, not only by the Fire Department, who are charged with the responsibility for the protection of life and property, but by the public who have been saved from great financial losses only through the efficiency of the Fire Department.

The maximum for the past year of fifty-nine alarms on Wednesday, March 28, and fifty alarms on Thursday, March 29, justifies the belief that some source other than carelessness is responsible for a portion, at least, of these fires and, in my opinion, it would be advisable to have your Fire Prevention Bureau investigate to the fullest extent as to the causes of each fire.

I beg to suggest in addition the advisability of an early conference with Mr. M. Douglas Flattery, chairman of the Boston Conservation Bureau, with a view to the draughting of a circular on fire prevention, to be distributed to the children in all public and private schools of Boston, with a request that they refer the same to their parents.

It would be advisable also to limit the speed of fire apparatus to twenty-five miles an hour in the outlying sections, and twenty miles an hour in the intown section of the city.

The establishment of this limitation might serve as an incentive to owners of motor vehicles to exercise greater care in their operation in order that they may avoid a repetition of what has taken place during the past week where four children were killed by motor vehicles in two days.

Sincerely yours,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

GREETING OF MAYOR.

Mayor Curley made the following address in the presentation of the "Key to the city" to Mrs. Elizabeth N. Buswell, the Gold Star Mother, who will journey to France with the "Good Will" delegation of Massachusetts women.

"It is indeed a source of joy to extend in behalf of the capital city of the Commonwealth our contribution to the rebuilding of devastated France.

"The offering which you will present in behalf of American lovers of liberty to our sister republic represents in part the love and affection which every American holds for the people of France, without whose aid in Revolutionary days American liberty would never have been achieved.

"Through you, Mrs. Buswell, as dean of the Massachusetts delegation, we convey to the representatives of our sister republic a renewal of our pledge of loyalty and love, strengthened by the service and suffering of our sons whose last resting place is beneath the soil of France, which in life they ennobled and in death they immortalize.

"We pray for you and your associates a pleasant voyage and trust that the bonds of friendship, which through your visit and contribution are strengthened, may endure permanently."

The Boston Good-Will delegation will sail for France April 13 with $93,500 contributed by Bostonians to the great American fund for restoration of sections of France devastated in the war.

PHILADELPHIA ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION.

Mayor Curley has addressed a letter of greeting, requested by prominent citizens of Philadelphia, to be published as a public document, upon the observance of the 240th anniversary of the foundation of the city.

The letter of Mayor Curley, forwarded to Director Knatz of the 240th anniversary ceremonies, is as follows:

BOSTON, April 3, 1923.

MR. WILLIAM M. KNATZ, Director Commonwealth Museum, Philadelphia, Penn.:

MY DEAR MR. KNATZ,—In the name of the good City of Boston, the capital of the old Commonwealth of Massachusetts, it gives me a singular pleasure to send greeting and felicitation to the City of Brotherly Love upon the attainment of the 240th anniversary of its foundation and settlement; and the good wishes that Boston extends to Philadelphia will find an echo in every patriotic American heart.

Philadelphia is a city of splendid accomplishments, ennobling traditions and patriotic memories. Founded by William Penn, a lover of humanity and justice, he dedicated the city and commonwealth he established to religious freedom, social peace and the Christian ideals and made it a refuge for the persecuted and an asylum for the God-fearing.

The Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States were framed and given to the world in Philadelphia; and a city which was the cradle of the two most significant and fruitful instruments bestowed upon the race in modern times possesses an honor and a glory worthy of the homage of all the centuries.

That the years still lying in the womb of the future may be as full of the peace, progress and prosperity that have marked the past of Philadelphia is my sincere wish. Trusting that your coming celebration of your city's foundation may meet with the splendid acclaim and success it merits, believe me in all sincerity to be,

Sincerely yours,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

INJUNCTION SUIT.

Upon the petition of Charles P. Curtis, Roger F. Hooper, A. W. Longfellow, Alfred Hemenway, Sidney L. Beals, Walter H. Clack, Roswell G. Hall, Carlton C. Butters, George A. Kearsley, Bennett Benishim, Albert Matthews and Nathan B. Day, Mayor Curley, City Treasurer John J. Curley, the Street Commission, Chairman John H. L. Noyes, John J. O'Callaghan and Richard F. Andrews and City Auditor Rupert S. Carven have been summoned to appear in the Supreme Judicial Court on Monday, May 7, to show cause why they should not be restrained from proceeding with the widening of Province street, across School street from City Hall.

PAVING IN MASSACHUSETTS AVENUE.

Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Department of Public Works has presented the following proposal to the officials of the Boston Elevated Railway Company relative to the repaving of the track area in Massachusetts avenue, from Newbury street across Beacon street, Back Bay.

The communication of Commissioner Rourke was as follows:

BOSTON, March 28, 1923.

Boston Elevated Railway Company, Boston, Mass.

(Attention Mr. John M. Ryan, engineer of surface lines.)

DEAR SIRS,—Your proposition submitted in letter of March 21 for repaving track area in Massachusetts avenue, from Newbury street across Beacon street, is hereby accepted; the area to be paid to be contingent on the action of the Legislature in the matter of the repeal of the excise tax and the returning to the methods in vogue previous to last year.

If the excise tax is repealed you are to assume the cost of the paving in the tracks; the city to assume the cost of the dummies and brows and pay you at the rate of $3.45 per square yard. If the excise tax is not repealed you are to repave the entire area, as described in your letter, to be paid for by the city at the unit price of $3.45 per square yard. In either case you are to maintain suitable crossings at the Commonwealth avenue intersections.

Yours very truly,

JOSEPH A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

MESSAGE OF CONGRATULATION.

Mayor Curley addressed the following message of congratulation to Mayor-Elect William E. Dever of Chicago, upon the 4th instant:

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
April 4, 1923.

HON. WILLIAM E. DEVER, Mayor-Elect of Chicago, Chicago, Ill.:

I rejoice over your brilliant and unparalleled victory. The Democratic cause of the nation has not received more splendid indorsement in many years than is evidenced by your triumph. A majority rising one hundred and three thousand votes is likewise a magnificent personal testimonial.

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

INDORSEMENT OF MAYOR.

Mayor Curley has been highly commended by the members of Electrical Workers' Union, Local 103, for his efforts to bring about a better understanding between employers and employees in the building industry of Boston. An announcement has been sent out, signed by Frank L. Kelley, president; Frank R. Sheehan, secretary; and George E. Capelle, press secretary.

The communication in part reads: "At the regular meeting of Electrical Workers Local Union 103, April 4, 1923, the membership unanimously voted to commend you for your untiring efforts to bring about a better understanding between building trades' employers and employees and for your work and counsel which averted a possible stoppage of work."

PROCEEDINGS OF CITY COUNCIL.

Monday, April 2, 1923.

Regular meeting of the City Council, held in the Council Chamber at two o'clock p. m., Coun. HAGAN presiding, and all the members present.

SITE FOR GEORGE R. WHITE FUND HEALTH UNIT BUILDING.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 27, 1923.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—My attention has been directed to the fact that in the opinion of certain members of the City Council and residents of the North End a more suitable site may be determined upon for the building of the George R. White Fund Health Unit Building.

I beg to say that when the Station No. 8 site at Commercial and Battery streets was determined upon it was solely with a view of avoiding the expense of purchasing land and taking advantage of what appeared to be a suitable site.

Land has since been acquired by the City of Boston on Baldwin place and other possibilities have been suggested by the City Planning Board, and accordingly I deem that the order submitted by me on March 26 be considered as withdrawn.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Placed on file.

RESTORATION OF FANEUIL HALL.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 27, 1923.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—The restoration of Faneuil Hall has been an acute problem avoided by every administration for the last quarter of a century.

The institution is a historic landmark which we, as custodians, should protect and preserve. In 1917, $68,000 was provided and architects of the firm of Crain & Ferguson were selected to restore Faneuil Hall to colonial lines.

In the opinion of the succeeding administration it was deemed undesirable to proceed with the work of restoration, and as a consequence the work for which this fund was created has gone waste. During a property of these four years, due to the failure to protect the building, priceless works of art were injured and the interior of the structure suffered.

The architects estimate that the probable cost of restoration of Faneuil Hall, with fire curtains and fireproofing sufficient to protect it even in the event of conflagration in that section of the city, will represent an approximate cost of $200,000, and I believe it the duty of the city to provide this money.

As proposed there is some $60,000 available, and I accordingly recommend adoption of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Ordered, That the sum of $150,000 be and the state is hereby appropriated to be expended by the superintendent of Public Buildings, for the restoration, fireproofing and installation of automatic sprinkler equipment in the Faneuil Hall Building, and that to meet said appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized to issue from time to time, upon request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the City to said amount.

Referred to the Committee on Finance.

APPOINTMENTS BY THE MAYOR.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 2, 1923.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—Subject to confirmation by your honorable body, I appoint Francis M. Campbell, 145 Pleasant street, Dorchester, a Weigher of Coal, Weigher of Goods, a Weigher of Boilers and Heavy Machinery, for the term ending April 30, 1923.

CITY PLANNING BOARD.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 2, 1923.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—City planning is becoming recognized as a most potential asset in the administration of government, not only nationally but in the subdivisions of government. It represents constructive continuity, and properly conducted eliminates the waste resulting from changes which occur as a result of our elective system.

Properly supported and encouraged it should prove of tremendous value. With a view to providing both support and encouragement, I recommend the adoption of an amendment to the ordinances as set forth in the accompanying communication.

The adoption of this amendment will legalize such additional expenditures may be necessary to provide for expert service and such other expenses as the Boston City Planning Board may deem essential for the consummation of their plans, providing for present needs and anticipating future requirements.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
In the Year Nineteen Hundred and Twenty-three.
An Ordinance Concerning the City Planning Board.

Be it ordained by the City Council of Boston,

Section 1. Section one of chapter twelve of the Revised Ordinances of 1914, as amended by chapter two of the Ordinances of 1915, is hereby further amended by adding after the word "members" in the second line the words "who shall serve without pay," so that said section as amended shall read as follows:

Section 1. The city planning department shall be under the charge of a board of five members who shall serve without pay, at least one of whom shall be a woman, who shall be appointed in the manner provided in an Ordinance and be subject to chapter four hundred and eighty-six of the Acts of the year 1914.

Sec. 2. Section four of chapter twelve of the Revised Ordinances of 1914, as amended by chapter two of the Ordinances of 1915, is hereby further amended by striking out said section four of said chapter.

Referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

ing with a very small supply of experienced applicants. The supply of factory workers has fallen far below the demand. Power stitchers for clothing are scarce with a number of positions open. Waitresses for hotels and restaurants in the city are quickly placed but there is considerable difficulty in filling out of town positions. The state institutions are in urgent need of competent attendants with very few applicants for these positions.

The demand for housework girls continues in excess of the supply. The office has done a good business in day workers, office and building cleaners. Culinary workers are in good demand with only a fair supply.

The number of people called for by employers in March was 1,886 as compared with 1,490 in 1922, 1,444 in 1921, 2,984 in 1920 and 1,703 in 1919.

The number of positions reported filled in March was 1,389 as compared with 1,248 in 1922, 1,026 in 1921, 1,597 in 1920 and 1,140 in 1919.

HOMICIDE RATE PER ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND INHABITANTS IN AMERICAN CITIES.

C., the same; Cleveland, 12.5; Louisville, Ky., 11.1; Chicago, 10.3 and Pittsburgh, the same; Los Angeles, 9.8; Philadelphia, 6.2; New York, 5.9. Boston's rate, 5.1.

MEN NATURALIZED IN MASSACHUSETTS.

In the 13 years ending June 30, 1922, the aliens naturalized numbered 106,953 or 62,245 by the Federal court and 44,708 by State courts. Largest number in any of said years, 16,390 in 1918-19; 16,330 in 1919-20; 12,671 in 1920-21; 9,451 in 1921-22. The notable increase during the three years 1918-1920 was due to the large number of foreign born soldiers and sailors who had served in the World War and were, by the U. S. law of May 9, 1918, and that of July 19, 1919, allowed to become citizens because of their military service without being subject to the regular requirements.
